MINES AND MINING.

REVERTS TO THE OWNERS.

LEGAL TROUBLES OF COPPER BELLE MINE SETTLED.

Report of Coal Strike Near Morenci Substantiated — Humboldt Mine to be Equipped for Electrical Haulage — Tunnel Through a Mountain.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

TUCSON (Ariz.), Feb. 28.—The legal troubles of the Copper Belle Mining Company have been settled, as well as the indebtedness of the concern. So, by an order made in the District Court by Judge Davis, the property has reverted to the possession of the representatives of the corporation. The mines, with a good copper smelting plant, are at Turquoise, about fifteen miles southeast of Pearce. There appears no doubt of the high value of the mines, yet, because of reasons not uncommon in the development of new properties, the company was adjudged bankrupt about a year ago and placed under the control of a receiver. Martin Costello of Los Angeles held a mortgage on the property for $68,000, and the floating debts aggregated $40,000 more. The mortgage still stands. Through his attorney, James Reilley of Tombstone, Costello tried a few months ago to secure the mines, offering $117,000 cash for them. The floating debt has been paid up by representatives of the reorganized Copper Belle Company, who have spent the last couple of weeks in Southern Arizona. These representatives are E. J. Moneuse, Peter Quinn and Henry Mayer, all of New York. They have paid, as well, expenses of receivership aggregating about $12,000. Of this the receiver got $4100 and the lawyers $4925. Lawyer E. T. Dunning of Los Angeles was on the list for $1753. William Kemp of Tucson, one of the best known smelter men of the Southwest, has been put in charge of the property, and will start work upon it at once.

MORENCI COAL STRIKE.

The report of a coal strike within three miles of Morenci, has been substantiated. Several flat beds of lignite have been developed already, the largest four feet in thickness. Naturally, on the surface, the coal has been materially decomposed by the action of the air and no estimate of the quality can be made till deeper development of the find has been made. Enough has been discovered, however, to warrant the Detroit Copper Company in locating 320 acres, other claims bringing the total locations up to 3000 acres. The Detroit company has purchased the interest of John Molder, the discoverer. Dr. Ricketts, the chief mining expert of the Phelps-Dodge Company, has been called to the ground, and has expressed his opinoin that the prospect is good for the uncovering of a valuable coal body. Tunneling has been commenced and a diamond drill will be used for deeper exploration. The geological formation is ideal for the presence of coal.

Only a short distance to the southward, the Southern Pacific Company, on the advice of experts, maintained a diamond drill party in the field for more than a year, hunting coal, on the geological indications of, as there were no surface croppings. To the northward the same indications continue through Apache county, where coal croppings are numerous. The Gallup deposits of lignite are in the same zone, which continues northward into Colorado. It is probable that the coal measures of Eastern Sonora, belong to the same belt, extending for 700 miles along the western slope of the Sierra Madre. It is believed that a coal discovery has been made in the Animas Valley, in New Mexico, just across the line from Arizona, south of Lordsburg, where a Bisbee company has acquired rights to 2000 acres of land, and will prospect by sinking shafts. The oil indications in the same neighborhood are pronounced excellent.

FOR ELECTRICAL HAULAGE.

The Humboldt mine at Morenci, the heaviest producing property of the Arizona Copper Company, is to be equipped for electrical haulage. A thirty-horse-power electric locomotive has been ordered for the main tunnel of the upper workings. It will haul a load of six six-ton cars. The mine is now supplying the company with 800 tons of ore a day. This ore is hauled by "baby-gauge" railroad to the Longfellow concentrator, above Chase Creek, thence being sent down to the smelter at Clifton. The Humboldt property embraces a large part of Copper Mountain, which carries about 2 per cent. of copper throughout. Taking the rock as it comes, the Arizona and Detroit companies get about 3½ per cent. There is practically no waste. Several open cuts have been made in the hillside above, but even these have uncovered ore of value. So now the companies are preparing to freight back the concentrator tailings to use them in filling in dead slopes. This is a procedure believed to be unique in western mining.

The main tunnel of the Humboldt, now about two miles long, passes completely through Copper Mountain, to the Clay mine, and to a quarry whence has come the stone for most of the public buildings in Morenci. The ores of the Clay and surrounding claims are heavily sulphide in character, and will probably be roasted in open heaps before being sent through the tunnel to the Longfellow concentrator. A new hoist is being erected on the main Humboldt shaft, at the tunnel mouth, for better operation of the lower levels, now 450 feet deep. Most of the ores of the Arizona Copper Company formerly came from the old Longfellow mine, above Chase Creek, which now is mainly drawn upon for carbonate ores for fluxing. This is to be tapped by a long tunnel now being driven from the Chase Creek level under the old workings, at a depth of about 1000 feet under the present hoist. This tunnel will not be complete before the last of 1904.

SOUTHWEST CAMPS.

LOCAL MEN PUSHING.

Carl F. Schader, T. A. Johnson and several other local stockholders of the Nevada-Keystone Mining Company are making preparations for extended work on the properties recently acquired in Nye county, Nevada. These men began operations in the Nevada desert country only a few months ago, after forming a corporation entitled the Schader-Johnson Company. Their attention was directed to the old Montgomery mining district on account of the success of the Nevada-Keystone, only a few miles away, and since then they have acquired the Johnnie and Minnie May groups, which comprise a large acreage.

With the perfecting of titles and completion of preliminary development work which have now been accomplished, Schader announces the company will employ a large force and expend $25,000 in development work.

The old Montgomery district is the scene of considerable activity, especially on account of the Chispa mine. Butler & Ramsey, the successful Tonopah operators, since taking hold of this once-famous producer, only a few month ago, have expended over $100,000 and propose to spend that much more in order to get the property in shape again. They are making good headway and have recently encountered high-grade streaks of ore, while the ordinary grade is said to be improving. The work prosecuted by these operators has stimulated prospecting to a marked degree.

The unique electric motor carriage roadway from Ivanpah to the Lila C. mine of the Pacific Coast Borax Co., just across the Nevada line, has been completely graded the entire 100 miles, and it is expected motor trains designed especially for ore hauling, will be in operation by the 15th inst. While designed primarily to haul the product of the Borax company, a vast quantity of freight will be handled for the mines of the various districts in San Bernardino and Inyo counties in California, and the southeastern part of Nevada. The road connects at Ivanpah with the Salt Lake and Santa Fé lines and forms an outlet for a vast mining territory without railway transportation.

The new camp of Goldfield, about thirty miles from Tonopah, Nev., is furnishing enough excitement for the most ardent gold seeker, according to reports from there. A mining man who returned yesterday states that the January claim is proving a bonanza for owners and lessees alike. Although work has only been under way a short time, a large quantity of ore said to run between $100 and $250 a ton, has been saved for shipment. The leasing system which developed Cripple Creek so successfully has been adopted in the Nevada camp, and it seems to be the plan destined by all parties. A great scramble for leases in the vicinity of the January and Combination claims has been in progress, and high royalties have been agreed upon. A large number of Los Angeles and Southern California men are now in the district looking for favorable leases. A number have journeyed across the desert from Ivanpah and points on the main line of the Santa Fé, but this trip is said to be fraught with discomforts and not a few hardships.

S. D. Graves, president of El Fuerte Mining Company of this city, states that he has been approached by Colorado capitalists seeking to purchase a portion of the company's holdings in Southeastern Sonora, Mex. The intending purchasers have recently bought up a considerable amount of property in the neighborhood, and are anxious to increase their holdings. They asked if a price of $1,000,000 would be entertained for the ground. Mr. Graves says that the company is not offering any of its ground, but systematic development work is being conducted with good results. Recently old Aztec workings were broken into and some splendid copper ore has been opened up. The company proposes to spend a large sum of money on development in the near future.

Much is expected of the large shaft which it is reported will be sunk by the Pittsburgh-Jerome Company, a short distance south of Senator Clark's United Verde. It has been stated, though not officially, that this shaft will shortly go down to a depth of 300 feet and will be an important factor in the development of the territory adjacent to the Montana Senator's famous bonanza. All mining men interested in Arizona will watch the work with great interest.

Simple elegance and unaffected grace are the attributes of beauty as the Grecians saw it. Probably no modern dress period is so marked by the Hellenic influence as that of Eighteen Hundred and Thirty. The sloping shoulders, the graceful curves at the waist and the ample folds of the skirt all attest to that. The new spring gowns, of which we have the advance models, are identified by those features—the resurrection of the fittest. The fabrics which enjoy the greatest favor are Broadcloths, Cheviots, Worsteds and Mixtures, Voiles, Etamines and Granites. All our garments are such as you would expect from the very best tailors and at prices much lower than they could possibly make them. WATERS OF THE RIO COLORADO.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS OF DIVERSION AND IRRIGATION.

Navigation and the National Irrigation Law—Conference Between Engineers for the Government and President Heber of the Imperial Enterprise.

A. H. Heber, president of the California Development Company, had an extended interview on Monday with the representatives of the United States Reclamation Service concerning the operations on the Colorado River. Besides J. B. Lippincott, Supervising Engineer for California, the government was represented by Messrs. Savage and Wisner, members of the Board of Consulting Engineers, who advise the Secretary of the Interior in regard to the application of the national irrigation law.

The conference was entirely harmonious. President Heber and the engineers learned much of each others' views concerning matters which have been the subject of more or less discussion at Washington and in the press.

Consulting Engineer Savage said: "The government's only object in applying the National Irrigation Act is to create opportunities for settlement. Where this can be done successfully by private enterprise the government has no desire to interfere. We are considering large plans for the Colorado River above the point where the Imperial Canal diverts water, but these plans have not yet been definitely passed upon at Washington."

Since the conference with the engineers, Mr. Heber has announced that he will request the withdrawal of the bill recently introduced by Representative Daniels and suggest instead a simple amendment to the statutes, declaring that the waters of the Colorado are more valuable for irrigation than for navigation. The effect of this amendment will be to put the irrigation industry on the Colorado River and its tributaries on precisely the same basis as on all other non-navigable streams in the West. Use of water will be governed entirely by the laws of the States and Territories, and, in constructing works under the national law, the government will be in the same position as it is in Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming, Colorado and Montana, where it is now engaged in extensive operations.

President Heber declares that the adoption of this amendment is as important to the irrigators in other States taking water from the Colorado and its tributaries as it is to the settlers in the Imperial region, and he anticipates no opposition whatever to its enactment.

PLAIN ROBBING BY MACHINERY.

CROOKED O'BRIEN HAD MERELY TO PRESS TABLE.

Highwayman a Gentleman in Comparison With This Gang, Says Capt. Auble—Black's Joint Running Full Blast and Winning Big.

"As compared with that man O'Brien a highwayman is a gentleman. The highwayman takes a chance of being killed when he robs a man, but O'Brien is simply a thief, who takes his victim's money without their having any chance whatever to protect themselves."

Thus spoke Capt. Auble of the Police Department last evening, and then proceeded to prove his statement. The O'Brien he referred to is the gambler and member of the gang of crooks, who was arrested the night before while operating a wheel-of-fortune near the postoffice, and two weeks ago for operating a gambling game on South Spring street. It did not require much of a demonstration by the captain of police to show that his statement is literally the truth, for the game which O'Brien was conducting has been found to be one of the worst robbing devices ever seized by the police.

O'Brien is not only a "sure-thing" gambler, but he is a member of the gang which has been responsible for many robberies and burglaries in this city the past several weeks. His chief helper is "Kid" Rice, a crook whose picture has been sent from El Paso to all the police departments in the country, and who is a known associate of bunco men.

When O'Brien's gambling outfit was seized it appeared to be a simple wheel-of-fortune, giving a player about an even chance to win. The experience of the police with this outlaw gambler caused them to make a careful investigation, and they discovered that running through the table on which the wheel was placed, was a system of rods connected with the dial on the wheel. O'Brien could stand at the end and by simply pressing his body against the edge of the table cause the dial to stop at any place he desired. A metal plate was found under his vest, which he used to press against one of the rods. Thus he could control the wheel absolutely, although he stood several feet from it. The device was shown to other gamblers yesterday and they declared it cost O'Brien several hundred dollars.

With this device he fleeced scores of people of all they bet upon his game, one man losing $50 and another $80 during the brief time that the game was in operation. When the case is tried in court the workings of the crooked device will be explained to show that O'Brien is not only a gambler, but one who robs his patrons. This demonstration may have some bearing upon the action of the court in determining the fines which will be imposed upon this pair of sharks.

Yesterday evidence was secured showing that "Kid" Rice operated the game in O'Brien's absence, and a warrant was issued against him for gambling. He will be prosecuted with his chief for robbing the public.

Two women who say they are the wives of the prisoners have been hovering about the Police Station since the raid. They put up $200 bond for O'Brien, but they could not secure the release of Rice because he has a suspended sentence of 180 days to serve. The police are watching these women closely, believing that they are operating with the gang.

The police will endeavor to have O'Brien and Rice severely punished by the court, and after release will insist that they leave the city. In addition to being tried for gambling, O'Brien may be prosecuted on a charge of vagrancy.

The gambling house at No. 1194 West First street, in which "Col." F. D. Black is financially interested, is still in operation. Yesterday afternoon one of the biggest roulette games ever played here was in operation there. A well-known hotel man accompanied by several eastern friends who desired to "buck the tiger" visited the place and one of the roulette wheels was reserved for them. The game was fast and furious. One of the wealthy tourists confined his play to "colors" instead of the numbers. He frequently bet $100, ignoring the percentage, and it is said he dropped a sufficient amount to make a poor family comfortable for a year. As a result of the game the "house" cleaned up a snug sum, only one of the visitors leaving winner. The party was seen leaving the joint and the man who banked the game for them told other gamblers on the streets last night that the house had made a large winning.

The Stranded Bugler.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 28, 1904.—[To the Editor of The Times.] It is seldom that one is so visibly shocked as I have been by the death of my old friend, Leroy E. Mosher. He was so well known, he was so well loved, that it was as if a grave had yawned in the busy street at midday.

Only a few days ago he was in our midst, today it is doubtless well with him in the broader sense of final rest; but there is only left to us our friend, his memory, his example, and the bitter sense of sudden loss.

I do not contemplate any fulsome eulogy. Our dear friend does not need it; indeed, he deserves something far better, the truth. For him the exculpatory adage, "Nothing of the dead but good," is not necessary. But it is fit that someone who knew him well should essay, with few and simple words to weave a wreath for him "for remembrance," till the vernal sun quickens the daisies on his early grave.

Our friend needed no more years to make his life a success; no more to erase the past. He had done his duty from the first. As a soldier, as a citizen, as a husband, father and friend, no personal consideration ever influenced his conduct, there was no stain on him. He was a brave, true, earnest, gentle man. He had none of the pretence and assumption of small natures. "He possessed honor and courage; qualities that eagle-plume men's souls and fit them for the sun." Without parade, and without urging, at the tender age of 12 years, he enlisted as a bugler in a Kansas cavalry regiment, and participated in all the bloody struggles in which his regiment was engaged. The writer of this knows his career as a soldier, and that no belted knight ever more fairly won his spurs. Brave, active, intelligent, a bold rider, an expert swordsman, he was as gallant as a dragoon of Claverhouse, and steady with the loyal soul of the Scotch Covenanter. Many a brave man who reads this will see through tears a vision of the gallant and daring little bugler. When the war was finished, his duty well done, he came back from the excitements of the field to the pursuits of peace. Without brag or bluster he fell quietly into the ranks of citizenship and became the modest business man whom we knew.

Happy the State that has such citizens. He did not know his own worth, and we hardly realized it till the news of his untimely death brought to the surface evidences of grief so sincere and so widespread as to be almost strange. War's reveille, nor the call to peaceful labor, nor the voice of kindred, will waken him more. He answers not when called. How many of us who mourn him and must follow him, will leave the record of so brave and true a life and a memory so sweet?

GEO. C. MUNRO.

Negroes as Militiamen.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times.] In your issue of the 21st inst. you quote without comment an article from the Baltimore Sun, purporting to give reasons why the negro is being dispensed with in the militia of the Southern States. It is not true that the negro is being dispensed with because of fear from the whites on account of his (the negro's) use of incendiary utterances endangering the life and property of his white neighbors, for the militia as a rule is composed of some of the very best men of the commonwealth, who fully appreciate the importance of being one of the State's guards ready and willing to uphold the dignity of the law in obedience to the orders of the Governor. The insinuating sentences in the Sun are an insult to the manhood of both races in Georgia, for there the militiamen wearing black skins stand clearly on their record for loyalty and patriotism. The negro was commissioned in Georgia by Joseph E. Brown, A. H. Colquitt, John B. Gordon and Alex Stephens, all of whom were Governors and Senators. These men were the idols of the South because of their war record; they were devoted to the white man's interest and they labored to show the new citizen that the South presented many wholesome advantages to him as against the North and the East. It was these liberty-loving heroes of Civil War fame who armed the negro. His service in Georgia began in the early seventies, and not a single case of mutiny or conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, or a failure to perform every duty assigned him can be charged to his record.

When the war of 1898 was declared Capt. Carter Johnson enlisted from the militiamen of Atlanta more than two hundred men who were assigned to the Tenth United States Cavalry, and who helped to win American glory against the Spaniards. The Tenth Immunes had more than 300 men enlisted in Georgia; the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth United States Volunteer Infantry, which went to the Philippines, enlisted in Atlanta, Ga., and Brunswick nearly 600 able-bodied men, practically dismembering the militia companies. These men were prompted by the one spirit known to all true Americans, and they went out on the theater of military operations where they have suffered the ravaging diseases of tropical countries, standing like the good brave men that they are before the enemy's fire, where he has in some instances offered up his life for his country, and who was buried in that far-away clime, to the great sorrow of his loved ones at home. It is this true-hearted black American whom the Sun insults with apparent impunity. The negro of Georgia is law-abiding. He knows the value of law and order. He it is who has witnessed the great destruction of that truly home life out of which there had come so much pleasure and confidence to both races of hundreds of years of growth, dating back to that dark age of slavery. It was the "silvery lining" to the negro's life of enslavement, the two races had learned to respect each other, and they had confidence in each other. The white man believed the negro could be trusted in all things, as he was trusted in the days of the Civil War. When he stayed at home and cared for and protected white women and children, he knew at the time what a great sacrifice he was making to stay at home, protecting others, when thousands of men from the North, East and West were falling before the Confederate forces, whose highest ambition was the freedom of the negro. But he felt that he could not leave his post of duty, and there he remained. He stands today witnessing the departure of the last vestige of good feeling which has been relied upon by the negro. The negro now fears that his white neighbor is truly ungrateful, and that the mob violence practiced against him without judge or jury, guilty or not guilty, is intended by the white man to show the negro that he is hated because he is black. The old and the new negro regrets this, and charge much of it to unfair criticisms, such as are given by the Sun. Prior to the Spanish-American War there were twenty-one infantry companies, one cavalry troop, and one battery of artillery, colored, made up from law-abiding, tax-paying citizens of Georgia. For more than three years the City Council of the city of Atlanta provided these colored soldiers with an armory, paid for out of the general tax collected. Having served as commander of the Second Battalion of colored men under five different Governors, I regard it my plain duty to defend my comrades against the unwarranted attack of the Sun. Hence I deny the truth of the statement that Georgia negroes cannot be trusted with guns, or that they have ever proven false to any trust, especially the affairs of common interest to both races. The negro who constitutes the rank and file of the Georgia militia is either educated up to an appreciation of his duty as a guardsman, or he is so loyal in his nature that no incendiary utterances ever come from his lips. No one knows this better than his neighbor, who has kept him armed as a part of the State Militia during the past thirty years. The militia in all the States which had large bodies of troops, has necessarily been reduced to meet the requirements of our national law, which now contributes arms and equipments to the efficiency of State troops, this being done for the purpose of having in this country a citizenry qualified to take up arms under the call of the national government in any emergency. Hence, in Georgia, Adjt.-Gen. Ober, acting under the instructions of the Military Advisory Board, and of the Governor, is laboring to have a smaller but more efficient force. This will naturally cause reductions among the colored men as well as the white men. It is a serious injustice to the State officials to charge them with cutting the negro out because he is a negro. The officials are not cheap men. They know the negro's worth as a man in battle, and the negro does not intend that his good record as a soldier, dating from a period when Egypt was the military master of the world, on through the Civil War, the Indian wars, the Spanish-American and the Philippine wars, shall be attacked by a color-blinded news organ without an attempted defense. The Times has very plainly shown how the good of all races can be protected through a newspaper, and how easy it is to punish the bad without regard to race or previous condition.

F. H. CRUMBLY,
Late Capt. Forty-ninth U.S.V. Inf.

Public Spirit and Humanity.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 29.—[To the Editor of The Times.] A recent comer to your city, I was told not long ago that I would find it a "paradise." I do indeed find Los Angeles in some respects a heaven, but in others the opposite. Everywhere I see overworked, underfed and neglected horses; lame ones are common; while that barbarous and senseless instrument of torture, the high overhead check-rein, insults the eye on every hand.

A small organization (the Los Angeles County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, No. 403 Johnson Building, Broadway and Fourth street,) is here struggling to do the noblest work that human hearts can attempt—the succor of those who cannot speak for themselves. It has already done much, but what a vast work remains for it to do. I have thought what an opportunity is here presented for wealth and influence to support a cause that is doing more real and solid good "to the square inch" than any other enterprise in your county. Why cannot a little of that wealth, so freely expended in beautifying the flower-bordered walks of your city's beautiful estates, go toward brightening in some degree the pathway of those "lowly fellow-creatures" whose suffering and toil have done so much to make this city what it is?

Humane education is the most crying need of these times of rush, turmoil and "business," and the youthful mind is the field of its greatest opportunity; but how dare we wonder at the thoughtless cruelty of the child, exhibited in tyrannizing over the gentle and loving dog, or shooting the beautiful bird, or playful squirrel, when his parents are indifferent, both to the dumb appeals of suffering around them and also to the needs of those associations that stand today between society and barbarism? And how can we wonder that the field of this "Hooliganism" of the child is so often extended from the animal world around him to the social world of which he is a part. As a result of this indifference, thrive the horse "docking," the brutal dog fight, the cowardly rabbit "coursing;" the high check; hunting and fishing for "sport"—that cruelest of all "common" cruelties; the barbarities practiced on "trained" and captive animals; and, finally, the unspeakable atrocities of the vivisection "laboratories" of our colleges and universities.

Public spirit is said to be in a vigorous condition in Los Angeles; but that quality may at times become short sighted. We often "strain at a gnat and swallow a camel." This city, in many respects, stands at the head as regards the esthetic sense, why can it not lead in the humanities? Believe me, it would not lose in the quality of the people thus attracted to its borders. Let the wealth of Los Angeles come to the support of an institution which stands for its best and highest thought, and establish it upon a basis sure and permanent, as has been done for similar institutions in many other great cities of the Union.

RUSSIANS FIND THE ENEMY.

Unconfirmed Report of a Stiff Fight West of Hai Cheng With Chinese Brigands Led by Japanese.

Scouts of the Czar Discover New Ramparts at Ping Yang, Manned by the Enemy's Sharpshooters. Final Attack on Port Arthur Delayed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

YINKOW, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Brigands and disbanded soldiers have risen in numbers in the hills west of Hai Cheng. A band of 300 Chunchus, armed with Mannlicher rifles, attacked the Russian outposts at Paleipeotze, where there is a Russian garrison. Of the outpost, fifty men, forty-two were killed or wounded. The brigands lost eighty-seven, among whom were six Japanese.

PORT ARTHUR INTACT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 3.—Hardly a word of news comes from the seat of war with the exception of the Russian official dispatches published here this morning, and it now seems clear that the story in the Morning Telegraph, two days ago, of a bombardment of Port Arthur by the Japanese February 28 is nothing more than a re-echo of previous attacks.

From Yinkow comes an unconfirmed report that 500 bandits armed with modern rifles have attacked a Russian post to the west of Hai Cheng, thirty-two miles east by north of Newchwang; that there was severe fighting and that both sides lost heavily. This report is discredited at Yinkow, but if it is true it indicates a serious danger is confronting Russia in these well-armed brigands. According to the Daily Mail's account of this affair, six Japanese found among the bandits were killed. This would tend to show that the Japanese are organizing the bands.

The Tien-Tsin correspondent of the Standard cables that the Russians are fortifying strong points south of Mukden. Thousands of coolies who are working day and night on the ramparts and entrenchments of Hai Cheng are compelled to labor without pay.

PRESSING ON PING YANG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—In a dispatch to the Czar, Viceroy Alexieff says: "Admiral Stark, telegraphing from Port Arthur today, March 2, says the enemy did not appear off Port Arthur on either February 28, February 29, or March 1. Reconnoissances made by cruisers and torpedo boats over a radius of sixty miles from Port Arthur also failed to discover the enemy's vessels."

Maj.-Gen. Pflug, Viceroy Alexieff's chief of staff, sends the following telegram dated March 2:

"According to additional information which has reached me, our patrol (having passed the night twelve versts from Ping Yang) approached that town on the morning of February 29. They closely pressed a Japanese patrol with seven officers, forcing it to retreat at a gallop toward the gate of the town.

"The presence of our patrols near Ping Yang caused great alarm, and soon the enemy's sharpshooters manned the walls and towers, expecting an attack. According to the report, our patrols approached within 700 paces of the town, which they found to be surrounded with new ramparts. These, however, were checked by the enemy, and it is supposed the Japanese have more than one thousand men in Ping Yang."

RUSSIAN NAVAL PREPARATIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—According to a special dispatch from Port Arthur, twenty Chinese have been arrested there for signaling to the Japanese ships from shore with flashlights and lanterns. A warning has been issued that similar offenders will hereafter be treated as spies, and shot.

Although it is denied that the present plans of the admiralty contemplate the dispatch of either the Black Sea or the Baltic fleet to the Far East, it is beyond question that both are being prepared with the greatest haste to meet any emergency. Gen. Altvater, the artillery specialist, and Admiral Verkhosky have been inspecting the ships and crews of the Black Sea fleet, and work on the warships is being pushed night and day. The battleships Boradino and Orel and the transport Kamchatka are nearing completion at the admiralty dockyards here. In the dead of night, the icebound Neva is like an Arctic landscape, lighted for half a mile by the flares of blazing stacks, the silence broken by the din of drumming hammers.

The battleship Boradino must be taken to Cronstad to receive her armor, and it is reported that the ice-breaker Ermak will be brought from Reval to cut a channel to the arsenal there. The battleship, Alexander III, at Cronstadt, is ready, and the Russian fleet, recently at Jibutil, French Somaliland, is returning, so that when spring opens, Russia will have an imposing naval array in the Baltic. About eight hundred volunteer workmen have left here to work at the dockyards at Port Arthur and Vladivostok.

TURKEY'S BACK STIFFENED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Turkish government has resolved to forcibly prevent the Russian Black Sea fleet from passing through the Dardanelles, and a fight will probably occur should such an attempt be made. The defenses along the Straits have been strengthened and mines have been laid. Officers have also been appointed to supervise these measures. The reason for Turkey's action is that strong representations have been made by other powers against such a breach of the treaties as the passing of the Russian vessels would mean. England has informed the Sultan that should the Russian vessels pass through the Strait the British fleet would do likewise, and would make a demonstration before the windows of the Yildez Kiosk itself.

BLOCKED THE CHANNEL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NAGASAKI, March 2.—The Japanese hospital steamer Kobe Maru, which arrived at Sasebo Monday with seventy-one invalids, including six naval engineers who were employed on board the vessels which were sunk at Port Arthur, brings confirmation of the report that the attempt to obstruct the entrance to that harbor was partially successful. It is reported that the hulks of the Hokoku Maru and Bushui Maru now block part of the channel. The explosions on board these steamers were caused by electric wires operated from the torpedo-boat destroyers, which afterwards saved the crews.

WILL STARVE PORT ARTHUR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The landing in force of the Japanese on the Lias Tung peninsula and the beginning of the land investment of Port Arthur will not begin for a fortnight, according to advices received here from what are believed to be reliable sources. It was expected that the attack upon the fortress would take place yesterday or today, but these latter advices, without explaining the reason for the delay, show that there has been a change in the original plans.

Army officers here think that the Japanese have decided that with the railroad communication of Port Arthur with the outside world cut off, thus preventing supplies from reaching the place, two week's privation will render the final assault easier. Moreover, as Port Arthur can safely be left as it is for the time being, the Japanese troops may be employed instead in Northern Korea and on the Yalu River, where they are now most needed.

IN A STATE OF SIEGE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Port Arthur, Vladivostok and the region traversed by the East Chinese Railroad, and Blagovestchensk and the trans-Baikal and Amur territories have been declared in a state of siege.

MAY ABANDON PORT ARTHUR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Herald's St. Petersburg cable says that ominous rumors prevail that Port Arthur is to be abandoned to the enemy after sinking the ships, as was done in the Crimean war.

JAPS THREATEN HUNCHUN.

SECRETS OF THE MORMONS.

Senate Committee Begins to Probe Into Them.

President Smith of the Church Testifies.

The President and Statehood. Robb Against Heath.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—An effort to unearth the secrets of the Mormon faith was manifested in the first day's proceedings before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, which is investigating the protests against Reed Smoot retaining his seat as a Senator from Utah.

President Joseph F. Smith, the highest official of the church, was on the stand all day. He was questioned closely in regard to the principles of divine revelations. He said he adhered absolutely to all the teachings of the church in that regard, and that he himself had been visited with divine inspirations from God, directing him as to details in matters pertaining to the welfare of the church, though no angels had come to him as in the case of the revelation to his uncle, Joseph Smith, Jr., the founder of the church. He subscribed to the standard of authority for the church in relation to the revelation commanding polygamy, as made known to the first president in a visit from "an angel in black." He also said he still believed in polygamy.

The testimony was directed in a slight degree at Senator Smoot, and no attempt was made by the defense to curtail the admission of testimony until President Smith was questioned in relation to polygamous cohabitation of certain officials of the church before the manifesto of 1890. The attorneys then objected, and much time was devoted to the testimony. The committee then went into executive session, and after a full discussion determined to allow the utmost latitude to the hearings, which means that court practices will be avoided. The protestants said they regarded this as a victory for them. The committee will hear practically all the prosecution has to offer and determine itself what is competent.

At an executive session of the committee following the afternoon hearing it was decided to meet every day at 10:30 o'clock a.m. and remain in session until 12 noon, meeting again at 2 p.m. and continuing throughout the afternoon. Five members, including the chairman, will constitute a quorum.

TESTIMONY IN DETAIL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The investigation to decide whether Reed Smoot of Utah is to retain his seat in the United States Senate and incidentally define the political status of the Mormon Church was formally begun today before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Great interest attaches to the hearings because of the dual purpose of the inquiry. Other investigations have been directed at the rights of certain contestants to seats in Congress, but never before has there been inaugurated an inquiry into creeds and political factors to determine whether an unlawful influence is being asserted in the affairs of the nation. Such is the nature of the Smoot inquiry, and at the opening session today it was conceded that the hearings would extend over several weeks and precipitate a contest in which noted legal talent will fight every inch of the way. Interesting was the announcement that Joseph Smith, president of the Mormon Church, would be the first witness, and in all probability occupy the attention of the committee for two or three days.

The attorneys for the defense, A. S. Worthington of this city and Waldemar Van Cott of Salt Lake, Utah, arrived early and engaged in consultation with their client, John G. Carlisle, former Secretary of the Treasury, and R. W. Tayler, former Representative in Congress and the attorney who prosecuted the successful contest against Brigham Roberts retaining his seat in Congress on the ground of his violating the Anti-Polygamy Law, are the counsel for the protestants. Half a dozen witnesses, nearly all of them officials of the Mormon Church, occupied seats in the rear of the large committee room.

PRESIDENT SMITH SWORN.

Quite a number of ladies were in attendance, and watched the proceedings with interest. Chairman Burrows, after ascertaining by roll call that a quorum of the committee was present, directed Tayler to proceed with the case. Tayler announced his readiness to proceed, and asked that President Joseph F. Smith be sworn. After that had been done, Franklin S. Richards, a Salt Lake attorney, stated that he was present as an adviser of the witness in the event any improper questions were asked.

The first question asked brought out that Mr. Smith was born in Missouri in 1838 and went to Utah in 1848 and since has been in the church.

Tayler asked Smith if he was a prophet, seer and revelator. The witness said he "was so sustained."

Further questions along the same line brought out the statement that he received his powers by reason of the position he holds in the church. He said the apostles of the church were sustained "in the same powers as prophets, seers and revelators." He was asked to name his predecessors as president of the church, and gave them in order back to the first president, Joseph Smith, Sr. The witness said he sustains the same power as his predecessors.

Questions directed to ascertain the business occupation of Smith in addition brought out the following list of concerns of which he is president: Zion Coöperative Mercantile Company, with a capital stock of more than $1,000,000; State Bank of Utah, Zion Savings Bank, Utah Sugar Company, Consolidated Wagon and Machine Company, Utah Light Railway Company, Salt Lake and Los Angeles Railway Company, Salt Air Beach Company and Salt Lake Knitting Company. He said he was president of a number of other small concerns, the names of which he could not recall, and that he is a director of the Union Pacific Railway Company, editor of the Improvementer and Juvenile Instructor and director or official of a number of mining companies. A list of first presidencies and twelve apostles, governing the church, was read by Tayler and identified by Smith. This list included the name of Reed Smoot.

Smith explained that the First Presidency is the president of the church and two high priests, or counselors, and that the twelve apostles are next in authority. The presidents are elected by the council and apostles, but he believed, and it is taught that the presidents are really chosen by divine revelation, and they are endowned with the authority of the holy priesthood by authority direct from God. He said the apostles might elect to their number in the event of a vacancy, but that they would not go contrary to the wish of the presidency.

In regard to the revelations, the witness said the church holds that any elder may receive a revelation for his own guidance.

"Mr. Smoot may receive a revelation direct from God?" asked Mr. Tayler.

"For his own guidance, yes," was the answer.

In response to direct questioning, Mr. Smith said that only those revelations to the president which had been presented to the church and accepted by the members are binding on them.

Mr. Overman wanted to know what happened to those who did not believe in the inspired revelations.

"Were they unchurched?" he asked.

"They unchurched themselves," was the response.

After more direct questioning concerning the rights of church members to reject revelations, Tayler put the situation in this form: "May the members of the church say to you: 'We deny that God has told you to tell us that, and we will not receive your revelation.' Could that occur in the church?"

"It could," was the reply.

"Has this ever been done?" asked Mr. Hoar.

"Not that I know of."

"Now, that is just what I have been calling attention to," said Mr. Hoar. "The witness says 'Not that I know of.'"

Turning to Smith, he remarked that the answer expressed doubt, and more pointedly he asked the witness: "Has the church ever rejected any of your revelations? Have any of the revelations to the Presidents been rejected?"

"May I say a word on that first?" asked Smith. He stood up and was noticeably concerned at the trend of the questioning. In an extended explanation of the relations the members of the church bear to those in high authority, among other things, he said: "The members of the Mormon church are among the freest, most independent people of all the Christian denominations. They have freedom of thought, freedom of speech; they are not all united on every principle of the church; they are not expected to be. They are entitled to their own conception in regard to the principles of their church, where conception of what appears to them to be the right or the wrong. So long as one accepts God and his opinion is not in conflict with the accepted standards of the church, he enjoys following the church. He who denies God, he who commits adultery or steals, or lies, or bears false witness against his neighbors in any way, or goes contrary to the cardinal principles of our Christian religion, is compelled to withdraw. But one who is honest, virtuous, believes in God and has a little faith in our religion is nurtured, though he may not believe in the church in all that it teaches. In that book—(and Smith pointed to one of the volumes that had been introduced earlier in the proceedings) is a revelation on plural marriages. Not three or four per cent. of the members of this church have entered that state. All the rest have abstained from plural marriages, and many thousands have rejected the principle entirely."

Senator Dubois remarked: "I notice that you say many thousands rejected the doctrine of plural marriages. Do you mean that they never practiced plural marriages, or that they declared against the doctrine?"

Smith answered again that many thousands in the church had declared against the principle of plural marriage as given to the church in a revelation from Joseph Smith, Jr. To bring out the effect of refusing to subscribe to the teachings of the church, Mr. Hoar asked a number of questions, and Smith said: "The principle of revelation is the fundamental principle of the church."

"Have you ever received such a revelation direct from God?" asked Tayler.

"I never said I had a revelation except that God has shown me that Mormonism is God's divine truth," said Smith.

"How has God shown that?" asked Mr. Burrows.

"By inspiration."

Smith described the accepted theory of the revelation of the principle of polygamy to Joseph Smith, Jr., saying that an angel in black had appeared unto him. He said revelations had not come to him in that form, but that he had received direct revelations from God by inspiration.

At this point, Mr. Bailey said he assumed that all of the testimony being brought out in regard to the religion of Mormonism had some sound relation to the influences of the church in civil affairs, and that unless he was assured of that he would object.

"For my part, he said, "I do not think Congress has anything to do with religious affairs, and would like to know the purpose of the direction that has been taken in the proceedings."

Tayler said that the prosecution would attempt to show that the church directed affairs of state, poli-

WAR NEWS AFTER MIDNIGHT.

PING YANG EXCITED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PING YANG, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Ping Yang is in a state of panic, so far as the natives are concerned. The Koreans seem to feel that this is to be a great battleground again. Ten thousand of them already have fled the city and others are leaving hourly. From further north, in the direction of the Yalu, tens of thousands of refugees have been driven out.

Another move in the advance of the Russians is the seizing of the Korean telegraphs, thus cutting off Wiju and Yuen San, as well as Ping Yang telegraphic communication with Northern Korea.

RUSSIANS BOLDLY ADVANCING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PING YANG, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—The Russians are boldly and fiercely pushing forward their advance south of the Yalu River. Their Cossacks are scouting far in advance of the main body, through Northern Korea. Three hundred Russians have seized Anju. There has been no attempt by the Japanese as yet to dislodge the daring advance guard of the Russians at Anju. How far behind the Russian advance is the main body of the invading army is not known here, but the fleeing Koreans declare the invaders are in great force. The Koreans make no effort to check the Russian advance, but regard the invaders as desperate enemies.

DESERTING PORT ARTHUR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HARBIN, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Port Arthur correspondent writes that the town is practically deserted. Officers, marines, coolies and everybody else are working day and night at the railway and docks in conection with the transport of provisions and munitions of war. The Chinese generals, Chang and Ma, protest against the neutrality of China, and have written to Peking begging the government to form an alliance with Japan.

TIEN TSIN HORRORS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The city of Tien Tsin is again like a slaughter pen. Headless bodies are everywhere. Decapitations continue with sickening frequency. This killing is the result of fierce efforts of the Viceroy of Chi Li to prevent an outbreak in the Chinese army; an outbreak directed at Russians by agitators, but which, if not put down in summary fashion, would be disastrous to all foreigners.

STEAMER FOR RED CROSS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—The volunteer fleet steamer Kazan has been transferred to the Red Cross Society. The Kazan was reported at Port Arthur February 7, when she was said to have been slightly injured during a Japanese attack. The volunteer fleet steamer Ekaterinoslav which was captured by the Japanese, is lying in the harbor of Sasebo, Japan. Dispatches received here say that her officers and crew are well, and deny that the Japanese are using her for transport purposes. The volunteer fleet steamer Voronej has reached Colombo, on her way back to Odessa, where the Nijni Novgorod of the same fleet arrived today.

ARRESTED THE GOVERNOR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOKIO, March 2.—It has been learned here today that the Russians have occupied the telegraph offices at Anju and Yongphion, north of Ping Yang. They have imprisoned the district governor and have confiscated official papers. The Russian force near Anju numbers about forty men. The main Russian force is concentrated at Liao Yang. The Russians near Antung aggregate two thousand.

WAR NEWS FROM PFLUG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—An official dispatch received from Maj.-Gen. Pflug, Viceroy Alexieff's chief of staff, dated March 2, says:

No particulars have been obtained concerning artillery. At Port Arthur and in Manchuria all is calm. According to Korean reports, a detachment of 2500 Japanese, without artillery, landed at Song Chen February 19, and marched toward Southern Manchuria.

"There have been heavy snowfalls at Port Arthur and in Manchuria recently. At Port Arthur there were 10 degs. of frost, and Vladivostok had a heavy snowstorm."

Ranney, treasurer of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Company, was the last witness examined. He was asked whether Porter Brothers secured rebates, but said he was unable to answer the question, and was dismissed.

LABOR UNIONS FIXING HOURS.

A number of Chicago labor unions have made a plan to obtain council legislation to fix the maximum number of hours per day which their members shall be employed. They wish to get ordinances adopted fixing the working day and making employers subject to a penalty for any violation.

DEFIED UNION THREATS.

The Board of Education tonight defied the labor union threats by awarding a contract to E. A. Rysdon & Company. The demand to deny this firm contracts was made, it is alleged, because it refused to employ union men exclusively.

CUDAHY BUTCHERS STRIKING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An order for a general strike of butchers employed by the Cudahy Packing plants was prepared tonight by M. J. Donnell, international president, but was recalled at the last minute. The order was caused by the packing company beginning the slaughter of cattle. The strikers had said that whenever the company renewed slaughtering, the general strike would begin. They backed out, but insist they will take action tomorrow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A fierce gale, reaching a velocity of 55 miles an hour, is sweeping over Nebraska, and from several points destructive prairie fires are reported. All efforts to stop them seem futile until they reach streams or wide stretches of cultivated lands.

GUN WENT OFF.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to a decision of the Supreme Court in the appeal of Soney Ford, convicted of manslaughter, it is an offense to point even an unloaded revolver at a person. Court Declares Philadelphia Meeting Void.

Old Man's Dramatic Suicide. Counterfeiter Caught.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 2.—Judge Kent today rendered a decision in the mandamus suit of Charles A. Chase vs. James A. Fleming to compel the latter to turn over to the former the corporation property of the Black Warrior Company. The opinion is in favor of Chase.

The tangle arose from the Chase interests holding a stockholders' meeting in Philadelphia, which was discountenanced by the Fleming interests, which later held a meeting in Globe, Arizona. The latter meeting was declared void but the decision rendered says that corporations organized under Arizona law must hold their annual meetings in Arizona. Fleming was stopped in this instance by having personally participated in the Philadelphia meeting.

SUIT AGAINST STANISLAUS.

IRRIGATION CASE DISMISSED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—In obedience to the mandate of the United States Supreme Court, United States Circuit Judge Morrow today dismissed without prejudice the bill of complaint in the suit of the San Joaquin and Kings River Canal and Irrigation Company against the county of Stanislaus. The decision of the Supreme Court was as follows:

That, hereafter, in case the counties of Merced and Fresno shall fix rates in such a manner that, taken as a whole, the rates in the three counties of Stanislaus, Merced and Fresno would not insure an income of at least 6 per cent., the complainant would not be bound to accept such rates, and the court would not bind itself in regard to the propriety of rates for the future."

Costs were awarded to the defendants.

MEXICAN DOLLARS MADE OVER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—The secret-service officials today arrested Marcellio Vanni, a gunsmith and locksmith. He is accused of having in his possession a steel die with which to stamp out silver dollars. Vanni, the officials declare, turned Mexican dollars into counterfeits of American dollars. Two of his companions, Francisco Visciello and Joe Carossi, were also arrested. The die was found in Vanni's shop.

TIES UP SAW MILL FOR TAX.

CANADIAN OFFICIALS ACT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) March 2.—John Murray of Vancouver, a forest ranger of the provincial government, has seized logs, lumber and a logging-camp outfit, valued at $30,000, and has tied up a sawmill at Sidney, B. C., because the American owners of the same are alleged to have evaded payment of the government tax of $3 per thousand feet uncut. The unpaid tax due the government is estimated at $2000.

The confiscated logs measure a million feet and the lumber in the mill and aggregates 800,000 feet and was ready for shipment to Puget Sound. The company owning the logs, lumber and mill is composed of stockholders residing in Tacoma, Seattle and Blaine.

OLD MAN'S DRAMATIC SUICIDE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALINAS, March 2.—John Ryer of Spreckels Grove committed suicide yesterday in a dramatic manner.

Ryer was 82 years old and the father of Mrs. Fannie Meadows, who is contesting in court the provisions of the will of her husband, James Meadows, who left a valuable estate. Whenever the will contest was mentioned Ryer became excited and nervous, expressing the fear that his daughter and her children would become destitute and paupers. Yesterday morning he went to the kitchen, where his daughter was preparing breakfast, and said: "Are you go to Salinas to the trial today?"

Mrs. Meadows gave an affirmative reply and Ryer said:

"Well, then I'll take this," and he took a couple of ounces of carbolic acid from a bottle which he had been using and which was supposed to have been thrown away. Mrs. Meadows at once sought help, but before medical aid could be secured Ryer was dead.

BATTLE OF WATERS ON.

ENTRY ABOUT STOCKTON WET

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

STOCKTON, March 2.—There is a battle of waters in progress in the southern part of this county. The rush of water can be heard for miles, accompanied by peals like cannonading. Pimental says the water came down the Brack tract in a white wall 20 feet deep. He saved his family and some provisions.

The Brack tract levees and other levees in the vicinity, several families are stamped, with little children and their hands, about sixty people, all told. Many of them had narrow escapes. The Frankenheimer Brothers, who own the Brack tract, removed the refugees, and another steamer has been sent out to get what household effects they saved.

Word from the reclamation to the west of Stockton, this morning is anything but reassuring. The Sargent tract is reported to have gone under this morning. It comprises many thousand acres and the loss is severe.

A message this afternoon from Terminus said Bouldinia Island, comprising 5000 acres, 1800 of which is asparagus, and reclamation district No. 548, of 15,000 acres, will surely be under water.

FOR CLOSING EDWARDS BREAK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, March 2.—This afternoon the trustees of reclamation district No. 535 held a meeting at which specifications for closing the Edwards break, prepared by County Surveyor Boyd, were adopted. Bids for the work will be received next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. It is estimated that the work will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

WILL QUICKLY CLOSE CREVASSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, March 2.—The crevasse in the levee of the Sacramento River three miles below this city will be closed in less than twenty days. The contractors are confident that the work can be done in that time by the use of piledrivers and dredgers. The contract for the work will be let next Saturday. The cost will be about $10,000.

ANOTHER LEVEE BREAKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

STOCKTON, March 2.—The levee on the Sargent tract broke in four or five places along Sycamore slough tonight and about ten thousand more acres in San Joaquin county will be flooded. The break in the Bouldin Island levee has been checked and the island is probably saved. Part of the break on Sherman Island has been repaired and it is expected the gap will be closed the next two tides.

LOS ANGELES MAN A SUICIDE.

JUMPS FROM STEAMER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

STOCKTON, March 2.—Albert J. Walters of Los Angeles jumped from the steamer Capt. Weber this morning, on its way up from San Francisco, and was probably drowned. George L. Price of Alameda states that Walters said he had been on a spree for five days, and was so afraid that he would harm himself that he offered Price $100 to remain with him all night. He seemed to have plenty of money. He also asked Price to inform his wife in Los Angeles and a sister, Rebecca Walters, in Randallstown, Md., if any harm came to him.

Early in the morning, dressed only in his trousers and a silk shirt, and apparently suffering with delirium tremens, Walters suddenly jumped from the cabin window. A search was made for him on the boat, but without avail. One of the steamer employés declared that he had seen Walters take a life preserver.

According to Price, who left for Oakdale today, Walters was well dressed and seemed well to do. He gave his age as 36, and said he was employed with the Pacific Coast Borax Company. Price, who is a member of the firm of Price & Son, Alameda photographers, says Walters took his money with him when he jumped from the window.

Price declares that he gave the alarm at once, but the boat was not stopped and no attempt was made to rescue Walters. One of the deckhands declared that he had seen Walters go over the wheel, which, if true, would cause his death almost instantly. The authorities are investigating.

German Count Accused African Natives of Stealing Lantern, and for Words Was Killed—Their War.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERLIN, March 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The rising of native troops in the Crossa and Nsasanang rivers region of German Kamerun, West Africa, resulting in several factories of Northwestern Kamerun being burned and four Germans killed, as announced Monday, was caused by the eccentric conduct of Count von Pueckler, and was directly due to the theft of a lantern from the Northwest Kamerun Company.

Von Pueckler, who was the government's district commissioner, was reputed to be a quiet and sensible administrator, having sound knowledge of native ways and character. He formerly was an employé of the Northwestern Kamerun Company, but had been recently employed by the government. Herr Schoeller, president of the company, received December last a long letter from Count von Pueckler, regarding the stolen lantern, concluding with the assertion that he intended to make the property of white men respected by burning five villages. Herr Schoeller inferred from the violence of the language that the latter was deranged, and wrote both to the count and to the agents of the company, commanding that nothing be done over so trivial a matter, saying that the company for the first time was about to pay a dividend, and adding that the good will of the natives must be cultivated.

Herr Schoeller's letters arrived too late. Count von Pueckler with twenty-five men tried to arrest the head men of one of the villages, but the count was killed and his escort with difficulty escaped. During the next few days the company's factories on the Cross River were burned down and four agents were killed. A punitive expedition has now arrived in the hostile district.

Count von Pueckler, it appears from information subsequently received by Herr Schoeller, had recently given way to fits of fury against the negroes, attributable to the state of his health, as a result of his long residence in the hot climate of equatorial Afric..

SUGAR MEN MEET.

Havemeyer Says "Harmony" is Something He Does Not Use in His Relations With Competitors.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The meeting of the sugar directors, at which regular dividends were declared, remained in session only a few minutes, thus by its brevity giving a quietus to reports that the matter of a scrip dividend or cutting of a "melon" of some kind might come before the board.

Havemeyer stated that beyond the dividend action, no business of importance was transacted. The wisdom of declaring an extra dividend in a Presidential year might be more open to question than most of the official acts of those who direct the affairs of the corporation, he said. When Havemeyer's attention was drawn to the statement of Adolph Segal of the Metropolitan Sugar Refining Company, that that concern, which has just been incorporated in New Jersey, would work in harmony with the American Sugar Refining Company, he replied:

"That is ridiculous. We extend harmony only to our own immediate concerns, and know no such word in our relations to competitors."

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS FROM THE WORLD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The government is not losing sight of matters in the Near East, and measures are being taken daily to strengthen the Russians' position and influence. Under no circumstances will Russia permit the war in the Far East to undermine her ascendancy in the Balkans.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Express's Tokio correspondent, Percival Phillips, says: "The censorship here is very strict. A spirit of elation is noticeable everywhere over Japan's successes at Port Arthur. A vigorous denial is made by the government officials that Japan's troops lack provisions and are poorly horsed. A high government official said to me: 'We are not burning our bridges behind us. On the contrary, wherever our troops have gone, a way has been left safe for supplies to follow. We are prepared for all emergencies.'"

ALEXIEFF'S CONFIDENCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HARBIN, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admiral Alexieff is confident that Port Arthur can withstand all attacks of the Japanese. He was heard to assert today: "Southern Manchuria will be defended to the death."

PREFERENCE FOR M'CHESNEY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Big layers of odds who are offering future quotations against horses in the Suburban Handicap, have taken preference to McChesney as against Waterberry. The son of MacDuff is held as favorite at 12 to 1, while 15 to 1 is offered against Waterberry.

LINE OF RESISTANCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fifty-three correspondents have received credentials to join the Japanese army. Notwithstanding the popular belief that there will be important fighting south of the Yalu River, it is improbable that any engagements of consequence will take place in that part of Korea. The Russians, it is thought, will make the river their first line of resistance against the Japanese advance.

MINISTER SEFTON'S VIEWS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hon. Clifford Sefton, the Canadian Minister of the Interior, who is visiting New Orleans, said today: "Japan does not need assistance. The sympathy of every loyal British-American subject and every American, too, for that matter, is with Great Britain's ally. We cannot stand off and see Russia defeat the hardy little Jap. If Japan needs our help, it will be forthcoming, and with such force that Russia will be driven completely out of Manchuria."

INVESTIGATION INTO ANAEMIA.

LABOR.

GET BACK TO BEGINNING.

Mine Troubles in Colorado Break Out Again.

Arrests for Intimidation of Non-Union Men.

Employers to Get Closer Together for Protection.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) March 2.—The labor troubles between the mill and smelter men and the mill owners, a continuation of the trouble started in Colorado City and extended to the Cripple Creek district and thence to the Telluride district, have again reverted to the original scene.

The mill men of the Mill Men's Union, acting independently of the parent organization, have posted fifty pickets at the two mills in Colorado City. No violence has as yet taken place, but four men, including the former president of the union, have been arrested for intimidation and threats against non-union men.

The former president was arrested today while appearing in court for the purpose of securing bonds for the other three men. All four furnished bonds and were released, pending trial. The Sheriff has not yet felt it necessary to post extra deputies at the mills, although the mill owners have taken precautionary measures in the way of hiring extra guards for their property. No clashes are anticipated at present.

MINERS GET EXCITED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DENVER, March 2.—Headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners in the city was thrown into a fever of excitement late this afternoon by a report of ill-treatment of a striking member of the miners' union, under arrest on the charge of vagrancy, at Telluride, by civil authorities there. The information came in a telegram from Secretary Forbes of the Telluride Union to Secretary-Treasurer Haywood of the Western Federation of Miners.

Secretary Haywood advised the officials of the Telluride union to use every means at their command to protect themselves. He also replied that he would make no appeal to Gov. Peabody. E. E. Richardson, attorney for the Western Federation of Miners, left for Telluride tonight.

TRANSACTION TANGLED.

Interesting Complication on New York Stock Exchange Which Has to do With Erie First Preferred.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—An interesting complication, which, presumably, can be settled only by the Arbitration Committee, has arisen on the Stock Exchange in regard to transactions in Erie first preferred.

Payment February 24 of a second annual 2 per cent. dividend on this stock automatically terminated the existence of the old voting trust, according to the terms of the agreement dated January 1, 1896, under which voting-trust certificates were issued. It is now proposed to extend the voting trust five years, and the voting trustees have announced that pending the consent of a majority to such extension, the transfer of voting-trust certificates will be continued until May 1. The authorities of the exchange, however, have ruled that the certificates bearing date later than February 29 are not a "good delivery."

The position of the governors is, according to the terms on which the certificates were listed, the voting trust expired February 29, and that a voting trust certificate dated March 1, or later, cannot be considered a "good delivery."

So long as the ruling continues in force, trading in the stock mentioned necessarily will be confined to voting-trust certificates issued on or before February 29. There is nothing to prevent transactions outside the exchange while the matter is referred, as it possibly will be, to the Arbitration Committee.

CASTRO MAKES A CUT.

President of Venezuela Stops Salary of Minister to United States and Puts Secretary on Half Pay.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—Gen. Hernandes ("El Mocho,") Venezuelan Minister to the United States, has been recalled for political reasons, according to a Herald dispatch from Port of Spain, Trinidad.

STOPS MINISTER'S PAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—It is stated here that the Venezuelan Legation in Washington will be closed because President Castro has stopped the salary of Minister Hernandes, who, however, has not been recalled. This is said to have been brought about through a letter to the fiscal agents here of the Venezuelan government, instructing them not to pay the general's salary as heretofore on the first of each month.

Augusto F. Piulado, who has been secretary of the legation for several years, suffers only half as much as his chief, for he is to continue in his present office at $250 a month, instead of $500. Nicholas Hernandez, son of the general, who is an under-secretary, has already secured other employment in Philadelphia.

Up to last summer Venezuela had been without a Minister at Washington for four years. Pulido represented the interests of the republic as secretary, with headquarters in a Washington boarding-house.

ports received there, three Japanese detachments of 800 each recently landed at Chiung Chan, Korea, about one hundred and thirty miles north of Wonsan, with the supposed object of reaching the valley of the Tumen River and threatening Hunchun, Manchuria, nine miles north of the Korean boundary and about eight miles west of Vladivostok.

A fleet of ten Japanese warships was recently sighted on the horizon off Vladivostok. They were believed to be reserve vessels, not powerful enough to blockade Vladivostok or endanger the Russian first-class cruisers, whose base is that port.

INCREASING THE WAR FUND.

TOKIO, March 2.—The Cabinet met in extraordinary session today and discussed measures for submission to the Diet. It is now planned to increase by 70,000,000 yen the amount to be raised by taxation. TURBULENCE IN CHINA.
CONDITIONS VERY CRITICAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Blood-letting conditions in all Northern China are extremely critical. Troops and people have been incited by placards pasted on all the walls grossly exaggerating the Japanese success and calling on the Chinese to rise and wipe out the Russians. These placards are particularly numerous and sensational in the Tartar city of Yuan Shi Kai. The Russians fear an advance of the Chinese army and the cutting of the trans-Siberian Railway by them.

Fifteen thousand of China's most efficient troops are at Shan Hai Kwan on the northern frontier. These troops are being reinforced daily. They are well drilled and armed with modern weapons. They represent the flower of the Chinese army.

In this formidable force are many turbulent leaders, who are urging an advance on the Russian line of communication. But the Viceroy has issued an order that the slightest effort to incite rebellion or sedition will be punished by death.

With all this, it is the general fear here that the neutrality of China cannot long be maintained. The slightest thing is likely to start an uprising, and once there is an outbreak there is sure to be an effort to attack the Russians in the rear.

Foreigners in Peking and Tien-tsin declare that there will be no distinction as to nationality in the massacre that would be attempted if the war agitators once got the upper hand. The cry will again be "Kill the foreign devils." Consequently, all nations are preparing for emergencies.

There are 2000 American and European troops at Tien-tsin and 1000 guarding the legations here at Peking, but in a general uprising these would have to look to their lives.

Minister Conger said the Chinese authorities are determined to maintain neutrality and order, but in times like these they will have the greatest difficulty in controlling the troops and the populace. He thinks trouble is possible, and that it will come on the slightest provocation.

UNCLE SAM AND JAPAN.
AGREED ON CERTAIN POINTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—Eki Hioki, first secretary of the Japanese legation at Washington, and Tosaburo Kadoya of the Yokohama Specie Bank have arrived at Chicago en route from Yokohama to Washington. Secretary Hioki was one of the Japanese commissioners who drew up the treaty between China and Japan at Shanghai, last fall, which, like the American treaty with China, provided for the opening of the ports of Mukden, Antung and Tatung Kao.

"On many points the Japanese government and the United States seem agreed," said the diplomat. "They are united on the open-door policy and the integrity of China. Japan and the United States would suffer most from the acquisition of parts of China by Russia. The Russian policy in Manchuria seems to exclude all other nations.

"The impression among my people is that the government did not go to war quickly enough. They clamored for it long before hostilities began. The people will do all in their power to support the government. Even the school children are helping to provide funds for carrying on the war."

CANADA'S DEFENSES.
TWO LINES OF 100,000.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) March 2.—The Military Department has handed out a statement of the new estimate for new defense. The first line of defense will consist of 100,000 men, of which 46,043 will be the peace establishment and the remainder the war establishment. A sufficient number of officers are to be trained with this line of defense to furnish officers for a second line of defense of another 100,000 men, if required.

The officers and men of the first line are divided into two classes, those engaging for both peace and war service, who will be paid and be liable for training in peace, and those engaging for war service only.

UNCLE SAM'S POSITION.
AT NEW WORLD'S APPROACHES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—M. Hanotaux, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, in an article on the Far Eastern situation says, according to a Times dispatch from Paris, that one of the most noteworthy features of the present time has been the action by which the United States has taken up the position with regard to the future course of international events. The American programme, he asserts, consists in the creation of settlements and stations for provisioning the approaches to the great highway of the New World, as England has done for the great highway of the Old World.

JAPANESE CONCENTRATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PORT SAID, March 2.—The Russian cruiser Aurora, recently in the Red Sea, left today for Candia, Island of Crete. One of the five Russian torpedo-boat destroyers which left here yesterday for Algiers, has returned.

Later, three more Russian torpedo-boat destroyers returned here.

COMMANDER SAWYER REPORTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Commander Sawyer of the gunboat Helena, which is in a mud dock at Newchwang, China, in a cablegram to the Navy Department today from Yinkow, reports everything quiet in that vicinity. He adds that the price of beef is very high.

ANGLO-SAXON REJOICING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—The Novoe Vremya today prints an editorial on the "Anglo-Saxon rejoicing in England and America at the reports of Japanese victories," in which it says:

"The whole world, with those exceptions, realizes that the Russian occupation of Manchuria would benefit civilization."

SOUKHOTINE SEES TROOPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—Gen. Soukhotine, who is on his way to the Far East, telegraphs to War Minister Sakharoff from Tomsk, Siberia, as follows: "During my long journey, I saw several divisions of troops. Their transport was proceeding in perfect order. The men were provided with warm clothing. At Cheliabinsk everything is under the close control of the military chief of the district, who sees personally that the troops are supplied with warm garments."

THIBET NOT MENACED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, March 2.—The Liberte today publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg, saying that the British Ambassador, Sir Charles Scott, had transmitted to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff the answer of Great Britain to the Russian protest against Col. Younghusband's expedition to Thibet, with the further announcement that Great Britain had bound herself not to menace the independence of Thibet, and that Russia had given a like assurance.

JAPANESE ELECTIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, March 2.—The Parliamentary elections are proceeding quietly. The final returns are expected to reach Tokio by Saturday. Few political meetings preceded the elections, domestic politics practically being forgotten. The Diet will meet late in March to vote on war measures. It is anticipated that the entire programme of the government will be cordially approved, and it is expected that the session will be concluded within ten days.

AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 2.—Count Beinckendorff, Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here tonight from St. Petersburg.

CZAR'S ENGINE GOES UNDER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—The cars on the ice railroad over Lake Baikal are now drawn by horses, a locomotive which performed this service having broken through the ice.

TO AID OF MISSIONARIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) March 2.—A cablegram to the State Department says that the British Admiralty has sent a man-of-war to Songchin for Canadian missionaries and their families. The vessel will also call at Wonsan.

WAR BULLETINS FROM MANY POINTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 2.—Orders were issued today to dispatch 2000 troops to reinforce the British garrison at Malta. It is believed that this movement is made to facilitate the reinforcing of the stations in China later, should necessity arise. Four hundred troops were also ordered to China to raise the local stations there to war strength.

PANIC AT VLADIVOSTOK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The London Express's correspondent had an interview at Kobe with W. J. Lippe, an American furrier, who was forced to quit Vladivostok, February 19. Lippe described the city as then being in complete panic. No news had been received since the war began. The telegraph line was wholly devoted to transmission of official messages to and from St. Petersburg. There were pitiable scenes at the railway station, whence the authorities allowed 110 persons to leave daily by empty troop trains that were going West. The people fought and scrambled to reach the ticket office. After the third day, traffic was stopped, and many started to walk inland. The government offices, bank and hospital have been removed to Nicoalisk. All shops are closed. The garrison, numbering 7200 troops, is victualled for four months.

The cruiser squadron attempted a dash around Northern Japan to join the Port Arthur fleet, but the Japanese were patrolling the seas between Saghalien and Tsuagru and the cruisers were forced to return. They are now practically bottled up. When Lippe left there was still the wildest disorder due to constant false alarms of bombardment.

WANT TO JOIN JAPAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 3.—In a dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, a correspondent of the Matin says it is rumored that the Chinese generals Ma and Thiang have asked permission to ally themselves with Japan.

"It is now certain," the correspondent continues, "that at the beginning of hostilities the Japanese wanted to land troops at a point near Shanhai Kwan and that the Chinese prevented them. Liao Yang, between Mukden and Newchawang, is becoming the nucleus of an important Russian army."

SUFFERINGS OF REFUGEES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 3.—Heartrending stories are appearing in the English newspapers of the sufferings of refugees from Port Arthur on the train journey to European Russia. It is bitterly cold, and there is a scarcity of food and water. Several children have been suffocated under the rugs and shawls with which they were covered in attempts to keep them warm. Owing to exposure and exhaustion an epidemic of influenza has broken out among the refugees.

TERRIBLE MARCH OVER LAKE BAIKAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reassuring statements published by the chiefs of the Russian transport service regarding the trip of troops across Lake Baikal are entirely discredited by independent observers. A well-informed Russian who has just arrived by the Siberian Railway states these facts to the Cologne Gazette. Many hundreds of Russian soldiers have been made unfit for service by the hardships they endured in the trains and on their eastward march.

Early in the morning, before the soldiers start on the march across Lake Baikal, tea and dry bread are served to them. Wooden barracks have been built half way across the lake, and there the soldiers get a bowl of hot wheaten gruel, which is thin and contains no fat. The gruel is cooked in salt water.

In the evening, at the end of the toilsome, wind-driven snow-pelted journey, tea and dry bread are given to the troops again. Rapacious peddlers swarm about, and with these many soldiers exchange the high felt boots with which they have been furnished for bottles of vodka. The result has been that many soldiers have been drunk before the march is half over, and their feet have been frozen. Such straggliers are left to their inevitable fate.

Many trains across the lake are drawn by horses. The road may be passable in the morning, but by afternoon the ice may have cracked, displacing or engulfing sleepers and ties. These breaks in the line are repaired with blocks of ice, just as one places stones in a broken roadway.

SHOW BETTER SPIRIT TOWARD UNCLE SAM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Russian government earnestly desires the conservation of the ancient friendship between the United States and the empire. The opinion is expressed here that the two countries are now on the eve of a better understanding of the points concerning which differences have existed. The campaign of recrimination which is progressing in a portion of the press of both countries is deprecated, and the government here specifically disavows responsibility for utterances of some Russian papers against the United States which, in turn, have inflamed a portion of the American press against Russia.

An official of the Foreign Office today pointed out to the Associated Press today the erroneous impression prevailing abroad that Russian newspapers, owing to the censorship exercised over the news, expressed the views of the authorities, whereas, as a matter of fact, the newspapers editorially have the widest latitude, and they frequently embarrass the government by their unrestrained criticism of other countries. The correction of the original version of the Vicksburg incident at Chemulpo has already affected Russian public opinion favorably. The report of Commander Marshall, captain of the Vicksburg, has been communicated to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff by United States Minister McCormick, and the formal thanks of the Russian Admiralty will be tendered as soon as a detailed report is received from the captain of the Variag.

The Foreign Office points out that the views held at Washington regarding foodstuffs as contraband of war agree with theirs, if such foodstuffs are destined for private individuals. A difficulty will be to determine the ultimate destination of such material. It might be consigned to private parties, but eventually reach the military government, as the Foreign Office holds that foodstuffs shipped in large quantities are subject to suspicion, as this would be prima facie evidence that the material was designed for the use of the military. Negotiations have been completely with France, Great Britain and Italy for the repatriation of the Russian sailors, who were taken on board vessels of these countries after the Chemulpo fight. These men were brought to Odessa under Russia's pledge not to allow them to fight again during the continuance of the war.

Numerous offerings have been received from women in Germany, France, and especially England, to go to the front as nurses. Lieut. Newton A. McCully, U.S.N., who has obtained permission to observe the Russian fleet operations, may go to Port Arthur from London via Suez, owing to the delay which now prevails on the Trans-Siberian Railroad. Siberian gold miners have petitioned the government to permit the transportation of their equipment over the Trans-Siberian Railroad and to let off the railroad employes who have been taken into the army, declaring that otherwise the gold-mining industry will be ruined.

WITNESSES BACK OUT.

Delaware People do Not Care to Come Out to Coast, so Botkin Murder Case May Collapse.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOVER (Dela.) March 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the positive refusal of three of the Delaware witnesses in the famous Botkin poisoning case to go to California and appear at the trial of Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, who is accused of the murder of Mrs. John P. Dunning, which declinations were given today, it is believed here that the case will collapse.

One of the local witnesses on whom the State has been depending to furnish the most damaging testimony, is Mrs. Joseph Bateman, who examined the box of poisoned sweets when it was handed over to the two victims. Cashier Walter Morris of the Farmers' Bank, and Thomas M. Gooden, former postmaster, are the other two witnesses, both of whom, it was strongly hoped, would consent to go to San Francisco, and take the stand at the trial.

It has been freely circulated here that Mrs. Bateman was in possession of other information which, up to the present, has been kept secret, but which would aid the State. No reason is given by the witnesses for refusing to carry out their promise to appear, except that they do not care to take the long and tedious trip to the Coast, and then be subjected to the annoyances incident to a murder trial.

OBITUARY.

Edmond F. Dixie.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—Edmond F. Dixie, a once-famous minstrel, died today at his home of congestion of the lungs.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—Russell W. Davenport, one of the leading steel manufacturers of the country, died today at his home of pneumonia. At the time of his death he was general manager of the Cramp & Sons ship-engine building company.

HURRICANE SWEEPS COLORADO.

DENVER, March 2.—High winds, in some localities approaching the proportions of a hurricane, prevailed along the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains in Colorado and Wyoming today. At Colorado Springs, the wind reached a velocity of sixty-six miles an hour, and several buildings were damaged.

At Pryor, a coal camp, twenty miles north of Trinidad, a store in which is located the postoffice and the coal company's offices was wrecked. Several persons were buried in the ruins, but were rescued without serious injury. In South Wyoming and Northern Colorado a blizzard is raging, accompanied by severe gales. In this city and Pueblo slight damage occurred from the wind. A light snow fell here this evening.

Miss Lydia Fletcher.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Miss Lydia Fletcher, author and dramatist, better known as "Coyne," died here tonight, aged 50 years.

FOR NEW LINE TO EUREKA.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—The Santa Fé Railroad has finished all its preliminary surveys for a new line to Eureka, Humboldt county, and its engineers are now figuring on the cost, to decide upon a final location. It is known the company has made three general surveys at a considerable outlay of time and money in an effort to get a good modern line through the mountainous country of Mendocino and Humboldt counties. It will cost the Santa Fé in the neighborhood of $12,000,000 to complete its connection between Eureka and San Francisco Bay.

From Scotia a survey has been run southwest and south via Fort Bragg and the South Eel River to Healdsburg, on the California Northwestern road. Another survey starts from Branscomb, a point on the former survey in Mendocino county, and runs through Lake county to the edge of the Sacramento Valley. A third starts from the first survey mentioned, at a point just north of Willits, and runs south to Cloverdale, parallel to the California Northwestern.

Dick Declared Elected.

COLUMBUS (O.) March 2.—Charles Dick was today declared elected to the United States Senate, at the conclusion of the joint ballot of the two houses, for both the short and long term.

CANAL TITLE CLEAR.

Attorney-General Knox Advises the President to Pay the Purchase Price—Thirty Days or Less Sufficient Time.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A conclusion of the negotiations of the title to the Panama Canal property is in sight. Within thirty days, perhaps in shorter time, the United States will be in full possession of the property and the money consideration will have been paid to both the republic of Panama and to the New Panama Canal Company.

Atty.-Gen. Knox had a conference today with the President, at which the whole subject, so far as the legal phases of it are concerned, was considered and decided. At the conclusion of the conference, the Attorney-General authorized the following statement:

"I have advised the President that he is authorized to pay at once to the government of Panama the $10,000,000 provided for by the treaty. Also, that he is authorized to pay to the New Panama Canal Company the $40,000,000 which, under the agreement between the United States and that company, we are to pay for its property, and have notified the canal company we are ready to close the transaction.

"The details in connection with the transfer of the canal company's property should not require more than thirty days."

It appears that Atty.-Gen. Knox is satisfied perfectly with the title which the canal company is able to pass to the United States. In his opinion, it will not be necessary to pursue the investigation further.

It has not been determined how soon the $10,000,000 will be paid to the republic of Panama, but it is quite likely that it will be done soon. Secretary Shaw practically has completed arrangements at the Treasury Department for the money necessary to meet the obligations incurred through the purchase of the French company's property. His arrangements have been effected in such a manner as not to disturb seriously the financial condition of the country.

TWO PENDING SUITS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 2.—The officials of the United States embassy share the view of the officers of the canal company that there is nothing now in the way of the actual transference of the concession and the company's property. At recent conferences between Ambassador Porter and President Bo of the canal company, the president pointed out that two suits are now pending, one involving Colombia's right to hold shares and the other the general question of the company's right to transfer its concession to the United States. M. Bo was inclined to believe one and perhaps both suits might be protracted several months, but Gen. Porter was satisfied, after hearing M. Bo, that even if the suits are continued, they do not constitute any menace to the United States requiring the putting off of the transfer.

If this view prevails at Washington, it is expected that the details of the transfer will soon be arranged through the canal company's representatives there.

CANAL COMMISSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Senate Committee on Inter-Oceanic Canals today agreed to report the nominations of the Panama Canal Commission with a favorable recommendation. The Kittredge bill for the canal government was referred to a sub-committee.

ROCKEFELLER WON'T MEDDLE WITH CASSATT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. J. Cassatt, Clement A. Griscom and A. R. Little will be reëlected directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company without opposition, following the annual meeting of the stockholders next Thursday. These members of the board are the only ones whose terms expire this year. In view of Wall street reports of Rockefeller opposition to Cassatt, there has been expectation in certain quarters that a contest would ensue at the approaching election. It may be stated as a fact that there will be no opposition to Cassatt and his two associate directors, both of whom are his close personal friends.

Rockefeller interest in the Pennsylvania Railroad, so far as it has manifested itself, has expressed a desire to continue the Cassatt administration. No request has been made by the Rockefeller interests for a special representative on the board, although Wall street gossip has had it that William Rockefeller was to succeed A. R. Little.

At present, every director of the Pennsylvania system is the personal friend and supporter of Cassatt, and should there be a Gould-Rockefeller anti-Cassatt combination, such as Boston and Philadelphia stories tell of, it would take at least three years to bust the present administration.

DEMOCRATS DOING THINGS TO HEARST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Up to the present time, William Randolph Hearst has been permitted to conduct his campaign for President of the United States upon the Democratic ticket after his own fashion, uncheckd by anybody and regarded by all sane persons with an amused smile. His arrogance has gone so far, however, that serious Democrats have taken steps to put a stop to his pretensions, and from now on Mr. Hearst will find his own record being brought up against him by members of his own party. He will find that the leaders who have led and who are now leading the Democratic party have had about all of his brazen impudence that they can stand.

The first gun in the anti-Hearst campaign in the East was fired yesterday by the New York Evening Post, and it will be followed by others calculated to drive Mr. Hearst out of all political consideration. The Evening Post apologizes to its readers for bringing this thing that "needs much washing to be touched" into its columns, and then says that it is due to all honest newspapers to expose Hearst. It then quoted some parts of that wonderful speech against Hearst was delivered in Congress, January 8, 1897, by Grove L. Johnson of California, wherein Hearst's early history in San Francisco after he first came into possession of his father's money is set forth with powerful eloquence. It is understood here that this speech, which was published in the Congressional Record at the time, will be spread broadcast over the country to show what manner of man Hearst is.

Republicans are not intending to take any part in the campaign against him, realizing that his nomination would make Republican success certain, but Democrats who respect their party and insist that clean men, even though weak ones, shall be their leaders, are preparing for a revolt against Hearst's checkbook boom.

In order to offset, if possible, the reaction against him, Hearst is preparing to make a speech in Congress. It will be delivered within a week, and will be against trusts.

SHOWED DEMOCRATIC STRATEGY
MAYOR HARRISON IN CONTROL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) March 2.—By a sensational bit of strategy today, the control of the political auxiliary organization known as the Cook County Democracy was obtained by the adherents of Mayor Harrison.

With a demand for incorporation as the Cook County Democracy, John Powers and other friends of the Mayor appeared before Secretary of State Rose and showed that the charter held by the opponents of the Mayor had become invalid for non-compliance with the law requiring corporations to make annual report to the Secretary of State. A license was thereupon issued to Powers, who thus regained control, from which he had recently been ousted by a court decision upholding the anti-Harrison faction.

TO DEAL WITH UNIONS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Preliminary steps have been taken for the formation of a central body of secretaries of all employers' associations in New York to bring them into closer association in dealing with the labor unions so that the handling of all transactions between the employers and the wage earners may be greatly simplified. It was rumored among union men that the meeting was the first step in the direction of the amalgamation of all the employers' associations in New York, but this was emphatically denied by leading employers.

WASHINGTON.

tics, and, in fact, all matters, and consequently the method of proceedure was necessary. No further objection was made.

The committee took a recess until 2 p.m., and Mr. Burrows announced that hereafter the hearings would be held every day until concluded, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. An executive session of the committee was ordered to determine on certain lines of conducting the case.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session, Smith was again on the stand. Before proceeding, Mr. Hoar said he wanted to understand one more point in regard to the revelation, and that was whether women members of the church were permitted to vote on questions of acceptance or rejection of revelations. Smith answered that women voted on all of these matters.

It was brought out that the Supreme Court decided, in 1878, in the Reynolds case, that plural marriages, as practiced in the Mormon Church are polygamous, and Tayler asked whether the church accepted that ruling of the Supreme Court.

Smith answered that the law question was finally passed upon in 1889, and that since that time he had no knowledge of any plural marriages taking place.

Before that time and since the Reynolds decision, he said, he probably knew of some such marriages.

In answer to a question, Smith said that prior to 1862, when the plural marriages in the church were declared by the church to be constitutional, polygamy had been practiced "in a limited way."

Mr. Beveridge inquired concerning the reasons for the line of questioning concerning polygamy, as he said he understtod Mr. Smoot was not charged with being a polygamist.

Tayler explained that he wanted to show that the demands of the church are such that it might affect Mr. Smoot's allegiance to the United States.

Worthington said that the line of questioning was following out matters on which there was no dispute and which are admitted by his client. At the same time, he said, the questions relating to a man's private beliefs and convictions are improper, and that he would advise him to decline to answer.

Mr. Burrows ordered Tayler to proceed with the case, and the committee took no notice of Worthington's objection. Continuing the inquiry in relation to divine revelations, Tayler asked in regard to the manifesto of President Woodruff, in 1890, commanding a suspension of the requirement that polygamy be practiced in the church and also the prayer for amnesty in 1891. The questions were numerous and were to ascertain whether the members of the church considered these declarations affected the continuance of cohabitation of those previously married. Smith said it was regarded that they did not affect such persons.

Tayler asked: "Do you so regard it?"

"The command did not change my view on the question of plural marriage," he answered.

BELIEVES POLYGAMY RIGHT.

Being pressed further on the same subject for his personal belief, Smith said: "I believe plural marriages to be right."

Tayler then asked if it is true that the revelation declaring plural marriages remain in the books of authority as a part of the teachings of the church.

Smith said it was true. He also said that the subsequent manifesto declaring the principle not in operation was fully understood.

Mr. Burrows directed a number of questions to Smith, bearing upon the consistency of Smith's answers relating to his belief in and acceptance of the divine revelations. He said: "I understand you believed the revelation of Joseph Smith, Jr., in regard to polygamy and still think it is right?"

"Yes."

"And the manifesto of President Woodruff declaring a suspension of the polygamy principle was a revelation, was it not?"

"Yes."

"How can it be?" pressed Mr. Burrows. "One declares in favor of polygamy and the other stops it."

"I adhere to both in my belief," said Smith. "I believe polygamy was right, or I should never have married more than one wife."

"As I understand it," Mr. Hoar interrupted, "the last revelation does not prohibit polygamy, but merely suspends the former principle commanding it. It may still be believed that the practice is innocent and proper, but as the divine command to continue it is stopped, the members of the church submit to the civil law on the question of plural marriages."

"That is right," subscribed Smith.

Tayler asked a number of questions relating to Abraham H. Cannon and others of the Mormon faith, in order to bring out the witness's knowledge whether or not they were polygamists and whether married since the manifesto of 1890. Objection being made to this line of questioning, Tayler said he was pursuing the line of inquiry set out in the protest against Mr. Smith, to the effect that the president of the Mormon Church and the majority of the twelve apostles were practicing polygamy. He referred to Smith as the daily associate and superior, in the church, of Mr. Smoot, and said that Smith is the husband of five wives and believes still in the principle of polygamy.

"Do you expect to prove in that connection that the president and the twelve apostles form a propaganda of polygamy?" asked Mr. Beveridge.

"We do," said Tayler.

"Then I think the course taken is pertinent," said Mr. Beveridge.

Worthington, in reply to Tayler, said that the charge was that Senator Smoot had taken an oath as an apostle which would be in conflict with his oath to support the Constitution of the United States, by reason of the fact that the apostolic hierarchy was composed of men violating the laws against polygamy. He said: "That oath was taken in 1900, and all the evidence introduced thus far goes to show that since that time the members of the hierarchy have not been pledged to polygamy."

The committee went into executive session at 4 p.m. to determine the advisability of admitting the testimony to which objection was made.

NO LAND LEGISLATION.

REASONS FOR LACK THEREOF.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The statement was made today upon good authority that there will be no public land legislation during this session of Congress. Two reasons were assigned for this understanding. One was that the special commission appointed by the President to investigate land matters and report on the sort of legislation that is needed to conserve the public domain, eliminate fraud from public land matters and protect homesteaders, will not be able to get its report to Congress in time for action at this session, and that it will be impossible, without manifest discourtesy to the President, to attempt land legislation until the work of the commission appointed by him is available to Congress.

It was also stated that the House Committee on Public Lands is opposed to action at this session, and that, in addition to this, the Senate Committee on Public Lands, which is not positively opposed to action, would like to see the matter go over for another year. The commission appointed by the President to inquire into public land matters consists of Commissioner Richards of the General Land Office, Gifford Pinchot, of the division of forestry and F. H. Newell of the Geological Survey, who has charge of the irrigation projects being undertaken by the government. These three commissioners have completed their independent investigations, but have not yet had a meeting to make up their joint report. The understanding is that they will have their first meeting within the next week, and that it will take them about a month to get their report ready and submit it to Congress.

Representative Needham of California, who is a member of the Public Land Committee of the House, said today that it was not true that the committee has decided to report to the House that no public land legislation should be had at this session.

"Our committee has not discussed the matter at all," said Mr. Needham, "and therefore it has not agreed either to report or not report land legislation. We cannot, however, very well go ahead with the work of framing legislation until we hear from the commission appointed last fall by the President. I have made inquiries about the progress of the report of this commission several times, and have been unable to get satisfaction. So I propose, at the next meeting of the House Committee on Public Lands to make a motion that our chairman be instructed to call upon the members of President Roosevelt's commission and ask them if they have any communication to make to the committee before we go ahead with the work of framing legislation, and if they have any report to make, we can find out when they intend to make it. If this motion carries, it will soon be determined whether we are to undertake the work of making any changes in the land laws at this session, or not."

SHIPS FOR PACIFIC TRADE.

AMERICAN TONNAGE INVENTORY

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The suggestion made by Representative Minor, acting chairman of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, for ascertaining the amount of American tonnage practically available for Pacific trade, will be followed out before the next hearing on the bill extending coastwise navigation laws to the Philippines.

The objection of Hawaiian interests to the pending bill was based on the fear that so many ships now in the Hawaiian trade would go to the Philippines as not to leave enough to carry Hawaiian sugar at present rates. The shipping interests replied by submitting a list of more than thirty vessels of American registry which were ready to enter the Philippine trade as soon as foreign ships were excluded from it.

"Some of them have carried sugar," was the only answer given to the question as to how many would suit the purpose of the Hawaiians.

The acting chairman then proposed that the list should be checked off by representatives of these interests. The list was handed today to W. M. Alexander, the sugar factor, with offices in Honolulu, San Francisco and New York. To select from it those ships suited for carrying sugar, is not easy, as it contains a number of vessels newly launched, and several that are very old.

CREATION OF STATES.

THE PRESIDENT INTERESTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The President in the last week, has had several conferences with Senators and Congressmen who are interested in the proposition to create new States. It is believed to be the President's solution of the problem that two new States be created, one from Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, and one from the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona. In this, he is in agreement, at least so far as Oklahoma and the Indian Territories are concerned, with the Senate Committee on Territories. The idea of the creation of only two States does not meet the approval of the people in the Territories, and their objection to it may delay Statehood legislation.

It is pointed out that it is not urged by the President, that all the people, including Indians, in the Indian Territory, shall be admitted as citizens immediately, but that gradually, as the Indians become qualified for citizenship, they may be accorded the rights of citizenship, and, that eventually, perhaps the Indian Territory should be made into a separate State.

THE CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—SENATE—The Senate, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, took up the Philippine shipping. Mr. Allison's amendment, deferring until July 1, 1905, the time when the portion of the measure requiring that merchandise from the United States for the Philippines shall be carried only in American vessels shall go into effect was the first subject of consideration. Mr. Carmack sought to have the time still further extended.

SUGAR AND TOBACCO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The debate was participated in by Messrs. Lodge, Patterson and Platt of Connecticut, and turned on the interpretation of the preferences of Secretary Taft, recently Governor of the Philippines. It was stated that he had expressed a willingness that the proposed law should be enacted in case the tariff on Philippine products was revised. It was intimated that the tariff reduction could be accomplished by the short session of Congress, but Mr. Carmack contended that in a short session this would be impossible.

Mr. Patterson accepted the suggestion of a revision of the Philippine tariff as a threat of another raid on sugar and tobacco, and said the friends of the sugar and tobacco industries would resist every effort of that kind by all legitimate parliamentary tactics. He predicted that a bill of the kind, if an administration measure and presented by Mr. Lodge, would receive unanimous support of the Republican side.

"Not necessarily," Mr. Platt of Connecticut interrupted to say, and Mr. Patterson replied that it had been uniformly so in the past. Mr. Platt said, however, that he would join in the effort to defeat any measure that would so far reduce the tariff on Philippine sugar as to interfere with the American sugar interest.

Mr. Carmack predicted that there would be a sugar lobby in Washington sufficient to insure the defeat of any legislation at the short session, and said that Secretary Taft had been misled if he had been made to believe the reduction desired by him could be secured next session. Mr. Carmack contended that there had been no adequate returns for the $600,000 spent by the United States on the Philippines, which he pronounced "The most worthless possession that ever rotted under a tropical sun."

Mr. Lodge said in reply to Mr. Patterson that he never had undertaken to give assurance to Secretary Taft that Philippine tariff reduction legislation could be secured next session, but added that if the House should send over such a measure he would support it.

A motion by Mr. Lodge to lay on the table an amendment by Mr. Carmack postponing the operation of the bill until 1906, was carried by 37 to 11.

Mr. Allison's amendment, deferring the time to 1905, was then agreed to without division.

At Mr. Mallory's suggestion, the bill was amended so as to except supplies for the army and navy, so as to prevent conflict with the bill regulating the shipment of government supplies, which was passed yesterday.

Mr. Teller read a letter from Secretary Taft declining to supply an individual Senator's testimony taken before him on the Philippine question, and saying that he would furnish it to the chairman of the Committee on the Philippines. He said this was a new rule within his experience.

Mr. Hale said the hearing had been informal, and he expressed the opinion that Secretary Taft had not intended to establish a new rule of action.

Mr. Patterson offered as a substitute a bill reducing the duty on goods imported from foreign countries in American-built vessels, and spoke in support of it. At this point, a large number of private pension bills were passed. At 4:50 o'clock p.m. the Senate went into executive session to permit Mr. Spooner to report the Cuban treaty from the Committee on Foreign Relations, and at 4:55 o'clock again reopened the doors.

The Senate adjourned at 5:28 p.m.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—HOUSE—The House today resumed consideration of the District of Columbia Bill in committee of the whole.

ITEMS DISCUSSED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Mr. Cowherd (Dem.) of Missouri was not willing that the district Coroner be included in the list of public officials who shall be provided with a horse and carriage, and on his motion the bill was amended, striking out the provision for horse hire for that official.

The municipal building item aroused extended discussion, owing to the proposal of the committee to house all branches of the district government in one structure. Objection was urged especially to placing these courts in the new building. Efforts to amend this provision failed.

Mr. Bartlett of Georgia proposed an amendment fixing the rates to be charged the district for telephone at from $25 to $50 each per annum, alleging the existence of an "extortionate monopoly." This was amended so that no rates in excess of those provided for the district can be charged by any company for telephones in private residences, under penalty of a forfeiture of rights.

Mr. Hepburn said no attention had been paid to the act of Congress fixing telephone rates and that no penalty clause had been provided for its enforcement. The amendment, as amended, was adopted without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Cowherd sought to strike out the provision in the item for medical inspectors for the public schools, requiring that four of the number shall be of the colored race, saying that the commissioners had not been able to find four negroes qualified for the places. The amendment was lost.

The House, at 5:10 p.m., adjourned until tomorrow.

LAND FRAUD INDICTMENTS.

LOS ANGELENOS MENACED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Another batch of indictments may be expected from the Federal grand jury soon in connection with land frauds in the West. Somebody in California has recently given the Interior Department a great amount of inside information about the workings of land-stealing men, and as a result of this information several persons in California have been summoned to appear before the grand jury in Washington to give testimony.

If the information that has come into possession of the government proves correct, several Californians, including the members of an important law firm in Los Angeles, will be indicted.

WOULD PROSECUTE HEATH.

HOW MR. ROBB FEELS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Senate Committee on Postoffices and Postroads today heard Atty.-Gen. Robb of the Postoffice Department in advocacy of a bill to prohibit "guessing contests" carried on by newspapers and others. This bill was prepared in the Postoffice Department and introduced by Senator Penrose. During the course of Mr. Robb's statement, the subject of the postoffice investigation was referred to, Senator Culberson asking if some men had not been protected by the statute of limitations.

Mr. Robb said he believed such was the case.

Senator Culberson then asked if Perry S. Heath was not one of those protected by the statute.

Mr. Robb answered in the affirmative, adding that on account of the position which Heath occupied, both officially and politically, he would have been glad to have prosecuted him.

Senator Scott at this juncture declared that Mr. Robb was going outside of his province in making such a statement. He declared that the Postmaster-General did not authorize him to make any such statement, and would disapprove of his doing so.

Senator Scott moved that all reference to the matter be stricken from the record. This motion was carried by a strict party vote.

BROKE THE QUORUM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Senator Clay moved to report favorably a resolution introduced some time ago by Senator Penrose, calling for a Congressional investigation of the Postoffice Department. On this motion, the four Democrats present and Senator Penrose voted yea, and five Republicans voted in the negative. Senator Penrose again put the motion, and all of the Republicans, except Chairman Penrose, withdrew, breaking the quorum. Some Republicans were absent on other committee duty.

LUMBER MEN AT WHITE HOUSE.

SPEECH BY THE PRESIDENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The twelfth annual convention of the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association was begun here today. There are more than two hundred lumbermen in attendance. The members called at the White House during the day, where they were received by the President, who, after extending to each of his callers a cordial greeting, made a brief speech. He said:

"The lumber interests are entirely apart from the mining interests—gold, coal, iron—whatever it is. All you have got to do there is to take it out of the ground; once it is out, you are through with it. I hope more and more our people will grow, under the lead of this organization, to understand that it must not be so with our forests; that it is not a case of cutting a forest down and being through with it; that if we are to make our lumber interests permanent, as they should be made, our object must be to conserve the forest by wise use.

"I have welcomed every opportunity to try to put the forestry experts of the government into closer touch with you gentlemen because you are practically engaged in this great business; because I hope that from their association with you will come a furthering of the indispensable process which is to result in making this industry a permanent industry in the country, instead of having it one which represents the skinning of a certain quantity of forest and then moving elsewhere."

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Appointed to Feudist's Place.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Charles L. Jones, whose nomination as postmaster at Junction, Ark., was confirmed today, succeeded E. Parnell, who resigned on the ground that he was afraid he would become a victim of the Parnell-Tucker feud.

"Gen. Prym" in the Field.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—That the embers of revolution still smoulder in the Philippines is suggested by a recent report to the War Department from Gen. Wood, to the effect that a rebel styling himself Gen. Prym has issued a commission to Ricarte as lieutenant-general of Northern Luzon. Little is known here of Prym, and it is hoped that the movement is nothing more than a brigand demonstration. Ricarte's whereabouts are unknown, and the Philippine constabulary is looking for him.

Castro Wants a Talk.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Gen. Hernandez, the Venezuelan Minister to this country, has received a brief communication that President Castro desires him to return home for a conference "on certain matters that it is easier to talk than to write about." The Minister expects to leave Washington shortly.

Preserving the Seals.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representative Robinson of Indiana today introduced the resolution directing the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to suspend at once and indefinitely the killing of fur seals on the Pribyloff Islands, Alaska.

Count Mutsu Better.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—At the Japanese Legation today it was stated that Count Mutsu, who was operated on two days ago for appendicitis, is progressing satisfactorily.

Treaty With Cuba Unamended.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations today agreed to report without amendment the treaty on relations with Cuba, the provisions of which include the Platt amendment.

DIES IN HIS PRIME.

Dr. L. D. Scherer Succumbs to Disease Which Had Puzzled Members of His Own Profession.

Dr. L. D. Scherer died last night at his home, southeast corner Jefferson street and McClintock avenue, after an illness of many weeks' duration, the nature of which could not be determined even by members of his own profession. For more than ten days it had been known that the end was near, but the patient rallied occasionally and for a time there was hope of his recovery. Within the last two days there had been a gradual sinking and late last night he passed away painlessly. Those who were watching could not tell at what moment the final summons came.

Dr. Scherer had come to Los Angeles several years ago hoping to find here rest from his arduous labors in his eastern home. For a time he did not engage in practice, but after a time several families from his old home arrived here and insisted that he attend them professionally. These patients spread his fame among their friends, and in time his practice grew until he became one of the most generally known physicians in that section of the city. The night was never too stormy, the distance never too great, the case never too doubtful to deter him from answering a call, and among the scores whom he attended he was considered more a member of the family than a physician.

Overwork caused his last illness. He caught cold on one of his trips to the house of a poor patient and followed it by a visit to two other patients. For weeks he had less than two hours sleep a night, and the strain told. Several months ago he became ill and for a time his condition was very serious. He partly recovered and resumed his practice, but was unable to keep up the pace which he had set before, and his endeavor to renew his practice resulted in a relapse. Hoping to recover his strength he went to Long Beach, but two weeks ago he was brought back to Los Angeles a dying man.

Scores of families in various parts of the city will learn of his death with sorrow second only to that which would be caused by death in the home. The funeral arrangements have not been made. Dr. Scherer leaves a widow, a son and a daughter, all of whom were with him when he passed away.

KIDNAPED BY BRIGANDS.

Dan Cushing Carried Across the Rio Grande Into Mexico Where He Is Held for Heavy Ransom.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dan Cushing, the younger brother of E. B. Cushing, superintendent of maintenance of way of the Southern Pacific Railroad, was kidnaped at a remote point in West Texas last night by a band of Mexican brigands, and was carried across the Rio Grande into Mexico, where he is being held for heavy ransom. Gov. Lanham ordered out a detachment of State rangers, and these and a posse of local officers are in close pursuit of the outlaws.

Young Cushing was residing temporarily in West Texas for the benefit of his health, and was operating a pumping plant on the banks of Devil's River for the Southern Pacific when the kidnaping occurred. He left a note stating that he had been overpowered by a band of armed men, who said that they intended to hold him for ransom.

THE TIMES-MIRROR COMPANY.

A LOGICAL OUTCOME.

Charles Lane, representative of an eastern publication, has made an exhaustive investigation in Montana and other Western States as to the present strength of labor organization in that section. In a St. Paul dispatch Mr. Lane is quoted as giving some of the results of his investigations. "Throughout the West," Mr. Lane is quoted as saying, "I find that the unions are preying on the working classes through insistence on extravagant rules and outrageous charges for every service, and are losing all respect. I should say," he added, "that unions are 40 per cent. less powerful than two years ago, when I was last through that section."

This view coincides with facts and indications which have heretofore been cited in these columns. It may be that the actual records of union membership do not show losses. There may have been, as is claimed, some gains in the number of persons affiliated with the unions. But bare statistics of membership cannot be made to show the losses of prestige which are in fact the most serious losses of unionism. Moreover, vast numbers of members are in the unions unwillingly, through coercion or in pursuance of a policy which amounts to coercion.

Formerly, to a considerable extent, the unions had the sympathy and support of a large portion of the public. This was before the public understood the true character of their aims and methods. In fact, during the earlier days of union development the aims and purposes of unionism were by no means so prejudicial to the public good as they have become of late years. Before the era of federations each union stood on its own feet and fought out its battles with its employers on the merits of the questions at issue, sometimes winning and sometimes losing. Not infrequently the cause of the strikers had so large an element of justice that it commanded the public sympathy, and in such cases the strikers generally won.

But this was before the days of the walking delegate and the sympathetic strike. There was generally some ground for striking that had at least an appearance of reasonableness, and strikes were ordered only upon a vote of the unions directly involved. Now all this is changed. In many cases strikes are ordered without a vote of the men directly concerned. The walking delegate, or "business agent," orders men to quit work at his pleasure, for cause and for no cause. Often the men who slavishly obey these peremptory orders have no idea why they are ordered to quit work. If there is trouble in one branch of industry men in another branch are thrown out of work by wholesale without any sufficient cause, to the great demoralization of business in general and to the serious loss of many persons who are in no wise connected with the original cause of trouble. In addition to these and other annoyances without number, there is the element of lawlessness that accompanies all large strikes of the present time. Life and property are no longer held sacred by unionists when a strike is in progress, and the law itself is held in supreme contempt.

For the rapidly-growing distrust of unionism, and the increasing public disgust with its methods, the unions themselves are responsible. The public condemnation which they are fast bringing upon themselves is the logical outcome of their misuse of the power which they had acquired, for good or for evil. This power, which might have been exercised wholly for good, has been exercised almost wholly for evil. All the claims set up so ostentatiously by unionists, and on their behalf, to the effect that they are seeking to "elevate" labor and to benefit workingmen, in an abstract sense, have been proven false. It has been made more and more apparent that the unions care nothing for the cause of labor in the abstract, and that all their battles are fought to advance their own selfish interests; not for the benefit of labor in any broad sense, but in reality to gain advantages at the expense of labor in the true and generic sense.

Thus the mask has been stripped from the hypocritical pretenders of the Gompers-Mitchell-McCarthy-Lynch-Schmitz type, who have sought to serve the devil in the livery of heaven, and they stand revealed in their true character. It is not to be wondered at that since the fraud has been exposed those who sought to perpetrate it have lost or are rapidly losing the public respect. The result was inevitable. As the immortal Lincoln remarked, "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time."

RAIN PROBABILITIES.

Since the last review of the weather situation appeared in these columns we have had another good soaking rain, amounting in Los Angeles to .73 inches. Fortunately this season the small amount of rain that has fallen has not been taken out of the ground immediately afterward by desiccating winds, as sometimes happens. In some sections of Southern California considerably more rain fell than in Los Angeles, and in a few sections less. The heaviest rainfall, as a rule, was in the section north of Los Angeles, although in some cases there was a marked difference in the amount of rainfall in this city and at places quite near by, as reported by local observers. For instance, the observer at Sierra Madre, only about twelve miles from Los Angeles, reports a fall of over two inches.

This rain brings the total rainfall of the season, from September 1 to February 29, up to 3.25 inches, an exceptionally small amount. About the only previous season during the past twenty-five years when the rainfall has been so small as this for the same period was in 1898-99, when the total rainfall of the season amounted to only 5.53 inches, the smallest on record for twenty-five years. In that season the rainfall from September 1 to February 29 amounted to only 2.91 inches, or somewhat less than this season. The next lightest rainfall of a season was in 1893-94, when the total was only 6.74 inches. In that season, however, the rainfall up to the end of February amounted to 6.03 inches, or nearly twice as much as this season.

Reports from the surrounding country state that pasture is beginning to show up well, and grain is coming forward encouragingly, but heavy rains will yet be needed to insure even a fair crop of anything but hay. There still remain two months in which we have a chance of getting several inches more of rain. The average rainfall for March is 2.72 inches, the lowest being 2.01 in 1885, and the highest 12.26, in 1884, when the total rainfall for the season amounted to over 38 inches. In 24 hours March, 1883-4, 3.18 inches of rain fell. In March, 1893, the rainfall amounted to 8.52 inches. People who lived at that time down by the river bed will not soon forget that season, during which several people were drowned in the Los Angeles River. Besides those two years, there have been ten years out of the past twenty-five in which the rainfall for March exceeded 2 inches, and only nine years in which it was less than an inch. Taking the five seasons in which less than 10 inches of rain fell during the season, we find that the rainfall of March has been respectively, .01, .37, 2.97, .98, 1.81, and .99, an average of 1.19 inches, so that we may reckon, with reasonable probability, on a rainfall of at least an inch during the present month, and possibly we may have two or three times as much.

For the month of April the average of twenty-five years is 1.10 inches. The heaviest was 5.06 in 1880, and the lowest 0.2 in 1897. For four consecutive years, from 1884 to 1887, the April rainfall was exceptionally large, being 3.58 in 1884, 2.01 in 1885, 3.32 in 1886, and 2.36 in 1887. Besides these years there were four years in which over an inch fell in the month of April.

The recent catching at Avalon of a record-breaking yellowtail of fifty pounds, the largest by two pounds ever caught with rod and reel, suggests once more the fact that Catalina Island fish stories have probably done as much as any one thing, outside of the Chamber of Commerce and the Midwinter Times, to advertise Southern California throughout the world. Catalina Island is a mighty good advertisement for this section.

FIGHTING THE BOYCOTT.

The American Anti-Boycott Association, organized in June, 1902, by 100 manufacturers and employers of labor in this country for the purpose of resisting boycotts, is doing a great work throughout the East in destroying this nefarious practice of unionism. The association now has a membership of about 225 of the most prominent concerns in the country, whose aggregate pay roll exceeds $85,000,000. The association is rapidly extending both the scope of its work and the size of its membership, and is gaining ground in the West as fast as its purposes become known and the importance and value of its work are appreciated. Its operations are chiefly conducted through the office of the secretary, Charles Biggs, No. 13 Astor Place, New York City.

This organization is in many respects unlike any other of its class. It does not necessarily oppose unions, except in so far as they seek to destroy individual liberty and good citizenship. Its principal function is to prevent boycotts, if possible, and to crush such as arise. Its endeavors are directed to provide against the boycott of any of its members, the boycott of the product of its members, the boycott of non-union workmen; and the expenditure of its funds in fighting the boycott is limited to counsel, court and witness fees and incidental expenses.

The association believes that public opinion will sustain an appeal to the courts for the punishment of conspirators who are trying to subvert our system of government by interfering with good cfitizenship, individual liberty, the right of any citizen to work for a livelihood and the youth to acquire a trade.

The organization does not contemplate the raising of funds to be disbursed for the assistance of members suffering from strikes, but will confine itself to aiding its members in securing legal protection for themselves and employes. It is proposed to secure this protection largely through the injunction or conviction of boycotters.

This association appears to have entered the campaign in a deliberate, carefully-considered and thoroughly praiseworthy manner. Its greatest strength, and the feature which must appeal strongly to American freemen, lies in the fact that it stands solely and squarely upon the law of the land. Itself law-abiding, it proposes to do what it can to make all others law-abiding, very naturally directing its attention to those with whom it comes into closest contact and who are admittedly in need of a restraining and guiding hand.

There is little doubt that its work will be welcomed and supported throughout the West, as it is in the East.

Booker T. Washington is right when he declares that the barbarous burnings of negroes at the stake "are more disgraceful and degrading to the people who inflict the punishment than to those who receive it," and that "if the law is disregarded when a negro is concerned, it will soon be disregarded when a white man is concerned." There is but one safe way—respect the law, and enforce it with impartial justice.

The March number of the American Monthly Review of Reviews contains an article on "Desert Irrigation in the Far West," by Lewis R. Freeman of Pasadena (now on the Pacific Ocean en route around the world.) The article is illustrated with numerous halftones, and is an instructive and striking object lesson in the development of agricultural wealth, as it is now in progress in the Colorado River country.

"Nothing," says the Berlin Chamber of Commerce, in its last annual report, "can take the place of American bacon as a cheap and nutritious article of food for the masses of our population." Vegetarians, of whom there are a great many in the Fatherland, will take exception to this statement.

Congress is preparing to investigate the beef trust. The general consensus of opinion is that the beef trust stands as much in need of investigation as any monopoly in the country. Let the light of publicity be turned into the dark places.

And so Mayor Snyder doesn't favor dumping the library bond proposition into the waste can—but when it comes to selling library bonds in the present condition of the market, it isn't a case of "can," it's a plain case of can't.

It is reported that the Dominican revolutionists are hoping that Uncle Sam will interfere. If this really takes place, it will be but a short time until they will be hoping for interference more than ever.

It appears that the first digging Uncle Sam will do on the canal will be in the Treasury Department. He is expected to put up $50,000,000 in the next thirty days. But he certainly has the money.

The anti-injunction bill, now pending before Congress, ought to be entitled "a bill to legalize thuggery." If it should become a law, that would be the principal result which it would accomplish.

One of Dreyfus's counsel is in Los Angeles, and is to deliver a lecture. He will not, however, endanger international peace by trying to tell us anything further about the Dreyfus case.

The Diet will convene in Tokio on March 18, but that does not mean that the Japanese are intending to use crow as the chief article.

It is said that Patti always speaks of Los Angeles nowadays as a place where newspaper ingenues eat breakfast before night.

The prompt arrest of the crank who threatened to murder Mr. Huntington and blow up his whole works, was a creditable piece of business by the county authorities. The fellow may be harmless in fact, but he is only safe when behind the bars. It is a tremendous blunder to allow such mouth-frothing lunatics to run at large.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Euterpeans' Journey.

If present plans are carried out Los Angeles will be represented at the St. Louis exposition by an aggregation of well-known local singers—the Euterpean Quartette.

The four men comprising this body are considering an offer to make a concert trip throughout the entire West, beginning in May. Their route lies to the eastward, through most of the larger cities, finally ending in Chicago.

After filling their engagement in the Lake City, they will go to St. Louis, and remain throughout the summer months. Several local soloists—instrumental and vocal—will accompany the quartette.

Joseph Dupuy, first tenor and director, will probably not return to Los Angeles with the rest of the body, as he contemplates a trip to the home of his fathers, in Southern France. After this he will spend the remainder of the year in Paris, returning to his home in this city in the spring of 1905.

The present roster of the Euterpeans—the oldest organized male quartette organization in Los Angeles—contains the names of four pioneer residents. They are Joseph P. Dupuy, F. E. Ney, Louis Zinnamon and Frank W. Wallace. These men have been singing together here ever since 1890.

Italian Band.

The Italian Band last night gave a programme of especial local interest, which was warmly applauded by the large and fashionable audience gathered in the Chutes Theater.

All but three of the numbers were new compositions, some of them by members of the band, and a few of them written especially for the occasion. On the list was a dainty waltz by Jaro von Schmidt, entitled "A Summer Girl." This, appropriately given with the light rythm of Chiaffarelli's magic baton, so pleased the listeners that they enthusiastically demanded a repetition of the entire composition. Another melodic sketch that caught on was a new twostep by Donatelli, entitled "Off for the Chutes." The Italian harmonist has steered clear of the almost invariable coonsong influence, and has written a bright ballroom number in the flowing meter of his own land.

De Mitris had a trumpet solo, but the lip of this solo player was so badly swollen that he could scarcely manage his instrument, although he got through the number well. His only slip came in the vorspiel to "Parsifal," a difficult Wagnerian number, which has only been played twice by them. W. F. Chambers contributed a march entitled "Los Angeles;" oboe soloist, Ferullo, had an intermezzo; Chiffarelli had a new "Ave Maria," and Curti, euphonium soloist, had a pensive little composition entitled "Sad Thoughts."

The magnificent "Faust" fantasie was never given better than last night, and scored a hit. The "Lucia" sextette closed the performance. The "Parsifal" number was an excellent attempt, and had it been not quite so new, with De Mitris's lip in healthy shape, it, too, would have been a success.

Tonight.

Mary Golden, late of Boston, will make her first Los Angeles appearance at Simpson Auditorium tonight. She comes with good recommendations as a soprano of high merit, and is said to possess a voice of excellent natural quality perfected by the best of training. Her programme for this evening includes a comprehensive list of soprano numbers, the singer possessing the added advantage of familiarity with French, English, Italian and German. She will be assisted by a number of familiar local artists, among them the Euterpean Quartette.

Miss Blanche Rogers will give her fourth chamber concert at her own studio-auditorium this evening. F. W. Wismer, viola, will assist.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

New Theater.

Managerial talk has it that another new theater will soon be on its upward way here.

The backers of the infant enterprise are said to be the proprietors of the Tivoli Operahouse in San Francisco. They have been negotiating for the old Downey property, just north of the Main-street Van Nuys, and may begin the erection of a theater at once.

Nobody is in town just now who can exactly tell the plans of the mysterious enterprise, but it is probable that a company for the production of comic opera in first-class style will be brought from San Francisco—perhaps the opening group being the renowned Tivoli players themselves.

If the theater is built, it means war. There is not room for another playhouse of the first class at present. The field is already full, and if the new arrivals plan for comic opera one or two of the local managers intend to beat them on their own ground by starting first.

—o—

Gold Brick.

Beau Brummell, do you remember the various giddy things you saw at the gorgeous Weberfields "Whoop-Dee-Doo" production last week?

Doubtless, you thought you were seeing "Whoop-Dee-Doo," the latest offering of the famous little New York playhouse of this comic pair. That's probably what most of the other auditors thought—those of us who are not familiar with the latest Weber and Fields productions—but now the wise ones come along, and tell us that we were fooled.

Now we are informed that this "Whoop-Dee-Doo" show was just the whooping little joke of Weber and Fields. The auditor is quietly told that what he saw was a revised edition of "Twirly-Whirly," a Weberfields success of some time ago. "Whoop-Dee-Doo" is said by a traveling theatrical men to have been a stark failure. New York of course wouldn't stand for the insertion of old gags and "business," being fastidious and familiar. These same would do, however, for the road, and went very well in California.

It was a good evening's laugh, but the ridiculous airship entrance was what made the original success of "Twirly-Whirly;" the choking scene, which caused so many risible spasms at the Grand the closing night of last week, was also a part of the same production.

Men familiar with the Weber and Fields productions in their home city assert that many of the lines and almost entire scenes were taken from the older sketch.

Forgot His Speech.

CARLSBAD (Cal.) March 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The story published in the Indianapolis Journal and copied in the Sunday Times recently about Maj. James E. Macklin reminds an old comrade of the time when Jimmie was not a major in the regular army, but just a "broth of boy" commencing a military career which has lasted well onto half a century.

Macklin was eighth corporal and I think the youngest recruit in Co. B, Sixteenth Indiana Infantry, which was raised at Richmond, or Quaker Town, Ind., in 1861. He was a general favorite and had the "gift of gab," and when a sword and belt were to be presented to the captain, just before we started to Virginia, he was selected to make the presentation address.

The company was drawn up with Capt. Lee looking very uncomfortable at the head. Macklin, with sword and belt, advanced to the front. He looked at the captain and grinned. Capt. Lee pulled his long black beard nervously and looked expectantly at the corporal. Finally Jimmie cut loose, but not with his carefully-prepared speech. In lieu came "What is, what am; what's Garibaldi got to do with it?"—a gag from a minstrel show the previous night. The only original remark was the concluding: "Here, take your old toad sticker." Capt. Lee, delighted that he was relieved from a formal acceptance, took the sword and said: "That was a bully speech, Jimmie. Let's all have some beer." OLD VET.

The Markets of the Orient.

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) Feb. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In addition to the fact that by the possession of the Philippines we are property holders in the Orient and are thereby vitally interested in the duration and outcome of the present war between Russia and Japan, is the further fact the commerce of the countries fronting on the scene of hostilities is of the value of $600,000,000 yearly, in which we share to the extent of $110,000,000. Beyond this already large result is the additional fact that success to the Japanese arms means that western methods of business development will be introduced, leading to a large expansion of the commerce of the countries affected. Being, as we are, persona grata with both China and Japan, it is reasonable to anticipate that we will share, perhaps more largely than any other country, in such expansion.

If, as we should hope, Japan succeeds in keeping Russia with her closed-door policy out of Korea and drives her out of Manchuria, it means the sale of more American goods to both Korea and Manchuria and also to Japan.

In 1902 the imports of Manchuria amounted to about $11,000,000, American. The Chinese records are not kept to enable us to specify completely the American goods entered at Newchwang—Manchuria's principal port—but in four articles, American drills, jeans, sheetings and kerosene oil, our totals in recent years were as follows, in haikwan taels:

1897	3,426,000
1898	3,645,000
1899	6,359,000
1900	2,213,000
1902	6,118,000

The haikwan tael being worth 81 cents American in 1896, 70 cents in 1898, 72 cents in 1901 and 62 cents in 1902. These figures give us, for the four articles named, more than a one-third interest in Manchuria's imports for 1900-1902. Our new treaty with China opens her additional ports of entry in Manchuria. If this leverage is accompanied with a removal of the present Russian control of all things Manchurian, both American and Japanese trade in that rich but undeveloped province of China will speedily and largely increase. Besides selling more goods there ourselves we shall also share in Japan's increased Manchurian trade. Japanese houses will carry larger stocks of American goods and fill most of the smaller orders by reason of proximity. The record of Japan's trade with us since 1881, compared with her trade with Great Britain, proves that the Japanese houses and foreign merchants favor American goods. It will answer our purpose to quote 1881 and each fifth year since, as follows:

	Bought of U. S.	Bought of Gt. Britain.
1881	$390,000	$8,182,000
1886	1,679,000	6,351,000
1891	3,420,000	9,998,000
1896	8,186,000	29,600,000
1901	21,384,000	25,277,000
1902	24,326,000	25,182,000
1903	22,500,000	24,250,000

Here is $21,610,000 increase for us in 1903 over 1881, against $16,068,000 increase for Great Britain. In 1881 our share of Japan's total imports was 5.72 per cent., against 52.57 per cent. for Great Britain, while in 1902 we got 14.2 per cent. and Great Britain 13.6 per cent. This result demonstrates that at this juncture of affairs our chief commercial interest lies with Japan. When Korea, the "Hermit Nation," comes out of her shell, as she will under Japanese tutelage, good results may be expected from that country of advantageous position. Even as it is our Korean commerce was $400,000 last year.

Grouped, our 1903 sales to the countries vitally interested in the present struggle were as follows:

Japan	$22,500,000
China	14,970,000
Asiatic Russia	716,000
Korea	370,000
Russian China	846,000
Total sales	$39,402,000
Our purchases were:
Japan	$45,510,000
China	24,985,000
Asiatic Russia	61,000
Korea	114,000
Russian China	6,000
Total purchases	$70,676,000
Add total sales	39,402,000

Total commerce for 1903...$110,078,000

Of this only $1,629,000 was with Russia's interests in all Asia, while $65,000,000 was directly with Japan.

The figures quoted above are issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics.

Colored Baptists Preparing to Improve Their Institution Site at Vineland With Commodious Building.

The colored Baptists of Southern California, organized under the name of the Western Baptist Association, purpose setting a good example to the colored race by caring for its aged and indigent members.

About a year ago the Association secured a tract of twenty acres of fine land at Vineland, to be a site for a home for aged people. The land is to be set to trees and small fruits, and there is at present on the place a farmhouse that can be used temporarily for the work to be established. Plenty of water is developed, and a tank and windmill furnish the supply for irrigation.

Rev. C. H. Anderson, pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Los Angeles, has been appointed by the Western Baptist Association to start the movement for a commodious new home, and he is engaged in raising funds for this purpose.

The association will hold its annual meeting in this city next September, and it is expected the new institution will be opened at that time.

ALL IN FAVOR OF ROOSEVELT.

Expression of Sentiment in Many Districts.

Endorsed by All Republicans and Many Democrats.

This Part of the State and Arizona Solid.

To determine the attitude of Republicans throughout the State and Arizona toward the present national administration and President Roosevelt's renomination and election, The Times recently addressed a letter to prominent Republicans in the various cities asking for an expression on the subject.

These men, themselves closely in touch with political conditions in their respective districts and well posted, were asked to talk with and learn the sentiments of as many other Republicans as possible, in order to the better voice the feeling of their entire community.

From a reading of the appended excerpts from the many replies received by The Times, it will be apparent that the President may count upon the vigorous support of Republicans, and many members of other parties, throughout this section of the West, both in the Republican National Convention and at the polls, should he receive the nomination as now appears certain.

The Times' letter asked that particular note be made of the feeling in the community towards President Roosevelt; whether there is or is not a general sentiment in favor of his renomination and reelection, and whether there is any sign of a movement to send an adverse delegation to the national convention. The request was also made that the sentiment be learned not only of Republican politicians, and those who are likely to make up or influence delegations, but also of citizens generally, whether active politicians or not, whether of the Republican party or not. Extracts from the replies received follow:

CLAREMONT—ALL FAVORABLE.

The citizens of Claremont stand as a unit for the President's renomination and reelection. The members of the faculty of Pomona College continually bring to the attention of the students the many strong points in the President's character. He is regarded as the only possibility, and his election is conceded. If there were previously any doubt as to his standing here it was wholly removed when the President visited this place on May 9 last and delivered an address.

FERNANDO—FOR ROOSEVELT.

Everyone is highly pleased with the present head of the Republican party. Leading politicians assert that even a movement to nominate anyone but Roosevelt would mean defeat for the party. Many strong and influential Democrats say they will vote for the President, if he is renominated.

GLENDORA—SOLID DELEGATION.

Every Republican is for Roosevelt, uncompromisingly. The majority of sound-minded Democrats indorse the present administration, and some of them openly say they will vote for the President if given a chance. The delegation from here will unquestionably be solid for Roosevelt. No opposition is apparent.

ALHAMBRA—STRONG SENTIMENT

Public sentiment is unusually strong for Roosevelt for President. The best political judges here say there will be unanimous delegations for him from the precincts of San Gabriel, Alhambra and Shorb. Many Democrats will support him at the polls.

SOLDIERS' HOME—LOYAL.

Among active Republicans and Republican voters generally there is a unanimous sentiment in favor of the renomination and reelection of the President.

SAN PEDRO—SOLID.

Sentiment here is generally favorable to the renomination and reelection of President Roosevelt; no indications whatever of an adverse delegation to the convention.

BURBANK—PRACTICALLY A UNIT

Republican sentiment here is practically a unit for the President. Even among adherents of opposite political faith there is no special dissatisfaction with his administration.

AVALON—ISLANDERS INDORSE.

Not one Republican has been found here unfavorable to President Roosevelt, and even the Democrats concede he has made a good President.

ARTESIA—NINETY PER CENT.

Republicans are practically united in favor of the President, and probably 90 per cent. of all the voters in this section are favorable to him.

NORWALK—STRONGER WITH TIM

President Roosevelt is a greater favorite here now than he was four years ago. A prominent Democrat who was never known to vote a Republican ticket, said he wants to see Roosevelt the next President, and paid a high tribute to him as a man, and to his administration. Republicans are united for him.

NORWALK—STRONG WITH TIME.

There is no disposition among Republicans of Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock to send an adverse delegation to the national convention, and Republicans are unanimous and enthusiastic for the renomination and reelection of the President. Many Democrats have expressed themselves as ready to vote for Roosevelt, and to them will be added many more if the Democrats nominate an eastern man.

CAPISTRANO—A CLEAR ROAD.

At Capistrano there is a clear road for Roosevelt's nomination.

SANTA ANA—STANDS HIGH.

The attitude of local Republicans, and as far as can be learned, of all Orange county Republicans, is unanimously and unswervingly loyal to President Roosevelt, and to the administration. Sentiment among voters generally is favorable to Roosevelt's renomination and reelection, and there is no talk whatever of an adverso delegation. Democrats unite in paying tribute to the President's courage and sterling character, but there is a diversity of political opinion among them. One prominent Democrat says that in event of Roosevelt's nomination, he will secure 15 per cent. of the Democratic votes here; others say the Democrats will stand on party lines this year; while others openly say they will vote for Roosevelt if given the chance.

MONTALVO—ALL FAVORABLE.

Feeling here is decidedly in favor of President Roosevelt. There is no indication of any movement to send an adverse delegation to the convention. Republicans are united in favor of him, and many Democrats have been heard to say they will vote for him.

CARLSBAD—NO OTHER NAME.

Every Republican is unquestionably in favor of the President, and nearly every voter in the precinct has expressed himself as friendly to Roosevelt. The only two Democrats here acknowledge that of all Republicans they prefer Roosevelt.

BEAUMONT—NO QUESTION.

There is no suestion as to the sentiment of the delegation from here. It will be solid for Roosevelt. Republicans are unanimous for the President. The Democratic vote here will depend largely upon the Democratic nominee. It is probable that Roosevelt will receive considerable Democratic support here at the polls.

ARROYO GRANDE—WARM.

Republican leaders here are confident of and desire the President's renomination and election. The Democrats are divided; the strongest of them favor Roosevelt, but some old-time members of the party cannot break away from the faith. There is no sign here of an adverse delegation to the Republican convention.

CUCAMONGA—GREAT STRENGTH.

Republicans of this place are enthusiastically unanimous for Roosevelt. If nominated he will poll at least one-half the Democratic and independent votes here.

ARIZONA—IS IN LINE.

President Roosevelt is highly respected throughout this Territory by Democrats as well as by Republicans. The Republicans will send a delegation from this Territory instructed to vote for Roosevelt's nomination.

OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE NOTES.

Rev. Thornton B. Penfield, D.D., of New York, as the representative of the Evangelistic Committee of the General Assembly to Presbyterian Colleges, spoke at the chapel service yesterday morning. Dr. Penfield is a recent graduate of Columbia and is also an international secretary of the Y.M.C.A., which guarantees his ability as an active worker, but does not tell of the way in which he fell into the good feelings of the student body, for all were delighted with his pleasing and enthusiastic manner. Immediately after the address he was invited to take part in one of the most enthusiastic athletic rallies ever held at Occidental, which was in preparation for the meet with U.S.C. this afternoon at Fiesta Park. Hagerman, Hammack and Presidents Wadsworth were on the platform. The rally closed with "Three cheers for Penfield." Miss Harriet Brown, State student secretary of the Y.W.C.A., spoke at the young women's prayer meeting Tuesday morning.

William E. Roberts and L. V. C. Mytton addressed the Y.M.C.A. of the University of Southern California yesterday at their regular meeting. This is a continuation of the intercollegiate Y.M.C.A. visitation.

Dr. Penfield also appeared at a meeting yesterday afternoon before the men, discussing "Personal Work," and last evening he spoke at the prayer meeting of the Highland Park Church.

Skinner's guaranteed satin, 36 in. wide, $1.50. (Lining Dept.)

Antheres silk in black and all wanted colorings, 58c. (Lining Dept.)

Our windows show the very latest models in the half dozen most popular corsets sold on the Coast—Fasso, Redfern, Thompson's, Warner's, Rust Proof, Equipoise Waists. Something here to satisfy every whim of the most particular woman.

Young ladies' suits

Outer apparel for girls of 10 to 18 years gets scant attention in most stores. Different at Coulter's. Here are garments designed by experts who know how to clothe girlish figures—you can see that at a glance. In grace of style and perfection of tailoring they are fully equal to the garments made for the mothers. We've a splendid collection of new spring styles at $11 to $25. A word of two of them:

At eleven dollars—

Suits of fancy mixed cheviots; collarless Eton jacket, with shoulder capes; trimmings of braids and pipings; colors—gray, blue and brown.

At twenty-two fifty—

Suits of elegant blue cheviot; military square-cut coat, silk lined and braid trimmed—remarkably handsome.

Wash goods specials

New fabrics, these—just off the looms.

Yet the reductions are as heavy as you'd expect on last-season stuffs. It's the Coulter way of crowding sales, occasionally.

At 25c instead of 35c—

Imported organdies—some of the daintiest fabrics Germany has sent us. Very sheer stuffs in white grounds with large and small designs in colors—floral patterns predominating. All new and all remarkably good values at thirty-five cents. But today and Friday you may choose at 25c.

At 35c instead of 50c—

Big variety of new stripe cheviots, plain and fancy weaves, pretty colored stripes on white grounds—especially desirable for shirt waist suits. 38-inch width 35c; regularly 50c.

Spring underwear

Spring stocks of women's and children's knit underwear are ready. A showing that would do credit to any metropolitan store.

Children's medium light weight vests, pants and union suits—for boys or girls—in every right weave, at every right price.

Women's undergarments in every wanted texture. Sleeveless vests of silk or lisle with fancy crochet finish (as much as 3 inches wide, on some) at a dollar and higher. White, blue, pink or black.

Other fabrics for less, of course—as much less as you can safely go.

But no trash. Whatever you get at Coulter's is dependable.

Crepe Kimonos

Japanese crepe is certainly the ideal fabric for this most popular Japanese garment. Short Kimonos in red, blue, pink, or lavender trimmed with beautiful Persian bands, $1.50 and $1.75. Long Kimonos of the same, $3.

Spring waists

Today's showing is enormous. No good style or popular fabric missing. It's the choicest collection of silk and wash waists we ever gathered—and that's saying a good deal. Dollar twenty-five to twelve-fifty.

BEEN OVER TO HOLLYWOOD LATELY? GOING OVER TODAY, HEY?

Well, tell the conductor to let you off at Crown avenue, walk up to the head of the avenue, only a block; stop there and take in the situation. If it looks good, why, remember you are right in the center of Forest Glen. The cottage on the southwest corner is to be removed and replaced by the owner with a $10,000 residence to correspond with the rest of the district. Mr. Stoll will build a $10,000 home adjoining on the south. These and many others will be started just as soon as the rainy season is well over.

We have left just a few desirable residence lots, so we are not trying to see how many we can cut to the front, but how cheap we can sell them, for $10 down and $10 a month. They are one-half acre to one-acre lots, and prices are not high for such desirable property.

Do not fail to take this trip. Cars run every fifteen minutes any day, or on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 2 p.m. parlor cars Mermaid and Four Hundred make the trip to Hollywood, stops at Crown avenue, where tally-ho takes you up the avenue and through the Laughlin grounds, directly across the street from Forest Glen, or call at our office and we will drive you over. CLOSER TO LOS ANGELES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, March 2.—Closer business relations with Los Angeles was discussed at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trade last night. The subject was brought up by Secretary Ben Brundage. It was decided to leave the matter in his hands to be taken up with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce with a view to endeavoring to bring about coöperation between the two cities.

Los Angeles, the secretary said, is a city made up largely of moneyed men and men of influence. It is visited by men from the East and is a place where outsiders can be reached more easily than at almost any other point. Moreover, much of its immediate territory is not taken up, and there is no reason why it should not extend its relations to the southern end of the San Joaquin Valley. Bakersfield is too far removed from San Francisco for the latter city to take much interest in its welfare, and to do much for its advancement, hence he advocated closer business union with the metropolis of the Southwest.

"San Francisco interests," said he, "are more with the Sacramento and the Northern San Joaquin valleys, and it is there that the efforts of her people will go rather than to this southern extremity."

MAGIC OF FISTICUFFS.

"Young Corbett's" Stock Goes up Several Points.

Is Now a Six-to-ten Choice Over Jimmy Britt.

Judge a Winner at Oakland. Eastern Races.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The "Young Corbett"-Sullivan fight has produced a magical effect on the Corbett-Britt engagement, which is set for the 25th of this month. Corbett stock was booming, and there was some wagering which made him a 6-to-10 choice over Britt.

These figures are surprising, in view of the fact that, in all his fights, Britt has been the favorite. It is interesting, the ease with which the champion disposed of Sullivan. It impressed even the best friends of Britt, and they now have grave doubts as to the result of the coming fight.

Dave Sullivan was around feeling in good shape, despite his beating. He is another who is impressed with Corbett's showing.

"Corbett's the best man at his weight in the world," he said. "He had me beaten in the second round. After I got that awful wallop I was dizzy, and all in. Just wait until he hands that to Jimmy Britt, and he will never come back."

Sullivan left for Chicago, where he will start work for a match with Penny Yanger.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CLAREMONT, March 2.—All plans are perfected for the interscholastic field day to be held here Saturday. This will be a great track meet, said by some to be the largest ever held west of the Rocky Mountains. The idea was conceived by Coach Walter Hempel. Mr. Hempel has in his possession 180 entries for the day's events.

Half rates have been secured on the railroad. A table will be placed on the oval for the press correspondents; a score board ten feet square will be erected in front of the bleachers; scores will be marked after each event, so the crowd can see at a glance the competitive standing. Each contestant is to have a large number pinned to his back, so the audience can know who each man is. A handsome banner for the winning team is already made, and on display in Los Angeles; also another fine banner for the team winning the one-mile relay race. Handsome medals are being made for the winners—gold for first place, silver for second and bronze for third.

In the forenoon at 11 o'clock there will be a basket-ball game between the Los Angeles High School and Pomona College.

The order of the day is as follows: At 10 o'clock 1000 visitors expected from Los Angeles; students will show them around. At 11 o'clock basket-ball game. At 11:30 the teams will dine at Sumner Hall. A little later all the visitors will eat in a tent. At 1:30 the teams will assemble in their respective places in the gymnasium.

At 2 o'clock sharp will start the 120-yard hurdle race. The field and track events will be carried on at the same time.

The officials appointed are: Referee, George S. Sumner; starter and clerk of course, Walter Hempel; assistants, Noble and Newman; timers, Cadwalader, Roberts, Hendrickson; judges of finish, McMahon, W. Wharton, Seaver; judges of weights, Moorman, Davenport, McCormick; judges of jumps, Thomas, Hume, Davis; announcer, Eberle; scorer, Wallace Robb; marshals, Frisbee, Kepner, Metcalfe, Binkley, Weaver, C. Wharton, Goode, Bishop.

A special train will leave for Los Angeles after the field day.

CARNEY LEADER IN POOL MATCH.

LOCAL MAN PLAYS FINE GAME AND FORGES AHEAD.

Mowing Down Balls in Brilliant Style He Renews Hopes of Admirers, Cuts Kling's Advantage and Takes Command of Play Himself.

Joe Carney still leads in the championship pool match now being decided in this city. Last night, playing with his usual brilliancy, the local expert not only retained his lead of 35 balls gained Tuesday, but added nine balls to it and now leads John Kling by 450 balls to 406, being 44 balls ahead at the close of the first half of the match.

Carney the past two evenings of play has made a showing that probably could not be duplicated by any other pool player now before the American ublic, Alfredo De Oro not excepted. Carney's run of 83 Tuesday night is a world's record at continuous pool, being nine balls better than the famous performance of De Oro at Savannah, Ga., in 1901. In last night's play and during the 150 points previous, Carney would repeatedly take the balls after a clever safety break by Kling; would execute a long, difficult angle shot, and drive the cue ball back into the bunch, affording him a chance for a straight sweep of those remaining. Safety playing is almost impossible with such pair as the contestants now performing. Kling has been quite willing to take a chance throughout, and has not played quite as carefully as Carney at times. The local expert seldom fails to take advantage of every opening.

Though both the previous nights of play resulted in comparatively close scores, showing the closeness of the match, the battle was harder fought last night than during any preceding block of 150 balls. Carney opened with 16 in his first frame to Kling's 5, and in the third frame Kling began to sprint. When seven frames were put down things looked rather bad for Carney, the score standing 77 to 27 in the Chicago catcher's favor, but the local man proved himself a great player in adversity by catching his able opponent and passing him to the tune of 105 to 101 in the fourteenth frame. From that time to the finish Carney steadily drew ahead, despite Kling's most earnest efforts.

Carney's lead, though it may not be a commanding one, has put much faith into the hearts of his admirers, some of whom were scared the opening night. The young man displays commendable coolness and iron nerve, although the stake probably represents more to him than it does to Kling. Carney is really playing for fortune; if he defeats Kling in this match his future is settled, and he knows it. Whichever loses will not be disgraced, as pool experts say the present match is beyond question the finest exhibition of the game ever seen on the Pacific Coast, if not in the United States. The crowds have been composed mostly of pool enthusiasts who recognize and appreciate the fine points of the game, and to all such it has been a real treat. Tuesday night's scores:

Kling—14, 24, 23, 21, 36, 37, 50, 65, 65, 67, 79, 89, 97, 100, 101, 101, 101, 101, 101, 116, 115, 115.

Carney—1, 6, 21, 27, 37, 51, 51, 51, 66, 73, 82, 87, 93, 104, 117, 132, 147, 162, 177, 187.

Scratches—Kling, one in third and fourth; two in seventh; one in fifteenth, and in twentieth.

Carney—one in thirteenth and fourteenth.

Last night's scores:

Carney. 10, 19, 21, 22, 22, 22, 27, 38, 51, 66, 73, 75, 90, 105, 130, 124, 130, 130, 145, 150. Total for match—450.

Kling—5, 11, 24, 28, 53, 68, 77, 81, 81, 81, 90, 101, 101, 101, 111, 112, 120, 135, 135, 141. Total for match—406.

High runs—Carney, 35 (twice;) Kling, 44.

The battle will be resumed this evening at 8 o'clock.

FIELD MEET TODAY. ALSO A FOOT RACE.

This afternoon at 2:30 the track teams of Occidental and U.S.C. will meet in a field day competition at Fiesta Park, and as a special attraction the coaches, Winnie Cutter, and R. W. Wadsley, will run a fifty-yard dash for the Coast championship. There is little if any doubt that the winner will be entitled to claim the title. Wadsley is one of the most famous runners ever brought out in England, while Cutter's versatility in athletics extends to the sprints. He has done his hundred yards in even time.

Good records are looked for today in the broad jump and in the sprints.

JUDGE GETS HOME FIRST IN HANDICAP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—Judge proved to be a surprise at Oakland today by taking the $1000 handicap at odds of 12 to 1, beating a good field. He showed much improvement over his last effort, as, after running second to Celebrant, he drew away and won easily by four lengths from Proper, the heavily-played favorite. Gorgalette finished third. Amy J., carrying the colors of Walter Jennings, made her first appearance, and leading all the way, won the two-year-old race in a gallop. She was played from 10 to 1 to 8 to 1. Salable beat My Order a head for second money, while Eduardo and George P. McNear, the first and second choices, made a poor showing. G. W. Trahern, a 7-to-1 chance, led the field in the last race, while Eves G., the closing favorite, was outside the money. The weather was fine and the track slow. Summary:

Futurity course, selling: The Hawaiian, 99 (Travers,) 11 to 5, won; Royal White, 106 (Vanderbout,) 8 to 1, second; Distributor, 99 (Roach,) 12 to 5, third; time 1:14½. Harks, Ripper, Doris, Mendota and Orpheus finished as named.

Five and a half furlongs, selling: Hulford, 111 (Bee,) 9 to 10, won; Hoceo, 107 (J. Martin,) 18 to 5, second; Box Elder, 99 (Roach,) 18 to 5, third; time 1:10½. Vaughan, St. Yusuf, Cinnabar and Mary Dunn finished as named.

Four furlongs, purse: Amy J., 109 (J. Martin,) 8 to 1, won; Salable, 109 (Crosswaite,) 8 to 1, second; My Order, 109 (Travers,) 12 to 1, third; time 0:50. Eduardo, George P. McNear and Bob Ragon finished as named.

One mile and 100 yards, handicap: Judge, 93 (W. Daly,) 13 to 1, won; Proper, 123 (J. Martin,) 8 to 5, second; Gorgalette, 100 (Knapp,) 10 to 1, third; time 1:49¼. Celebrant, Modicum and Joe Lesser finished as named.

Six furlongs, selling: Mimo, 93 (Roach,) 13 to 10, won; El Piloto, 103 (Travers,) 8 to 1, second; St. Winifride, 90 (Vanderbout,) 5 to 1, third; time 1:16⅘. Mocorito and Watkins Overton finished as named.

One mile and seventy yards, selling: G. W. Trahern, 106 (J. T. Sheehan,) 7 to 1, won; Axminster, 104 (J. Martin,) 3 to 1, second; Oro Viva, 100 (Travers,) 14 to 5, third; time 1:48⅘. Col. Anderson, Eves G., and Lacy Crawford finished as named.

BRAGG'S ICE WAGON SPEED.

Pouter is Not Able to Keep Himself Warm.

Fustian Has no Trouble in Beating Golden Rule.

Bad Start Spoils Baby Race. Easy For Sea Air.

Bragg had about as much right to be in a horse race yesterday as an old maid has in a child-study club reading a paper on "Celluloid vs. Rubber for Teething Rings." In the matter of comparative relationship, however, Bragg had the excuse of being there because someone paid to get him in.

As might have been expected, he pouted like a school girl and couldn't run fast enough to get out of his own way. There was nothing behind him but daylight, for he started last, ran last all the way, and finished fifteen lengths behind the winner. One disgruntled tout declared that while going at top speed he was probably knocked off his stride when the sprinkling cart ran into him, but this may be considered a biased description of his race.

All this happened in the final event of the day, at a mile, in which were Sais, Greenock, Glennevis, Carnivol and Bragg. From the class of horses the sports found it a hard race to guess. On his race Tuesday when he ran a good second to Stuyve, Bragg was made an 8-to-5 favorite, and a good bunch of money went in on him. Glennevis was almost as well liked, while Sais was held at 3 to 1. It was all over after the break, for Hildebrand took Sais to the front and the St. Blaise colt went so far in a few jumps that the others could hardly see him during any part of the race. The big horse Greenock shot into second place at the half and finished that way, with Glennevis in the show place.

FUSTIAN FIRST AGAIN.

The other feature of the day was the defeat of Americano, Golden Rule and Pat Bulger by Fustian at 5 to 1. This one beat a lot of fair ones the other day at mile in 1:41, and the way he held it over the sprinters yesterday for six furlongs in 1:14, shows that he can step rapidly enough for any of them. He was always the best, for Mountain held him in a nice position until into the stretch and then turned him loose, winning easily from Golden Rule, who carried the heavy weight of 130 pounds. Americano was always the favorite after his easy victory last Monday, and might have won again but for Hildebrand's carelessness. Americano led from the start to the paddock gate and when his rider went to the bat in the final strides, he let Americano's head go and was passed by Fustian, Rule and Bulger. Pat was outrun all the way and his jock, L. Jackson, didn't help him a bit.

LUGO FLIES IN.

Lucky Baldwin's Felipe Lugo again defeated Pat Dunne's Golden Mineral at six furlongs in the second race, and the sports will soon arrive at the conclusion that Lugo is no fluke winner. Last Saturday, with 106 pounds to 102 for Mineral, Lugo beat him a neck in 1:14⅘. Yesterday Lugo picked up 115 pounds to 102 for Mineral and beat him three parts of a length in 1:13⅘. Hildebrand rode Lugo yesterday and Mountain was on Mineral. The mounts were just reversed from Saturday's race, so evidently it is the horse that wins and not the jockey in this case. Elwood was strongly played, but pouted like a child and refused to run within striking distance of any horse in front of him. Foncasta was prominent all the way, but the pace was too hot for him and he stopped in the stretch.

BABIES' BAD START.

The baby race was a miserable exhibition as a start and proved to be the easiest thing imaginable for Sea Air, the favorite. Hildebrand on his namesake fooled around the barrier long enough to get left and couldn't show what Yeager's colt could do. Jockey Boyd fell off Caroca at the post and there was a delay of ten minutes while Phillips was prepared as a rider. Baldwin's Sinicado ran Hilona to a standstill through the stretch in a fight for the place, which Hilona managed to hold.

The jump horse Quidado won the first race by a head from the favorite, Bassanio, Jockey Miles on the latter lumbering through the stretch like a sailor on land and riding all over the track. Sharpless looked all over a winner in the stretch with a lead of two lengths, but stopped to nothing before the end came.

Criss Cross took the fifth from a bad lot. The only feature of the race was the fine run of Sherry for third money at 25, 8 and 4. Annie Robinson, the hot tip, had about as much speed as a sawhorse, but managed to beat MacGyle out of last place at the finish.

Mrs. Bates and Lustig were high last night in the leap-year tournament now going on at the Monarch alleys. It was a banner night, the highest scores of the tourney were made, and the largest audience was present to cheer the ladies on.

Mrs. Bates and Lustig have a comfortable lead, and unless they fall down badly, they will win easily.

COLLEGE BASEBALL.
SATURDAY'S AMATEUR CONTEST.

All the amateur ball players in this end of the State are looking forward with a great deal of expectancy to the game next Saturday at Chutes Park between the St. Vincent team of this city and the Santa Clara College club. In a way, this game is for the college championship of the State.

The St. Vincent team has not lost a match game in the past three years, and has the phenomenal record of seventeen consecutive victories. It has played against every school and college team in this end of the State, and while its ambitions may seem high in tackling Santa Clara the local boys are confident they can win.

The superiority of Santa Clara in the baseball line is conceded by all the schools in the northern part of the State, and even with an occasional defeat it has managed to win about two-thirds of the games with Stanford and Berkeley during ten years. Such well-known professionals as Charley Doyle, Steffani, Graham, Cutter, Hogan and Keefe of the Sacramento team, and also Joe Corbett, were formerly members of the Santa Clara nine. The team of 1896 was the champion aggregation of the Coast, amateur or professional.

The game on Saturday will be called at 2 o'clock, and the line-up will be about as follows:

St. Vincent.		Santa Clara.
Campbell	catcher	McKane
Fitzwilliams	pitcher	Wallman
E. Moriarity	first base	Feeney
Blake	second base	Chase
M. Moriarity	third base	Griffith

Pack	center field	Ryan

LOCAL LABOR.

SMALL SHOW FOR EMPLOYER.

Painters and Paperhangers Demand Keys.

Assessment May Disrupt the Barbers' Union.

Epes Randolph Returns and Denies Strike.

April 1 has been named as the day when employing painters and wall-paper dealers will perforce turn over their shops to the walking delegates.

Painters', Paperhangers' and Decorators' Union, No. 267, has demanded the keys, and after April 1 contemplate running things to suit themselves.

But April 1 will likely prove to be All Fools day to certain painters, paperhangers and decorators. The employers have an alliance of their own, and are prepared to resist every demand of the union.

APPRENTICE RULE.

Here is a sample of the insolence of the laborites whose evident purpose is to corner the painting and paperhanging trade, and so prevent young men from entering upon lucrative employment. "One apprentice shall be allowed each shop on an average of five men, but two apprentices shall not be allowed a shop at any time." That's putting the screws upon both the employer and ambitious young men. And the new requirements also prohibit a journeyman from having an apprentice or helper at any time.

DAY WORK BARRED.

Without so much as conferring with their employers, the unionites further stipulate that men shall not be employed by the day, but that all work shall be piece work, and eight hours shall constitute a day. Furthermore, "all employés are restrained from calling at shop or job before 7:30 a.m."

Not satisfied with these exactions, the unionites further stipulate that "no member of the union shall be allowed to finish work where preparatory work has been done by non-union men or laborers." The last "regulation and trade rule" laid down by the employés for their employers is: "All employers must pay their employés on Saturday of each week in cash."

EMPLOYERS RESIST.

This doesn't look as though "the man who makes the pay roll is to carry the keys." But the employers in receipt of this new dictatorial schedule are not worrying in the least. "The demand will never be pressed," is the opinion in the office of every shop. Men have been engaged to take the place of every union man, and the moment one steps out there will be an independent workman to step into his place.

BARBERS ASSESSED.

Before the week closes there will be something doing in the barbers' union, and it may result in the complete disruption of the organization.

Sunday an assessment of $3.50 was levied upon every member of the union. This money is needed for the support of the branded fellows who "walked out" of Cooksey's and Kern's shops recently. The beer and cigarette supply has been greatly reduced since these men withdrew from their jobs, and their associates are expected to supply the lack.

But at this point trouble has already begun. The assessed barbers are vigorously protesting. The whole bunch declares that if the matter is forced to a showdown every man will quit the union. The assessment is regarded as unwarranted, and the claim is made that before the advent of imported agitators there was no trouble among the barbers.

"BENEFITS" COME HIGH.

The fact is the union barbers have concluded that they have been paying a steep price for "benefits" that never accrue. About all they get is an occasional assessment to support some loafer in idleness and furnish meddling "business agents" with sufficient cash to take life easy and make merry with their friends.

NO CHOLO STRIKE.

The reported strike of foreman and laborers yesterday on the Huntington electric lines proved to be wholly without foundation. During the day General Epes Randolph, who has returned from his southern sojourn, made a trip over the principal lines in the company of engineers and reported that not a man had quit his job, nor had there been the slightest cut in wages. "There hasn't even been a kick," said Mr. Randolph. "On the contrary, we added forty laborers to our forces yesterday, and have no fear of a strike among our men. They are not members of unions, anyway."

FRIENDS OF GOOD ROADS.

W. H. Moore, President of the National Association to Arrive in This City Today.

W. H. Moore, president of the National Good Roads Association, is expected to arrive in Los Angeles today from St. Louis. The purpose of Mr. Moore's visit at this time is to arrange for the holding of the Pacific Coast Good Roads Convention, either in this city or San Francisco. Mr. Moore has a wide acquaintance in Los Angeles, and there is little doubt that he favors holding the convention here. He expects to meet some of the leading citizens at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce on Friday evening, when he will set forth in detail the importance of the good roads movement, especially to California. The Pacific Coast convention will elect a full set of delegates to the international convention, which is to meet in St. Louis, May 16-21. At this gathering, which will be attended by friends of the movement from Europe, as well as this country, bills will be formulated to be presented to the legislatures of the different States of the Union.

TERRIBLE DESTRUCTION.
The Worst That Has Been Known for Ages.

There is nothing so frightful as when a person is incapacitated for the duties of life, simply because he has a stagnant system and needs Cuticene to cleanse, renovate and remodel his physical and nervous make-up. The frightful condition one feels in when his nerves are blocked is so quickly relieved by Cuticene that it is no wonder the demand for them is so great. They sell at $1 a box, six boxes for $5, at Orr & Vaughn Drug Co., No. 201 South Spring street.

Last Saturday the Los Angeles Mining Review printed an illustrated descriptive article of the Greene Consolidated copper smelter at Cananea, Sonora, Mex., which is well worth reading.

FORM DISTRICT ORGANIZATION.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW WILL DO AGGRESSIVE WORK.

Local Chapters Come Together in St. Paul's and Effect a Permanent Assembly—Dean Wilkins Preaches a Practical Lenten Sermon.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, a layman's organization within the Episcopal Church, held a union meeting at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral last night for the purpose of forming a district assembly.

The moving spirit was C. H. Chandler, western traveling secretary of the brotherhood, who has been making a tour of his territory. He said last night:

"I do not know of a place where the growth of the brotherhood has been so rapid as here in Southern California, and where the field is so ripe for the organization of an assembly."

A temporary organization was formed by the election of J. A. Pearman as chairman, and F. McMeekin, secretary.

In a few words Mr. Chandler stated the object and hopes of his visit, and it was at once decided to form an assembly of the several chapters of the brotherhood in and around Los Angeles. The following officers were chosen without opposition: President, A. A. Talmage; vice-president, R. H. Norton; secretary, A. W. Alley; treasurer, F. M. Hodgson; chaplain, Rev. Mr. Murphy.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Monday, March 14, in St. Paul's parish house, when the officers, as a committee of the whole, will report a set of bylaws.

The aims and purposes of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew are identical with those of Christian Endeavor, and following the organization, Dean Wilkins was called for and expressed his appreciation of the brotherhood. Rev. Mr. Cole of Philadelphia spoke of the good it had done in that city, in filling the churches at all the Lenten services, and in other like lines of work.

Preceding the brotherhood meeting, Dean J. J. Wilkins conducted Lenten services in the cathedral and preached an excellent practical sermon. The large auditorium was filled and the dean addressed his remarks more directly to the men of the congregation. He chose the words of Paul to the Philippians: "To me to live is Christ."

"What cannot be expressed in words, can be expressed in life," said the rector. "St. Paul expressed it in both, and he was a past master in the art of living aright.

"The saying of Paul is not merely ideal, but it is essentially practical. He was a hard-headed man of the world. We would be the peer of any old saint of ancient times, and I wonder if I can help you men a little tonight.

"All that is essential in religion may be summed up in the two words: 'In Christ.' There was no need to ask: 'What would Jesus do if he came to Philippi?' Paul was there. If all men were like Paul, commercial trading on 'what Jesus would do' would long since have had its day.

"I do not think we should spend all our time in fasting and prayer; the common occupations and daily tasks were a part of the religion of Jesus, but all things should be done to the glory of God.

"Lent is a time for plain speaking—a time to take accurate measurement of our religion, and see if we are actually living Christ."

A large surpliced choir of boys rendered the music of the service delightfully.

HAVEN CHURCH DIRECTORY.

Rev. Edwin H. Fretz, pastor of Haven Methodist Episcopal Church, has just issued a neat directory of his congregation and gives also a brief history of its organization. In 1895 the first meeting was held in a dwelling house, the first church was completed during 1896, and the new church which will cost about $12,000, is now well under way, at the corner of Twenty-seventh and Paloma streets. A concert will be held there this evening for the benefit of the fund. The church has now a membership of over 300.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Los Angeles W.C.T.U. will be held today in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, when officers will be elected for the ensuing year. The first session will be at 10 o'clock a.m., and at 2 o'clock Rev. Robert J. Burdette will deliver an address to the ladies.

KILLED IN COLLAPSE.

Steel Skeleton of New York Apartment House Goes Down, Crushing Five Persons to Death and Injuring About a Score.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EW YORK, March 2.—Five persons are known to have been killed, about a score injured and at of ten, all of whom are believed be dead, are missing through the llapse today of the steel skeleton of Hotel Darlington, a twelve-story artment house in course of erection o. 97 West Forty-sixth street.

The steel frame work had been ected as far as the eleventh floor, d the structure was swarming with n workers, masons and laborers, en, without an instant's warning, upper floor sagged and collapsed, d the whole structure fell with a sh that was heard for blocks, and ook all the buildings in the vicinity. portion of the steel frame fell upon e rear of the Hotel Patterson on st Forty-seventh street, crushing the wall of the dining-room and illing Mrs. Ella Lacey Storrs, wife Frank Storrs, a wealthy resident Rye, Westchester county, as she was ting at luncheon with the wife of v. Dr. Minot Savage, who escaped hurt.

Fourteen persons are believed to ve been killed, of whom the bodies only five have been recovered, about ore injured and several are missg through the collapse.

The other dead, so far as known, are ieman Morrills, foreman of the ding Construction Company; Farell I. Pagan, a derrickman, and two unidentified men, apparently laborers. The more seriously injured, with one exception, are laborers on the building, and are: Joseph Sinto, Andrew Faber, James W. Smith, Henry Strobe, Tony Smith, Dennis McGinnis, Fredrick Weissenmuller, Gottlieb Wittenau, A. V. Benter, Joseph Gentry and Irving Shier, a waiter employed in the Hotel Patterson.

FLOOR WAS OVERLOADED.

Among those missing is Frank J. Allison of the Allison Realty Company, the builders of the hotel, who is known to have been in the building when it fell.

Efforts to recover the bodies of the dead and rescue those imprisoned in the wreck were begun by the firemen immediately after the crash and at 11 o'clock tonight the contractor in charge of the wrecking work said that his men had discovered seven bodies, and that two were known to be pinned under the wreckage on the east side of the building.

The cause of the accident was the overloading of the floors. Foreman James Halpin, in charge of the iron workers, stated that there was a large quantity of cement and other building material on the fifth floor, and on the fourth floor were eighty-three beams, which were to have been used in constructing the remaining floors of the building.

That criminal carelessness is chargeable to somebody is shown by the fact that the building department had issued repeated "violations" against the building, the last one being filed today in the instance of Inspector Charles Brush, because "the side walls were more than two stories in advance of the front walls, and the floor beams were not properly bolted and tied."

In spite of this and previous warnings those responsible for the construction of the building went ahead, regardless of consequences.

Adjoining the collapsed building on the west side, is the four-story brown stone residence of Harold Brown. Some of the huge iron beams struck the side of the house and drove holes in the walls and roof, and destroyed a part of the brown stone front, which was thrown to the street. The occupants escaped uninjured. On the east side is a house occupied by A. Walpole Craigie as a school for boys. The pupils had gone to lunch a few minutes before the crash occurred. Some of the beams struck the house, hearing off a portion of the roof, and smashing holes in the side walls.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Storrs, who had been in London, was sitting at lunch with Mrs. Savage when the crash came, and she and Meier, the waiter, were instantly buried under the débris of the roof and walls. Mrs. Savage barely escaped being struck, as her skirt was pinned to the floor by a mass of fallen brick. Mrs. Storrs was breathing when extricated, but died within a few minutes. The waiter is believed to be fatally injured. The other occupants of the dining-room escaped unhurt.

The Hotel Patterson was shaken to its foundation, and in the rear the fire escapes on several stories were torn from the fastenings, and all the windows on the floors were smashed. The occupants of these apartments hastily quitted them. Rev. Minot Savage was ill in his apartment in the front of the hotel at the time of the collapse.

The plans for the building were filed by the firm of Neville & Bagge, architects, and called for the construction of a fireproof building twelve stories in height, with a frontage of 56 feet and a depth of 100, brick and stone, and of a height, when finished, of 180 feet. The approximate building cost, exclusive of the plot, was named at $350,000.

STANFORD AND NEVADA.

Sage Brush University Will Send Some Good Runners for the Coming Track Meet.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 2.—There will be a track meet between Stanford and the University of Nevada on the Stanford oval March 19. It is not known how many men Nevada will bring to Stanford, but it is believed that she has some good runners.

The preliminary try-outs, for the selection of six debaters who will compete with the five Carnot men in the finals have been held. Ten men entered the contest, and the following were chosen by the judges: R. G. Barnett, '05; D. D. Sales, '04; P. D. Swing, '05; W. L. Blair, '05; E. A. Cunha, '06 and C. S. Osgood, '06. The final try-outs for the selection of three men and an alternate to compose the 1904 intercollegiate debate team will be held in about three weeks. There will be eleven men in the competition.

Dr. Jordan has returned from his eastern trip, after an absence of three weeks. While away he visited several prominent universities and lectured in different places. At the meeting of the Association of American Universities at Yale, he delivered one of the principal addresses. His subject was "The Proper Relations of the University and College Work." On his return trip Dr. Jordan delivered the dedicatory address at the opening of the science building of Colorado College, Colorado Springs.

LANDMARKS CLUB WAS IGNORED.

CAMINO REAL CONTROVERSY GROWING HOT.

Original Movers Said to Have Been Excluded from Committee of Fifteen Purposely, and Lummis Hints at False Pretenses.

While representatives of the majority that carried the Camino Real convention in this city January 30 for a State highway, "from San Diego to and as far northerly as practicable from San Francisco and Sacramento," contrary, as some claim, to the intention of the originators of the movement, have protested that their purpose is not to thwart the original project, but is in harmony with the prime movers, it was to be noticed that in the appointment of a committee of fifteen last week by A. P. Fleming, chairman of the local convention, to formulate plans for a State Camino Real convention, the Landsmarks Club and Charles F. Lummis, representing the opposing faction, were completely ignored.

Concerning this direct slight, Mr. Lummis said yesterday:

"The Landmarks Club has worked ten years to preserve the missions of Southern California, and to arouse public interest in the original Camino Real project. Unless the people who captured the Camino Real convention in this city January 30 have some special reason for star chamber proceedings, it would have been natural to recognize the club and the leaders of the movement in the choice of a committee. I think that the movement now on foot will die of its own weight, because I don't believe the people of the State, or the best people of the committee that has been appointed to further plans for a State organization will stand for the ignorant plan, savoring of false pretenses, which a few politicians have formulated.

"These people who call themselves 'practical,' have a queer way of showing it by jumping into something they know nothing about. If they merely want to build an automobile speedway, that is another thing; but these people who stick so hard for a 'practical' road are evidently unaware of the fact that the original Camino Real is mostly in use today, in the form of public roads, and the only problem is to ascertain which of these existing public roads follow most continuously the historic route. The State organization idea is all right, but the only way to keep the movement out of the hands of politicians is to localize the work in each end of the State.

"Any attempt to fake a Camino Real or to make California responsible for ignorance of her own history will ultimately fail."

The speaker intimated that the "end is not yet" in the Camino controversy.

MINES AND MINING.

STRIKE IN THE PEEK-A-BOO.

LEDGE REPORTED VERY WIDE CARRYING HIGH VALUES.

Because of New Finds and the Construction of the Salt Lake Road There is Much Activity in the New York Mountain District.

The New York Mountain district in San Bernardino county is particularly active just now on account of new finds and the contemplated early completion of the Salt Lake road. The recent strike of the Trio company, composed of Pasadena parties, at Manvel, served to stimulate interest in that section and now it is announced that a rich strike has been made in the Peek-a-boo property, situated about twenty-five miles east of Manvel, near the Colorado River.

L. M. Gregory, president of the Giant Ledge Gold and Copper Company, has just returned from the district and states that the Peek-a-boo strike only occurred a few days ago, but it immediately created excitement, and caused a rush from Manvel. The find was made at a depth of only fourteen feet, but it is said that the ledge is very wide and carries high values. It will take a great deal of development work to prove the extent of the find, however.

In speaking of his own company, which is a Los Angeles corporation owning about 500 acres in the New York district, Mr. Gregory said that the company now has blocked out about 32,000 tons of ore in the Athens and Morning Star claims, besides a large quantity on the dump. It is the intention to build a smelter at an early date, if no custom smelter is built, as the Giant Ledge alone will soon be in a position to keep busy a smelter of sixty tons capacity. The average value of the Giant Ledge ore is said to be about $30 per ton. It is possible that an agreement will soon be reached by several companies, whereby a smelter of large capacity will be erected.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

An art loan exhibition to take place on May 6, 7 and 8, at Blanchard Hall is being planned by the Ruskin Art Club. The rather small membership of the club is active in anticipation of the affair which, according to one of the leading spirits in the organization, will require as much work and genius as the managing of a biennial.

One member was heard yesterday openly rejoicing over the coming exhibition, which she declared would afford an opportunity to refute carping and ignorant criticism recently made by some soulless individual to the effect that Los Angeles has no good pictures. It is announced that the best works of local artists are to be selected for the exhibition, as well as every art treasure that can be borrowed within the borders of California.

An exhibit of rare laces and other kindred and interesting articles will also be given place in the exhibition, and, if this one proves a success, a motion will be submitted to make the exhibit an annual feature of the club work.

The Ruskin Art Club will be represented today at the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce to be held to plan for Arbor Day, by a committee headed by the president, Mrs. Hendrick. Each club and prominent organization in the city will be invited to claim a clump or group of trees to be planted, and to lend the inspiration of its presence at the time of planting, with some appropriate emblem to surmount each particular group as a sign of ownership.

The presentation of the programme of yesterday morning's session of the club was conducted by the former president, Mrs. W. E. Dunn, and included a discussion of the Flemish and Dutch schools of painting. Mrs. D. K. Edwards read a paper on Van Dyke. That artist's religious pictures were compared to those of Rubens by Miss Letha Lewis. Mrs. W. E. Bullis discussed Snyder's pictures, Mrs. Dunn spoke on those of Mullin and Fyt; Mrs. Morris Albee, on David Teniers the Younger, and general discussion and reminiscences followed.

Rare Exhibit.

The regular programme of the Friday Morning Club for tomorrow includes not only the "History of Tapestry," by Mrs. Berthold Baruch and "Good Furniture, Old and New," by Miss Mabel Doolittle, but there is to be one of the rarest exhibits, illustrating these subjects that has ever been produced in Los Angeles. Mrs. Wadleigh and one other committee member have it in charge, and many elegant homes of the city will yield their treasures for the occasion. The old furniture and tapestry that have been promised is, part of it, the cream of an artist's collection gathered from all over the world and only recently brought to Los Angeles.

The programme for the month has just been issued and includes for March 11, a lecture recital on the Wagnerian masterpiece, "Parsifal," by Mrs. Raymond Brown; March 15, afternoon tea, from 3 to 5 o'clock; March 18, "In Pursuit of the Antique in Modern New England," by Miss Olive Persival; March 21, Book Committee, with "Letters Home," by W. D. Howells, in charge of Mrs. Harriet S. Wright, and "The Ambassador," by Henry James, in charge of Mrs. Charles Dwight Willard.

What Shall I Eat?

I need the carbohydrates to make flesh and supply my body with heat and energy.
I need albumen and phosphate of potash to restore wasted brain and nerve matter.
I know that working and thinking consumes energy and brain and I know this waste must be rebuilt by food. The field grains contain these elements I know but most people, like myself, absolutely cannot digest the large percentage of starch in grains and trouble follows.

What Shall I Eat?

A few minutes spent in studying the subject proves that all these questions have been scientifically answered in

GRAPE-NUTS

This food is so perfect the weakest stomach can digest and assimilate it. It contains more nutriment that the body can make use of than 10 times as much meat, wheat, oats or bread.

Most all field grains are heavy with nourishment but not in form for human use.

Grape-Nuts is only entire wheat and barley and salt, but scientific processes requiring many hours treatment have made all the grains ready for any stomach. (The starches are all converted into Grape-Sugar, in other words.)

Practically pre-digested (although not chemically treated) all this natural nutriment is ready as soon as it goes into the stomach for immediate absorption into blood, muscle, heat, energy, etc., and to make the delicate gray matter in nerve and brain.

THE PROOF Is found in ten days' trial. Look for the miniature book, "The Road to Wellville," found in each package. Everyone should read it. Now in its 10th million.

THERE'S A REASON

You would do well to THINK IT OVER.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Fire Still Burns.

The great pile of sawdust and box material on Avenue 18, where the Union Box and Hive factory was burned two weeks ago, is still smouldering away, and yesterday raised considerable excitement in the neighborhood by bursting in flames again.

Beautiful Azaleas.

A special display of azaleas and hyacinths is the attraction at the conservatory in Eastlake Park at present. Another section which is very popular with the visitors is the wing recently cut off for the orchids, many of which are showing exquisite blooms of the most delicate colorings.

Confessed Thieves.

Montrose Amey and Sydney Nolan, who live on a ranch near Whittier, confessed yesterday to being the thieves who have been robbing ranchmen in that vicinity lately. They were caught by Deputy Sheriffs Gilgert and Franklin. Telltale grain bags were found in their cabin on Le Juin rancho.

Walker Worn Out.

Officer H. C. Walker, who has done duty at the First and Spring streets crossing and on South Spring street for eleven years, has been relieved of the crossing job and retired to a quiet beat, on account of broken health. Walker made himself very useful as a crossing officer, and will be missed from his old stand. Officer P. H. Murray has been temporarily placed on the First-street crossing.

Anna Fay.

Anna Eva Fay, a psychic who appeared here some years ago, will be the attraction next week at the Mason Operahouse, with the exception of a single evening. She is said to possess most phenomenal powers in matters pertaining to mind reading, thought transference, and kindred subjects relating to the serious study of psychical science. The seat sale opens this morning.

Twenty-carload Show.

A train of twenty cars is utilized this season in carrying the performers, workmen, animals and equipment of the Norris & Rowe trained-animal show, which is to exhibit in Los Angeles for five days commencing on the 8th inst. In the show, which has been enlarged to the proportions of a circus, are jugglers, equilibrists, riders, cages of rare wild animals and trained elephants, ponies and numerous horses.

Riverside Excursion.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce may obtain free tickets for the excursion to Riverside over the Salt Lake route, March 12, after next Monday, at the chamber. The railway company has found it necessary to exclude ladies from these privileges on this occasion, owing to the large crowd which it expects to handle. At yesterday's meeting of the board of directors of the chamber, the following-named were elected to membership in the main organization: W. J. Doran, Dr. Wernigh, P. P. Paulson, Dr. F. R. Cunningham, E. J. Niles, J. E. Fishburn, Lynn Helm, Two Brothers Transfer Company.

Matron Gray's Funeral.

Every member of the Los Angeles police department, off duty, or who can possibly be spared from work, will attend the funeral of Matron Gray this afternoon. Nearly all the members of the force will report at the late residence of the deceased in East Los Angeles at 1:30 o'clock, in full dress uniform. At 2 o'clock the body will be escorted to the East Side Methodist Church, where services will begin at 2:15 o'clock. The members of the department have subscribed liberally for a magnificent floral piece, and the police reporters, who esteemed Matron Gray highly, will contribute a wreath.

Case in Admiralty.

Attachment papers were served Tuesday night on the schooner William Nottingham, Charles Roos, master, lying at San Pedro, in pursuance of a libel filed against the vessel in the United States District Court by the Crescent Wharf and Warehouse Company of this city and San Pedro. The vessel was yesterday released on bond. The libel is brought to recover dockage of the William Nottingham at the rate of $12.75 per day, the rate alleged to have been agreed upon between plaintiff and Capt. Roos, the total amounting to $82.90; $5 for water alleged to have been furnished the schooner, and $18.35 for help in unloading. Deputy United States Marshal Traeger served the papers.

Minnesota Reunion.

The principal feature of the Minnesota reunion at Ocean Park on Saturday next will be the taking of a large photograph of all in attendance. The object is to secure a picture of all Minnesotans sojourning in this sunny clime, away from the zero weather, that it may be published in the Minneapolis and St. Paul papers. A copy will also be hung in the Pioneers' territorial building on the Minnesota State Fair Grounds. The photos will be taken by the retired pioneer Minneapolis photographers, Mr. Beal and Mr. Jacoby. Excursion-rate tickets are now on sale at the Fourth-street depot of the Santa Monica line. The programme will begin at 2 p.m. All that can are requested to leave the city at 10 a.m.

Beat and Kicked Old Man.

It will be well for the proprietors of the "Unique" saloon at the corner of Second and Los Angeles street to be very good for a time. Yesterday noon a member of the Council happened to be standing on the opposite corner when the bartender threw a man through the door and followed him to the sidewalk, where he repeatedly struck him. Following the bartender came a big, strapping fellow and a man slightly smaller, and both tried to kick the old man as he lay on the sidewalk. When the old man tried to rise the bartender smashed him in the face, and the fracas might have ended seriously, but for the prompt interference of the Councilman, who offered to thrash the trio then and there. A search for a policeman proved fruitless, and before the Councilman returned from the hunt the old man had disappeared. If he can be found the Councilman intends to have the bartender arrested, and to insist that the license of the resort be revoked by the Police Commission.

At the Postoffice.

The sale of postage stamps for twenty-eight days of February, 1904, amounted to $45,179.89, against $38,724.59 for February, 1903, an increase of $6455.50, or 16.66 per cent. The sales for February 29, 1904, will be included in the March receipts. Newspaper and package mail deposited at Station C, formerly sent to the main office for dispatch, will hereafter be dispatched directly from Station C to train No. 10, Southern Pacific, for Redlands, Riverside and Arizona and New Mexico points; train No. 9 to San Francisco via Santa Barbara and Coast points; the Owl, to San Francisco via Bakersfield, and Santa Fé train No. 2, to Northern Arizona and eastern points. HE THREATENED TO KILL HUNTINGTON.

Lunatic's Scheme to Blow up Railroad Offices and Their Occupants.

Crazy Joe Stark Arrested by Sheriff Last Night After Having Been Shadowed for Several Days — Fellow Attempted to Get at H. E. Huntington in Hotel. Aggrieved Because of Injury by Street Car.

THE startling news came to light yesterday that for some time past the lives of H. E. Huntington, his son, Howard E. Huntington, a number of the employes of the Huntington railway companies and the Huntington properties in Los Angeles, have been menaced by a dangerous crank, who has threatened to blow up with powerful explosives the Huntington power-houses, shops and depot buildings, and do violence to President Huntington wherever found.

Ordinarily the threats of a lunatic are of no consequence, but in this case the madman is believed to have the means, the cunning and the determination to carry out his designs. But for the fact that he has been closely shadowed by detectives for the last few days, it is believed he would have attempted to execute his plans before now.

As late as Tuesday afternoon he followed President Huntington into the Van Nuys Hotel, but was prevented from getting access to him by a detective who confronted him at every step.

Tuesday night was the time set for the execution of his diabolical plot, but detectives who were dogging his steps made it unsafe for him to proceed.

At first Mr. Huntington and his associates were inclined to believe that the threats made were but the emanations from the brain of a harmless crank. But so serious did the affair become that an insanity complaint was sworn out yesterday by one of the railway detectives and a warrant was issued for the arrest of the culprit and placed in the hands of Sheriff White for service.

The alleged lunatic is Joseph W. Stark of No. 527 South Los Angeles street, who was arrested last night and lodged in the detention ward of the County Hospital to await trial on the charge of insanity in the Superior Court.

STARK'S FANCIED GRIEVANCE.

Stark has a fancied grievance against the Huntingtons on account of an injury received March 18, 1903, by being thrown from his bicycle by a car of the Los Angeles Railway Company at Second and Spring streets. He was to blame for the accident himself, as he was riding on the wrong side of the street and was struck by a north-bound car while he was proceeding southward. His brain was affected by the fall, and since the accident he has tried in vain to recover damages from the company.

On several occasions Stark has called on Supt. J. J. Akin and demanded a settlement on account of his injuries and threatened to blow up property of the company if he was not paid. He has also made similar demands on Asst. Supt. E. L. Lewis and other officials of the company, and has tried to secure an audience with Howard E. Huntington and his father. He has also tried to induce no less than nine or ten different lawyers to take his case, but none of them would have anything to do with him, on account of his manifest insanity and the fact that his injuries were, according to his own admissions, due to his own carelessness.

An action for damages must be very slim, indeed, when no lawyer can be found to undertake it. The baselessness of Stark's claim is therefore obvious. Brooding over his fancied wrongs and the hopelessness of his effort to recover damages, drove him to the contemplation of desperate measures of revenge.

Stark was formerly a waiter and a member of the Waiters' Union. Before the days of electric transportation he put in three and a half years as a horse-car driver on the old Main-street lines. He also had some experience as a street car man in San Francisco. Since the accident which resulted in his injury he has not done anything to support his family, but his wife has made a living by running a tamale and lunch cart at Fifth and Main streets, at night.

KNOWS ABOUT EXPLOSIVES.

He is a shrewd, well-informed fellow, and the knowledge he has lately displayed of the nature and manner of

JOSEPH W. STARK, THE LUNATIC WHO THREATENED TO BLOW UP HUNTINGTON.

CYNN WOULD DIE TO FREE KOREA.

STUDENT HERE WILL RETURN TO HERMIT KINGDOM.

Says He Will Give His Life for His Country's Liberation—Imprisoned for Conducting a Literary Society—Patriotic Heung-woo.

"If the Russians take Korea and Manchuria there will be no Japan."

That was one of the things said yesterday by Hugh H. Cynn, or, more correctly, Heung-woo Cynn, a brainy young patriot of the Hermit Empire, who is keeping himself at hard study at the University of Southern California, preparing to go back to participate in the affairs of his country.

HUGH J. CYNN.

The people of Korea wish the Japanese to win in the present war, according to Mr. Cynn, and the Emperor has even contributed money to this end, for the Russians are cruel; they have little education and know only how to kill.

"They wished to fill the whole Amur River with slain Chinese," said Mr. Cynn. "They would not educate the people, and they would not allow them religious liberty. Koreans have had experience with Russian greed. The Emperor and the Crown Prince went to the Russian legation when the Japanese murdered the Queen of Korea, and then the Russians kept a clutch on the Emperor. They took possession of the treasury, and their drill masters managed the army. Admiral Alexieff was chief of the Treasury Department in Korea, and the Russians took an island for a coaling station. They took the whale fisheries and the lumber yards, till at last the people arose up in thousands and made memorials asking the Emperor to stop the outrages."

WHAT JAPS WOULD DO.

"What will the Japanese do for Korea in case of victory?" was asked.

"They have signed a treaty promising our country independence," said the young Korean, "but you cannot tell what they will do."

Evidently he considers Japanese suzerainty as a choice between two evils, and something to be feared if Japan be victorious.

"Do you think the Japanese have any chance of winning?"

"I cannot say. It is difficult," he replied. "Russia is a great nation, and proud of its big cold country. The Russian soldiers are over three million in number. Every Japanese soldier is fighting his own battles, the war is his own war, and every person in Japan feels so.

"They are winning some battles, too, and maybe they will take Vladivostok and Port Arthur. Then Russia would be shut off for a time, with no harbor for her ships. But Japan cannot penetrate to St. Petersburg. She will be like Napoleon; her armies will suffer and die of cold. She fears that if she wins in the beginning Russia may prepare anew, and come back again and again.

"The Korean soldiers would make good fighters," Mr. Cynn said, "if they took part in the war. They are good in any competition, for their brains are bright, but they lack patriotism."

WAS A PRISONER.

The reason of the poor showing which his country has made in the affairs of nations this twenty-year-old philosopher reluctantly attributes to an unscrupulous King and a fearfully corrupt government. His opinion may be based somewhat on his personal experience, in having spent seventeen months in one of the worst prisons in Korea for being suspected of heading a plot to overthrow the Emperor. What he really did was to be the president of a literary society which favored foreign education for the Korean youth. He was released from his miserable incarceration before his three years' sentence was served, and came to America to take the course of a medical missionary.

He was educated in the Methodist Mission school in Seoul, and acted as druggist and interpreter at the mission hospital presided over by Dr. Harry C. Sherman, formerly of Los Angeles.

PATRIOTIC EXPRESSION.

"If Korea is not a free country when I return to it," he said, "I will give my life, if necessary, for its liberation. My friends say that I will only kill myself, but I tell them that no great reform was ever begun without the shedding of some one's blood."

He has planned, if his country preserves its independence, to reach the people through the offices of a medical adviser and through that channel to give them the Christian religion, which he confidently believes will be the means of accomplishing their moral and political regeneration.

FINE OR JAIL FOR GRIFFITH.

Convicted of Assault With a Deadly Weapon.

Jury Leaves His Fate to Court's Discretion.

Locked up Until Saturday, Pending Sentence.

After six hours' wrangling, the jury at 9:20 o'clock last night brought in a verdict of "guilty" against Col. Griffith J. Griffith—guilty of assault with a deadly weapon, a lesser offense than charged.

The punishment may be either a fine, not to exceed $5000, or imprisonment either in the County Jail or State's prison not to exceed a period of two years. It lies in Judge Smith's discretion, next Saturday morning, to make Griffith either a felon or fix the offense as a misdemeanor.

Griffith's lawyers are so well satisfied that Judge Smith will be merciful, that both Rogers and McKinley stated positively last night that no appeal will be taken.

They held a consultation with Judge Smith after the verdict, and Rogers came out laughing, "Well, it is pretty good to get him off on a misdemeanor, isn't it?"

Like any other convicted prisoner, Griffith was taken to the County Jail under guard and locked up for the night.

He was wilted—crushed.

It was hard to realize that the humbled, hunched-up little man with pleading eyes, who crept off to jail last night between two officers, was the Griffith who used to go swaggering around town with an eloquent cane and flashing eyes.

Waiting there hour after hour in the dim half-lit courtroom, almost empty and indescribably desolate, and knowing that behind that fatal door in the corner a dozen men were debating whether to ruin his life or not, was too much for even his iron nerves.

His drawn face looked like the face of a dead man when the jury entered.

He had hit about all the human emotions in the course of yesterday, and aching despair was the last.

ASHAMED AND ANGRY.

He was ashamed and hot as blazes by turns while Gage was cracking it into him during the last argument. He looked as though he would like to get up and "soak" the lawyer behind the ear with a brick.

He didn't like being compared to Cain or having it said that his nature and conduct were so depraved that his acts could not be comprehensible to decent men. Neither was he pleased to hear his Griffith Park characterized in scorn as "a breeding place for jackass rabbits, long-tailed lizards and rattlesnakes."

He got a scalding roast. He took it hunched up and glaring out from beneath his eyebrows.

The courtroom was suffocating during the last scenes of the trial—the sickening heat of close-packed human beings and the deadly used-up air so thick and foul with human breath that it could be carried out in chunks.

Judge Smith said so many people were never there before.

The lobbies and aisles were so full that had a woman fainted, she would have been held standing, immovable, by the pressure of the crowd.

Lawyers of gravity and dignity sat around on the floor, with their legs stretched out in front of them like newsboys.

Gage closed his argument at about 3 o'clock, and Judge Smith read instructions to the jury for half an hour.

One of the instructions he gave was that, if the jury found Griffith to be sane, and found that he had pointed the revolver at Mrs. Griffith, it mattered not whether he meant to kill her or not, he would still be guilty of assault with a deadly weapon.

At last he said mildly, "Swear an officer, Mr. Clerk."

LONG TRIAL ENDS.

And that was the end of the Griffith trial.

As soon as a way could be cleared through the crowd, the jurymen filed out and were locked in their room.

A hundred or more persons waited until dinner time for the jury to come back.

Judge Smith went home about 5. The jury was taken out under heavy guard to dinner at 5:30.

Griffith was allowed to go to dinner at a café in charge of a deputy sheriff, who ate with him.

The crowd was not allowed to return after dinner. People were stopped by the Courthouse night watchmen unless they had business with the court.

At 7 o'clock the bailiff, a private detective for Col. Griffith, and a newspaper reporter, were sitting in the gloomy courtroom when Judge Smith entered briskly.

"Go see if they have agreed," he said to the bailiff. "Tell them the court wants to know."

The bailiff went to the door and rapped. A pause. A head appeared around the corner of the door in a haze of tobacco smoke.

A whispered question.

The juror shook his head and said in a tone of disgusted emphasis, "No."

The bailiff looked around at the judge and whispered again.

"No, no prospect," said the juror, sourly.

JUDGE SMITH CHUCKLES.

The door had hardly been closed, however, when another rap came. The bailiff opened to the peering head again. They wanted certain instructions.

Whisperings. Judge Smith shook his head. "Tell them I shall have to bring them into court."

Happy thought. "Wait," he said. "They must make the request in writing."

Judge Smith stuck on his nose glasses when the paper came, and chuckled with glee. Ordered some of the lawyers for the defense sent for.

WHAT WAS "IT?"

McKinley hurried in. Judge Smith chuckled and whispered again. McKinley not gleeful. Grave. Solemn. Didn't want the court to do it; whatever it was.

Maj. Jones sent for. He protested with heat against the court doing "it."

Judge Smith, however, was tickled. Had the jury brought into court. Read the paper, which was a request for information as to the penalties which may be inflicted for assault with a deadly weapon. "Something they have nothing to do with," said the judge, "but then——" He told them.

About 8:30, when several more lawyers had arrived, the judge sent the bailiff to rap on the door again.

The officer came out and he and the judge stuck their heads together.

The bailiff was observed to shake his head gloomily and answer "Small."

Which evidently alluded to prospects of agreement.

Griffith began to be cheerful and talked long and earnestly with his two brothers, who waited with him.

His face suddenly paled when a rap came at the door at 9:15.

He turned his revolving chair and turned to the court a countenance of awful hopelessness. He looked years older. The stiffness went out of his spine. He was limp and cowering. As he heard the slow words of the verdict, he seemed to crumple into his chair. His only motion was to constantly pinch his lower lip.

Then he crept pathetically up close to one of his attorneys—an abject appeal for comfort.

GRIFFITH IN JAIL.

But where was there comfort?

The Sheriff said: "Come, Mr. Griffith."

With a last appealing look he walked out at the head of a little procession.

At the head of the stairs he said good-by to his brothers; hesitated a moment; then hurried back into the office of the Public Administrator, where Earl Rogers and his other lawyers were waiting. He was frantic, as though he must find a way not to go to that jail.

The Sheriff waited for him at the head of the stairs. Griffith said something to him very low in an appealing way. Then they trooped silently downstairs, and across the street, where the great steel door opened and clanged shut on Griffith.

Strange to say, waiting in the jail office, he recovered his spirits somewhat; roused from gloomily staring at the jailor's desk, took papers out of his pocket, examined them; yawned. Put them away. Waited sleepily.

He was not locked in the general tanks, but in a separate cell, where there is a bed.

He will have to stay in jail until Saturday.

HOLDS TIGHT TO BURGLAR.

OFFICER REMSON MAKES A SURE ENOUGH CATCH.

Pursues and Has Exciting Physical Encounter With Colored Man Who Runs from the House of Mrs. Alice Alexander on Temple Street.

Special Officer Jerry Remson had an exciting physical encounter with a burglar at the corner of Temple and Fremont streets last evening, but succeeded in holding his man.

Remson's attention was attracted by screams from the home of Mrs. Alice Alexander on Temple street, and at the same time he saw a man running from the house. The officer gave chase and overhauled the burglar—for such he proved to be.

Mrs. Alexander stated that the man had tried to pry open a window in the rear of the house, but was frightened away by her screams. Detective Quinn took the would-be house-breaker to the City Jail, where he gave his name as William Brock.

He is a negro about 28 years of age, and says he came here only recently from Birmingham, Ala., but the police think that many small burglaries which have been committed recently should be credited to him.

BROKE HIS NECK.

Employee of Los Angeles Brick Company Killed by Getting Caught in Machinery.

Walter Finnail, better known as Harry Fernald, an employe of the Los Angeles Brick Company, got caught in the belting of the new brick plant in the Chaves Ravine, near Elysian Park, yesterday morning, and was killed.

No one knows exactly how the accident happened. There were no eye-witnesses. Finnail's work was at the top of the building, where he had charge of some dumping and grinding machinery. The belting is in a pit in the basement, and is accessible only through a narrow arched passage. Finnail's duties did not require him to go into this pit. But there is where his dead body was found.

Cards are stuck up about the works warning employes not to oil the machinery or try to put on belts while any of the shafting is in motion. Finnail had been in the employ of the company for several years, and none understood the machinery better, or was more familiar with the rules, than he. No one saw him go into the pit, but it is supposed he crawled in under the belts for the purpose of fixing something that he though was out of gear, without taking the precaution of stopping the machinery.

The first intimation that any of the other employes had that something was wrong, was about 7 o'clock, soon after the works were started up for the day, when the machinery suddenly stopped by the slipping of a belt. One of the men crawled into the pit to readjust the belt, and while working there he found Finnail's body. His neck had been caught between two parallel belts and was broken. There were no marks on the body, except an abrasion on the front of the neck where the belts had choked him. The shirt had been stripped from the body, and it is thought it was through this garment getting caught on the head of a bolt on a revolving shaft that his head was drawn between the belts which strangled him.

Finnail was a young man, not yet out of his twenties, and was, formerly a barkeeper. He was considered one of the best workmen in the employ of the brick company, and was well liked by his fellow-workmen. He was married, but had no children. He lived at Castelar and New Depot streets. Mrs. Finnail has been very ill for some time, and friends feared to break the news of her husband's death to her, for fear that she would not be able to withstand the shock.

The body was sent to Pierce Bros.' morgue, where an inquest will be held.

FOR ARBOR DAY.

A meeting will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of the Civic Federation, to hear the reports of the committees appointed at the convention last month to arrange the details of Arbor Day, and to make further arrangements for the tree-planting event set for March 17. HE THREATENED TO KILL HUNTINGTON.

Lunatic's Scheme to Blow up Railroad Offices and Their Occupants.

Crazy Joe Stark Arrested by Sheriff Last Night After Having Been Shadowed for Several Days — Fellow Attempted to Get at H. E. Huntington in Hotel. Aggrieved Because of Injury by Street Car.

THE startling news came to light yesterday that for some time past the lives of H. E. Huntington, his son, Howard E. Huntington, a number of the employes of the Huntington railway companies and the Huntington properties in Los Angeles, have been menaced by a dangerous crank, who has threatened to blow up with powerful explosives the Huntington power-houses, shops and depot buildings, and do violence to President Huntington wherever found.

Ordinarily the threats of a lunatic are of no consequence, but in this case the madman is believed to have the means, the cunning and the determination to carry out his designs. But for the fact that he has been closely shadowed by detectives for the last few days, it is believed he would have attempted to execute his plans before now.

As late as Tuesday afternoon he followed President Huntington into the Van Nuys Hotel, but was prevented from getting access to him by a detective who confronted him at every step.

Tuesday night was the time set for the execution of his diabolical plot, but detectives who were dogging his steps made it unsafe for him to proceed.

At first Mr. Huntington and his associates were inclined to believe that the threats made were but the emanations from the brain of a harmless crank. But so serious did the affair become that an insanity complaint was sworn out yesterday by one of the railway detectives and a warrant was issued for the arrest of the culprit and placed in the hands of Sheriff White for service.

The alleged lunatic is Joseph W. Stark of No. 527 South Los Angeles street, who was arrested last night and lodged in the detention ward of the County Hospital to await trial on the charge of insanity in the Superior Court.

STARK'S FANCIED GRIEVANCE.

Stark has a fancied grievance against the Huntingtons on account of an injury received March 18, 1903, by being thrown from his bicycle by a car of the Los Angeles Railway Company at Second and Spring streets. He was to blame for the accident himself, as he was riding on the wrong side of the street and was struck by a north-bound car while he was proceeding southward. His brain was affected by the fall, and since the accident he has tried in vain to recover damages from the company.

On several occasions Stark has called on Supt. J. J. Akin and demanded a settlement on account of his injuries and threatened to blow up property of the company if he was not paid. He has also made similar demands on Asst. Supt. E. L. Lewis and other officials of the company, and has tried to secure an audience with Howard E. Huntington and his father. He has also tried to induce no less than nine or ten different lawyers to take his case, but none of them would have anything to do with him, on account of his manifest insanity and the fact that his injuries were, according to his own admissions, due to his own carelessness.

An action for damages must be very slim, indeed, when no lawyer can be found to undertake it. The baselessness of Stark's claim is therefore obvious. Brooding over his fancied wrongs and the hopelessness of his effort to recover damages, drove him to the contemplation of desperate measures of revenge.

Stark was formerly a waiter and a member of the Waiters' Union. Before the days of electric transportation he put in three and a half years as a horse-car driver on the old Main-street lines. He also had some experience as a street car man in San Francisco. Since the accident which resulted in his injury he has not done anything to support his family, but his wife has made a living by running a tamale and lunch cart at Fifth and Main streets, at night.

JOSEPH W. STARK, THE LUNATIC WHO THREATENED TO BLOW UP HUNTINGTON.

CYNN WOULD DIE TO FREE KOREA.

STUDENT HERE WILL RETURN TO HERMIT KINGDOM.

Says He Will Give His Life for His Country's Liberation—Imprisoned for Conducting a Literary Society—Patriotic Heung-woo.

"If the Russians take Korea and Manchuria there will be no Japan."

That was one of the things said yesterday by Hugh H. Cynn, or, more correctly, Heung-woo Cynn, a brainy young patriot of the Hermit Empire, who is keeping himself at hard study at the University of Southern California, preparing to go back to participate in the affairs of his country.

HUGH J. CYNN.

The people of Korea wish the Japanese to win in the present war, according to Mr. Cynn, and the Emperor has even contributed money to this end, for the Russians are cruel; they have little education and know only how to kill.

"They wished to fill the whole Amur River with slain Chinese," said Mr. Cynn. "They would not educate the people, and they would not allow them religious liberty. Koreans have had experience with Russian greed. The Emperor and the Crown Prince went to the Russian legation when the Japanese murdered the Queen of Korea, and then the Russians kept a clutch on the Emperor. They took possession of the treasury, and their drill masters managed the army. Admiral Alexieff was chief of the Treasury Department in Korea, and the Russians took an island for a coaling station. They took the whale fisheries and the lumber yards, till at last the people arose up in thousands and made memorials asking the Emperor to stop the outrages."

WHAT JAPS WOULD DO.

"What will the Japanese do for Korea in case of victory?" was asked.

"They have signed a treaty promising our country independence," said the young Korean, "but you cannot tell what they will do."

Evidently he considers Japanese suzerainty as a choice between two evils, and something to be feared if Japan be victorious.

"Do you think the Japanese have any chance of winning?"

"I cannot say. It is difficult," he replied. "Russia is a great nation, and proud of its big cold country. The Russian soldiers are over three million in number. Every Japanese soldier is fighting his own battles, the war is his own war, and every person in Japan feels so.

"They are winning some battles, too, and maybe they will take Vladivostok and Port Arthur. Then Russia would be shut off for a time, with no harbor for her ships. But Japan cannot penetrate to St. Petersburg. She will be like Napoleon; her armies will suffer and die of cold. She fears that if she wins in the beginning Russia may prepare anew, and come back again and again.

"The Korean soldiers would make good fighters," Mr. Cynn said, "if they took part in the war. They are good in any competition, for their brains are bright, but they lack patriotism."

WAS A PRISONER.

The reason of the poor showing which his country has made in the affairs of nations this twenty-year-old philosopher reluctantly attributes to an unscrupulous King and a fearfully corrupt government. His opinion may be based somewhat on his personal experience, in having spent seventeen months in one of the worst prisons in Korea for being suspected of heading a plot to overthrow the Emperor. What he really did was to be the president of a literary society which favored foreign education for the Korean youth. He was released from his miserable incarceration before his three years' sentence was served, and came to America to take the course of a medical missionary.

He was educated in the Methodist Mission school in Seoul, and acted as druggist and interpreter at the mission hospital presided over by Dr. Harry C. Sherman, formerly of Los Angeles.

PATRIOTIC EXPRESSION.

"If Korea is not a free country when I return to it," he said, "I will give my life, if necessary, for its liberation. My friends say that I will only kill myself, but I tell them that no great reform was ever begun without the shedding of some one's blood."

He has planned, if his country preserves its independence, to reach the people through the offices of a medical adviser and through that channel to give them the Christian religion, which he confidently believes will be the means of accomplishing their moral and political regeneration.

FINE OR JAIL FOR GRIFFITH.

Convicted of Assault With a Deadly Weapon.

Jury Leaves His Fate to Court's Discretion.

Locked up Until Saturday, Pending Sentence.

After six hours' wrangling, the jury at 9:20 o'clock last night brought in a verdict of "guilty" against Col. Griffith J. Griffith—guilty of assault with a deadly weapon, a lesser offense than charged.

The punishment may be either a fine, not to exceed $5000, or imprisonment either in the County Jail or State's prison not to exceed a period of two years. It lies in Judge Smith's discretion, next Saturday morning, to make Griffith either a felon or fix the offense as a misdemeanor.

Griffith's lawyers are so well satisfied that Judge Smith will be merciful, that both Rogers and McKinley stated positively last night that no appeal will be taken.

They held a consultation with Judge Smith after the verdict, and Rogers came out laughing, "Well, it is pretty good to get him off on a misdemeanor, isn't it?"

Like any other convicted prisoner, Griffith was taken to the County Jail under guard and locked up for the night.

He was wilted—crushed.

It was hard to realize that the humbled, hunched-up little man with pleading eyes, who crept off to jail last night between two officers, was the Griffith who used to go swaggering around town with an eloquent cane and flashing eyes.

Waiting there hour after hour in the dim half-lit courtroom, almost empty and indescribably desolate, and knowing that behind that fatal door in the corner a dozen men were debating whether to ruin his life or not, was too much for even his iron nerves.

His drawn face looked like the face of a dead man when the jury entered.

He had hit about all the human emotions in the course of yesterday, and aching despair was the last.

ASHAMED AND ANGRY.

He was ashamed and hot as blazes by turns while Gage was cracking it into him during the last argument. He looked as though he would like to get up and "soak" the lawyer behind the ear with a brick.

He didn't like being compared to Cain or having it said that his nature and conduct were so depraved that his acts could not be comprehensible to decent men. Neither was he pleased to hear his Griffith Park characterized in scorn as "a breeding place for jackass rabbits, long-tailed lizards and rattlesnakes."

He got a scalding roast. He took it hunched up and glaring out from beneath his eyebrows.

The courtroom was suffocating during the last scenes of the trial—the sickening heat of close-packed human beings and the deadly used-up air so thick and foul with human breath that it could be carried out in chunks.

Judge Smith said so many people were never there before.

The lobbies and aisles were so full that had a woman fainted, she would have been held standing, immovable, by the pressure of the crowd.

Lawyers of gravity and dignity sat around on the floor, with their legs stretched out in front of them like newsboys.

Gage closed his argument at about 3 o'clock, and Judge Smith read instructions to the jury for half an hour.

One of the instructions he gave was that, if the jury found Griffith to be sane, and found that he had pointed the revolver at Mrs. Griffith, it mattered not whether he meant to kill her or not, he would still be guilty of assault with a deadly weapon.

At last he said mildly, "Swear an officer, Mr. Clerk."

LONG TRIAL ENDS.

And that was the end of the Griffith trial.

As soon as a way could be cleared through the crowd, the jurymen filed out and were locked in their room.

A hundred or more persons waited until dinner time for the jury to come back.

Judge Smith went home about 5. The jury was taken out under heavy guard to dinner at 5:30.

Griffith was allowed to go to dinner at a café in charge of a deputy sheriff, who ate with him.

The crowd was not allowed to return after dinner. People were stopped by the Courthouse night watchmen unless they had business with the court.

At 7 o'clock the bailiff, a private detective for Col. Griffith, and a newspaper reporter, were sitting in the gloomy courtroom when Judge Smith entered briskly.

"Go see if they have agreed," he said to the bailiff. "Tell them the court wants to know."

The bailiff went to the door and rapped. A pause. A head appeared around the corner of the door in a haze of tobacco smoke.

A whispered question.

The juror shook his head and said in a tone of disgusted emphasis, "No."

The bailiff looked around at the judge and whispered again.

"No, no prospect," said the juror, sourly.

JUDGE SMITH CHUCKLES.

The door had hardly been closed, however, when another rap came. The bailiff opened to the peering head again. They wanted certain instructions.

Whisperings. Judge Smith shook his head. "Tell them I shall have to bring them into court."

Happy thought. "Wait," he said. "They must make the request in writing."

Judge Smith stuck on his nose glasses when the paper came, and chuckled with glee. Ordered some of the lawyers for the defense sent for.

WHAT WAS "IT?"

McKinley hurried in. Judge Smith chuckled and whispered again. McKinley not gleeful. Grave. Solemn. Didn't want the court to do it; whatever it was.

Maj. Jones sent for. He protested with heat against the court doing "it."

Judge Smith, however, was tickled. Had the jury brought into court. Read the paper, which was a request for information as to the penalties which may be inflicted for assault with a deadly weapon. "Something they have nothing to do with," said the judge, "but then——" He told them.

About 8:30, when several more lawyers had arrived, the judge sent the bailiff to rap on the door again.

The officer came out and he and the judge stuck their heads together.

The bailiff was observed to shake his head gloomily and answer "Small."

Which evidently alluded to prospects of agreement.

Griffith began to be cheerful and talked long and earnestly with his two brothers, who waited with him.

His face suddenly paled when a rap came at the door at 9:15.

He turned his revolving chair and turned to the court a countenance of awful hopelessness. He looked years older. The stiffness went out of his spine. He was limp and cowering. As he heard the slow words of the verdict, he seemed to crumple into his chair. His only motion was to constantly pinch his lower lip.

Then he crept pathetically up close to one of his attorneys—an abject appeal for comfort.

GRIFFITH IN JAIL.

But where was there comfort?

The Sheriff said: "Come, Mr. Griffith."

With a last appealing look he walked out at the head of a little procession.

At the head of the stairs he said good-by to his brothers; hesitated a moment; then hurried back into the office of the Public Administrator, where Earl Rogers and his other lawyers were waiting. He was frantic, as though he must find a way not to go to that jail.

The Sheriff waited for him at the head of the stairs. Griffith said something to him very low in an appealing way. Then they trooped silently downstairs, and across the street, where the great steel door opened and clanged shut on Griffith.

Strange to say, waiting in the jail office, he recovered his spirits somewhat; roused from gloomily staring at the jailor's desk, took papers out of his pocket, examined them; yawned. Put them away. Waited sleepily.

He was not locked in the general tanks, but in a separate cell, where there is a bed.

He will have to stay in jail until Saturday.

HOLDS TIGHT TO BURGLAR.

OFFICER REMSON MAKES A SURE-ENOUGH CATCH.

Pursues and Has Exciting Physical Encounter With Colored Man Who Runs from the House of Mrs. Alice Alexander on Temple Street.

Special Officer Jerry Remson had an exciting physical encounter with a burglar at the corner of Temple and Fremont streets last evening, but succeeded in holding his man.

Remson's attention was attracted by screams from the home of Mrs. Alice Alexander on Temple street, and at the same time he saw a man running from the house. The officer gave chase and overhauled the burglar—for such he proved to be.

Mrs. Alexander stated that the man had tried to pry open a window in the rear of the house, but was frightened away by her screams. Detective Quinn took the would-be house-breaker to the City Jail, where he gave his name as William Brock.

He is a negro about 20 years of age, and says he came here only recently from Birmingham, Ala., but the police think that many small burglaries which have been committed recently should be credited to him.

BROKE HIS NECK.

Employe of Los Angeles Brick Company Killed by Getting Caught in Machinery.

Walter Finnall, better known as Harry Fernald, an employé of the Los Angeles Brick Company, got caught in the belting of the new brick plant in the Chaves Ravine, near Elysian Park, yesterday morning, and was killed.

No one knows exactly how the accident happened. There were no eye-witnesses. Finnall's work was at the top of the building, where he had charge of some dumping and grinding machinery. The belting is in a pit in the basement, and is accessible only through a narrow arched passage. Finnall's duties did not require him to go into this pit. But there is where his dead body was found.

Cards are stuck up about the works warning employés not to oil the machinery or try to put on belts while any of the shafting is in motion. Finnall had been in the employ of the company for several years, and none understood the machinery better, or was more familiar with the rules, than he. No one saw him go into the pit, but it is supposed he crawled in under the belts for the purpose of fixing something that he though was out of gear, without taking the precaution of stopping the machinery.

The first intimation that any of the other employés had that something was wrong, was about 7 o'clock, soon after the works were started up for the day, when the machinery suddenly stopped by the slipping of a belt. One of the men crawled into the pit to readjust the belt, and while working there he found Finnal's body. His neck had been caught between two parallel belts and was broken. There were no marks on the body, except an abrasion on the front of the neck where the belts had choked him. The shirt had been stripped from the body, and it is thought it was through this garment getting caught on the head of a bolt on a revolving shaft that his head was drawn between the belts which strangled him.

Finnell was a young man, not yet out of his twenties, and was formerly a barkeeper. He was considered one of the best workmen in the employ of the brick company, and was well liked by his fellow-workmen. He was married, but had no children. He lived at Castellar and New Depot streets. Mrs. Finnall has been very ill for some time, and friends feared to break the news of her husband's death to her, for fear that she would not be able to withstand the shock.

The body was sent to Pierce Bros'. morgue, where an inquest will be held.

Evidently he considers Japanese suzerainty as a choice between two evils, and something to be feared if Japan be victorious.

"Do you think the Japanese have any chance of winning?"

"I cannot say. It is difficult," he replied. "Russia is a great nation, and proud of its big cold country. The Russian soldiers are over three million in number. Every Japanese soldier is fighting his own battles, the war is his own war, and every person in Japan feels so.

"They are winning some battles, too, and maybe they will take Vladivostok and Port Arthur. Then Russia would be shut off for a time, with no harbor for her ships. But Japan cannot penetrate to St. Petersburg. She will be like Napoleon; her armies will suffer and die of cold. She fears that if she wins in the beginning Russia may prepare anew, and come back again and again.

"The Korean soldiers would make good fighters," Mr. Cynn said, "if they took part in the war. They are good in any competition, for their brains are bright, but they lack patriotism."

WAS A PRISONER.

The reason of the poor showing which his country has made in the affairs of nations this twenty-year-old philosopher reluctantly attributes to an unscrupulous King and a fearfully corrupt government. His opinion may be based somewhat on his personal experience, in having spent seventeen months in one of the worst prisons in Korea for being suspected of heading a plot to overthrow the Emperor. What he really did was to be the president of a literary society which favored foreign education for the Korean youth. He was released from his miserable incarceration before his three years' sentence was served, and came to America to take the course of a medical missionary.

He was educated in the Methodist Mission school in Seoul, and acted as druggist and interpreter at the mission hospital presided over by Dr. Harry C. Sherman, formerly of Los Angeles.

PATRIOTIC EXPRESSION.

"If Korea is not a free country when I return to it," he said, "I will give my life, if necessary, for its liberation. My friends say that I will only kill myself, but I tell them that no great reform was ever begun without the shedding of some one's blood."

He has planned, if his country preserves its independence, to reach the people through the offices of a medical adviser and through that channel to give them the Christian religion, which he confidently believes will be the means of accomplishing their moral and political regeneration.

FINE OR JAIL FOR GRIFFITH.

Convicted of Assault With a Deadly Weapon.

Jury Leaves His Fate to Court's Discretion.

Locked up Until Saturday, Pending Sentence.

After six hours' wrangling, the jury at 9:20 o'clock last night brought in a verdict of "guilty" against Col. Griffith J. Griffith—guilty of assault with a deadly weapon, a lesser offense than charged.

The punishment may be either a fine, not to exceed $5000, or imprisonment either in the County Jail or State's prison not to exceed a period of two years. It lies in Judge Smith's discretion, next Saturday morning, to make Griffith either a felon or fix the offense as a misdemeanor.

Griffith's lawyers are so well satisfied that Judge Smith will be merciful, that both Rogers and McKinley stated positively last night that no appeal will be taken.

They held a consultation with Judge Smith after the verdict, and Rogers came out laughing. "Well, it is pretty good to get him off on a misdemeanor, isn't it?"

Like any other convicted prisoner, Griffith was taken to the County Jail under guard and locked up for the night.

He was wilted—crushed.

It was hard to realize that the humbled, hunched-up little man with pleading eyes, who crept off to jail last night between two officers, was the Griffith who used to go swaggering around town with an eloquent cane and flashing eyes.

Waiting there hour after hour in the dim half-lit courtroom, almost empty and indescribably desolate, and knowing that behind that fatal door in the corner a dozen men were debating whether to ruin his life or not, was too much for even his iron nerves.

His drawn face looked like the face of a dead man when the jury entered.

He had hit about all the human emotions in the course of yesterday, and aching despair was the last.

ASHAMED AND ANGRY.

He was ashamed and hot as blazes by turns while Gage was cracking it into him during the last argument. He looked as though he would like to get up and "soak" the lawyer behind the ear with a brick.

He didn't like being compared to Cain or having it said that his nature and conduct were so depraved that his acts could not be comprehensible to decent men. Neither was he pleased to hear his Griffith Park characterized in scorn as "a breeding place for jackass rabbits, long-tailed lizards and rattlesnakes."

He got a scalding roast. He took it hunched up and glaring out from beneath his eyebrows.

The courtroom was suffocating during the last scenes of the trial—the sickening heat of close-packed human beings and the deadly used-up air so thick and foul with human breath that it could be carried out in chunks.

Judge Smith said so many people were never there before.

The lobbies and aisles were so full that had a woman fainted, she would have been held standing, immovable, by the pressure of the crowd.

Lawyers of gravity and dignity sat around on the floor, with their legs stretched out in front of them like newsboys.

Gage closed his argument at about 3 o'clock, and Judge Smith read instructions to the jury for half an hour.

One of the instructions he gave was that, if the jury found Griffith to be sane, and found that he had pointed the revolver at Mrs. Griffith, it mattered not whether he meant to kill her or not, he would still be guilty of assault with a deadly weapon.

At last he said mildly, "Swear an officer, Mr. Clerk."

LONG TRIAL ENDS.

And that was the end of the Griffith trial.

As soon as a way could be cleared through the crowd, the jurymen filed out and were locked in their room.

A hundred or more persons waited until dinner time for the jury to come back.

Judge Smith went home about 5. The jury was taken out under heavy guard to dinner at 5:30.

Griffith was allowed to go to dinner at a café in charge of a deputy sheriff, who ate with him.

The crowd was not allowed to return after dinner. People were stopped by the Courthouse night watchmen unless they had business with the court.

At 7 o'clock the bailiff, a private detective for Col. Griffith, and a newspaper reporter, were sitting in the gloomy courtroom when Judge Smith entered briskly.

"Go see if they have agreed," he said to the bailiff. "Tell them the court wants to know."

The bailiff went to the door and rapped. A pause. A head appeared around the corner of the door in a haze of tobacco smoke.

A whispered question.

The juror shook his head and said in a tone of disgusted emphasis, "No."

The bailiff looked around at the judge and whispered again.

"No, no prospect," said the juror, sourly.

JUDGE SMITH CHUCKLES.

The door had hardly been closed, however, when another rap came. The bailiff opened to the peering head again. They wanted certain instructions.

Whisperings. Judge Smith shook his head. "Tell them I shall have to bring them into court."

Happy thought. "Wait," he said. "They must make the request in writing."

Judge Smith stuck on his nose glasses when the paper came, and chuckled with glee. Ordered some of the lawyers for the defense sent for.

WHAT WAS "IT?"

McKinley hurried in. Judge Smith chuckled and whispered again. McKinley not gleeful. Grave. Solemn. Didn't want the court to do it; whatever it was.

Maj. Jones sent for. He protested with heat against the court doing "it."

Judge Smith, however, was tickled. Had the jury brought into court. Read the paper, which was a request for information as to the penalties which may be inflicted for assault with a deadly weapon. "Something they have nothing to do with," said the judge, "but then——" He told them.

About 8:30, when several more lawyers had arrived, the judge sent the bailiff to rap on the door again.

The officer came out and he and the judge stuck their heads together.

The bailiff was observed to shake his head gloomily and answer "Small."

Which evidently alluded to prospects of agreement.

Griffith began to be cheerful and talked long and earnestly with his two brothers, who waited with him.

His face suddenly paled when a rap came at the door at 9:15.

He turned his revolving chair and turned to the court a countenance of awful hopelessness. He looked years older. The stiffness went out of his spine. He was limp and cowering. As he heard the slow words of the verdict, he seemed to crumple into his chair. His only motion was to constantly pinch his lower lip.

Then he crept pathetically up close to one of his attorneys—an abject appeal for comfort.

GRIFFITH IN JAIL.

But where was there comfort?

The Sheriff said: "Come, Mr. Griffith."

With a last appealing look he walked out at the head of a little procession.

At the head of the stairs he said good-by to his brothers; hesitated a moment; then hurried back into the office of the Public Administrator, where Earl Rogers and his other lawyers were waiting. He was frantic, as though he must find a way not to go to that jail.

The Sheriff waited for him at the head of the stairs. Griffith said something to him very low in an appealing way. Then they trooped silently downstairs, and across the street, where the great steel door opened and clanged shut on Griffith.

Strange to say, waiting in the jail office, he recovered his spirits somewhat; roused from gloomily staring at the jailor's desk, took papers out of his pocket, examined them; yawned. Put them away. Waited sleepily.

He was not locked in the general tanks, but in a separate cell, where there is a bed.

He will have to stay in jail until Saturday.

HOLDS TIGHT TO BURGLAR.

OFFICER REMSON MAKES A SURE-ENOUGH CATCH.

Pursues and Has Exciting Physical Encounter With Colored Man Who Runs from the House of Mrs. Alice Alexander on Temple Street.

Special Officer Jerry Remson had an exciting physical encounter with a burglar at the corner of Temple and Fremont streets last evening, but succeeded in holding his man.

Remson's attention was attracted by screams from the home of Mrs. Alice Alexander on Temple street, and at the same time he saw a man running from the house. The officer gave chase and overhauled the burglar—for such he proved to be.

Mrs. Alexander stated that the man had tried to pry open a window in the rear of the house, but was frightened away by her screams. Detective Quinn took the would-be house-breaker to the City Jail, where he gave his name as William Brock.

He is a negro about 30 years of age, and says he came here only recently from Birmingham, Ala., but the police think that many small burglaries which have been committed recently should be credited to him.

BROKE HIS NECK.

Employee of Los Angeles Brick Company Killed by Getting Caught in Machinery.

Walter Finnall, better known as Harry Fernald, an employé of the Los Angeles Brick Company, got caught in the belting of the new brick plant in the Chaves Ravine, near Elysian Park, yesterday morning, and was killed.

No one knows exactly how the accident happened. There were no eye-witnesses. Finnall's work was at the top of the building, where he had charge of some dumping and grinding machinery. The belting is in a pit in the basement, and is accessible only through a narrow arched passage. Finnall's duties did not require him to go into this pit. But there is where his dead body was found.

Cards are stuck up about the works warning employés not to oil the machinery or try to put on belts while any of the shafting is in motion. Finnall had been in the employ of the company for several years, and none understood the machinery better, or was more familiar with the rules, than he. No one saw him go into the pit, but it is supposed he crawled in under the belts for the purpose of fixing something that he though was out of gear, without taking the precaution of stopping the machinery.

The first intimation that any of the other employés had that something was wrong, was about 7 o'clock, soon after the works were started up for the day, when the machinery suddenly stopped by the slipping of a belt. One of the men crawled into the pit to readjust the belt, and while working there he found Finnal's body. His neck had been caught between two parallel belts and was broken. There were no marks on the body, except an abrasion on the front of the neck where the belts had choked him. The shirt had been stripped from the body, and it is thought it was through this garment getting caught on the head of a bolt on a revolving shaft that his head was drawn between the belts which strangled him.

Finnell was a young man, not yet out of his twenties, and was formerly a barkeeper. He was considered one of the best workmen in the employ of the brick company, and was well liked by his fellow-workmen. He was married, but had no children. He lived on Castellar and New Depot streets. Mrs. Finnall has been very ill for some time, and friends feared to break the news of her husband's death to her, for fear that she would not be able to withstand the shock.

The body was sent to Pierce Bros.' morgue, where an inquest will be held.

FOR ARBOR DAY.

A meeting will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of the Civic Federation, to hear the reports of the committees appointed at the convention last month to arrange the details of Arbor Day, and to make further arrangements for the tree-planting event set for March 17. The Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West will be represented at today's meeting, and all persons interested in the Arbor Day movement are invited to be present.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Mayor Snyder returned yesterday from a 6000-mile trip through the republic of Mexico.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association yesterday discovered an ordinance which prohibits advertising cans for waste being placed on the sidewalks.

A new attempt to submit an issue of library bonds may be made with the approval of Mayor Snyder, who said yesterday that he still favors a building in Central Park.

John A. Coulter and Mrs. M. E. Coulter are airing their troubles in the attempt to get a divorce, and interest is injected by an allegation regarding the poisoning of a sister of Mr. Coulter and the nurse attending her.

Mrs. Marlow has begun suit against the Southern Pacific Company to recover $10,000 as damages for being ejected from the train at Colton while on her way to Arizona.

After being married for twenty years Palmer Bigelow has tried to get his marriage annulled, but Judge York has turned him down.

AT THE CITY HALL.

MAYOR RETURNS FROM MEXICO.

GIVES INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF LONG TRIP.

Admires Police Department of City of Mexico—Mayor Will Oppose Rubbish Cans on Street and Favor Submission of Library Bonds.

"Americans and the results of American enterprises are in evidence everywhere in Mexico," said Mayor Snyder yesterday morning.

The "Mayor from Mexico" had just returned, after a tour of over 6000 miles, during which he and Mrs. Snyder were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Doheny in their private car "Estelle." This car is a veritable rolling palace, and said to be the finest that ever passed over the Mexican Central Railway.

The party arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock, having been away twenty-seven days.

"Mexico has a great future before it," continued the Mayor. "I had no idea of the resources and possibilities of that country until I saw it with my own eyes. If I was twenty-five years younger, I would plan to go to Mexico and reap some of the benefits from the remarkable development which seems assured."

While in the southern republic, the Mayor was accorded every opportunity to see the country, and become acquainted with its official customs. He was treated with the utmost consideration by all the officials, from President Diaz down, and was able to make his visit instructive as well as enjoyable.

The Mayor was greatly shocked by scenes he witnessed at a bullfight in the City of Mexico.

"It was without doubt the most cruel spectacle I ever saw," said he yesterday. "Six horses were gored by the bulls and dragged from the field, and two of the bulls were finally killed by the matadors. One of the maddened animals, after receiving two thrusts of the sword, jumped the inner fence of the inclosure, which was about eight feet high, and caused no end of trouble before he was dragged back on the field and given a final sword thrust. I am surprised that any civilized country would permit such exhibitions. Before it was ended, I had seen more than I wished and left the grand stand. One thing is sure: The cruelties of the bullfight have not been overdrawn."

This trip to the bullfight came near ending with the Mayor in the Mexican jail. He went alone. At the gate he paid $4 in Mexican money, and walked into the inclosure and up two flights of stairs, where he found he had not received the necessary ticket, entitling him to a seat. The attendant let loose a volley of Castilian words which the Mayor was unable to understand. Just as the argument was becoming heated the Chief of Police happened along and rescued the Mayor, whom he escorted to his own box, and introduced to a number of prominent officials.

"The Chief of Police in the City of Mexico is an official of great consequence. When the predecessor of the incumbent died a few weeks ago he was accorded a military funeral, in which about 5000 men participated.

"The City of Mexico has a remarkable police department," said the Mayor yesterday. "There are 2000 patrolmen to cover fourteen square miles of territory, and 600 mounted officers. When the policemen go out on their beats at night they take with them lighted lanterns. These are set in the street near the center of the beats. If any one can steal a policeman's lantern and take it to headquarters he can have the place of the officer on the force, or a reward. In either event the policeman loses his position. By this method the authorities guard against any lack of vigilance on the part of the officers."

Just what would happen to a man who tried to steal a lantern and failed the Mayor was not prepared to state.

What impressed the Mayor most about the city of Mexico was its excellent sewer system and the method adopted for flushing it. The flushing is done systematically, a mechanical contrivance registering the exact time when each flush tank is opened. Beginning at the point of highest elevation, water is forced into the pipes under pressure, and by a system of flood gates and flush tanks, is sent through the sewer with a rush that flushes it entirely clean. The great outfall system of the City of Mexico runs eighty miles, passing through tunnels in the mountains, until it reaches an outlet in a river that runs to the Gulf.

President Porfirio Diaz received the Mayor at his city apartments and accorded him much distinguished consideration. President Diaz speaks little English, but he contrived to make the Mayor feel entirely at his ease.

"All the people seem to love Diaz," commented the Mayor yesterday. "Of course, everybody knows that, although Mexico is a republic in name, it is actually one of the most absolute monarchies on earth. It is fortunate for Mexico that its President is a man of high ideals."

The rate of exchange when the Mayor reached Mexico was 2.21, and it seemed to him an easy method of getting rich to hand a bank cashier a $100 bill and receive $220 in exchange. The war in the Far East, however, has forced the rate down now to about 2.02.

"You need never know that you are out of California when traveling in Mexico," said the Mayor. "The climate is much the same, and in official circles the English language is rapidly coming into favor. Several of the Senators whom I met were taking daily lessons in English, and their children, in many cases, are being educated in American schools and colleges."

The Doheny party visited the tropical section of Mexico and saw acres and acres of magnificent palm trees growing wild. Bright-plumaged parrots by the thousands flitted among the trees, and bands of monkeys played in the jungles. Many deer were seen. At Tampico on the Gulf of Mexico the party spent a pleasant day about the markets. Canoes from all the neighboring rivers come laden with bananas, cocoanuts and other tropical fruits, and competition is very keen. Senator Moran, son-in-law of Don Señor Mascarel, formerly Minister from Mexico at Washington, accompanied the party on this trip.

Other distinguished men of Mexico who did much to make the visit of the Mayor interesting, were Don José Limantour, Minister of Finance, and Señor Ramon Corral, formerly Governor of Chihuahua, both of whom are supposed to be in line for the Presidency should Diaz retire; Senator Casasaus, a prominent attorney; Guillermo Landa y Escandon, Governor of the Federal district, and Roberto Gayol, chief engineer of the City of Mexico.

On the paseo leading from the City of Mexico to Chapultepec of a Sunday afternoon all the beauty and wealth of the Mexican capital is paraded, and the Mayor was astonished at the Parisian dresses and immaculate attire of the citizens. This driveway is about 200 feet wide and details of police are stationed short distances apart for its entire length.

Wages in Mexico are not excessively high. Policemen receive $30 of Mexican money a month. House servants are paid from $4 to $8 a month, and about 17 cents a day is accounted sufficient for their support.

While in the City of Mexico Mrs. Snyder visited two of her cousins, L. F. Wemple, assistant passenger and freight agent of the Mexican Central Railway, and Ross Wemple, one of a syndicate that holds thousands of acres of land on the isthmus.

MAYOR'S VIEWS.

FAVORS LIBRARY BOND ISSUE.

Despite all that has occurred during his absence, Mayor Snyder is still in favor of submitting library bonds to a vote of the people.

"I always endeavor," said he yesterday, "to be guided by the popular will. I have found that that is usually the safest and best course. I believe that ninety-nine times out of one hundred the majority of the people are right. Therefore when it is possible without extra expense to the city to submit library bonds to a vote of the people, I am in favor of so doing."

The Mayor followed up this diplomatic utterance by saying that he was in favor of building a library in Central Park, and always has been.

"The City Attorney says we can build it there, and I believe it would improve the appearance of the park 100 per cent," said the Mayor. "It's all foolishness to say that the submission of the library bonds will endanger the water bonds. Those water bonds will be voted 8 to 1, in spite of all the riders that can be tacked on. The Council had no right to bargain with the bankers, if they did, to withhold other issues of bonds in consideration of the purchase of the sewer securities."

It is possible that the Mayor's utterances will cause a renewed attempt to put the library bonds to a popular vote. The Republican majority in the Council, however, will doubtless think a considerable time before voting for the Democratic programme after President Bowen has vetoed the issue. This practical phase of the situation will not be discussed in the Council chamber, but it will cut a big figure in the privy councils of the Councilmen.

Todd voted against the bonds before. President Bowen and Davenport are opposed to an issue of library bonds at the present time. The other six members of the Council—four Republicans and two Democrats—must vote solid for the issue, or it cannot be submitted.

If anything is done in the matter, it is probable that a compromise issue for the construction of an addition to the City Hall will receive considerable support at the hands of the legislators.

OWN FRANCHISE.

SIXTH STREET CONCESSION.

After playing the game of battledore and shuttlecock with J. Ross Clark, E. H. Harriman, G. G. Johnson and other persons, whose names have been connected in one way and another with the famous $110,000 Sixth-street franchise, the Los Angeles Railway Company stepped out in the open yesterday, and through Dunn & Crutcher paid an assessment on the franchise.

Apparently that settles the ownership at least for yesterday.

The franchise was assessed $43.75 for the widening of Sixth street from Figueroa to Fremont avenue. Col. W. G. Schreiber has been trying to collect the money for weeks. When he went to J. Ross Clark he was sent to G. G. Johnson, and Johnson passed him over to the Huntingtons, and so on.

On the voucher turned in yesterday are the names of G. J. Johnson, C. A. Henderson and Howard E. Huntington, the latter now being general manager of the Los Angeles Railway Company.

THOSE WASTE CANS.

ADVERTISING IS FORBIDDEN.

Ordinance No. 4833, new series, passed by the City Council forbids the placing of advertising on rubbish cans or other device set upon the sidewalk. After declaring that the maintenance of signs, bulletin boards and devices of like character along, over and upon the streets of the city is a nuisance, the ordinance says:

"It shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to extend, suspend, erect, place, or maintain, or cause to be maintained, any sign board, sign post, sign device of any character, or bulletin board, or post or similar device, over, along or upon any public street, sidewalk, alley or place of the city of Los Angeles."

This ordinance would appear to give the knockout blow to the advertising rubbish can franchise. It was unearthed by Secretary F. J. Zeehandelaar of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. Yesterday he sent a communication to the Council, calling attention to the ordinance provision.

"If those cans are ever put on the street, there will be a hot time for a while," said Secretary Zeehandelaar. "There are many members of this association who are determined to take an ax and cut the things in pieces before submitting to their being placed along the sidewalk."

It is doubtful if the Council will consider the franchise further. Mayor Snyder would undoubtedly veto the measure, as he said yesterday in reply to a question:

"I did not see any such cans in the City of Mexico, and I hope I may never see them anywhere."

HANGING OUT FAMILY WASH.

AGED JOHN COULTER SAYS HIS WIFE "NAGGED" HIM.

But More Serious Charges Are Made to Enliven the Divorce Suit. One Witness Tells of a Dish of Poisoned Tapioca.

John A. Coulter and Mrs. May E. Coulter are engaged in fighting out their family quarrels in Judge Trask's court in the endeavor to procure a divorce. The husband is the plaintiff to the action, but the wife is not aching to remain tied up to him, though she strongly denies the nasty little flings he is making at her.

As disclosed by the testimony the actual grounds for the divorce as claimed by Mr. Coulter is "nagging." For ability to make his life miserable by her nagging ways Coulter averred his wife had been a pronounced success. But that is scarcely legal ground for a divorce, and so cruelty is charged, and kleptomania and poisoning are run in merely as side issues.

The Coulters used to live in San Bernardino and the family scraps began there. The husband told about some of the little naggy ways that ruffled his feelings and then proceeded to tell about a visit made to them by a niece of Mrs. Coulter's and her mother. He said the girl proved to be a regular kleptomaniac and was continually finding things before they were lost. Neighbors visiting missed money, and things became so strained that he had to clear both mother and niece out.

The poisoning episode was testified to by Mrs. Kinney, a sister of Mr. Coulter's, in her deposition, and also by a professional nurse, Miss Ross. Mrs. Kinney and her husband visited the Coulters by invitation, after the latter had established themselves in Los Angeles. But Mrs. Kinney said that their visit, though quite lively, was not altogether enjoyable. Mrs. Coulter kept things in a ferment all the time, and finally Mrs. Kinney became very ill. It was testified to that her life was despaired of by her physician, and during her illness she was attended by Miss Ross, a professional nurse summoned for the purpose. When convalescent Mrs. Kinney said that both she and the nurse were poisoned by eating some tapioca that had been prepared by Mrs. Coulter, and that they were very ill as a result.

When Miss Ross went upon the witness stand she said that she was horribly sick after partaking of the tapioca, but she did not refer to Mrs. Kinney having been afflicted in the same way.

The Coulters lived in a big house on La Grande street, but when husband and wife got tired of one another's company they divided up. The wife remained in the big house and the husband took possession of a small cottage in the rear of the premises. The husband said that his wife rented part of the house out, but she couldn't keep anybody very long, and when she did have anyone she told them to keep quiet as to what rent they were paying so that he would not be informed. She told the renters if he learned the exact figure he would cut short on the weekly allowance.

This is about as far as the washing of the family linen has progressed. And Mrs. Coulter has yet to have her turn in showing up the peccadilloes of her ancient spouse. He is 65 years of age and she has touched the 60 mark, and as it always takes two to make a quarrel, Mrs. Coulter is prepared to give her version of the family difficulties.

DIVORCE DENIED.

BIGELOW REMAINS MARRIED.

Palmer Bigelow has long passed his green and salad days, and he wanted to get divorced from his wife without a divorce. He thought that he saw a way open to attain his end by bringing an action for annulment of his marriage to Elizabeth Bigelow, and he followed that plan.

In beginning the action Bigelow stated that he had married his present wife on August 2, 1885—just about twenty-two years ago, but he said that at the time of that marriage he had discovered that he hadn't been divorced from his first wife, Fannie Bigelow. As a matter of fact, however, the decree had not been entered until November 2, 1882, or three months after he had committed matrimony for the second time. Palmer Bigelow therefore argued that his marriage to Elizabeth was void at the time of its solemnization. About four months after their marriage both Bigelow and his wife discovered that the prior marriage had only recently been dissolved, and yet they continued to maintain the relations of husband and wife.

In passing upon these facts Judge York turns down the application of Palmer Bigelow. He holds that the Civil Code, at the time when the second marriage was contracted, prescribed that marriage is a personal relation wherein consent followed by a mutual assumption of marital rights, duties and obligations, completes the marriage, and inasmuch as both parties consented to the marriage after the impediment had been removed, and complied with all the requirements of the then law, they were in fact legally married about twelve years before the section of the code was amended in 1895.

Judge York also says that after living with his wife for nearly twenty years he does not stand in a very favorable light before the court, and the relief asked for is denied.

INGERSOLL WEEPS.

TESTIMONY AFFECTS HIM.

C. K. Ingersoll, the Monrovia orange grower who is contesting the will of his late wife, Mrs. Rosetta Ingersoll, was on the witness stand in Judge Wilbur's court all of yesterday. Under the buidance of Mr. Valentine, his senior counsel, he went over all the facts tending to show the state of mind of his wife, particularly after the first and again after the second of the paralytic strokes. It was during this period that it is alleged that the deceased became mentally weak, and lent herself easily to the suggestive influence of her brother, Mr. Elliott. The latter will be heard from toward the end of the case.

Ingersoll is a most lachrymose witness, and wept at a greater rate yesterday than the day before. He had been speaking of the differences that had arisen between himself and wife after her mind became clouded, as part of the effect of the two paralytic strokes. She longed for her brother to arrive from the East.

"One day," said the witness, "I remember her putting her head in her hand and saying: 'Oh, my, my, why don't Luch come?' I told her that I had written several times to him, and also to her sister," said Ingersoll, as the handkerchief came into use, "and she went on again: 'Oh, my, my, if he don't come soon I'll commit suicide. Yes, Charley,' she said 'you may find me some morning on the floor dead.'"

The reminiscence was harrowing as Mr. Ingersoll proceeded, "'No, no, Maw,' I said, 'that won't happen while I'm around.'" Here the witness was quite overcome.

"She told me that she wanted him," said he, "and that what her brother told her that she would do."

With that little episode ended the direct examination of Mr. Ingersoll, and he was next taken in hand by Attorney Stephens, who on cross-examination began his questioning by seeking to discover just how far the emotional nature of Mr. Ingersoll had an effect on his deceased wife.

"I have noticed that you have broken down and wept frequently during the examination ——" he began.

The question was never finished, for prompt objections were made, but the question was allowed. Then Mr. Ingersoll denied that he is of an emotional temperament or that he is easily moved to tears. He also denied that he opened the floodgates repeatedly in the presence of neighbors when talking about matters between himself and wife, or that he did so while conversing with his wife.

During all of the afternoon Mr. Ingersoll was examined regarding his relations with his wife, the dispute they had during her later life over investments and so on. The witness said that for the last fifteen years his wife had been in the habit of looking over the advertising columns of the paper, and latterly she would tell him that he ought to buy this bit of property or that—just as something struck her fancy. But Mr. Ingersoll said that it took him all his time to keep things going and maintain his family.

CRANDALLS' DIVORCE.

RID OF WIFE OF CONVENIENCE.

Frank D. Crandall was yesterday granted a divorce from his May.

Merely for purposes of defense it is sometimes very convenient for a man being tried for murder to have a wife. It is not that she may be filed as an exhibit in the case exactly, but rather that she may not figure in the role of a witness possessed of damaging knowledge.

And that's just how matters stood with Frank D. Crandall, known among his intimates a few years ago as "Doc." His doctoring was with horses—when he did any—but about the time he was married he was having a gay time with certain boson companions. He and Frank Bowman, as well as one or two others, made up a kind of picnic party on the Santa Monica sands, and there Bowman was shot and killed. "Doc" Crandall was arrested and charged with the murder. One of the women included in the picnic party, between whom and Crandall no especial affection had been suspected before that, suddenly developed an overweening affection for the accused, and he, too, found the inclosed walls of the jail conducive to thoughts of love. Finally, a marriage was brought about between the prisoner and the girl supposed to be pining away for lack of the man she loved.

At the trial the defense claimed that it had been asserted the marriage had been brought about for the purpose of invoking the law, which requires that a wife shall not be required to testify against the husband. With vehement voice and impressive gesture the attorney said they were perfectly willing that Mrs. Crandall should go upon the witness stand, and tell all she knew. The prosecution, however, refused the offer. Then the defense called Mrs. Crandall and she gave testimony—as might have been anticipated—that was absolutely valueless. The marriage served all the purposes contemplated.

By the irony of fate it was Judge Trask that tried the Crandall murder case, and it was Judge Trask that yesterday heard the divorce case. The court remembered all about the old trouble, and the sharp practice "love" marriage, and questioned some of the witnesses as well as the divorce demanding husband pretty sharply.

After having satisfied himself that Crandall was the same old Crandall that had been tried for the murder of "Jack" Bowman, Judge Trask put the question quite abruptly.

"Wasn't she a prostitute before you married her, and living in a house below the Westminster?"

"Doc" wasn't feased for a minute. He denied the allegation, and said that his wife was a nice girl before her marriage, and only since that time had she wandered from the paths of rectitude and virtue."

At the murder trial it was conceded by Crandall that he was living with May Frowess, the girl to whom he was married.

As for the house mentioned by the court, "Doc" said that it was much like a dozen of all rooming-houses, but enjoyed an aroma of respectability by reason of the fact that a police officer lived there—had the next room to "Doc." A little later, however, it developed that this police officer was a close relative of the girl herself.

"How long did you live with your wife after your trouble" inquired the court.

"I lived with her a year," said Crandall; then, thinking better of it, he corrected himself, "I supported her a year, but I didn't live with her that long. In fact, I didn't live with her at all, but I just supported her."

"You see, Judge," and Crandall spoke in a low, confidential tone, "my trouble lasted for twenty-two months, and when I got out I went to her and talked matters over. I offered to take her out on the ranch, but she wouldn't go. I learned that she had a sweetheart, and shortly afterward she went to San Francisco."

The fact that Mrs. Crandall refused to go to the home offered to her by her husband placed her in the wrong, and afforded scope for the nasty allegations that followed.

And on this basis "Doc" Crandall, veterinary surgeon and dentist, went out of court divorced from the woman with whom he lived before marriage, but not after the ceremony, but who, nevertheless, proved at the least a very serviceable wife to him.

EJECTED FROM TRAIN.

MAN AND WIFE ASK DAMAGES.

Edward Marlow and his wife, Mrs. E. Marlow, want $10,000 as damages for inconvenience, nervous shock and other kinds of things that are alleged to have been occasioned by the Southern Pacific Company, and its servants. Mrs. Marlow is the particularly aggrieved party, her husband merely suffering indirectly through her and necessarily becoming party to the action.

On November 23 of last year it is set out in the complaint placed on file that Mrs. Marlow and her infant child took train at this city to go to Maricopa, Ariz., and there take the connecting line and proceeded to Phoenix. She had provided herself with a ticket for which she had signed, and imagined that she was fully equipped for the journey.

When the conductor came along he challenged Mrs. Marlow, so she avers, and denied that she was the person named on the ticket she presented. She says that she tried her utmost to prove to him that she was the identical person, but he would not be convinced. Then he demanded that she pay her fare. She wouldn't do it. Upon reaching Colton she was ordered off the car, and she says that she was ejected from the train with violence.

At this time Mrs. Marlow avers that she was nursing her infant, and that what she then endured has had such an effect that she doubts whether she will ever recover from the effects of the injuries. In these premises both she and her husband think that about $10,000 will be an amount that will serve as reasonable damages.

DEFENDS "EQUITABLE."

SAYS PLAN IS REPUTABLE.

With reference to the recent decision of Justice Pierce against the Equitable Building and Trust Company, C. E. Furgason of No. 122 North Avenue 19 gives a list of eleven persons who, he says, have homes either purchased or built with funds furnished by that concern. A list of the locations of properties on which the loans are said to have been made is given. The correspondent says that at least forty persons have received loans from the company on mortgage securities. The company's financial report for the year ended last December is stated as showing loans amounting to $65,804.04. It is further said that the company is not organized for the purpose of feathering the pockets of the officers, but that, on the contrary, it is conducted economically. The plan of the company's operations is declared to be practicable for people of moderate incomes to combine their funds and help one another build homes.

COURT NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

GOING TO CHINA. Seven Chinese were brought from San Diego yesterday en route to San Francisco where they will be deported to the Celestial kingdom. Two are held in this city for the same purpose, and all will go north together today.

LINARES LEAVES. Victor Linares, the Spaniard who stood off the toughs in the old County Jail at the time they tried to make their escape, has gone north to begin his ten-year sentence for robbery. At the expiration of a year it is understood that he will be paroled.

AN EXPERT DRUNK. John Simpson McLean pleaded guilty to forging a check on the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank for $32, and was sentenced yesterday by Judge Smith. McLean is a chronic drinker, and as he stood at the bar his hands trembled and he appeared very much of a wreck. The check was made payable to John Simpson and was signed with his full signature. He said he was drunk when he did it, but the court thought he was pretty expert with the pen if that were true. Judge Smith sentenced the man to two years at Folsom.

GOT OFF EASY. Fred J. Collins pleaded guilty yesterday to burglary in the second degree and Judge Smith sent him to the reform school at Ione. Collins stole some clothing from several inmates of a house on Mesquite street, and when being examined refused to tell anything about his people. He said he didn't want to disgrace them as well as himself. He was under 18 years of age, and that saved him from the State's prison.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

WON'T BELIEVE COPS ON OATH.

TWO STUBBORN MEN HANG JURY IN LICENSE CASE.

Testimony of Police Not Sufficient to Satisfy Them—Ora Thompson to Have Retrial on Charge of Running Blind Pig.

The jury which tried Mrs. Ora Thompson, alias Cora Campbell, on the charge of selling intoxicating beverages without license, were unable to agree after being out about seven hours. They stood ten to two in favor of conviction.

The two stubborn jurors who stood out for a verdict of not guilty, gave as their reason for not agreeing with the majority, the fact that all the witnesses for the prosecution were policemen, and the prejudice of these two "good men and true" (sic) was so strong that they could not accept the sworn testimony of cops, unsupported by other evidence, as gospel truth.

The trial took place in Justice Austin's court Tuesday and was not concluded till late in the afternoon. The jurors were locked up after being taken out to supper by Bailiff Rosso, and were not released before 11 o'clock at night, when it became patent that they never would be able to agree on a verdict, since the two men who would not believe a policeman on oath were hopelessly obdurate.

The defendant is a portly blonde, who conducted an alleged sporting house on Wall street. At least the neighbors regarded it as such and complained to the police about it. Two "plain clothes" officers were detailed to find out the character of the place. Although perfect strangers to the female inmates, they readily gained admission on two occasions, ordered beer to treat the "ladies," paid 50 cents a bottle for it and had a hilarious time. All this the officers testified to at the trial and they introduced in evidence several bottles of the beer, the glasses and the corkscrew, which they confiscated when they arrested the landlady for selling intoxicating liquor without a license.

The defense was that Mrs. Thompson did not keep a stock of liquor on sale, but sent out specially for the bottles of beer which were served on the occasions when the thirsty cops honored her establishment with their presence.

Attorney Hugh J. Crawford, who conducted the defense, considers the hung jury almost as good as an acquittal. The case has been set for retrial March 22.

LIVE STOCK THIEVES.

TWO OF THEM HELD.

James Cronin and Louis James were held to answer for grand larceny, by Justice Austin yesterday afternoon, on evidence tending to show that they stole two cows from the pasture of Rancher Wilcut near Hobart Station. Small, their alleged accomplice, who was charged with receiving the stolen property, was discharged. The evidence showed that Small sold one of the cows to Rancher O'Donnell and turned the money over to Cronin, but it could not be shown that Small was aware that the cow was stolen property. A complaint was also filed yesterday against Cronin and another young man named Robert Batcheller, charging them with stealing a horse from Mrs. Atkinson, living near Whittier, but investigation showed that the horse belonged to William Anderson. The complaint naming Mrs. Atkinson as the owner of the horse was accordingly dismissed and a new complaint charging them with the larceny of Anderson's horse will be filed. Batcheller was arrested Tuesday by Detectives Shearon, Jones and Murphy, who have been working up a good case against a gang of youthful live-stock thieves.

A Window Smasher.

J. H. Birdsall, a drunken hobo, invaded the office of the California District Messenger Company in the Odd Fellows' building on South Main street, at 2:15 o'clock Wednesday morning, and smashed the plate-glass windows with a club. Patrolman W. E. Smith arrived on the scene just as he was finishing the job and arrested the miscreant. When Birdsall was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday afternoon he pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness, but said he could not remember anything about the window smashing. He was found guilty of malicious mischief and will be sentenced today.

Cruelty to a Horse.

Earl R. Lorence pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to a horse before Justice Austin yesterday, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $40. Lorence is an expressman, and while drunk a few days ago beat and drove a horse in a most inhumane manner. George Goldsworthy, who witnessed the brutality, reported the case to the Humane Society, and swore to a complaint against the culprit.

Livery Stable Case.

The trial of W. F. Wilson on the charge of conducting a livery stable on Thirty-fifth street, between Figueroa and Wesley avenue, contrarary to city ordinance, was continued for one week in the Police Court yesterday. Wilson claims the property was originally used as a livery stable, and that he merely moved there from his late location on South Figueroa street, but he forgot to provide himself with a permit from the fire department.

Police Court Notes.

The preliminary examination of W. W. Beach, a merry-go-round man, charged with indecent conduct toward little girls, was continued yesterday on motion of the defense, until March 7 at 2 o'clock p.m.

P. Hanson was fined $15 yesterday by Justice Austin for having lottery tickets in his possession.

Henry Albers, a poultry-food dealer, was fined $10 for battery committed on the person of J. W. Palmer, a bill collector, who was trying to collect a disputed account.

OPP. CITY HALL

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

LAST evening the home of Mrs. Frank B. Elberson was a bower of loveliness for the benefit of a host of friends from Danville, Ill. In fact, it was a tenderfoot party. Every one was delighted with the abundance of bright blossoms displayed in the rooms, especially were the callas appreciated, as many of the guests remembered cer- tain tiny plants with a single flower that they had treasured as a miser guards his gold in the frozen eastern land.

The hall was a mass of greenery, with smilax and asparagus plumosus, and the reception room was transformed into a garden of dainty blossoms. Large bowls filled with fragrant violets were about the room, and hyacinths in high vases added to the beauty. Smilax draped over the lace curtains and on the chandeliers, but the "piece de resistance" was the beautiful lily curtain which was draped between the reception room and cosy library. It was fashioned of the sweeping draperies of a large old fishnet filled with the nodding heads of many callas, and also smilax was airily interwoven among the brown meshes of the net, making a gracious and pleasing background for the pretty faces and gowns of the ladies.

Refreshments were served from small tables which were daintily set with cut glass and silver, and appropriate souvenirs were dear tiny little oranges tied with lavender bows. In the dining-room where these tables were set smilax and asparagus plumosus formed a striking setting for the bows of lavender ribbon which were stuck against the greenery in artistic profusion.

The porch was enclosed and trimmed with the berries and foliage of the pepper tree, and this was a tempting spot for couples who were seeking a quiet chat with old friends.

A punch bowl added to the joy of the evening, and it was presided over by Miss Zola Hanawalt. Two pretty little maids in light gowns, nieces of Mrs. Elberson, passed the punch, and in the course of the affair a musical programme was enjoyed. Miss Blanche Young, a graduate of the Cumnock School, gave several selections in a masterly way, which were greatly appreciated, and Miss Phillips of Danville, Ill., gave piano selections which were rendered with finish and fine execution. Other instrumental music was played, and the remainder of the evening was spent in renewing old friendships and making new ones. There were more than fifty guests entertained during the course of the evening.

—o—

King's Daughters.

A reception was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. D. S. Morse of the King's Daughters at her home, No. 1507 Maple avenue.

This worthy organization is doing much good, for it cares for the children of those mothers who are obliged to leave their little ones in order that they may earn their living. The children are cared for at the day nursery, No. 225 Turner street, which is supported by the daughters.

When the guests arrived for the occasion they found the reception hall festooned with red crepe paper and poinsettias were used effectively. In the parlors potted ferns and violets rested here and there on lace doilies. The dining-room was draped and trimmed with purple bands of crepe paper, bows of satin ribbon in the royal color of the King's Daughters, were artistically arranged. Low bowls filled with violets added to the grace of the table.

During the afternoon a delightful musical programme was rendered as follows: Vocal duet by Mrs. Massa and Mrs. A. Clewett; vocal solo, "Flee as a Bird," Mrs. J. H. Futerer; piano solo, Miss Nicholson; trio, "The Holy City," Mrs. J. H. Futerer, Mrs. Clewett and Mrs. Massa, accompanied by Miss Nicholson.

A delightful buffet luncheon was served from the dining-room, all the refreshments being in royal purple as far as possible.

The invited guests included Mrs. H. Jarvis, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. J. H. Futerer, Miss May Nicholson, Mrs. M. Clewett, Miss Addie Massa, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Frank Stodard, Mrs. Alfred, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. B. Hines, Mrs. Baum, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. L. B. Turnbul, Mrs. G. W. Smith, Mrs. E. A. Beardsley and Miss Florence Tatham.

Theater Party.

Tuesday evening Miss Cora Belle Bowins and Howard Rowins of No. 405 West Adams street entertained with a theater party at the Orpheum, in honor of Miss Bernice Field of Chicago. Miss Field has been visiting in this city, and leaves for the North this evening. After the play a supper was served at the Angelus Hotel to the guests.

Fortnightly Club.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Wheeler entertained the Fortnightly Whist Club at Christopher's on Broadway.

After the cards were finished prizes were awarded as follows: The first prize, a silver cream spoon, with a golden bowl, to Mrs. Warren S. Young; the second, a dainty cup and saucer, to Mrs. William Wallace McLeod. The first gentleman's prize went to William Brewster Smith, and was a bronze statue, "The Call of the Wild" by Jack London fell to Warren S. Young.

A banquet was served to the guests from a table on which shone numerous silver candelabra, shaded with green silk, and asparagus plumosus ferns were evident.

Those bidden to the party were Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Hesketh, Dr. Grace and Mrs. E. E. Wyckoff, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Simons, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Meekins, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Brewster Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Simons, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Heber, Mr. and Mrs. Warren S. Young, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Penny, Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Phillips, Mrs. George W. Randall and Frank Rinehart.

—o—

Eberle-Garrett.

With a basket of glowing scarlet carnations nodding just over their heads, yesterday at 1:30 o'clock Miss Josephine Eberle and Dr. E. H. Garrett were married in the parlors of the Broadway Christian Church, Rev. B. F. Coulter performing the ceremony.

The rooms were profusely decorated, smilax and greenery being arranged with pleasing effect, while the fragrance of many hyacinths filled the air. Calla lilies in baskets rested against the green background. Pepper berries and foliage also added to the beauty of the color scheme.

Little Miss Irene Carter, the granddaughter of Mrs. Emily Valentine of the Conservatory of Music, rendered the musical programme. She is the gold-medal pupil of the conservatory, and surely deserves the honor, for though a mere child in short dresses, she plays with rare feeling, and her execution is excellent.

The Mendelssohn "Wedding March" was rendered as the couple approached the altar, "O Promise Me" during the ceremony and afterward the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin."

Miss Helen Grosse, a girl friend of the bride, acted as usher and wore a dainty frock of white with a large bouquet of white violets as a corsage bouquet. A large picture hat of blue, framed her pretty face, and set off her costume.

The bride wore a handsome tailor gown of tan, and a hat of scarlet, with poppies on the brim finished her chic costume. She carried a bouquet of bride roses, tied with white satin ribbon.

The ceremony was singularly impressive as given by Rev. Coulter, and the bride made a dainty and attractive picture.

Mrs. Garrett is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Eberle of Downey, and Dr. Garrett is well known in this city, both socially and professionally.

Dr. and Mrs. Garrett left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip, after which they will be at home to their friends at No. 701 Grand avenue.

—o—

Chutes Party.

Count and Mrs. Jaro von Schmidt entertained a few guests last evening at the Ellery's Band concert at the Chutes Theater. After the music a supper was served to the guests at a downtown café. Dunn, Mrs. Elizabeth Prewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Griffith, Miss Waddilove and Miss Evelyn Prewitt.

—o—

Third Annual Ball.

Last evening the Seventh California Volunteer Association gave its third annual ball at Armory Hall. Great flags were looped up around the hall and potted ferns and plants lent grace to the whole. The Schoneman-Blanchard Orchestra furnished good music. During the course of the evening refreshments were served to the guests, who numbered about two hundred.

Austin at No. 230 West Twenty-first street, where a small company of friends was entertained at supper. Mr. and Mrs. White will live at No. 230 West Twenty-first street. Mr. White is credit man for the Nofsiger Lumber Company.

Sandy's Reasoning.

A lady meeting her gardener in the grounds said to him: "Sandy, I am surprised you do not marry. You have got a free house, coal and gas, also a weekly wage of thirty shillings, so I think all you want to complete your happiness is a wife."

And to lend weight to her argument she added: "Adam, who was the first gardener, was given a wife."

"True for ye, ma'am," replied Sandy, "but he hadn't her long till he lost his job."—[Tid-Bits.

NO CURE, NO PAY!

I want to talk to men who have pains and aches; who feel run down physically, who realize that the old "fire" and energy which was so evident in youth is absent now; men who can't stand the amount of exertion they could years ago. I want you—if that means you—to come to me, and if I say that I can cure you I don't ask you to pay me until I DO so. That is fair, surely. You take no chances, as I know what I can do, and I'll run the risk.

If it were not for the prejudice due to the great number of fakes in the land I would not be able to handle the business that would come to me. The "Free Belt" fraud and the "Free Drug" scheme, which are not free at all, have made every one skeptical, but I know that I have a good thing, and I'll hammer away until you know it.

Mr. A. Hubbs of Calistoga, Cal., says: "My rheumatism has entirely disappeared, my digestion is perfect. I have gained eight pounds in weight and all the symptoms of weakness are gone, which is remarkable, considering my age."

I have a cure in every town. Tell me where you live and I will give you the name of a man I've cured.

Tell me your trouble and I will tell you honestly whether I can cure you or not. If I can't cure you I don't want your money. I have been in this business 23 years, and I am the biggest man in it today by long odds, and I am growing yet, because I give every man all he pays for.

If you will come and see me I'll explain it to you. If you can't call let me send you my book, full of the things a man finds inspiring to strength and courage. Free if you send this ad.

China Flower Holders for Table Trimming.

For Short Stemmed Blossoms.

To Hold The Individual Bouquets

Basket supported by Figures.

THE hostess who likes to entertain informally and often will welcome the little table centrepieces in china which the shops are offering of late.

Thanks to these, it is now possible to arrange the flowers for a luncheon or little dinner in five minutes' time.

When a number of entertainments are given during a single season, anything that lightens the labor of preparation without detracting from the daintiness of the feast is of real interest.

This is especially true of hospitably inclined households where but one maid is kept.

Almost any variety of flowers can be suited in these new dishes. There are tall effects designed for chrysanthemums, iris or American Beauties; vases of moderate depth for carnations, narcissus and their ilk, while shallow basins, having just the necessary depth, suggest a decoration of violets or lilies of the valley.

Many of the new ornaments include human figures, those, for example, of nymphs, shepherdesses, fauns and children.

Sometimes the figures support baskets, basins or vases, which form the flower holders.

Other models are made up of blossoms, rocks and different natural objects, without human figures of any kind.

The illustrations show a number of the new dishes appropriately filled.

An especially pretty idea illustrated is that of the boutonniere centrepiece, to which many of the new ornaments lend themselves especially well.

A number of little bouquets, intended for distribution among the guests, are attached to strands of ribbon, and arranged in the dish. The ribbons fall over the sides, and come in contact with the water. At the conclusion of the feast each member of the party pulls a ribbon and obtains a bouquet.

AROUND THE COUNCIL TABLE

SOME INTERESTING TALKS WITH HOUSEWIVES AND PARENTS

By Marion Harland

EVERY TIME I read of any one asking about baby foods I am tempted to give my experience and tell of the food that brought relief to a household and comfort and health to the babies. To be brief, it is simply a gruel made of farina, with a very little sugar, a pinch of salt and a tablespoonful of cream. Or, begin with a teaspoonful and gradually increase. Be sure it is not scorched or lumpy or sour or too sweet. In short, make it good enough to eat one's self, which is a good standard. Babies are critical, and will not eat things that do not taste good. After a year's trial of all the patent foods on the market, the twins weighed eight and ten pounds, respectively; in a month people did not recognize them, they were so fat and rosy, as a result of farina alone. Feed them at regular intervals, but give them all they will eat when they are fed, and peace, comfort and happiness will surely follow.

AN INTERESTED READER.

IT IS WITH GENUINE PLEASURE that I endorse the formula just given for a home-made food for babies. Having seen five of my own grow strong and plump upon it, I feel that I, if anybody, should know how good and how safe it is when properly prepared. My recipe has appeared in the Parents' Corner. It was followed strictly every day, myself or the experienced nurse, who was with me for eight years, superintending the cooking. By the time the child was weaned she was a big eater of farina, and in no case did it disagree with the tender stomach. At first it was thinned with milk to the consistency of thick cream, and as the child's system required stronger food less liquid was added. At 18 months the little one ate the preparation as a pudding, with sugar and cream.

In no case did we have occasion to try another "food." Much is gained when one knows that one has a good thing and sticks to it.

Kissing Games

I SHOULD like to know your opinion as to the propriety of allowing boys and girls from twelve to fourteen years of age perfect liberty in kissing one another in games at an evening party, to the exclusion of nearly all other pleasures.

It is but a little while ago that my little daughter, of fourteen years, was asked to attend one of the said "Kissing Bees" given by several of her schoolmates. I look upon such games as highly improper, she did not attend—much to her sorrow and to my peace of mind.

Tell me—was I right in depriving her of that pleasure, or am I too severe with her?

You will greatly please a perplexed mother by answering at your earliest convenience. H. F.

MY ANSWER IS READY AND EMphatic. I consider kissing games for boys and girls of any age vulgarly improper. The sooner a girl learns that her lips are reserved for her nearest and dearest of kin, and are to be offered even then with discretion, the better for her morals and her health. If not indelicate, indiscriminate kissing is unwholesome. Diseases are more surely conveyed by the breath than in any other way. Some judicious mothers train their babies to offer the cheek or hand to the seeking lips of friend or visitor, and even deny themselves the pleasure of kissing the sweet mouths, lest incipient catarrh, dyspepsia or fever may lurk in the mother's system and be thus given to the baby.

Moreover, coarse romping between the sexes either offends a girl's sense of delicacy or blunts it.

Whipping in School

WHAT is your opinion of parents who will give the principal of a public school permission to whip their little seven-year-old boy? Is it possible that a child of that age should be beyond the control of its parents? How can a child treated thus have any love or respect for his father or mother? A number of cases of this kind have come to my notice this winter. I, with several others, am anxious to hear your views on this subject. L. O. A.

HERE AGAIN MY OPINION—whatever may be its worth—is "on tap." It has not swerved for forty years from the steady conviction that a child who has parents living, sane and sober, shall, hand, should never be chastised by any other hands than theirs. The indignities practiced by passionate teachers upon helpless, and often unoffending, pupils are an outrage to Christian civilization. Each parent, in my opinion, should have a distinct understanding on this point when a child is "entered" at school. He should engage to uphold the teacher's authority in every respect, promising to punish his child at home when word of the offense, its nature and extent is reported to him. I have known of dozens of cases in which chastisement has been unjustly administered by teachers, and, at least, three or four instances where serious harm to the child has resulted from corporal punishment received in school. An angry man's hand is cruelly heavy, and the flesh and bones of a seven-year-old are tender.

Let Her Enjoy Her Youth

I AM a girl of 20 and the letter from "A Prisoner" in your last "corner" has made such an impression on me that I must write to you and her. Poor girl! I feel so sorry for her! How dreadful it must be to know that your mother cannot enter into your pleasures and sorrows! I can think of nothing more pitiful than a mother and daughter who don't "get along." Why, all my life I have felt that no matter what happened, and no matter in what light my conduct might appear, "Mother" would understand. "Mother" would know that I did my best. No pleasure is complete with me until "Mother" has heard all about it. I do not say "shares it," because I do not agree with you (please pardon me, but I don't) in your idea that every party or club should be chaperoned. I have never been able to see why a chaperon is needed if the party is composed of well-bred young people, and that is the only kind I have ever associated with.

Any girl over 18—or, for that matter, younger—if she is naturally a lady, ought to be just as particular in choosing her associates as her mother could be for her—and so I have been brought up. I have gone to any number of parties, picnics or dances unchaperoned—sometimes with my brother, who is the most particular brother a girl could have—but very often with other young men. "Mother trusts me" has always been my watchword and nothing would induce me to violate that trust. A chaperon is an almost unheard of thing in our city anyway.

And so I say to "A Prisoner's" mother: "Let her go; let her enjoy her youth. If you have brought her up to be a lady she will never disgrace the name by a little freedom. Just love her and let her love you."

A WESTERN GIRL.

OUR FRANK GIRL AND LOVING daughter has been most fortunate if she has never had the expediency of a chaperon forced upon her. Otherwise we may take it for granted that all the girls in a party of twenty-five or thirty young people, "have been brought up to be ladies." Can each of them be security that her escort has not only been brought up to be a gentleman, but that since he became his own master he has not "departed" from the straight line in which he was trained to walk? While human nature remains virtually unchanged from age to age, and youthful spirits are prone to run away with brains—the chaperon is a kindly and prudent precaution in mixed companies of young people.

When our "Western Girl" attains to my age and has seen as much of all sides of life and character, she will be more nearly of my way of thinking on this point.

Many More Grandparents

WE HAVE been interested in your department and especially in the babies with many grandparents. As we have a little grandson here who was especially favored in that line, we think California will have to take a back seat and let Nebraska come to the front.

This boy, now 5 years old, had at birth nine grandparents in all. Two grandfathers and four grandmothers; two great-grandfathers and two great-grandmothers, and one great-great-grandfather. The most peculiar thing about it was that all five of the grandfathers were named "James," so he was named after them. But his father, now 28 years old, was still more fortunate, having ten full grandparents at birth—two grandfathers, one grandmother, three great-grandfathers and three great-grandmothers, and one great-great-grandmother. We think this is pretty good—but where is Kansas?

L. E. K.

Nebraska.

Prospective Bride's Troubles

I AM proud to consider myself "one of your girls," and have come to you for advice in one of the most important periods of my life.

I am to be married in March to a young physician, and we have begun to furnish our home (he has lived with his parents heretofore), but there are several things I am undecided about.

1. Would you advise me to get a round or a square dining room table? Of course, I want to get whichever will look the best, and also be the most satisfactory in every way.

2. In buying my table linen, shall I buy a small or large pattern to look the best, and how large shall I get the cloths?

3. I am a stenographer, and have but one hundred and twenty-five dollars left to spend on my trousseau, after buying my linen, underclothing and traveling suit, in which I expect to be married. Can you give me some idea how to spend it to the best advantage? E. L.

A ROUND TABLE TAKES UP LESS room, and I think is prettier. Just now they are popular.

2. A small pattern, by all means. The "snow-drop" design is always neat and tasteful, and never goes out of fashion. Get one two yards and a half long for "occasions;" the others two yards long. Luncheon squares with doilies to match are fashionable and pretty and save washing.

3. Get one black silk gown, two skirts of woolen material, and one of crepon or other light stuff, with two silk waists and one of crepe de chine to vary your costume. When warm weather comes you will do this by means of shirt waists.

Cordial congratulations go with this to you and to the man of your choice, with earnest wishes for your happiness.

Refrigerator Without Ice

CAN you inform me through your column if there need be any objection to using a refrigerator (when ice is not needed) for the use of cooked food? I have been told that it is positively harmful to do so. Until recently I have used mine for such purposes in the winter season.

A HOUSEKEEPER.

THE CLOSE AIR IMPARTS AN UNpleasant taste to the food. It is possible, too, that mould germs would collect upon it sooner than when the air can visit it. You know how quickly bread moulds if it is not perfectly dry when put into the closed box. The extreme coldness produced by the ice prevents this. When it is wanting the stagnant air is favorable to the germination of fungi, etc.

The Care of Children

MAY I enter this charmed circle and add my mite? If mothers whose children are bothered with vermin in the hair will use fishberries and alcohol (ten cents worth) they will find a quick, safe and clean remedy. One or two applications after school is usually all that is needed. Be sure and keep the bottle out of a child's reach.

Will the mother whose little boy is not satisfied with his pudding try denying him it for a couple of times? He will soon find his pudding is better than none at all.

Do many mothers know that there is nothing better for burns or scalds than kerosene? Be careful there is no fire on the clothing. Bathe the injured part as quickly as possible in the kerosene and the pain will soon stop. If my letter is not too long, will you kindly tell me what is good for weak kidneys in my little girl of 3? I don't like to give drugs if there is anything else.

MRS. MAC.

HAVE YOU THOUGHT OF MASsage or of osteopathy? Science has many healing devices now besides drugs. The child should wear a red flannel band about her, just over the kidneys. Consult a doctor who is sensible enough not to give medicines that relieve one disease by creating another.

Menu Without Eggs

A PREFATORY word of explanation! This menu presupposes that the thrifty housewife has in her storeroom both jam and Chili sauce, prepared in the summer time.

The luncheon is arranged especially with respect to the children who come from school cold and oh! so hungry during these wintry days!

Dinner

Tomato soup; beef tenderloin; Chili sauce; creamed parsnips, escalloped potatoes; junket; crackers; coffee.

MRS. H. C.

THE SCARCITY AND HIGH PRICE of eggs have quickened housewives' wits to good purpose. Recipes for some of the dishes here named will appear in the Recipe Column.

A Budget of Questions

WILL you kindly tell me through the paper the cheapest and best candles to burn in a candelabrum when it is used every evening? I find the expense is rather more than I can afford and that I can buy perhaps a cheaper kind.

2. Is mushroom liquor good to use?—from canned mushrooms, I mean.

3. Should canned vegetables be rinsed of this liquor before being cooked?

4. Please tell me if flank steak is nutritious when stewed?

5. Are breaded veal cutlets more digestible when cooked in deep fat?

6. What should be the temperature of fat to thoroughly and how long should they take to cook?

I would like to add my mite hoping to help someone. Before trying anything to take spots out of silk try ice cold water; it is a success with almost anything but grease. Also, if an apple is cooked with cranberries not nearly so much sugar will be needed to sweeten, and taste of apple is not noticed; and if people would bake their cranberries they would like them so much better.

Wash, put in large, rather shallow pan—just water to keep from burning, and cover thickly with sugar. Stir occasionally, and when well broken take out and cool. Bake in moderate oven. J. L. J.

CHEAP CANDLES ARE THE DEARest in the end, for they burn faster than more expensive brands. Get good firm paraffin candles and keep them on ice for some hours before you want to use them. They will not burn out so rapidly or drip so freely as when this is not done.

2. Throw it away. It is neither nourishing nor palatable. After doing this lay the mushrooms in cold water for half an hour. Drain then and cook.

3. Beans, asparagus and peas should be treated as I have directed with mushrooms. Tomatoes require the juice.

4. If stewed slowly and properly seasoned it is very good and also nutritious.

5. Yes! unless they soak in the fat. Cook steadily, take out when done, and drain in a hot colander. Time, from ten to twelve minutes.

6. Try a bit of raw potato. If it rises slowly to the surface, then colors rapidly, the heat is right. The surface of the fat should bubble all over.

Your suggestions are more than welcome.

Time for Shell Fish

A GOOD way to fry sausages to prevent bursting is to put a small piece of butter in the frying pan; prick sausages with a fork and lay them in the melted butter. Turn them frequently.

This is the time of the year when all kinds of shell fish are best and cheapest. An excellent puree of clams is made of two dozen clams, one tablespoonful of butter, one pint of cream, one cupful of cold water, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-fourth cupful of bread crumbs, pepper to taste. Drain the liquor from the clams and put it in a saucepan over the fire. When it boils, skim. Chop the clams fine, add them to the liquor, let boil again and skim. Rub the butter and flour together until smooth, add to the broth, together with the bread crumbs. Stir and cook until it thickens; press through a sieve, reheat and add the cream, which should be previously scalded. Season and serve at once.

A simple chocolate pudding is made of one quart of sweet milk; three-quarters of a cupful of grated chocolate. Scald milk and chocolate together, when cool add the yolks of three eggs, a cupful of sugar, and vanilla to flavor. Bake about twenty-five minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, adding four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Spread over top and brown slightly in oven. This pudding is good hot or cold.

Georgia Makes an Appeal.

I READ in a recent issue an article in regard to the benefits of circumcision and wish to add my mite of knowledge concerning the operation. In a case of chronic granulated eyelids from which a young relative was afflicted, after he had reached the age of 17 without obtaining relief, although hundreds of dollars were spent upon treatment, a physician at length was consulted, who advised circumcision. The operation was performed and a complete cure of the disease resulted at once.

I am convinced that many children who are nervous, peevish and irritable, or who are addicted to bed-wetting, could be helped by this operation.

A GEORGIA MOTHER.

YOU, ALSO, ARE WELCOME TO our council board. The hearts of Southern mothers are always in the right place. Such letters as they are sending us prove their heads to be as steady and as justly balanced.

Cheering and Helpful.

AND here is something so cheering and helpful that I mourn the necessity of omitting so much as one paragraph:

First of all, I must tell you how much good the flour ball has done our baby. It's a recipe that has proved worth its weight in gold to me, and I want to thank you for it. Our baby sleeps so much better now, and bowels are better; in fact, it has made a great change for the better on him in every way. First, I began giving it to him a teaspoonful once a day, just before going to bed, and it did him so much good and he smacked his lips over it so, that now I am giving it to him in three out of six of his feedings every day, and gradually I expect to give it to him in almost every feeding. He is almost six months old now and he is such a dear! How can women who can bear children live without them? I've had a free, easy-going married life until our baby came, but I would not change now. Give my baby for all the parties, clubs, tea-fights, etc.? Oh, no! a thousand times no! It is such a vain, restless life, running here and there for enjoyment and finding it after a fashion; but no satisfaction when you get home still restless.—"Where will be the next one?" "What will I wear?"

MRS. L. G.

To Clean a Brilliantine Waist.

I HAVE a white brilliantine waist (unlined) that has become soiled from constant wear. I kindly ask you for advice in cleaning it. I have been told it would shrink in the washing, as it is, it fits very closely now. S. K. L.

CLEAN WITH BLOCK MAGNESIA, rubbing in hard on both sides of the fabric. Leave covered with the powder three days before brushing and shaking. Spread a damp cloth on the wrong side and press with a hot iron through the cloth.

Rainy-Day Amusement

"W. S. T." asks how mothers provide amusement for their children on rainy days.

My children like to "play show," so I gave them the attic for their playroom, and helped them fit it up. We made a turning pole out of two bed slats and the handle of an old broom, about three feet from the floor, and put an old mattress under it. We then got an old washbench and a dry goods box, and out of those and some old curtains we made a stage. I made the girls some bloomers of black satine and they put on old red stockings and fixed themselves up in all sorts of costumes out of things they find in the attic. I don't suggest anything, but let them work the plans themselves, and I must say they can give a fine entertainment.

They will practice all day, and have taught themselves all they know, as they have never seen or been to a show of any kind. Of course, the show-room is closed on Sundays. Some parents would not allow their children to "play show," and to those I would say:

"Be still, and heart, and comes repining!
Make punching bags of good steel lining!
Hang them on the attic rafter,
And the walls will ring with childish laughter."

When the day is dark and dreary."

With apologies to our dearly beloved poet, Longfellow!

M. L.

A Good Vermifuge

WOULD you please let me know through your valuable column a good candy for worms for my children?

M. S.

YOU CAN MAKE A GOOD VERMIfuge of wormseed (botanical name "santonica" or "santonin"). Steep a boiling water for an hour; strain and sweeten. Sassafras tea, made from the bark, and not of sassafras shrubs, is also good for the same purpose. Children subject to this trouble should eat candy, nuts or raisins until they are quite relieved. Nuts engender "acedity"—intestinal worms.

The Kindergarten Question

I BEG leave to say a few words on the kindergarten subject. When two youngest children went to a kindergarten, and I found it a most excellent place where they learned their letters and prayers. They can read them now and never had any trouble when the time came for school. The youngest boy is 6 years old and is in the second grade, and I thank the kindergarten for it. I wish there were more kindergartens.

M. M.

APROPOS OF AN ENERGETIC letter from a young father, I called, some time ago, for a show of hands on the kindergarten question. Will other parents respond, briefly and strongly? I should like to have a symposium upon the subject.

Helpful Hints About the House

TO clean sponges, wash them in diluted tartaric acid, rinsing them afterward in water; it will make them very soft and white.

Before buying tinned fruits and meats see if the top is flat or depressed. If the top has bulged out, then air has entered the tin and fermentation set in.

Vinegar should not be kept in a stone jar, as the acid may affect the glazing and the vinegar be rendered unwholesome. Glass jars are the best vinegar receptacles.

Freshen the house by putting a few drops of oil of lavender in an ornamental bowl, then half fill it with very hot water. This will give a delightful freshness to the atmosphere.

A good china cement is made by mixing with a strong solution of gum arabic and water enough plaster of paris to make a thick paste. This should be applied to the broken edges with a camel's-hair brush.

When lighting a gas stove it will often give a slight explosion and light wrong, thus causing no heat. Turn the gas off very quickly, and on again. It will then light properly without any further trouble.

If you have left boiled eggs in the water a little too long, break the top of the shell at once by patting it with a spoon. This lets out some of the heat, and the hardening process is stopped immediately.

A Paint-stained Dress.—If you happen to get wet paint on your dress, rub the stain at once with another piece of the same material, and the stain will entirely disappear. You can use another and covered part of the same garment. What happens to the paint it is difficult to say, but it certainly vanishes.

To Remove Rust Stains From Mattings.—Cover the stain with paper and place a warm iron on this. When the spot is warm dip a clean rag in a bottle of muriatic acid and go over the rust spot with it, wetting every part with the acid. The spot will turn a bright yellow. Instantly wash it with an old toothbrush dipped in boiling water, and dry with woolen cloths. Before beginning the work have all the appliances ready, and then work rapidly from start to finish. Muriatic acid corrodes metal, therefore keep the bottle corked tight when not using it. Two or three ounces of the acid will be ample.

Flower vases can be easily purified and cleansed by rinsing them out with warm water and powdered charcoal.

When putting new bread always put the knife in hot water first, and you will find that it facilitates the cutting.

To Keep Clothespins New.—To prevent new clothespins from splitting, let them stand in cold water a few hours before using.

A box filled with lime and placed on the shelf in a pantry and frequently renewed will absorb the damp, and keep the air pure and dry.

When weighing molasses for cooking purposes, if the scale is well floured first the syrup will run off quite smoothly, without leaving any stickiness behind.

Fancy Washington Virginia navels, 2.05@1.45, average, 1.66; choice Washington navels, 1.35@1.25, average 1.32½; extra fancy Washington navels, 2.00@1.60, average, gross, 1.70; Thompson's improved navels, 2.50@1.50, average, 1.91; orchard run, Washington navels, 2.25@1.80, average, 1.83 gross; grapefruit, 1.87½@75, average, 1.20. Seedless grape fruit, 2.50@1.87½, average, 2.53; tangerines, half boxes, 2.00@1.25, average 1.81.

About seven hundred boxes, a few half boxes and a few barrels of Porto Rico oranges were sold. Half boxes sold at 35c, barrels, 1.00; boxes, 1.50@50, average, 88, partly because of poor quality and partly because of reduced demand. Californias sold down today. Car after car went at an average of 1.50@1.20, bulk around 1.30@1.25. From store there was a moderately active demand, with buyers asking principally for large sizes, which are not here. Unquestionably the market is overloaded with small and medium-sized fruit, in some instances of poor quality, for which there is no profitable outlet. One entire car sold at 80c, the lowest price for a car ever recorded on this market. Floridas are doing better. Some holders are nearly cleaned up, and desirable qualities are held firm. Porto Ricos are doing better. Fancy large sizes are 25c higher from store, and supplies are hard to get. Shipments are light. Several large holders have practically nothing in stock. About twenty-eight thousand boxes of Sicily lemons offered yesterday. The largest sale of the season was at 2.70@1.55, substantially the same as the previous sale, all offerings being absorbed by local buyers. Eleven cars of today's Californias came over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, March 2, 1904.

FINANCIAL.

Bank clearings today were $1,259,-252.52, against $969,807.71 for the corresponding date last year, and $934,-52.53 in 1902.

MONEY SITUATION. The large gain in cash by the banks last week, accompanied by a considerable decrease in loans, makes the surplus now larger than at this time in any year but one since 1897.

The prospect is that the cash holdings of the banks will be increased in the near future by the concentration here of the United States deposits that are to be called in from interior banks as a preliminary for making the payment to the Panama Canal Company.

Gold will also come by nearly every steamer from Japan to San Francisco in settlement for Japanese purchases of supplies during the war. The supplies which Russia is reported to be buying in the United States will be paid for by bills of exchange, thus adding to the credits available for remitting to finance the payment to the canal company.

Thus every indication points to an easy money market at New York for some time to come.

It may be that some gold must be sent to Europe on account of the Panama Canal, but it would seem that the $30,000,000 which are to be taken from the Treasury vaults would be more than sufficient to meet such requirements.

There is, of course, the possibility that disturbances in the money markets of Europe, arising from apprehended or actual complications growing out of the war between Japan and Russia, may call for shipment of gold from New York to London, Paris or Berlin. Due warning of such a contingency will be given by the course of the foreign exchange market.

Up to the present time both of the outstanding nations have shown a disposition to rely upon domestic loans for the sinews of war; and the people of Japan and the people of Russia are reported to have responded with equal patriotism and promptness to the call of their respective governments.

It may be that neither Russia nor Japan will make further attempts to place a loan in Europe, or the United States. Some inquiries by unofficial representatives of the two countries in the United States several months before hostilities began, in regard to the prospects of obtaining money here, met with unfavorable responses. Similar inquiries in Europe are reported to have had like results.—[Wall Street Journal.

FLOUR—EXPORTS. Flour exports from the United States in 1903 were larger than in any preceding year in the history of American commerce and aggregated practically 20,000,000 barrels. The value of the flour exports also exceeded that of any preceding year with the exceptions of 1892 and 1893, when the value slightly exceeded that of 1903, but the quantity exported was materially less.

In the calendar year 1903 the total exports of flour amounted to 19,551,411 barrels, valued at $75,188,050.

The total value of wheat exports of the calendar year 1903 was $59,329,441 and that of flour exports $75,188,050.—[Murray's Price Current.

SALT. No settlement of the salt war is in sight. Sales of bales were reported at $1 yesterday. This is below the freight on eastern salt, which, of course, is affected most. Certain standard package salts have not met the cut price and are meeting with almost the usual demand.

OIL. Kerosene and gasoline declined 10 cents per case today. Prats Astral, Pearl and Star are now quoted at $1.60 per case of 2 tives, and Elaine at $2.65 per case of two fives.

ORANGE SHIPMENTS. Orange shipments Tuesday were 142 carloads; lemons, 9 carloads, making the total for the season 9294 cars.

ARIZONA SUGAR. All grades of sugar except dominoes have advanced five points for Arizona.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The butter market is weak and other grades than local creamery are not bringing as high prices as last week. There were in storage on March 1, 202,000 pounds; a large quantity for this season of the year. The market in the north is weak and lower, the best northern creamery can be laid down here today at 24 cents per two-pound roll. With this condition obtaining, local creamery seems higher than it should be, although it must be said that pasture improvement has not yet had time to show in butter production locally. It is also true that stock is in poor condition and cows cannot be expected to give milk as they would if the drought had not put them out of condition during the early winter.

Eggs remain at the same figures, but are weak. About 200 cases have gone into storage.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—The stock market continues flat and lifeless. The feeble oscillation in prices is not sufficient to offer any margin of profit over the expense of commissions, and the consequence is the entire abstention of any outside interests. Occasional new developments that might be supposed in times of ordinary activity to have a bearing on values are passed over with indifference. The cause of the stagnation is not entirely clear, and still more obscure is the coming event which may serve to break the deadlock. One of the immediate influences upon today's market was the unsolved doubts over the outcome of the Paris settlement, which is still in progress. While no trouble has yet developed, the apprehension on the subject is not likely to be allayed, until the conclusion of the payments of the accounts which are due tomorrow. Both Paris and London labored under this disadvantage today and reflected some influence upon New York. Current earnings are discouraging. Heavy declines in January net earnings continue to come to hand, the Pennsylvania lines and Lehigh Valley being today's conspicuous additions to the list. The lack of pressure upon stocks on this account argues some confidence among security-holders that the unfavorable condition is but a temporary one. The money market is the future is another problem. Call money is a drug and the reserves continue to pile up in New York banks. New York Central's year-to-year borrowing of $6,000,000 at the equivalent of 6 per cent. confirms the indication of previous facts that a relatively high rate is demanded for the other corporations' loans. The possible effects of the Panama payment, which is expected to be put through at once, and the further corporation borrowings known to be hanging over the market may be an explanation of the money market's uncertainty. The movement of gold from New York to Argentina, begun yesterday, is another factor in the problems. Its present significance is that London is able to call on New York for payments of its South American debt, notwithstanding the enormous merchandise balance of the last few months for which payment was due us. The war in freight rates, the prospect of a soft-coal strike, uneasiness over the new conditions of the wheat market and the impending Securities decision must all be held in mind to understand the apathy of the market from day to day. The movement of prices today is not worth accounting for. Bonds were firm, but dull; total sales $1,120,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKET.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—The feature which attracted the most attention from traders today was the government crop report, which, in its general summing up, of the appearance of winter wheat, stated that the condition of the plant was unpromising over much the greater part of the wheat belt, because of severe weather without much snowfall. The seriousness of the Argentine railroad strike was emphasized anew in a cable dispatch from Liverpool, stating that fear of curtailment of wheat shipments from Argentina on account of the strike caused relative strength in English markets in the face of the sharp decline here yesterday. Under these influences, the market opened strong, with May up 1c to 1¼c, at 99¾@99c, and July ¾ to ⅞c higher, at 82¾@82½c. The May option soon lost all its initial strength, developing decided weakness on general liquidation. Before any support came into play, prices had declined to 97¼c, a loss of 1¾c from the opening high price. With the timid longs quite thoroughly sold out, offerings became scarce and the price gradually worked its way forward a little. The more distant deliveries held firm in spite of the early decline in May, commission houses being active buyers of both July and September. The market closed weak but not strong. One of the features in the late strength was a marked improvement in the export demand. Prospects of a cold wave in the southwest gave added zest to the buying, the volume of business reaching a large total. The close was almost at the top, after selling to 99¾c, final quotations for May were 99¼c. July closed at the high point, at 82¼c. Weakness prevailed in corn during the opening hour, due to heavy liquidation. The strength in wheat, however, caused an improved demand. The close was at the top price of the day. May closing at 45¼@45½c, July closing at 45c, after selling at 45¾@46c. Oats were extremely weak early in the day on heavy profit-taking, credited to the principal bulls. May closed ⅝c to ¾c higher, at 42¾@42⅝c. July showed a net gain of ½c, closing at 39¾c. Provisions were subjected to heavy liquidation at the outset. Much of the selling pressure was due to the weakness in coarse grains and to a decline in hog prices at the yards.

Purchases of foreigners became active bidders of hog products later in the day. Under this improved demand, prices gradually advanced, the close being at about the top figures. May closed 2½c higher; lard 2½c to 5c higher, and ribs were up 5c.

The leading futures closed as follows:

HORSE'S LAUGH ON HIS OWNER.

HUENEME MAN PUTS UP A JOB AND JARS HIMSELF.

Giant Cracker on Gate Goes Off When He Forgets and Tries to Enter—Nearly Million Dollars for Schiappa Pietra Ranch.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, March 2.—Charles Allen, the lighthouse keeper at Hueneme, met with a peculiar accident a few days ago. He has a family horse which was in the habit of gnawing the rope and opening the gate to the garden. Allen rigged up a match, a piece of sandpaper and a giant firecracker on the gate post in such a way that the horse would light the match, which would ignite the firecracker, which would do things to the horse when it exploded. Then Allen went off about his affairs and forgot. The horse also forgot, evidently, for there was no explosion until several nights after, when Allen himself attempted to enter by the horse gate. He scratched the match and lighted the bomb and now he is going about with his hand in a sling and the horse has the laugh on him.

RANCHO DEL NORTE SOLD.

The Schiappa Pietra ranch, or rancho del Norte, was sold at trustees' sale today for $910,000, Schiappa Pietra being the purchaser. The ranch was sold to an English syndicate two years ago for $1,110,000, and one payment made. Then the parties to the sale fell out and Dugald Scott of Manchester, England, brought suit for fraud in the transaction. Suits and attachments followed fast until finally Trustees Power and Foster advertised the ranch for sale to satisfy unpaid notes. It is not thought pending suits will be affected.

JURY AFTER SLOT MACHINES.

The grand jury concluded today. It found county affairs all in good shape, but devoted attention to the slot machines. Juror D. W. Huffman offered a resolution to the effect that steps be taken by the District Attorney to abolish the slot machines under the State law, and the District Attorney was called before the board. The resolution failed of adoption by a vote of 9 to 7. The opposition to the machines was not satisfied with this, and finally the grand jury passed the whole matter up to the Board of Supervisors, recommending it to pass an ordinance declaring slot machines illegal. The anti-slot machine people do not believe that the board will do anything of the kind, taking the ground that the State law entirely covers the case.

PREACHER'S ATTACK.

The Women's Club House Association is engaged in the effort of raising money to build a home in which the various clubs of the town may be housed. The association has worked long and persistently and has surmounted many obstacles. So far everything has been brushed aside and the fund is steadily piling up. It is over a thousand dollars now.

The women at the head of the project have met with another stumbling block and this, too, has been kicked aside, but it has left a bitter feeling. Rev. S. Hartwell Pratt, a traveling Methodist evangelist, is the last to shy a stone at the efforts of the Ventura women. He is holding revival meetings here. The past week also, the clubhouse women gave an entertainment for the benefit of their fund. The entertainment was styled an "oriental fantasia," the actors and actresses being for the most part the boys and girls of the town—100 of them.

One of the features was a skirt dance. The minister heard of it and on Thursday evening last criticised it rather severely. He had heard that it was to be similar to that given in some New York theater and said it was awful, for he had attended that particular theater and knew whereof he spoke. The dance in question was performed by two schoolboys in skirts. The minister's criticism did not prevent the hall being filled to overflowing, but it did create considerable feeling. It was passed over, however, and Rev. Mr. Pratt almost forgotten. Another performance of the pretty extravaganza was billed for Monday evening and on Sunday night the revivalist again attempted to take a fall out of the show. Again he failed, for another good house greeted the children in their efforts. But this second attack made more of a stir for the reason that many Methodist women who attend services at the church in which Pratt holds forth are also interested in the clubhouse scheme and are not at all inclined to indorse his criticism.

OIL FROM GAS WELL.

One of the natural-gas wells on the avenue is flowing oil. After work was suspended at a depth of 750 feet, with a good flow of gas and plenty of water, the hole was capped a week ago. Yesterday when the cap was taken off there was considerable oil on top of the water and oil of a finer gravity than any ever found in the State. It showed 53 deg. gravity, which is almost pure petroleum. There was not enough to encourage the abandonment of the gas and further prospecting, but it shows that there is oil, and good oil, in the vicinity.

NEWSY PICKUPS.

The High School track team is getting ready for practice and to that end the school trustees have had built on the school premises a house in which shower baths, lockers, rubbing boards and other conveniences have been placed. A cinder track 100 yards long has also been built and the boys will be able to do all their practice work at the school instead of having to walk the long distance each day to the race course. The team this year will be good, fine material being on hand for nearly all the events.

Justice of the Peace Harris of Hueneme township has resigned and Joseph Mehn has been named successor.

Ventura is to have another baseball team. Frank Daly and George Johnson are rounding up the players, of whom there are many good ones in this section.

PLAYING RULES UNCHANGED.

NEW YORK, March 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There will be no change in the playing rules the coming season, by either the National or the American leagues. The foul-strike rule is still a fixture, for another season at least, and the chances are that it will be permanent. This will be established at a joint committee meeting on the playing rules of both leagues held today.

The schedule committees of both leagues were also in session, but they failed to produce anything, but promise to present mutually satisfactory schedules tomorrow. That these committees were not able to frame up their lists of games after an all-day session came somewhat as a surprise, and caused rumors of a knotty hitch in the negotiations, but every representative at the meeting denied that there was any clashing. They acknowledged that there were differences over important dates and warm arguments in endeavor to obtain especially valuable "plums," but said everything passed off without friction.

KNOW IN KANSAS-COLROADO.

DENVER, March 2.—Atty.-Gen. Miller today received notice from the Attorney-General of the United States that he will make application March 14 to the Supreme Court of the United States for permission to intervene in the Kansas-Colorado suit concerning the use of the Arkansas River waters.

This action on the part of the Federal government was a complete surprise to the Colorado officers. Colorado's contention that no State, nor the United States, has any power to say what shall be done with waters that risein Colorado.

SEPARATE CARS FOR NEGROES.

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) March 2.—In the House of Delegates today the "Jim Crow" bill, introduced by Delegate Kerbin, which provides that steam railways in the State of Maryland shall furnish separate cars for colored people, except on express trains, and that all steamboats plying in Maryland waters shall provide separate compartments, was passed by a strict party vote, all the Democrats voting for it and the Republicans against it.

Still Further Cut in Grain Rates.

CHICAGO, March 2.—The Chicago Great Western has renewed its attack on the Chicago and Northwestern by announcing a further cut of 2 cents a hundred pounds in the rate on grain from Missouri River points to Chicago. The new rates, which will be 4 cents on wheat and 3 cents on corn, will go into effect next Friday. The rates from Missouri River points to Chicago now are only about one-half of the rate in effect from the Missouri River to the Mississippi River.

Negroes Join Truck Drivers.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) March 2.—Drivers of baggage wagons of some of the local transfer companies went out today without warning and joined the 400 truck drivers who struck yesterday. Most of the men now out are negroes. Violence is feared unless the strike is soon settled.

Mounted Police Protect Workmen.

ST. LOUIS, March 2.—Under the protection of five mounted police fifty men were taken into the world's fair grounds today and put at work in place of the striking laborers on roads and track grading and landscape work.

Secretary Dover Ill.

CLEVELAND (O.) March 2.—Elmer Dover, secretary of the Republican National Committee, is ill and confined to his room here. The physicians do not believe that his illness is serious, but he will be kept quiet for several days.

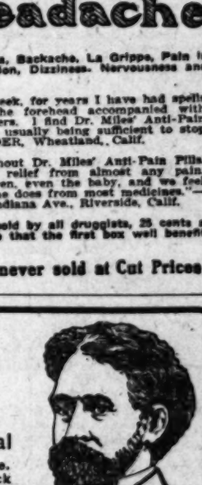
Our Medical Journal



Is just inside to the right of our street entrance. The way to find out all about our work quick and easy is to read our Journal. It is impossible to describe our kind of work in public print. In our Journal you will find the facts in plain language. Go and help yourself to one. If you live outside the city, write us and we will mail you one in a plain envelope.

Varicocele $1000 Reward.

We have $1000 in the bank which we will present to any doctor or any other person who will show us three cases of varicocele which have been cured without detention from work. There is no limit of time in this offer. We will show ten times that number in Los Angeles who have been cured by our method. We require our patients to quit work one week; every case goes back to his work cured forever. Before you pay one dollar to any doctor make him take you down on Broadway or Spring st. and introduce you to ten prominent business men whom he has cured. If you will keep this one pointer in mind you cannot be picked up by an advertising pretender. No knife is used in our method. We will show you plenty of cured men who will tell you there is no pain or danger whatever in our treatment for varicocele.

Vital Decline Can Be Cured.

Vital decline, commonly called weakness, is the result of a diseased condition which weakens the vital nerve center. This disturbing cause is nearly always found in the prostate gland, where the nerve center is located. The prostate becomes affected by one or more of several things, such as badly-treated local diseases, indiscretions, excesses, varicocele, etc. We published years ago the first information ever given out on prostatic trouble as the cause of vital weakness; since that time our theories have been accepted by all the best eastern specialists, and at the same time every pretender specialist copies our advertisements, knowing absolutely nothing of our successful means of relieving men of this trouble. No one but a thorough specialist can succeed in curing these conditions. Anybody can advertise but the genuine specialist only can satisfy the patient and give him value received.

CONTRACTED DISORDERS.

Of all the diseases peculiar to men, contracted disorders are the most abused by cut-and-try, hit-and-miss treatment, administered by good friends, druggists, doctors in general practice, and most of the would-be specialists. It is certainly interesting to hear the story of the average patient telling his experience with the different kinds of so-called treatment he has been "up against." A large majority of our patients come to us with all the original disease and part or all of the complications resulting from delay and mistreatment. We generally have to cure them after some or all of the following conditions have developed: Chronic discharge, stricture, or all of the chronic bladder troubles, diseased prostate, sores, swellings, etc., besides a patient whose confidence and mind are also diseased, through failure and disappointment. Don't trifle with these disorders, go to a doctor who knows how to cure you; it is the cheapest, surest and shortest way out. We have been 21 years in the business.

We are Specialists for Varicocele, Hydrocele, Stricture, Piles, Fistula, Blood Diseases

Contracted Diseases, Loss of Vital Power, Kidney and Bladder Troubles

STRICTURE.

I can do more for stricture in three days with my improved, modern, up-to-date method than could be done in three months with the old, painful, sound treatment. I can cure nearly every case in ten days, and by a cure I mean the stricture will never give any further trouble. Remember, my method is absolutely free from pain—and is certain in every case.

We give a free examination and send our book and colored plates on application. Any person with good reference can secure treatment from us until cured before paying for his case.

[NEWS REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.]

FRUIT FIGURES OF PASADENA.

ORANGE PRODUCTION EXCEEDS THAT OF LAST YEAR.

Horse Turned Out to Die Spoils Several Acres of Planted Crops, but is Still Able to Take Nourishment. Locomotive Jumps the Track.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 36 South Raymond Avenue, March 2.—There is much interest among orange growers of this vicinity as to what this year's production will be. Many are wearing long faces and predicting that the crop will net next to nothing, while others take a more hopeful view. President J. E. Jardine of the Pasadena Orange Growers' Association has made an investigation of the conditions and is by no means discouraged.

"The fact," said he yesterday, "is this year the largest crop of oranges in its history. There has been in the East the coldest snap in thirty or forty years. We have shipped sixty-seven carloads in the past two months. Much of this fruit has frozen in transportation, but, nevertheless, the result will be a small profit to the growers. This isn't so bad considering that peddlers could not get out with fruit in the East because of the cold and the main centers have not been able to distribute the fruit.

"Just now the weather is warmer and we are getting better prices. As there will be about 125 more carloads shipped from here this season we hope that the sale of this fruit will be such as to bring up the average to a fair profit, as good as in most years.

"As to fruit puffing, as reported, this has occurred in a few instances where the red spider has worked, the orchards living been neglected as to spraying and cleaning."

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

A progressive euchre party was given Tuesday evening in the Moorish room of Miss Green by Mrs. G. H. Lindsay. Tables were arranged for twenty-eight players. The long hand markers were articles of vertu, being mother of pearl butterflies and small ivory dishes in the form of storks, Japanese figures and curious birds. The prizes were won by Mrs. John W. Gay, and Mrs. J. H. Holmes, William S. Orton, Mr. Alexander, Mrs. Alexander, W. E. Grattan, Mrs. Langdon and Mr. Wayland.

DRIVE WHIST.

Mrs. Lutie Wright Benton of Coronado Place, entertained about forty of her friends yesterday afternoon with a drive whist, the function being complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Angel of Manchester, N. Y., and Mrs. Edgar Markell of Duluth, Minn. One of the diversions was a series of vocal selections rendered by Miss Richards of Los Angeles. Prizes were won by Mrs. A. H. Sherk and Harvey Brackett.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

The Humane Society is looking into the case of a horse turned out to die by a rancher of North Pasadena. In this condition struggles the old nag many days to wander over several square miles of newly-planted crops and did a lot of damage. He is still able to take nourishment. The society finds that it is against the law to treat an animal so.

At the annual meeting of the New Century Club Tuesday night Senator Benjamin W. Hahn was chosen president; Rev. E. G. Emerson, vice-president, and John A. Scott, secretary and treasurer. Lon P. Chapin was chosen to draft new bylaws.

A locomotive on the Santa Fé jumped the track yesterday morning near Orange Grove avenue in South Pasadena. A split rail was the cause and a delay in traffic the result.

The Council is considering the addition of an electrical inspector to the municipal family.

A. J. Gifford, aged 74, died yesterday at his home on Morton avenue. The funeral will be held at the house at 1 p.m. Thursday.

The death of Mrs. Adeliza Lindsay, wife of J. B. Lindsay, occurred yesterday at the Pasadena Hospital. She was 56. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home, on California street and Willard avenue.

Ben Corbett, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Corbett, died Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Waterhouse. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon.

Charles H. Morris has been elected president of the LeRoy Leonard Company and Albert G. Johnson secretary-treasurer.

Pasadena friends of Miss Mabel Higbie will learn with much pleasure that she has just won the golf championship of Florida at Palm Beach.

The funeral of Rev. George P. Kimball will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the West Side Congregational Church. Rev. John A. Holmes, pastor, will officiate, and will be assisted by Rev. Horace Day of Los Angeles and Rev. D. D. Hill.

Residents of Orange Grove avenue will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Board of Trade rooms to perfect an organization for the permanent improvement and protection of the avenue.

EL MONTE.

ARBOR DAY INTEREST.

EL MONTE, March 2.—The El Monte Farmers' Club held its meeting at the home of C. F. Raab in El Monte. The El Monte band, recently organized, gave a serenade before the meeting and later gave two other numbers which were greatly enjoyed. The subject for the evening was "Arbor Day in Southern California," opened with a paper by Prof. Lores. He gave the history of Arbor Day. He declared that Riverside, Redlands and Pasadena owed their beautiful tree-lined streets to roads, had attracted many tourists. El Monte could gain tourist patronage if she would lay out a park and beautify her streets. The bill before Congress appropriating $24,000,000 for public highways, was discussed, laws protecting shade trees along public highways, and the advantages of deciduous trees for borders of highways compared with evergreens, which make the roads muddy in the rainy season by their shade. The following programme was rendered: Piano solo, Miss Maxson; vocal solo, Mrs. Lindsay; reading, Mrs. Weber; vocal solo, Mrs. Reed; vocal duet, Mrs. M. A. Smith and Miss Lambert, Miss Dora Hall of Pasadena, piano solo. The next meeting of the club will be Monday evening, March 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton in Mountain View.

Tuesday afternoon a valuable cow belonging to Milton Haddox of Bassett was killed by the east-bound overland train on the Southern Pacific.

Friday evening the guitar and mandolin club of the Throop Polytechnic Institute of Pasadena will give a concert at Cave's Hall. Four soloists will be present. Edward S. Warren is leader.

Floyd Reese of El Monte, a former student of the Pasadena school, sustained a broken arm recently, and the concert is a benefit for him.

William Tucker bought a lot on East Main street in El Monte of B. P. Brockway, through the agency of Service Bros.; consideration, $300.

SAN PEDRO.

DREDGER LUMBER ARRIVES.

SAN PEDRO, March 2.—The long-looked-for barkentine J. M. Griffith arrived this afternoon and is anchored in the outer harbor. She carries the lumber that will be used in the mammoth dredger to be built at the Banning shipyards by the War Department under the supervision of Assistant Engineer Robert A. Crawford, and which is expected to work wonders in making the inner harbor of sufficient depth to accommodate the largest vessels. The Griffith was out twenty days from Port Hadlock, and brought 666,000 feet of lumber. Representatives of the Ellicott Shipbuilding Company of Baltimore, the company which holds the contract for building the dredger, have been here for several weeks getting everything in readiness to commence its construction. The contract price was $98,400, but it is expected that the completed cost will be about $115,000. About fifty carpenters and caulkers will be put to work in a short time, and the work of building will be pushed rapidly.

The receipts of the local postoffice for the month of February, 1904, over the corresponding month of last year show an excellent increase. For February, 1903, the receipts were $347.09, and for February, 1904, $570.06, or an increase of 64 per cent. A new brick building is under course of construction for use as a postoffice and will be ready for occupancy by June 1.

A horse belonging to E. P. Cronen took a tumble from the bluff near Fifth and Palos Verdes streets yesterday afternoon, and rolled down the embankment a distance of forty-five feet. It landed on the pavement, and lay stunned for several minutes. After coming to life the animal patiently climbed the bluff by a foot path, and resumed its feeding as if nothing had occurred.

The sloop Alpha made a great record during February in sardine catches. She brought to the California Fish Company's canneries here sixty-five tons, most of which were taken in the vicinity of Santa Monica.

W. W. Baldwin, formerly president of the Board of Trustees, and now a resident of Alameda, was here yesterday.

HUNTINGTON.

Although a number of lawyers had been approached by Stark with a proposition to take up his claim against the company, which they declined, none of them thought it worth while to pay any attention to his threats to do violence. Officers of the company who had been approached by the crank also passed the matter off lightly, and no steps were taken to apprehend him, or guard against possible mischief that he might do, until Attorney Wallace W. Wideman drew out of him the details of his plot.

Stark called at Mr. Wideman's office last Thursday and said he had been directed to him as a good lawyer to try a damage suit. He requested a private interview, and after having looked under the lawyer's desk and through his private office to assure himself no one was present to overhear the conversation, began to unbosom himself.

Mr. Wideman soon came to the conclusion that the man was demented, and frankly told him that he thought he had no case, to which Stark replied:

"I have consulted nine other lawyers and you are the first one that has discouraged me. The others have been bought up by Huntington, however, and that is why I have come to you for help."

Wideman assured him that he could do nothing for him, and that the best thing would be to let the matter drop, but Stark was not satisfied.

"Well, if I can't get money, I'll have revenge," said he. "I've got it all arranged to blow up the Huntington properties, and I'll get even with them any way."

Mr. Wideman pricked up his ears at this threat and proceeded to draw him out, giving him to understand, however, that under no circumstances would he be considered as Stark's attorney, and that he would therefore not be committed to professional secrecy. The lawyer asked how he proposed to blow up the Huntington works.

"I haven't decided yet whether I will use dynamite or nitro-glycerine. I would prefer the latter, but it is so expensive," was the reply.

Wideman has seen service in the navy, and is familiar with the use of high explosives. He put Stark through a rigid cross-examination concerning them, and was surprised to learn how familiar he was with the subject. The fellow evidently had been reading up on explosives with a view to carrying out his insane plot. Reminded that he might not be able to buy dynamite or nitro-glycerine in Los Angeles without giving some good excuse for the use he proposed to make of it, Stark said:

"Don't you worry about that. I know where to get it, and if it is not to be had in Los Angeles, I can send to San Francisco or Prescott, Ariz., and get all I want."

He intimated that he already had a supply of the stuff hidden away, ready for instant use, and drawings of all the Huntington properties.

The madman said he was familiar with Henry E. Huntington's movements, and also kept tab on his son, and he threatened that he would "get both of them" before he was through with them.

"I would prefer to get them in the buildings when I blow them up, but if I can't get them cornered there, a bomb thrown into the elevator when they are going up to the club or their rooms in the hotel would do the business all right, I guess," he said.

"But think of the other innocent lives you might take if you did that," protested the lawyer. "Have you stopped to think that you might kill fifty or sixty people if you blew up one of the buildings?"

"GOOD BIG KILLING."

"The more the better. I want to do it in the morning, when all of them are in the offices. I might as well make a good big killing while I am about it. That's as much chance as they gave me, and I'll give them damn short shrift in return. You say the employés ought not to suffer for any wrong the company has done me. I don't care for that. Every man who works for a railroad is the company's slave, and I am going to serve Huntington and his help as they served me."

"But have you considered what is likely to happen to yourself if you carry out your plans?" still protested the attorney.

"Well, I might get blowed up with the rest, but I don't care for that. And if I should escape with my life, what could they do to me? They can't hang a crazy man, you know."

"But you surely would bring suffering on your wife and family. I should think you would hesitate to do such a thing on their account, if for no other reason.,,

"I don't care. I've got to the end of my string anyhow, and my family would be better off if I were dead."

"Aren't you aware that it is dangerous for you to talk like this. Don't you know that I could have you arrested myself, for making such threats in my presence?" asked Wideman.

"Did you notice how carefully I looked around your office when I came in? Do you know why I did that? Well, my object was to see if anybody was around to listen. I never make these threats except when I am alone with one man, so if he tries to make any trouble, it will only be his word against mine in the courts, and I guess my word will be as good as anybody else's when it comes to that. But mind, I am not saying that I'll do all these things. I simply said I could do it," said Stark, as though realizing that he had talked too much, but in the next breath he added:

"I've got it all fixed, though, and when I get through with the job Huntington and his people will not turn another wheel unless they turn it by hand."

This ended the first interview and Mr. Wideman took the crank's threats seriously enough to report the interview to the officials of the Los Angeles Railway and the Pacific Electric companies, feeling that he was violating no professional confidence in so doing. This report, together with the threats that Stark had already made to some of the officials personally, impressed the railway people with a sense of danger, sufficient to warrant them in placing detectives on the trail of the crank in order to forestall any mischief that he might attempt.

Detectives were also detailed to watch every move of President Huntington and General Manager Howard E. Huntington, and ward off any attack that the crank might make on them personally.

Last Saturday Stark again called on Lawyer Wideman and told him that his plans for revenge were practically perfected and he was only waiting for a favorable opportunity to execute them. He said it was likely to be done at any time, and intimated that the time would be most ripe Tuesday night, as his house rent would be due Tuesday and he had no money to pay it.

WITNESS PARKERSON.

At this interview Wideman called in Attorney James Parkerson as a witness, and Stark, in his presence, rehearsed the whole story of his design to destroy the Huntington properties and possibly take a number of lives.

He said he had decided not to use nitro-glycerine, as the stuff cost $7 an ounce, and he thought that was too steep. Asked about his ability to get enough dynamite to do the job, he said:

"Never mind about that. I've got everything fixed to do more damage in five minutes than $500,000 will be able to repair."

Stark said the first time he called on Superintendent Akin in his office he did so in the hope of getting a settlement from him. The next time he went for the purpose of getting a line on the ground plan of the offices. He had familiarized himself with all of the Huntington buildings, he said, and knew more about the unfinished interurban station at Sixth and Main streets than Mr. Huntington himself. Stark's home is near the new station and he evidently has spent much time in prowling around it.

He said he had made an effort to see Howard E. Huntington, but a young lady in the front office would not let him past her. He was determined to see him yet, however.

On Monday Stark called again at Wideman's office and said he had come to bid him goodby.

"The white flag is now down," he said, "and before many hours the black flag will be flying and I shall have had my revenge."

"How much money would you take to call off all your plans?" asked the lawyer.

"I wouldn't take $10,000 now to settle the matter. What I want is revenge."

Wideman tried to draw him out further, but placing his hand on his chin the crazy man said:

"This is frozen now. It is now too near the fatal hour for me to make any statements that might be used against me."

"You have said enough to me already to incriminate you," ventured the attorney.

"Yes, but you may be too late if you try to use it against me. I am not going to tell you any more. I've said enough."

Wideman denounced him as a crazy man, and threatened to pick him up and throw him down a light shaft.

"You would be very foolish to do that. If you did there would be nothing left of me or you," replied Stark, tapping one of his pockets ominously as though he had some high explosive concealed there, which would go off, if any violence were done him.

He left the lawyer's office angrily, saying as he departed:

"Watch for reports. You'll be surprised how many black flages will soon be flying."

CALLS ON AKIN.

Manager John J. Akin of the Los Angeles Railway Company, says Starx called on him several times, and has demanded damages for his injuries. "He threatened the company," said Mr. Akin, "and I told him that if he made threats around my office I would have him jugged at once. He appeared to me to be a young, harmless fellow, who was out of his head."

E. L. Lewis, Mr. Akin's assistant, said in regard to the matter: "The man has been here several times, and has repeatedly threatened the company. The last time he said to me, 'That man in there won't do anything for me (meaning Akin,) and you had better. It might be to your interest to adjust this matter. It might cost the company many thousands of dollars. There might be an explosion.' I answered him by saying, 'Well, if there is one we will know who is responsible.' 'But you might lack evidence,' said the man. 'Your confession today will be sufficient.' I answered, and the man went out."

IN THE VAN NUYS.

Monday afternoon Stark visited the Van Nuys Hotel looking for Mr. Huntington. He looked through the hotel lobby, the parlors, café and dining-room, but failed to see the magnate.

Tuesday afternoon Stark was hanging around the hotel again, and followed Mr. Huntington into the building as the latter appeared. There was a detective at Mr. Huntington's elbow, however, and he got between Stark and the millionairs and kept the crank from aproaching.

Stark side-stepped and tried to get around the detective, but the latter kept facing him and blocked his every move. The detective and the crank looked each other squarely in the eyes, but neither said a word to the other. This performance was kept up until Mr. Huntington was safely upstairs, and Stark then left the hotel.

In the meantime the investigation made by the railway detectives satisfied them that Stark was as mad as a March hare and just sane or insane enough to commit some act of violence if he was not restrained. For the last few days Stark was aware that he was being shadowed, and this made him very cautious in his movements. It frustrated any mischief that he may have planned for Tuesday night, in accordance with his boast to Lawyer Wideman.

Yesterday afternoon, H. B. Henicka, one of the railway detectives, swore to a complaint charging Stark with insanity, and he was arrested at his home last night without any difficulty and sent to the County Hospital.

Yellow Journalism.

A new reporter on a sensational New York daily one day called up his chief by telephone for instructions as to what he should do. It was in the days when the yellow journalism craze was at its height and the battle for "news" was fierce. The city editor asked the reporter to hold the wire a minute till he saw if he had anything to be looked after in that section of the city. Then these instructions came over the wire: "Summers, a prominent wealthy young fellow named Stuart was up in the West Side Police Court for drunkenness this morning. He pleaded to have his name kept out of the newspapers for fear that his mother would hear of it. She has heart trouble and he says the shock would kill her. Go over to her house at No. —— West Seventy-second street and tell her about it. See if you can't kill her. We need news." Click. He hung up the receiver. But fortunately the lady was in Syracuse.—[Newspaperdom.

CHAINED UP FOR GOOD REASON.

DENVER, March 3.—Gov. Peabody said today that although Telluride is still under martial law, the military authorities were not responsible for the pillorying of Harry Maki, a striking union miner, who was kept chained to a telegraph pole for an hour and a half because he refused to work in the chain gang after having been convicted of vagrancy.

JAPS NEAR RUSSIAN CAMP.

Six Cruisers and Ten Transports Making For Saddle Bay and a Big Land Battle is Expected.

Sixty Thousand Men in Four Divisions Are Reported to Have Landed at Gen San and Song Chin. Alexieff Guarding the Exposed Flank.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Six Japanese cruisers, escorting ten transports, have been sighted in the direction of the Gulf of Liao Tung. This movement suggests a landing north of Saddle Bay. The Japanese forces have approached to within three days march of the Russian encampment, the latter retiring to await reinforcements. A big battle is expected shortly.

MOVEMENT TOWARD KIRIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Military authorities have no doubt that Japan's troops have landed at Gen San and Song Chin, as well as west of those places, but they are skeptical of the reported number, namely, four divisions of 15,000 men each. Moreover, they do not believe the Gen San contingent are moving northward toward Kirin, owing to the mountainous nature of the country. They are convinced that the troops landed at Gen San will march on Ping Yang, as well as the troops landed at the westward. Nothing can be learned of the Russian movements, but the officials profess that Russia will not act at present, except on the defensive.

UNEASINESS IN RUSSIA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Much uneasiness has been caused in high circles here by the making public of the fact that Japanese troops are practically overrunning Manchuria along the headwaters of the Yalu, and are now within 150 miles of Kirin and Mukden and have control of most of the country on the Upper Yalu and along the Tumsep River.

It is officially stated that 2500 Japanese, February 19, landed near Song Chin, half-way between Gen San and Vladivostok. Immediately after landing the Japanese started across Korea, leaving a small force to go north along the coast and connect with troops that are believed to be at Possiet Bay.

The main body, despite Russian assurances, had a good road through the country. They are now believed to be at Sam Su, where they rested preparatory to descent upon Mao Cur Chan, a fortified town upon the Manchurian side of the Yalu, at the junction of the tram roads that lead to Kirin and Mukden.

Along either road the Japanese can send raiding parties, or on the continuation of the Kurin road south along the Korean side of Yalu, and can harass any Russian troops that are there.

That raiders who have gone north, as well as those who have landed at Possiet Bay, have not been idle, is shown by the report that they have destroyed a portion of the Siberian railway.

FEELING BECOMING TENSE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MOSCOW, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Feeling in St. Petersburg is growing more tense. The rapidity of the Japanese military movements and the comprehensiveness of Japan's plans have made no less a sensation than Japan's naval vigor and initiative.

ALEXIEFF GUARDS THE FLANK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is believed the Japanese will attempt to force a passage across the Yalu River and then advance along the Muotienling line toward Liao Yang. Muotienling is considered impregnable unless the Russian position is flanked by a force landed in the region of Newchwang. To prevent a landing there Viceroy Alexieff is exerting every precaution. In the event of Alexieff's failing to prevent it, the Japanese will find the Russians in force at all points commanding the road toward their rear and Muotienling.

The Russians have converted all of Southern Manchuria into a veritable wilderness of trenches and earthworks. The Japanese movement which the Russians seem to fear—a landing in force at Newchwang or Yenkon—would involve the sending of transports past Port Arthur and up into the Gulf of Liao Tung.

Liao Yang is on the Port Arthur-Harbin Railroad. Muotienling is to the Southeast and evidently has an army behind it, as well as in it, to prevent simultaneous attack, which, if successful, would seemingly open the way to complete Japanese control of the railroads.

MARCH OF THE JAPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VLADIVOSTOK, March 3.—The detachment of 6500 Japanese troops without artillery, which arrived at Song Chin, Plaksin Bay, on the northwest coast of Korea February 19, landed from their steamers, escorted by three warships, at night and started on a march to Mao Furchan, South Manchuria, close to the Korean border.

RUSSIANS FORTIFY ANTUNG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SEOUL, March 3.—The Russian forces at Anju are compelling the Koreans to supply them with rice, fodder and fuel. The Russians are fortifying Antung heavily with the apparent intention of preventing the Japanese from crossing the Yalu.

The commander of a British gunboat, bringing down residents of that nationality from Song Chong, reports the death of Prince Yi Chai Sun, a nephew of the former King and a man who has from time to time filled all the high posts in the kingdom.

RUSSIAN FLEET'S MISSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—The naval organ says the chief strategical mission of the Russian fleet at Port Arthur is to prevent the Japanese from landing on the shores of the Gulf of Liao Tung, thus protecting the right flank and the rear of the forces in Manchuria from the Japanese army.

TOGO WENT TO RECOAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is stated by the Japanese legation here that the disappearance of Admiral Togo's fleet from the vicinity of Port Arthur is due to the Admiral's desire to replenish coal and ammunition, and not from the fact that the fleet has received injury. Officials assert that Togo will soon be heard from again in the vicinity of Port Arthur with renewed vigor.

MOVING TOWARD SADDLE BAY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Six Japanese cruisers, escorting ten transports, have been sighted off Chefoo, steaming toward Liao Tung Gulf. This movement is connected with the reported intention to land in North Saddle Bay.

CHINESE FEAR OUTBREAKS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is a general feeling of apprehension in North China. Peking authorities believe the Japanese successes will cause an outbreak in Manchuria and the destruction of the railroad, which will render China's neutrality impossible. Heavy reinforcements of Chinese troops are arriving at Shanhaikwan. The guards protecting the legations at Peking have been increased.

WHAT JAPANESE VICTORY MEANS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch]. The first big Japanese victory, which is more than likely to occur if they keep their troops in rough country where the Cossack cavalry will be of little value, will mean the unauthorized rising of the Chinese, who will lend a great helping-hand to the Japanese. Their Manchurian horsemen are bigger and better and braver riders and fighters than the Cossacks.

LANDINGS AND FORTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Chefoo correspondent confirms the reports of Japanese landings at Chinnampho and Song Chin. Their numbers are MANY LIVES LOST IN RAGING PRAIRIE FIRES.

Wind and Flames Work Destruction in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Hundreds of Farm Buildings and Much Live Stock Destroyed, One Thousand Persons Made Homeless, Scores of Town Structures Swept Away, All in Addition to Deaths of Those Caught in Fiery Vortex.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAWTON (Okla.) March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Over an area of 3000 square miles, a furious storm of wind and a gigantic prairie fire destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property yesterday and last night, rendered homeless hundreds of people and caused suffering, the like of which has never before been experienced in the Southwest. A dozen towns are afflicted both by the flames and the storm. Reports from inland towns indicate that the destruction was accompanied by loss of life, and the calamity becomes greater as the details increase.

At Hobart, the county seat of Kiowa county, fifteen residences, several business houses, fifteen race horses and all the stabes at the fair grounds were destroyed.

Lawton is practically intact because of heroic efforts to save the city. Some houses are in ruins, barns, fences and signs are scattered promiscuously over the ground and 1000 men feel the effect of intense suffering and fighting for their homes and property and the lives of their families and friends. They carry on their faces burns and bruises and the eyes of many are half put out by the blinding storm of wind and the smoke and the flames.

Near the mountains in the military reserve, through some means as yet unknown, a fire was started yesterday on the prairies. It began spreading and was soon so large that no power could check it. At 7 o'clock in the evening, the flames were spreading in a southeasterly direction, coming toward the city from Mount Signa. At 1 o'clock at night, a terrific storm arose in the north. Black, heavy rolling clouds piled up and appeared to burst in a storm of wind and sand.

AT CITY LIMITS.

In an hour, the terrific wind brought the prairie fire to the north boundary of this city's limits. Great balls of fire were carried high into the air. On the ground, bunches of burning grass, strips of falling timbers, articles of household goods, brought down across the blazing prairie, rolled along, skipped streets and flung themselves into the faces of battling people.

The firemen and 1000 bold assistants first turned their attention to attempts at checking the flames at the city limits. Grass had grown profusely along the borders of the reservation, and to subjugate the flames along this line was the object of their efforts. Water from every source, carried in every conceivable way, was distributed along this line. This served to check the advance lines of the fire, but was of little avail in hindering the continued rolling of the firebrands into the streets.

While hundreds of men guarded the advance lines of the fire others gave their attention to the saving of property. In more than a hundred places the flames arose from dwelling houses and barns, but always a man was present to quench them with water. As a result of this heroism the city suffered less than $90,000 damage.

In the country to the north and northwest 75,000 acres is devastated, hundreds of people are homeless, many lives are lost, cattle, horses and poultry are burned to death, crops are destroyed, and people escaped with only scant clothes on their backs.

From Lawton, Fort Sill and other places adjacent to the devastated district, relief is being sent in the way of clothes and provisions and medical attention. A number of people are missing and soldiers from the fort and citizens from the city have joined in the search for them.

Sheriff Hammond returned at noon from the Striker farm, six miles northwest of the city. He found that the Harmon brothers, who reside at that place, were victims of the flames and that all the property of the farm was destroyed. Daniel Harmon was burned to a crisp while attempting to take his horse from the barn. His brother was seriously burned and has little chance for recovery.

Near the Striker farm, a woman and two children were badly burned. An old man named Crawford, who resided near the Trosper farm, four miles west of the city, in an effort to save some of his property, was burned so badly that he probably will not recover.

HEAVY LOSSES IN KANSAS. MANY TOWNS FOUGHT FIRE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) March 3.—Numerous reports are coming in from Kansas counties telling of heavy losses from last night's prairie fire. In almost every instance, the fires were caused by people burning stubble and pasture lands. The high wind came unexpectedly and the fires were beyond control in a short time.

Many narrow escapes from death are reported, but as far as known only one person—Frank McGraw of Bird City—was burned to death. No estimate is made of the aggregate damage, but it is very high.

Around Salina, eight fires were burning at practically the same time.

It took the most desperate efforts on the part of the Gypsum City people to prevent the town from burning. Men, women and children fought the fire for four hours.

Great damage to farm buildings, stock and grain is reported from Culver, Lincoln, Colbert, Marquette, Ellsworth, Kanopolis, Graham, Hillis, Russell, Lakin, Hill City, Concordia and other places.

At Deerfield, seven miles from Lakin, the school children were kept in the school building until after 9 o'clock at night until all danger had passed.

At Hill City, the people rushed to the Solomon River to escape the fire. No fatalities resulted.

In Lincoln county, the fire cut a path two miles wide and ten miles long. Similar reports are received from other counties.

Most of the fires burned out during the night.

THOUSANDS FOUGHT FLAMES. COUNTY WAS VERY DRY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LAWTON (Okla.) March 3.—Prairie fires that swept over large portions of Kiowa and Commanche counties yesterday afternoon and last night destroyed hundreds of farm buildings and much live stock, made one thousand persons homeless; caused the death of several persons; threatened a number of towns and swept away scores of buildings in the outskirts of the towns. Two deaths are verified:

DR. HAMMOND, six miles from Lawton; body found.

Unknown boy, body found on prairie near Lawton; burned beyond identification.

John Hammond and a daughter of Mrs. Henderson, living near Lawton were fatally burned.

The country was very dry, no rain having fallen for month.s Grass and stubble fires, set by farmers as is customary at this season of the year, were driven beyond control by a violent gale which arose suddenly.

All estimates of the loss exceed $200,000.

At Hobart, the county seat of Kiowa county, the fire destroyed numerous outlying buildings. The 75,000 acres of government military and timber and Indian reserves near Hobart were swept over with great loss of buildings and cattle.

In the Homestead district, near Lawton, occurred the loss of life noted above.

Late at night, the fire began moving southward toward this city. At 12 o'clock midnight, 5000 people of this city were up to battle with the flames. The advance line of the fire was fully two miles in length and moved in a semi-circle.

Two thousand men turned their efforts to checking the flames at the grass borders of the reservations at the city limits. Water from every source, carried in every conceivable way, was distributed along the line and carried all around the city limits. This served the purpose of checking the advance line of the fire, but was of little avail in hindering the continued rolling of the fire brands into the streets of the city.

In more than a hundred places, flames arose from dwellings, barns and outhouses, but wherever a blaze grew men were present to quench it with water. As a result of the cool judgment of the fighters, the city's loss was only $10,000.

Stories are coming in tonight of how families lay out on the barren prairie throughout the freezing night, after the storm had passed, with only thin clothes on as reminders of once-prosperous homes. Hundreds of people are destitute and suffering intensely in the cold and with the excruciating pains occasioned by their burns. Clothing, medicine and physicians are being sent out from all the cities and towns of the district to relieve suffering.

CAUGHT ON THE PRAIRIE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SALINA (Kas.) March 3.—Reports of many serious prairie fires, aided by the high wind in this section and west of here, are coming in. At Hill City, in the extreme northwestern part of the State, the Courthouse, the jail, a lumber yard and fifty residences are reported destroyed. Details are lacking. Instances of farmers being caught with their teams in the prairie fires and of many persons seriously burned are numerous. No names are given.

A later report says that the loss at Hill City is only $10,000 and that no lives were lost there.

RIVER BANK A REFUGE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HILL CITY (Kans.) March 3.—The prairie fire which swept across this city did damage to the amount of $40,000 or more. A large number of people sought refuge on the banks of the Solomon River during the fire and some of them narrowly escaped being burned to death. Several received severe injuries.

MANY FARM HOUSES BURN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OKLAHOMA CITY (O. T.) March 3.—Driven by a terrific gale from the North, which at times reached a velocity of ninety miles an hour, a prairie fire swept over 75,000 acres in Comanche county last night, inflicting damage now estimated at $200,000. The city of Lawton was saved only by extreme efforts, while many farm houses were consumed. Kiowa county was also visited by a prairie fire during the storm, while damage is reported from all over the Southwest.

Persistent reports of loss of life come from rural districts, but owing to difficulties of communication they have not yet been confirmed.

The fire started near the Wichita mountains in the military reserve and during the afternoon had gained such headway that when it crossed into the settled country it could not be checked.

At 10 o'clock the wind suddenly shifted and a fearful gale swept down from the North with the velocity of a hurricane. In a few minutes the country for miles was in an atmosphere of stifling smoke and blinding sand, as the flames swept down upon the settled country and towns to the South. Homes were hurriedly abandoned by settlers and stock turned loose, while all sought safety in flight. Some, unable to escape were burned to death; how many, will not be known until the burned district is explored by relief parties, which have been sent out from Lawton, Hobart, Fort Sill and Anadarko.

Dr. Harmond, whose body was found in a barn, was caught while trying to save his horse.

Lawton was in the path of the fire and as soon as the danger was known 2000 men placed themselves under the direction of the fire department for protection of the city. By dint of heroic efforts, the town was saved.

For many miles not a house is left standing, while reports from Lawton state that the magnitude of the calamity increases as details arrive. More than a thousand people are homeless and penniless and many are in need of medical attention.

WAR NEWS AFTER MIDNIGHT.

JAPANESE INVASION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HARBIN, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Sixty thousand Japanese landed at Won San. Their objective point is supposed to be Manchuria.

RUSSIANS CROSS TUMEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Fifteen hundred Russians have crossed Tumen River at Holryong and have occupied the district office. They are using naturalized Koreans as spies. During the last engagement at Port Arthur the Russians fired blank charges, trying to entice the Japanese over the mines which had been laid five miles from the harbor. The Japanese, seeing the buoys marking the mine field, withdrew. Only five hundred Russians are now south of Wiju. Two thousand are encamped at Antung, across the Yalu River, with fourteen guns.

DOINGS OF COSSACKS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Cossacks have seized the telegraph offices at Ningpyong and Anju, Korea; have imprisoned the head man of Anju and have carried off local archives.

MINISTER ALLEN'S PRECAUTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Minister Allen reported to the State Department from Seoul today by cable that he has determined to send an American ship to the vicinity of Ping Yang to remove to a place of safety the women among the refugees gathered there. The cruiser Cincinnati, which is lying at Chemulpo, will bring away these people.

MISSIONARIES IN KOREA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—In view of the Washington press dispatches reporting that Americans in Seoul and vicinity had been sent to the Philippines by direction of United States Minister Allen, Dr. H. Carroll, one of the corresponding secretaries of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, sent the following dispatch to Secretary Hay: "Have the missionaries in Korea been ordered by United States Minister Allen to Manila or elsewhere? I respectfully ask in the interest of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church."

Mr. Hay replied as follows: "Our missionaries in Korea have been advised to consult with Minister Allen, and when practicable to follow his instructions. The government does not assume to order their movements, but in time of war the legation opportunities for protection are limited by hostile movements and by difficulties of communication, so that prudence is advisable, having in view the safety of missionaries and families."

VICE-ADMIRAL MAKAROFF.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 4.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Matin telegraphs that Vice-Admiral Makaroff has arrived at Port Arthur.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORT SAID (Egypt) March 3.—As the result of a collision between a Rusian torpedo boat and an Egyptian revenue cutter at Dantara in the canal, the cutter was sunk. There were no casualties. The canal will be blocked at least twenty-four hours.

PURCHASES OF HORSES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LIBAU (Russia) March 3.—A careful inquiry disproved the allegation that British agents had been purchasing horses here for shipment to Japan. The purchases made are no greater than in former years.

NEWS VIA PARIS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 3.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says that when Gen. Kuropatkin starts for the Far East, March 12, he will go on a special train and be accompanied by his staff. It is reported that the Czar said to him: "You will return a field marshal."

The Newsky shipyard is about to begin the construction of ten submarine vessels of the English type. Work on these boats will be pushed with all speed.

The Harbin correspondent of the Matin says that a detachment of Japanese cavalry has entered South Manchuria. It is alleged here that 60,000 Japanese have now been landed at Wonson, their objective being Manchuria. In Korea, the weather is cold and there is snow. At Harbin it is comparatively fine. The sea is still rough at Port Arthur.

DIPLOMATIC GOSSIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Count Cassini believes the failure of the Russians to evacuate Manchuria last October is responsible in part for the hostility shown toward his government by Americans. He says it was impossible for Russia to leave Manchuria, and is positive in his statement that the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria is to the commercial advantage of the United States.

"The universal sympathy of persons in the United States which Japan receives is due chiefly to the spectacular successes of the Japanese navy," remarked a well-known diplomatist, in discussing the stand the Americans have taken. Americans love success and there was a reflection of Manila Bay and Santiago in the Port Arthur victory and in the Chemulpo victory. Until the war between Russia and Japan actually began, the average American citizen thought little of it and had no particular sympathy with either side. Americans love success, and if Russia wants to stand well with Americans, let it win a few brilliant victories on land, and the sentiment will change."

JAP STEAMER SINKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VLADIVOSTOK, March 2.—It is reported here that a Japanese steamer, the name of which is not known, was sunk in the Sea of Japan February 25, while on her way to Wonsan, with a load of rice.

Eye-witnesses of the naval fight at Port Arthur have just arrived here. They declare that the losses of the Japanese up to February 2 were greater than had been admitted in foreign newspapers. In addition to five steamers sunk, they say that five torpedo-boat destroyers, one gunboat and two torpedo boats were put out of action and several others so damaged that they will require extensive repairs.

CHICAGO'S CHILD LABOR.

Plans for a demonstration by child toilers are being made by the officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor. John Fitzpatrick, Federation organizer, has in charge the scheme in which it is hoped to interest the 20,000 child workers in Chicago. He will introduce a resolution in the Federation meeting, Sunday, providing a fund for this purpose. Fitzpatrick would have a big street parade of none but children who work in the various industries of the city, to be followed by a trolley ride and picnic at Lincoln Park. The basic idea is to instill into the minds of the children trade-union ideas, with the purpose of organizing them into unions, to be controlled by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

"We want to furnish a giant object lesson to the workers of Chicago," said Fitzpatrick, in outlining his scheme. "All children under 14 years of age who work at all will be rallied under the banners of the Chicago Federation of Labor on that day, and I feel assured that we will be able to get together at least 20,000."

Whether the police and municipal authorities will look favorably upon the scheme to mass an army of children in the streets has not been considered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

For a year Asmus has been one of the principal members of the cast, and his work as "Peter the Dyspeptic" has won for him considerable distinction.

Settlers on Strip of Neutral Land Untaxed.

Two Washington Counties Make Queer Discovery.

Prominent Mine Promoter Fails—Case of Dix.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Recent investigations have disclosed the existence of a neutral strip of land lying between Stevens and Spokane counties, which appears never to have been carried on the tax rolls of either county. The oversight seems to have had its origin in a misconception of the real boundary line between the counties named. The strip is wedge-like in form, being about ten rods in width at the southern end, at the mouth of the Little Spokane, and about forty rods at the northern extremity, not far from Clayton. The length of the strip is approximately eighteen miles. The patented land in the strip amounts altogether to a little over six hundred acres, a portion of which is of good value, and the balance is on a par with that which Spokane county assesses at from $2.50 to $3 per acre.

During all the time since Spokane county was cut off from Stevens county, nearly twenty years ago, settlers of this strip have been immune from visits of the assessors, but this year the land will be listed on the Stevens county tax roll.

MINE BROKER PINNEY FAILS. SMALL SUM BROUGHT IT ON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—George A. Pinney, noted in the United States and Europe as a mining broker and stock speculator, filed a petition in bankruptcy today in the United States District Court. His liabilities are $82,000, assets, nominally $1100 worth of mining stocks. The principal creditors are English brokers who loaned Pinney money on promissory notes. Pinney's financial difficulties date back to January of last year, when he secured an interest in a mining claim in Sierra county. For the purpose of protecting the title, he borrowed $200 from Delia G. Mahoney, who afterward sued to recover the amount. The action is said to have precipitated the failure. Besides personal property to the value of $400, Pinney owns an undivided half-interest in 15,000 shares of stock in the Mining and Investment Company. Pinney also claims that in reference $66,000 is due to him on commissions from Homer Wilson.

Settlers on Strip of Neutral Land Untaxed.

Two Washington Counties Make Queer Discovery.

Prominent Mine Promoter Fails—Case of Dix.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Recent investigations have disclosed the existence of a neutral strip of land lying between Stevens and Spokane counties, which appears never to have been carried on the tax rolls of ether county. The oversight seems to have had its origin in a misconception of the real boundary line between the counties named.

The strip is wedge-like in form, being about ten rods in width at the southern end, at the mouth of the Little Spokane, and about forty rods at the northern extremity, not far from Clayton. The length of the strip is approximately eighteen miles. The patented land in the strips amounts altogether to a little over six hundred acres, a portion of which is of good value, and the balance is on a par with that which Spokane county now assesses at from $2.50 to $3 per acre.

During all the time since Spokane county was cut off from Stevens county, nearly twenty years ago, settlers of this strip have been immune from visits of the assessors, but this year the land will be listed on the Stevens county tax roll.

AL CARTER NOT A REGENT.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OPINION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—In response to a request from V. H. Henderson, acting secretary of the Board of Regents of the University of California, Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb has given his opinion, holding that the speaker pro tem. of the Assembly does not become a member of the Board of Regents by reason of the resignation of the Speaker; that is to say, that Henry E. Carter of Los Angeles has not become a member of the board through the resignation of Arthur G. Fish, who was recently appointed postmaster at San Francisco.

NEW LOS ANGELES BANKS.

FOUR LICENSES OF EIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The California Bank Commissioners today issued eight more licenses for as many banks to engage in business. Five of these are savings and three are commercial banks. Los Angeles alone claims four, while the remainder are distributed at the rate of one each for San Francisco, Sacramento, Pasadena and Brawley, San Diego county. The four Los Angeles banks and the one at Pasadena are capitalized for $1,000 each, of which 5 per cent. has actually been paid in.

AND STILL ANOTHER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The State Board of Bank Commissioners today issued a license to the Analy Savings Bank, located in Sebastopol, Sonoma county, with a capital stock of $25,000.

MORE LICENSES ISSUED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The Bank Commissioners today issued licenses for five new banks, as follows: Oriental Commercial and Savings Bank of San Francisco, capital, $50,000; Analy Savings Bank of Sebastopol, capital, $50,000; Central Exchange of San Francisco, capital, $100,000; Security Savings Bank of Berkeley, capital, $50,000; Home Savings Bank of Sacramento, capital, $25,000.

MINE BROKER PINNEY FAILS.

SMALL SUM BROUGHT IT ON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—George S. Pinney, noted in the United States and Europe as a mining broker and stock speculator, filed a petition in bankruptcy today in the United States District Court. His liabilities are $92,-, his assets, nominally $1100 worth of mining stocks. The principal creditors are English brokers who loaned Pinney money on promissory notes.

Pinney's financial difficulties date back to January of last year, when he sold an interest in a mining claim in Sierra county. For the purpose of perfecting the title, he borrowed $300 from Della G. Mahoney, who afterward sued to recover the amount. The action is said to have precipitated Pinney's failure. Beside personal property to the value of $400, Pinney owns an undivided half-interest in 15,900 shares of stock in the Mining and Investment Company. Pinney also claims that in reference $40,000 is due to him on commissions from Homer Wilson.

TO SAN JOSE TO DANCE.

STANFORD JUNIORS REFUSED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 3.—As a result of the refusal of the University authorities to allow the junior class to hold the annual junior hop in Encina Hall ballroom, the committee of students in charge today decided to take the dance to San José, and it will be held in the Vendome on March 25. A special train will leave the crowd from the university. The action of the class was with the full permission of the university authorities.

MARINE EXPLORATION TRIP.

TO LOOK FOR SUNKEN CANYONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 3.—On April 10 President David Starr Jordan will take personal charge of the marine exploration party that is now cruising on the California coast under the direction of Prof. Ritter of the University of California.

The work of the expedition will be to make a thorough investigation of the sunken cañons found along the coast and to determine the nature of the lower forms of life that may be found in them.

The especially close study will be made of Monterey Bay and some considerable time will be spent in investigating Santa Monica Bay. The vessel being used for the expedition is the United States Fish Commission ship Albatross. Dr. Jordan will be accompanied by Profs. C. H. Gilbert and H. Heath of the zoology department and M. H. Shaulding, '03, a graduate student in zoology. The work of the expedition is expected to last until August, when a complete report of the work done will be forwarded to Washington.

H. ST. JOHN DIX'S CASE.

COMMITMENT TO PRISON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) March 3.—A formal order of commitment to the penitentiary for ten years of H. St. John Dix was issued today by Judge Neterer.

In granting the order, Judge Neterer said that he had noticed a statement made by an expert and a committee of the depositors of the bank which the prisoner is under sentence for wrecking, purporting to show that he is not really guilty of the crime for which he is about to suffer. The court said he would examine the statement, should it be presented to him, and take such action on a petition for executive clemency, as it might disclose facts not brought out during the trial.

GOV. PARDEE'S LETTER.

"I have been informed by W. H. Moore of St. Louis, who is the president of the National Good Roads Association, that he is now on his way to California, and that as a preliminary to the coming national and international good roads convention to be held at St. Louis from May 16 to May 21, in conjunction with the World's Fair, he intends to call together a State good roads convention, to be held at some date and place to be hereafter designated. This information is sent you by request of Mr. Moore, who desires the coöperation of all the commercial bodies in the State, and who, when he arrives, will no doubt communicate with you direct, furnishing all necessary particulars in regard to the proposed California meeting."

Another Case of Bubonic Plague.

SACRAMENTO, March 3.—Another case of bubonic plague, according to a provisional diagnosis, has developed. The victim is a married woman named Soto or De Soto, living near Concord, Contra Costa county. Dr. N. K. Foster, secretary of the State Board of Health, states that there is no doubt of the case being one of plague, and sections of tissue from which cultures have been made have been sent to the United States Marine Hospital service at San Francisco.

Former Monterey Merchant Fails.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Millen M. Doe of Monterey failed today for $130,625. He was formerly a merchant in this city, but for some years has not been actively engaged. From the estate of Charles F. Doe he received a legacy of $40,000 cash, which he turns over for the benefit of his creditors.

Italians on a Strike.

NAPA, March 3.—Fifty men employed at the Portland Cement Works at Napa Junction are out on a strike. The men are mostly Italians, employed in getting cement rock out of quarry. The company refuses to pay more than 18 cents per hour. The men demand a 20-cent rate. Thursday morning strikers with shotguns patrolled the road near the works, and threw stones at the men who remained at work.

Court Says He Was Elected.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The Supreme Court today decided that H. C. Head was elected District Attorney of Orange county in November, 1902. E. T. Langley, another candidate, was only a few votes behind his rival and instituted a contest in the belief that the judges of election had erred. The Superior Court decided in favor of Head and the decision is affirmed by the higher tribunal.

SPANIARD DEFENDS AMERICA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADRID, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Señor Montero Rios, Liberal leader and president of the commission, which in 1898, arranged a treaty of people with America, made a strong defense of the treaty today. He said America had not abused her treaty privileges, but had treated Spain with less cruelty than Prussia used toward France in 1871.

SPANISH SEAMEN DESERT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADRID, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One hundred bluejackets have deserted from the Spanish warship Pelayo, at Ferrol, on account of the discipline. Many of them have since been captured and severely punished.

WHITECAPS TAR CALLAHAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

QUESTION OF THE FUTURE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Morning Post says it is informed on good authority that if the Japanese are successful in Manchuria steps will be taken to guard against the possibility of Russia again assuming a dominant attitude in that portion of Chinese territory. The idea of Russia's policing the railway will no longer be entertained. There was a clause in the original concession under which China was to have the right to purchase the entire line and its rolling stock after a term of years, and the Chinese, if they regain complete control over the Manchurian provinces, may be disposed to take the Eastern Chinese Railway off Russia's hands.

RUSSIANS AT PORT SAID.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORT SAID, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Osliabia and five destroyers arrived today from the South. After coaling, they will proceed to Cadiz. The destroyers which turned back yesterday sailed this morning. The Dimitri Donskoi remains at Suez.

PLANNED TO SEIZE SEOUL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Regarding Russia's statement to the foreign powers that Japan attacked Chemulpo and Port Arthur before declaring war, it is said the Japanese government can fully prove that arrangements had been made between the Korean government and Viceroy Alexieff for 2000 Cossacks to be sent to Seoul to protect the Imperial Palace. This would have placed the seat of government entirely in the control of the Russians.

WILL DISMANTLE MANDJUR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch. The Russian Consul has notified the Taotai that the authorities at St. Petersburg formally agree to dismantle the gunboat Mandjur, which remained here in defiance of neutrality regulations. They agree to put her guns ashore and let her remain at Shanghai until the end of the war. It is privately stated that the Mandjur will, however, be disarmed as slowly as possible. Her disposition has not yet been settled, but the Japanese are endeavoring to prevent the Chinese authorities from retaining custody of the warship.

CHINESE MINERS STRIKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Several hundred Chinese coal miners employed by the Russians at Wushan, Manchuria, have gone on a strike. Thousands of unemployed miners have joined the bandits in order to harass the Russians.

NEAR THE RUSSIAN CAMP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Japanese forces are stated to be within three days' march of the Russian encampment. The Russians are retiring to await reinforcements. Heavy weather renders military movements difficult. Correspondents at Tokio are now hopeful of being allowed to go to the front at an early date.

PREPARED TO MEET 'EM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Officials at the Ministry of War announced that Russia's preparations to meet the enemy at any point in Manchuria are now in such a state of advancement that they can be complete before the Japanese can effect an invasion of any consequence. It is expected the Japanese will attempt to force a passage across the Yalu River and then advance along the Muotienling line toward Liao Yong.

MYSTERIOUS NIGHT VISITS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There have been mysterious night visits to this port during the past week by Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers. The officers went ashore and proceeded straight to the Japanese consulate which is closely guarded. There is still much confusion at Port Arthur. Russians show the utmost dislike for British and Americans, and are compelling all except a few to leave.

POPULATION IN TERROR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports from Port Arthur today say the population there is in a state of extreme terror. Lawlessness is increasing, and prospects of a famine are causing the inhabitants to seek safety in flight. The railway authorities declare congestion on the lines caused by the transport of troops prevents the movement of provisions.

BURLEIGH'S LATEST GUESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent, Bennett Burleigh, says the Japanese have decided to advance along the Peking road from Seoul. When they have secured the Yalu River they will threaten Kirin, cutting the railroad, and close in on Vladivostok.

DISTURBED BRITISHERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The greatest anxiety pervades government circles here, owing to the report that the Russian admiral commanding the Mediterranean fleet has received orders to watch all vessels bound east and to seize any carrying cargoes which may be classed as contraband of war. It is understood this order is particularly aimed at coal-carrying steamers flying the British flag. Many British tramp steamers are said to be making their way stealthily from port to port with coal consigned to Japan.

TAKE STEPS TO SETTLE GRAIN RATE WAR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—A step toward the settlement of the grain rate war which has robbed the Chicago-Atlantic port railway lines of practically all grain traffic from the Central West, has been taken at a meeting here. Executive officials of the roads in the Central Traffic Association met the executive officials of the trunk lines, and appointed a committee to draw up a plan for the purpose of re-establishing harmony between the eastern railroads and the lines with Gulf port terminals.

Oscar G. Murray, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be chairman of the committee, and representatives of the Lake Shore, the Pennsylvania, the Big Four and the Clover Leaf will serve with him. This committee was vested with power to make an agreement with the southwest lines on any reasonable basis which would guarantee a maintenance of a fixed schedule between the eastern lines and Gulf port roads.

The question which it is sought to adjust involves all classes of traffic for export, but leaves in statu quo the import rate rivalry between the Gulf ports and the Northern Atlantic ports, which has caused the eastern lines much uneasiness. The fight to build up the export tonnage of the Gulf port lines at the expense of the eastern lines has centered about the grain rates, although cuts were made in other classes of freight.

SANTA FE AND DUNKARDS.

TO START COLONIES IN TEXAS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, March 3.—The Record-Herald today says:

"Arrangements have been made by the Santa Fé Railroad for the establishment of two large Dunkard colonies in Northern Texas and in the Pecos Valley. Between 300 and 500 families are expected to locate in the colonies.

"Through Phillip Swihart of Tippecanoe, Ind., the Dunkards of many states have agreed to sell their homes and to colonise on a large scale in the sections named. Contracts have been signed by the Dunkard committee and the land agents of the Santa Fé whereby the railway has reserved 15,000 acres of land in the Pecos Valley, between Carlsbad and Roswell, and 31,000 acres in Northern Texas between Hereford and Bovina. On the latter will be colonised the Dunkards who desire to engage in cattle raising mainly, and on the former tract those who desire to engage in fruit raising."

BAY SHORE CUT-OFF.

WORK TO SOON COMMENCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Within a few weeks, work on the Bay Shore cut-off, which is to give the Southern Pacific a shorter and easier route for its coast line out of San Francisco, will be in progress. It was learned yesterday that the Southern Pacific has submitted plans and specifications for construction work to a large number of railroad contracting firms throughout the country and that seven bids have been received. They all range between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 for the grading and tunnel work. There will be five tunnels on the cut-off throughout the Potrero hills.

NO GOULD INVASION.

ESPEE CONNECTING SUIT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—George J. Gould, accompanied by his family and several railway officials and friends, have just arrived here from the south. In an interview, he denied the frequent reports that he was behind the Western Railroad project. The Southern Pacific connections with the Gould and other roads to the West, he said, were eminently satisfactory and he could see no reason why he should contemplate an invasion of the Coast territory, so long as these pleasant relations continued. The same statement, he added, would apply to the Santa Fé connections.

Now on Los Angeles Division.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—A circular issued today from the office of Manager Alger of the Southern Pacific company announced the appointment of W. A. McGovern as assistant superintendent of the Los Angeles division to succeed E. L. Swain, who recently resigned.

DAN SULLY'S DOINGS.

He and His Lieutenants Manipulate Cotton Market to Their Hearts' Content.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Daniel J. Sully and his lieutenants were busy today in the cotton market, working steadily for higher prices. At the opening, prices were from 10 to 20 points higher and they advanced slowly but surely to a higher level still. At 1 o'clock May was boosted by Sully buying to 6.01 and June to 16 cents, while July sold at 15.93 and spot jumped 50 points to 16.35.

Every day proves more and more conclusively that the Sully-Brown clique has the cotton market in its absolute control. It sells when the market declines; it buys when it goes up. They pretend to sell and it declines, while in reality they are buying, and soon those who have sold are forced to bid, when the price advances, when, under cover of pretended buying, the bull leader sells until he has disposed of enough. Then the market declines, and his broker buys cotton which he is to sell again to those who sold it at a higher price.

BUTCHERS GO ON STRIKE.

OAKLAND, March 3.—Refusal of the employing butchers of this city to sign a new wage and hour schedule presented by the Journeymen Butchers' Union, followed by a strike in two meat markets of union cutters, has led to a lockout of union butchers. Two hundred men are involved and nearly every meat market in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda has been affected.

Employers in the large shops declared that the fight is not centered on the wage schedule, but is a question, with them, of recognition of the union.

WASHINGTON.

STILL KEEPS FIVE WIVES.

Smith Admits He Continues to Violate Law.

Mormon Mogul Tells About Other Cohabiters.

Shaw Calls for the Deposits. Cement Bids Rejected.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Attorneys for the protestants in the Smoot investigation today said they intended to prove that the defendant is associated with an organization which practices polygamy and connives at violations of the law, and that his very vote as a Senator of the United States is subject to the wish and command of the Mormon church. President Joseph F. Smith confessed that he himself had continued to cohabit with his plural family since the manifesto of 1890, and that he realized fully that he was violating the State law. President Smith also testified that Reed Smoot tried to get the consent of his associate apostles in the church before he could become a candidate for Senator.

The confession of President Smith was the sensation of the proceedings today before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections. Smith said that the manifesto of 1890 had left him and others with plural families in the unfortunate situation of being compelled to defy the law or desert their families. For himself, he had preferred to "take chances with the law," rather than to disgrace himself and degrade his family by abandoning his wives and the children they had borne him. He admitted that he had had children by all of his five wives since the manifesto, and said he had acknowledged them openly, without interference or disturbance from the people of Utah, whom he spoke of as liberal and broad-minded.

TESTIMONY IN DETAIL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—When the committee was called to order seven Senators were present. Chairman Burrows gave the ruling on the questions asked of President Joseph F. Smith, relating to the polygamous cohabitation of George F. Teasdale, a Mormon apostle. Objection to such questioning had been made by the defendant. The committee ruled that the testimony bearing on plural marriages of any member of the twelve apostles, of whom Mr. Smoot is one, is competent, so far as it relates to such polygamous cohabitation since September 26, 1890, the date of President Woodruff's manifesto withdrawing the order of the church commanding plural marriages.

Senator Beveridge stated that there had been a misunderstanding as to whether Mr. Smoot was being tried on the charges of polygamy or of having taken an oath incompatible with his oath as a United States Senator. Now, he said, it is apparent that these charges are not pending in this investigation.

Senator Dubois dissented from the statement that there had been such a misunderstanding, and said the real charge is that Mr. Smoot is a member of a Mormon hierarchy which subscribes to vows in conflict with the laws of the country, and was bound to support such vows.

Senator Pettus made a protest against the debate between members of the committee, and Chairman Burrows directed Tayler to proceed. Questions were then directed to ascertain Smith's knowledge of the polygamous marriages of Abraham H. Cannon, and whether Smith had performed the service uniting Cannon and Lillian Hamlin. Smith said he had seen newspaper reports saying that he had done so, but he denied the truth of the statements.

Then Tayler asked a number of questions which brought out a statement from Smith regarding his own position under the laws covering polygamy. He acknowledged that he had violated them continuously since the manifesto of 1890, and is ready now and always ready to face the laws of the land.

Tayler asked if cohabitation with a plural wife was contrary to the rules of the church. Smith asked and received permission to make a statement, and then answered the question in his own way. He spoke with great feeling and directness, just the reverse of his attitude on the stand at yesterday's hearing, saying: "In regard to the status of polygamy at the time of the manifesto, I want to say that after the hearing before the Master of Chancery, I understood that we should abstain from relations with our plural families, and that rule was observed up to the time the enabling act went into effect admitting Utah as a State. Under that act the only prohibition was that plural marriages should cease. Nothing was said about cohabitation with our wives."

"With the wives you had married previous to the manifesto, you mean?" interjected Mr. Hoar.

"That is what I meant," said Smith, "I understood that plural marriages were to cease, and ever since the manifesto until the present time there never has been a plural marriage in the church performed in accordance with its teachings, or with the connivance of the church, and," he added, with great emphasis, "I know whereof I speak."

CONTRARY TO LAW.

Then, in answer to the question whether polygamous cohabitation was regarded by the church as contrary to the law, he said: "It was." Continuing, he said:

"This was the case and is the case now. But I was placed in this position," said Mr. Smith. "I had a family—a plural family, if you please. I married my first wife more than thirty-eight years ago and my last wife more than twenty years ago. By these wives, I have had children, and I have preferred to take my own chances with the law and suffer any consequences the law might visit upon me rather than abandon these children and their mothers.

"I have continued to cohabitate with them since the manifesto of 1890 and they have borne me children since that date. I was fully aware of what I was doing. I knew I was amenable to the law, but, as I say, I preferred to face that situation rather than to desert them. I have not cohabitated with these wives openly, or flaunted the fact, but I have acknowledged these wives and children as my family. The people of Utah have regarded the situation as an existing fact. These people, as a rule, are broad-minded and liberal in their views, and have condoned the offense—if offense it is—rather than to interfere with my situation as they found it. It has been known what I have been doing. I have not been interfered with, nor disturbed in any way. If I had been, I was there to answer the charges. I was willing to face them, and submit to the penalty, whatever it might be."

Smith paused for a moment, but as Tayler prepared to ask another question, he again proceeded with his statement: "You must draw a distinction between unlawful cohabitation and plural marriage," he said. "The State law in regard to the latter has been complied with. No marriages have been performed with the sanction, approval, consent, knowledge or connivance of the church or its officials. But the other law is the one I have presumed to disregard and which, as I have said, I am ready to face rather than disgrace myself or degrade my family by turning them off."

Tayler resumed his questioning.

"You say there is a State law forbidding polygamous cohabitation, and you have been continuing to violate it in utter disregard of the consequences?" he asked.

"I think I have," was the answer.

"You have caused your plural wives to bear new children in violation of the law you knew to exist?"

"That is correct," said Smith.

"Why have you done so," persisted Tayler.

"For the reason I have told you. I preferred to face the law. I could not disgrace myself. I could not degrade my family."

"Do you consider it an abandonment of your family not to maintain marriage relations?" Tayler asked.

Smith faced Tayler, and in a low, but penetrating voice said: "I don't like to be impertinent, but I should like you to ask any woman who is a wife——"

At that point Mr. Foraker and Mr. Beveridge objected, and in discussing the questions both expressed the opinion that the witness had stated fully that he had violated the laws and that he had been frank in regard to his reasons, and finally that the committee was advised on that subject. Mr. Foraker said that after such a statement as had been made by Smith it was unnecessary to ask the witness concerning his opinions on the subject of good morals.

Mr. Hoar moved that such questions be not allowed at this time, but if at a future time it was found that Smith's statement was not full and complete, the committee might question him.

Mr. Dubois then asked Smith if it was not understood by those in authority that it was the duty of the polygamist to continue to provide for and support his plural family after the manifesto of 1890.

Smith answered that it was "generally so understood."

Resuming the inquiry, concerning Smith's personal polygamous relations, Tayler asked:

"How many children have you had since the manifesto of 1890?"

Worthington objected on the part of the defense and both Senators Beveridge and Foraker again said they thought that as his wives had borne children since the manifesto, it made no difference how many children had been born to him.

"I contend that it does make a difference," said Tayler. "It makes a difference how well the fact was advertised that he was violating the law. It makes a difference whether it was two or twenty-two, in the effect his example might have on others in the church."

HAS FIVE WIVES.

Mr. Burrows asked Smith if he had married any wives between the first and the last he had mentioned during his statement to the committee.

"I have," said Smith.

"How many?"

"Three."

"Then you have five wives now?" said Mr. Burrows.

"That is correct," was the reply.

Mr. Burrows ruled that the question objected to was in order, and directed the stenographer to read the question:

"How many children have you had since the manifesto of 1890?"

"Eleven since 1890," said Smith.

Continuing, he said: "Each of my five wives has borne me children."

"Since that time?" asked Mr. Burrows.

"Since that time," the witness repeated in answer.

"I rather think," he added, "that one of them has had three children—I could tell you a little later."

He said in reply to Tayler that he had attended the dedication exercises at the St. Louis Exposition and had been accompanied by his plural wife, Edna Smith, by name. Senator Smoot had been with them on that occasion, when they had been photographed in a group.

In reply to a question he said: "Each of my families has a home of its own in Salt Lake City, and comparatively near to each other. Since the manifesto, my custom has been to live with my first wife at her home, but I have visited my other families."

He also said, replying to Tayler, that he had been present at the reception of the President at Senator Kern's residence at Salt Lake City, and that he had one of his plural wives with him, but that she was not the one whom he took to St. Louis.

"My attitude toward my wives was of general knowledge," he said.

Senator Smoot's counsel objected, however, to the assumption that Senator Smoot knew all the circumstances connected with Smith's wives.

"We prefer to put Senator Smoot on the stand and let him tell what he knows," remarked Van Cott.

Being asked whether he had taken the test oath in 1895 before voting, Smith hesitated, and his counsel asked that he be confronted with the oath. The question was temporarily withdrawn.

Senator Overman asked: "Did Senator Smoot ever advise you to persist in your polygamous cohabitation?"

Smith replied: "I think not. I have never, so far as I remember, discussed my private affairs with him."

"Are the apostles your advisers?"

"I receive advice from all good men, but no more from them than from other elders of the church."

"Did they ever advise you to desist from the practice?"

"Not that I know of."

"Has Mr. Smoot visited you at your residences?"

"He has been to my first wife's house, where I make what may be called my official residence."

SOME OF THE BUNCH.

Asked about Charles Teasdale, one of the twelve apostles, Smith said he knew nothing of his present domestic relations. He thought, however, that until two or three years ago, Teasdale had two wives. Smith also was asked about Apostle John W. Taylor, and said he is reputed to be a polygamist.

"Could not an apostle be a polygamist without your knowledge?" asked Senator Dubois.

"No, sir, not unless he violated the rules of the church, and I don't think any of them would do that."

"Then why say 'I think' and 'I suppose?'"

"Because," replied the witness, "I never saw any of them married to any woman."

Smith said Apostles Merrill and Heber B. Grant are reputed to be polygamists; he had seen two women who were pointed out as Grant's wives. Grant is now in Europe in the interest of the church. He has with him his second wife, John Henry Smith is, the witness stated, the husband of two wives.

"He is a kinsman of mine," he said, "and I know positively about him."

"Did you ever advise him to desist from the polygamous practice?"

"I never did; I could not consistently do so while I myself was practicing the system."

Smith was asked about other apostles. Cowley is, he said, a reputed polygamist. Roger Clausen is not. He was especially questioned concerning F. M. Lyman, president of the apostles and in the line of succession to himself. Smith said that Lyman, being present, should answer for himself, but the committee insisted, and he replied that Lyman was reputed to have two wives.

"Have any of these men taken plural wives since the manifesto of 1890?" asked Senator Beveridge.

"I repeat," said President Smith, bringing his hand down on the table with some emphasis, "that since the manifesto of 1890, no man has entered into plural marriage with the knowledge or approval of the church."

He was asked by Tayler about Marian Scholes Teasdale, deceased, who, it was said, had never met Teasdale until 1893.

Smith replied that he had not known the lady, but that he had understood that Teasdale had not known when he married her that he had another wife.

"When your deacons go out for converts in other lands, do they not present the rightfulness of polygamy as a religious virtue?"

This question was put by Senator Hoar, and was answered in the negative.

Tayler then inquired concerning instructions given to missionaries as to the teaching of polygamy.

Smith said the book called "Ready References" is used by missionaries. This book, he said, contains a chapter on polygamy, declaring that practice to be divine. He said the book was an old one, and that he had no knowledge of recent publications. The marginal note on the chapter on polygamy was "Polygamy Right in the Sight of God." Smith admitted, however, that the use of the book had almost entirely been abandoned by the Mormon elders doing missionary work. The standard works of the church, he said, were the books taken with them. In reply to questions from Chairman Burrows, Smith said he did not know whether or not the missionaries take with them copies of the manifesto of 1890, suspending polygamy as an order of the church.

Tayler asked concerning Brigham H. Roberts's position as first president of the seventy, and asked if Roberts was not elected to that high position after he was elected to Congress. Smith said he could not remember. In answer to questions by Senator Dubois, Smith said he had been elected by the seventy. Continuing, he said: "I could not consistently object to Mr. Roberts myself, and I do not know of any member who could."

"Then you place all of the 'seventy' in the same category as yourself?" asked Senator Dubois.

"Yes, I suppose so," answered Smith.

"So that you mean because all members of the 'seventy' are polygamists they could not object to Mr. Roberts?" asked Senator Foraker.

"No, not at all," said Smith.

Senator Dubois went over the ground again and pointed out the fact that objection had not been made to Mr. Roberts retaining office after it was proved he was a polygamist.

Inquiry having been made by several members of the committee as to what Tayler expected to prove by certain questioning, the latter said: "I expect to prove that Mr. Smoot would not by any possibility have put himself up against his associates in his actions."

"Not even in his vote as a United States Senator?" asked Mr. Beveridge.

"No, not even in his vote as a Senator," responded Tayler.

Tayler said Mr. Smoot was bound to follow the direction of the church, not only in spiritual affairs, but also in temporal things, because, under the definitions of the church, it is impossible to distinguish between the two. He would have to object or resign his apostleship.

Taylor asked Smith where his property would go in case of his death.

"My property would go to my heirs," said he, "and the property which I hold in trust for the church would go to my successor."

In answer to questions concerning revelations, Smith reiterated former statements that such revelations were accepted or rejected at will; that there is no restraint upon any member except his or her voluntary wish. He said he did not always obey the revelations from God.

"One can obey or disobey with impunity," he added.

"Then that is the kind of God you believe in," said Tayler.

"Yes," declared Smith with emphasis.

A ruling of the church was quoted in regard to the release of duties of certain members, apostles or others in high positions in order to perform other duties, and Tayler asked: "Was it necessary for Mr. Smoot to get consent to run for Senator?"

"He had to get the consent of his associate apostles and the first presidency," said Smith, "in order to go before the Legislature. He obtained that consent."

When asked if any one else was given consent to run for the office, Mr. Smith said no one had asked for such consent.

An effort was made to show that Mr. Smoot had not acted of his own free will, but Smith declared the consent amounted to nothing more than a release from his duties in the church in case he was elected.

Senator Hoar asked if Mr. Cannon was given consent to come to Congress, and Smith answered that Mr. Cannon had never been an official of the church and therefore did not require consent. Tayler asked concerning James Tanner, former president of the Agricultural College of Utah, who, it was stated, had resigned his position for the reason that the United States threatened to withdraw its support on the ground that the head of the school was a polygamist. Smith said Tanner was a polygamist.

Mr. Smith, in answer to questions by Chairman Burrows, declared he had performed no polygamous marriages since 1900 anywhere on earth.

Mr. Dubois asked if any one of the apostles had performed such a service, and Smith said if they had they would have been fined and imprisoned if found guilty, and if the charge could be proved the offender would be excommunicated.

Senator Hoar made another request for the four books which have been described by Smith as the standards of authority, saying that they would be needed in considering the case.

"But," interposed Senator Dillingham, "I suppose we can furnish our own Bibles."

Smith volunteered to supply all the volumes himself, even the Bibles, if the committee desired to have copies of that book.

Tayler devoted much attention to a discussion of the Mormon marriage ceremony. It was brought out that all high officials of the church and all of the elders are authorized to marry persons, and that such marriages are registered in accordance with the State laws on that question.

The "celestial marriage," or the "marriage for eternity," Smith said, was one of the things the Mormon church believed in, but the practice had been in disuse for twenty years or more. This marriage was described as one to carry two persons through heaven in happiness. It often was performed when one party was dead and sometimes when both parties were dead. In that event, the relatives of the contracting parties represented them. When questioned closely, Smith admitted that a man and a woman, both living, were sometimes married for "eternity."

Taylor concluded with Smith, and the defense will examine the witness tomorrow.

WILL MAKE ITS OWN CEMENT.

TONTO BASIN BIDS TOO HIGH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In accordance with the report of the reclamation engineers of the committee in charge of the bids for cement for the Tonto Basin Dam the Interior Department has rejected all bids, and it is now thought probable that the government will continue the work it began of preparing cement itself.

After careful consideration of the matter, it has been decided the government can make its own cement more cheaply than it could be purchased from private firms or corporations. Plans and specifications were prepared for a construction plant, and bids were invited for that purpose. At this time, a number of leading cement manufacturers in the country sent reports to Washington and their protest was filed with the Secretary of the Interior. Several conferences were held by the Secretary with representatives of cement firms and he decided to give them a chance to supply the cement. Bids were invited and all the cement firms were asked to present them. In the meantime, letting of the contract for the construction of the government plant was held up, although several thousand dollars had been expended on preliminary work.

The bids were received at the Interior Department Monday, and on examination, they were found all very high. The committee in charge invited a report from one of the reclamation engineers as to the probable cost to the government to manufacture its own material. This report was presented forthwith. According to the engineers, the government can manufacture cement at a cost of $1.00 per barrel. This includes the expense of putting up a plant, labor, transportation, etc. At this rate, the government would save $2 per barrel on material made according to prices asked by cement manufacturers.

It was further stated in the report that the cost to manufacture the cement would decrease per barrel as the number of barrels increased, thus a saving of $300,000 would be made on 150,000 barrels and a saving of $500,000 on 250,000 barrels. On these representations, the committee rejected all bids and will make a report accordingly to the Secretary of the Interior. It is believed now the government will go to work manufacturing its own material without further parley with manufacturers, as they have been given their chance.

CONCURRENT CANAL PAYMENTS.

SHAW NOTIFIES BANKS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Secretary Shaw has notified all special national bank depositories, including those of New York City, that they will be required to pay, on account of the Panama Canal purchase, 20 per cent. of their holdings of government funds on or before March 25. The 20 per cent. aggregates about $30,000,000, leaving about $20,000,000 to be supplied by the treasury.

It has been decided heretofore to have the depository national banks in New York City pay their individual proportions over to the New York subtreasury at once to meet at this time the payment due Panama, and later to pay the new canal company at Paris the $40,000,000 due it by calls on national bank depositories outside New York City.

In view, however, of news received from Paris later in the day to the effect that the French company would call a meeting of its directors and carry out the formalities necessary to the transfer of the title of the property to the United States, it was thought best to make the two payments to the canal company and to the republic of Panama concurrently about April 1.

SHOTS IN WAR DEPARTMENT.

INSANE SOLDIER HITS TWO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Armed with a revolver, William O'Brien, alias William Duffey, an insane discharged soldier, today entered the War Department, and, going to the mail and record division, shot Robert J. Manning, a messenger, and Arthur Wieker, a clerk. Another bullet narrowly missed Miss Emma Sexton, another clerk. The injury to Manning is on the right side and is regarded as dangerous. Wieker was shot in the arm. Before the maniac could fire again he was overpowered by James J. Dawson, a messenger.

It required the combined strength of half a dozen men to finally subdue the man. Prominent among them was Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee, chief of staff. The lunatic still held the smoking weapon in his hand when Gen. Chaffee noticed it and with his left hand took the weapon from him and also some papers from his pocket.

O'Brien, or Duffey, came to the War Department early and hung around the building for more than an hour. He was escorted to the record division by Charles Brandt, chief of the division, and expressed dissatisfaction with his discharge papers. Then, without a word of warning, he drew a pistol from his pocket and aimed it directly at Brandt's head. Brandt ducked and the bullet entered the arm of Wieker. He then turned the weapon upon Miss Sexton and fired. She, too, dodged and the bullet struck Manning. There were five other clerks in the room at the time; but for the quickness of Messenger Dawson the maniac undoubtedly would have shot them all. Dawson, however, grabbed him and held him until assistance came.

O'Brien was admitted to St. Elizabeth's asylum in 1892. He was later paroled, but was returned in 1897. He served in the Sixth Cavalry and the Third Artillery.

ARMY APPROPRIATIONS.

IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Senate Committee on Naval Affairs today completed consideration of the Army Appropriation Bill. Among the changes made are the following: Military cable from Sitka to Fort Liscum, Alaska, $321,580; for shelter of troops serving in Panama, $100,000, to be immediately available (this is an appropriation to meet any future possible exigencies calling for troops;) wagon road from Valdes to Fort Egbert, Wash., road to be constructed in conjunction with the authorities of Spokane, $90,000; hospital at Fort Riley, Kan., $50,000; hospital at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., $30,000.

An appropriation of $10,000 is made for a national rifle range at Fort Riley. The provisional regiment in Porto Rico is increased by one battalion. Double time in reckoning time for retirement of officers is allowed for service in China, Cuba, the Philippines, Guam and Panama. In the discretion of the Secretary of War, 25 per cent. of the amount paid to officers and men may be in Philippine currency at the ratio of two pesos to $1. Officers who served in the Civil War and who have not reached the grade of brigadier-general, it is provided, may retire with an advance of one grade.

COLLIDED WITH THE ILLINOIS.

MISSOURI HITS BATTLESHIP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Rear-Admiral Barker cables the Navy Department from Guantanamo, under yesterday's date, as follows:

"On making passage from Guantanamo to Pensacola, Fla., the Missouri's steam steering gear became disabled and she collided with the Illinois, damaging the latter's port propeller, but with slight injury to herself. The Illinois has been ordered to the navy yard at New York to have her propeller repaired."

THE CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—SENATE—The Senate today set aside the special order for the day, the consideration of Alaskan legislation, in order to permit the consideration of the Naval Appropriation Bill. The reading of the committee amendments to the naval bill was begun, but before it had progressed very far, Mr. Gorman asked for a statement in explanation of the bill by Mr. Hale in charge of the bill. The Senator replied by presenting the facts concerning the measure. He said that while the increase in the navy is the largest ever made, it must be understood that the proposed additions are only a part of a general scheme for improvements.

UNCLE SAM'S STANDING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Mr. Hale classed Great Britain first, France second and the United States third in naval strength, saying the popular impression that Germany outranked this country was fallacious. Mr. Hale acceded to a proposition by Mr. Perkins that in effectiveness of appliances, the United States stood next to Great Britain. This was due to the fact that we had been able to take advantage of the mistakes of European powers.

Mr. Hale said that Japan was the smallest of the naval powers with the exception of Austria, but had an advantage in being only a few hundred miles from the farthest naval operations in which she might become involved.

"In our navy," said Mr. Hale, "there is talk of puting many of our vessels, such as the Oregon, Indiana and others of the same class, on the retired list."

"I hope they won't retire the Oregon," said Mr. Stewart.

"Well, they ought not to," said Mr. Hale, "but she has not the stateroom facilities that meet the fancy of naval officers. She has the same number of 13-inch guns and the same fighting capacity. Nothing suits naval officers except the largest battleships.

He expressed the opinion that the present war in the Orient would show that other vessels are more valuable than large battleships, but admitted that no definite conclusions could be drawn until the smoke lifted.

Mr. Hale said he had no censure for the officers of the navy.

"But the naval officer is a naval officer, pure and simple, and the American navy bounds his complete horizon. To him the navy is right, and the Naval Board has run too much in the direction of enormous ships."

The Naval Board programme contemplated forty-eight battleships and twenty-four armored cruisers, and when that stage was reached an appropriation of $200,000,000 a year would be necessary for the navy. He thought it probable that the appropriation required next year would be $120,000,000. If, however, the scale should be kept down to the present rate of increase, the appropriation would be increased.

Mr. Perkins defended the officers of the navy, saying they were entitled to great credit.

Mr. Hale admitted that the American officer was a man of merit, but Congress had its responsibilities and should know where the money was going.

"I am," said he, "not to be deterred by criticism of want of patriotism. I want a powerful navy. It is necessary on account of the conditions. We have seven good ships in the Philippines, for instance. It is different from what it is with Japan, who will do her fighting at home. In case of war we should have to spend hundreds of millions in the hiPlippines. But there is danger of going further than necessary."

Mr. Hale admitted that the last extensive additions to the navy had been made necessary by the acquisition of the Philippines, and, said he, for one, would like to get rid of those islands. Still, so long as we have the islands, we must protect them. Likewise, he said, it now would be necessary to maintain a navy sufficient to protect the Panama Canal.

Mr. Lodge spoke at some length on the need of a good navy to protect our trade and uphold the Monroe doctrine. He did not believe the torpedo boat would supersede the battleship, and said that in our war with Spain the torpedo vessel had been a complete failure.

Mr. Money said that if we were to persist in our policy of subjugation we would find necessary a greater navy than the people were willing to support. Mr. Money spoke of the prowess of the Japanese, and quoted a high authority as predicting that in a few months the Russian fleet would be overcome. Then would follow the Japanese victories on land. They would secure Korea and probably a part of Manchuria. Next, they would go to the Philippines.

At the suggestion of Mr. Hale an appropriation of $400,000 for the restoration of the frigate Constitution was inserted.

The Senate, at 5:09 p.m., went into executive session, and at 5:15 p.m., adjourned.

DAY PROCEEDINGS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—HOUSE—The House today, in committee of the whole, resumed consideration of the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill.

Mr. Webb of North Carolina, calling attention to the statement made a few days ago by Mr. Scott of Kansas, that a negro had dined in the White House while Mr. Cleveland was President, announced that he had written to the former President, sending him an extract from the Record, and asking if the statement made by Mr. Scott were true.

"This morning," he said, "I received the following reply," which he read, amid applause on the Democratic side, as follows:

PRINCETON, N. J., March 2, 1904.

Hon. E. Y. Webb, House of Representatives, Washington—Dear Sir: It is a matter of small concern to me that a Mr. Scott has seen fit to use my name in a display of his evil propensities on the floor of the House of Representatives. In answer to your inquiries, I have to say of his statement that the colored man, C. H. J. Taylor, took lunch with me at the White House, that it is a deliberate falsification, out of the whole cloth.

As far as Mr. Taylor is concerned, I understand, prior to his appointment as Register of Deeds at Washington, that he had served as an assistant in the office of the City Attorney at Kansas City. His nomination as register was confirmed by the Senate, and he served in that place with intelligence and with efficiency. He has since died. Some people restrain themselves from abusing the dead.

My inquiries concerning Mr. Taylor before his appointment, my observation of him during his incumbency and the little I have known of him since convince me that his character is very unjustly attacked in the diatribe of Mr. Scott. One charge is made against Mr. Taylor by Scott which he doubly clinches with truth, when he declares, "He was a black negro." I am led, however, to doubt his familiarity with his subject when he adds: "As black as you ever saw."

Yours very truly,

[Signed] GROVER CLEVELAND.

Mr. Webb said he wanted this denial to travel, that the statement of Mr. Scott might be overtaken.

"Mr. Cleveland was a friend of the negro, but not a fool friend," said Mr. Webb. "He never by word or action encouraged the dream of social equality in the breast of the black man."

This was greeted with applause by the Democrats.

"Again," he continued, "he was the friend of the colored man, but he was also the friend of the Southern white man, and sympathized with us in our race problems and race burdens, and that, sir, is more than Mr. Roosevelt seems ever to have done."

Mr. Scott said he accepted the statement of Mr. Cleveland as true, and offered his apology to the former President. In justice to himself, said Mr. Scott, he desired to say that he never before heard the report denied.

Mr. Swanson of Virginia asked Mr. Scott where he had heard the report, to which Mr. Scott replied that he had seen the statement in newspapers. Mr. Swanson asked further for a copy of a newspaper containing the statement.

Mr. Scott explained that these statements were made several years ago, and the papers might not be readily procured. He said that he had made full apology to Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Scott added that he had brought to Mr. Cleveland for the first time in four years applause from the Democratic side. This was loudly applauded on the majority side of the chamber.

Mr. Williams, the minority leader, charged that Mr. Roosevelt had dined Booker T. Washington to carry the light of example to the South, which does not believe in social equality. When a question is raised, he said, against the appointment of a negro to a position in the South, the statement is made that there can be no discrimination on account of color, but, added Mr. Williams, the administration would not appoint a Chinaman as a postmaster on the aPcific Coast if he possessed the ability of Li Hung Chang.

WILLIAMS JOINS IN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Mr. Hardwick of Georgia asked: "Does not the gentleman agree that it would be improper and a lack of dignity for the President to rush into print and deny every newspaper statement that might be put out?"

Mr. Scott replied that he was not criticising the former President of the United States for not having heretofore made a denial. "I was giving him full credit for the denial he now makes," he added.

Mr. Williams said the whole incident showed the underlying hypocrisy of the contention that all men are socially equal, regardless of color, race, traits and tendencies.

Mr. Scott inquired who had been asserting social equality.

"I have understood," replied Mr. Williams, "that the political theory of your household of political faith for the last twenty years has been that men, regardless of color, race, traits, tendencies, capabilities or what not, ought to be strictly equal politically, but that is not all. The head of your party sets the example of social equality in the only manner in which it can be set by inviting a black man to the table. If what the President had done was not to carry the light of example, it was done for no purpose at all."

The minority leader said he was not quarreling with Mr. Roosevelt, adding: "He has a perfect right to invite a colored man if he chooses, but as far as I know he waited until he was President of the United States, so it could be an official example."

Mr. Scott said he had made no imputation of fault against Mr. Cleveland. He simply had pointed to the allegation he made because the Democratic party had gone into hysterics because one man had invited a colored man to his table.

"All right," said Mr. Williams, "I am glad to hear that, because I thought the gentleman had a sharp stick and was after my dear and much adored old friend, Grover Cleveland."

The House passed the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill and then began consideration of the Indian Appropriation Bill. Mr. Sherman of New York, chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, explained the provisions of the bill. He said it provided that the Dawes Commission should conclude its work by July, 1905, and then terminate.

Mr. Finley of South Carolina asked Mr. Lacey of Iowa, who had defended the commission, if he thought it was for the best interest of the Indian Territory to have members of the Dawes Commission interested in investment companies.

Mr. Lacey replied that he found no evidence of wrongdoing on the part the members of that committee.

Mr. Stephens of Texas, the ranking minority member of the Committee Indian Affairs, held the Secretary the Interior responsible for delay action on applications from the Ind of the Indian Territory for enro and criticised his rulings in that nection. He said applications had held up by order of the Secretary.

The House, at 5 p.m., adjourned til tomorrow.

FLOODS AND FROSTS.

While Pittsburgh is Threatened With Another Great Deluge, Thermometer in Kansas Drops Fifty Degrees With Blizzard on the Side.

[BY THE ASSOCIA TED PRESS—A.M.]

PITTSBURGH, March 3.—Pittsburgh is threatened with another great flood. According to a warning sent out today by the local forecaster, the rise will come suddenly. From all points in Western Pennsylvania come reports of torrential rains and floods. In Pittsburgh, streets were flooded to a depth of three feet in many places by the heavy downpour and scores of plants here and at nearby points have been forced to suspend on account of the rapid rise in the waters. The small streams in Western Pennsylvania are out of their banks, bridges have been swept away, and many small buildings carried down stream.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOLEDO (O.) March 3.—The flood situation today is serious, several ice gorges west of here having broken. Nearly the entire town of Grand Rapids is under water.

PRINCIPAL STREETS FLOODED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PORTLAND (Ind.) March 3.—Water here is a foot deep on the principal streets and fourteen inches in the courthouse basement.

DROP OF FIFTY DEGREES.

COLD WAVE IN KANSAS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) March 3.—A cold wave has prevailed today in Western Missouri, throughout Kansas and in Northern Oklahoma, the temperature over this part of the Southwest having dropped over fifty degrees within six hours. The low temperature was accompanied by a gale that at some points in Kansas crippled telegraph wires and damaged buildings. At Great Bend, a half-dozen small houses were unroofed; at Clay Center part of an unused hotel was blown down, and at Greensburg slight damage was done to property. No one was seriously hurt as far as known.

In Western Kansas, in the vicinity of Salina and Ellsworth, several small prairie fires prevailed, and, fanned by the strong wind, caused considerable damage to farm property.

BLIZZARD BROKE WINDOWS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LA CROSSE (Wis.) March 3.—A blizzard raged in this vicinity all night and the wind broke many windows. The temperature dropped 45 degrees during the night, the thermometers this morning registering zero.

SNOW FOLLOWS RAIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) March 3.—The temperature here has fallen from 69 to 32 degs. in twelve hours, and a heavy rain has been followed by snow flurries. The maximum velocity of the wind during the night was 46 miles an hour. No serious damage has been reported.

WIND UNROOFS HOTEL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON (Ind.) March 3.—During a terrific windstorm here today a wall in the Wilson Block was blown down and the Hyatt Hotel was unroofed. No one was killed.

FOG CAUSES COLLISIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—During a heavy fog today a Pennsylvania ferryboat sank a coal barge and a Staten Island ferryboat was badly damaged by a collision with an unknown vessel. No lives were lost.

TOLEDO BOTTLED UP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOLEDO (O.) March 3.—Tonight Toledo is bottled up between two great ice gorges. The water in the Maumee River in the heart of the city is seven feet above the main level and is stationary. At the mouth of the river, there is an ice gorge which, it is believed, extends for six miles and is backed by ice three feet thick on Lake Erie. This is holding the water back in the city.

There is yet a greater volume of water above the city, which is being held by a series of gorges. One is at Cottonwood Island and another at Grand Rapids. The latter is extended in both directions from that place as far as the eye can see. The water there is twenty-six feet above normal, and the entire town is inundated.

The wagon bridge across the river at Grand Rapids went out last night and railroad officials here fear for the three railroad bridges.

DAMAGE AT PITTSBURGH.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) March 3.—Swollen by the downpour of a night, the Monongahela and the Alleghany rivers started to rise about 9 o'clock this morning and at midnight had risen ten feet and were still rising at the rate of .3 of a foot an hour. The damage will be heavy. The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of East Pittsburgh and the Westinghouse Air Brake Company at Wilmerding were the greatest sufferers. The two great plants were forced to suspend operations, throwing more than 9000 skilled men out of employment. It is estimated that the loss to merchants here will reach at least $100,000.

COLORADO WINDSTORM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DENVER, March 3.—Belated reports of damage by wind yesterday and last night are being received from Southern Colorado and Northwestern Texas. In the Texas Panhandle, a hurricane blew freight cars off the tracks and damaged ranch buildings and fences. A Colorado and Southern passenger train was brought to a standstill unable to proceed against the wind. At Weston, Colo., near Trinidad, large lumber stacks were demolished and the contents strewn over the country.

At Florence, Colo., a number of oil derricks were prostrated. The Union Oil Company was the heaviest loser. Several buildings in the town of Florence were badly damaged. Telephone poles from Colorado Springs clear to the southern line were blown over, incapacitating the long-distance service.

No loss of life or serious injury to persons has been reported.

TWO NEW FACTS.

Court of Cassation Begins Consideration of Dreyfus Appeal for Revision of Trial.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, March 3.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Court of Cassation today began the consideration of the appeal of Alfred Dreyfus for a revision of his trial. Counsellor Chamberaud presided. The courtroom was crowded with officers, soldiers, lawyers and a number of women, among whom were relatives of Dreyfus. By their side was former Col. Picquart. Dreyfus was not present, his interests being in the hands of Lawyer Mornard. The report of M. Brier, reporter of the court, which was read, presented the two new facts upon which the Minister of Justice, M. Valle, recommended a revision of the case. These were set forth as follows:

"(1.) The secret documents include a letter bearing the initial 'D.' Now, by an affidavit of October 6, 1903, signed by M. Gribelin, keeper of archives, it appears that these documents previously carried the letter 'P.' For this letter was substituted a 'D,' and thus the altered document was presented to the court at Rennes.

"(2.) According to the Minister of Justice another letter, signed 'Alexandrine,' which agent A addressed to agent B, contained some words in the handwriting of the late Lieut. Henry, who committed suicide in prison, after having confessed to committing a forgery in the case. This letter relates to the organization of French railroads. M. Gribelin swore during the inquiry of the Minister of War that this letter was false. It was true, however, that the date of this document was March 24, 1896, when Dreyfus was imprisoned on Devil's Island."

The existence of a traitor in the French War Office was revealed by an alleged foreign diplomat, who acted without compensation. It is now claimed that Lieut.-Col. Pear in 1897 caused a book of expenditures to be receipted in order to remove all trace of payments to this diplomat, who, it has developed, was an employé of the intelligence department.

It was claimed by those present in court that if the new facts were acknowledged by the tribunal, the innocence of Dreyfus would be established.

EXHAUSTIVE REVIEW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 3.—M. Boyer made an exhaustive review of the case, declaring he could not find any proof to establish the existence of the document, which was claimed to have been annotated by the German Emperor, which was transmitted to one of Dreyfus's judges, at Rennes. There was no doubt, he added, of the transmission of the "Alexandrine" letter with the false date. The words in Lieut.-Col. Henry's handwriting had an unfavorable effect upon the court-martial.

M. Boyer concluded by saying that the letters used against the accused were falsified prior to the proceedings of 1899, but he added that this had not yet been judicially determined upon.

Atty.-Gen. Baudouin said that when he began his consideration of the Dreyfus case he was satisfied that a judicial error had not been committed, but as the investigation proceeded his amazement increased.

"One by one," the Attorney-General continued, "all the charges vanished, leaving only accusations without importance of consistency. When I examined the secret collection of documents in the case and saw their miserable character, valuable only because of the mystery cleverly thrown about them, I concluded it was necessary for justice to have the last word; and it is my conviction that there is not one of us, if in the army and not an officer now in the army, who would not have succumbed had he been under an accusation thus managed."

Fearing disturbances during the proceedings, the government stationed guards among the spectators and in the corridors leading to the court, but their presence was not necessary. The crowd was interested, but there were no demonstrations against the favorable conclusions of the reporter and Attorney-General.

COLLAPSED HOTEL YIELDS UP MORE DEAD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—There are fifteen dead, fifteen known to have been injured, and three reported missing as the result of the collapse of the unfinished Hotel Darlington building in West Forty-sixth street, yesterday, and of the resultant injury to the Patterson Hotel, directly in the rear of the collapsed building.

The search for the dead among the twisted iron girders and masses of stone continued all last night and today. A wrecking force is now at work and is aided in its efforts by a steam derrick. Many large arc lights have been erected over the mass of twisted timbers and beams, and operations will go on throughout the night.

Four bodies were in sight late tonight, but much work will still be required to reach them. The body of Frank Allison, brother of Eugene Allison, president of the Allison Realty Company, was taken from the ruins tonight. Allison is supposed to have been on the ninth floor of the building at the time of the disaster. The body was found against the wall of the dwelling to the west. It was horribly mangled, and was in a network or iron girders. In a pocket of his coat was found a letter written by Miss Amy L. Marquit of St. Louis. The Coroner said that the letter indicated that the couple were to have been married, and that they intended to reside in San Francisco. Allison was an expert gunner in the United States Navy, serving in the Spanish-American War. He returned from the Philippines only a few months ago.

INVESTIGATION BEGUN.

Dist.-Atty. Jerome, Coroner Scholer and officials of the building department began an investigation today, and will seek to place the responsibility for the disaster. The Coroner said he had issued warrants for "Eugene" Allison, presumably Charles R. Allison, of the Allison Realty Company, and also for Paul Schwandtner, of Pole & Schwandtner, the ironwork contractors. Allison, he explained, is sick in bed at his home, with nervous prostration, and that, owing to his client's condition, it would be impossible to give him up at the present time.

UNDER RUINS THIRTY HOURS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning the Sergeant of Police in charge of the ruins telephoned for an ambulance, saying a man had been found there who was still alive. The man found alive was later taken from the wreckage. He had been under the ruins about thirty hours. Stimulants also were administered, and he was removed to Flower Hospital.

He produced a number of envelopes bearing the frank of Representative Clayton of Alabama, a member of the committee, and passed them around the committee table for members to open. They contained a speech of Mr. Clayton, printed in a section of the Congressional Record, and a number of other documents which were declared to be semi-official, one bearing a portrait of Gen. PUNISHING POSTAL FRAUDS.

The President's congratulatory letter to Postmaster-General Payne, of date February 27, expresses very concisely the status of the postal department's investigation of frauds in that department, and voices the determination of the administration to continue the investigation until every guilty person, so far as possible, shall have been punished.

As the President declares, it is not to be expected that any government will be conducted absolutely without fraud in any of its departments. Such a thing would be almost unheard of. While weak human nature is as it is, positions of trust and responsibility, in the crucial tests which they present, will inevitably bring out the weakness of some men esteemed as strong, and will in the same manner develop strength and integrity of character where least expected.

The hope or the despair of the situation is determined, not so much by the fact of the non-commission or the commission of corrupt acts by men in office, as by the degree of thoroughness with which offenses are hunted down and punished. As the President so well states it, "The vital point is the energy, the fearlessness and the efficiency with which such corruption is cut out and the corruptionists punished." Subjected to this test, there is ample ground, it must be confessed, for the congratulations which the President bestows upon the Postmaster-General and his department. Moreover, it is to be noted in this connection that the investigation into these frauds was not initiated as a measure of political expediency, nor as a matter of political necessity because of pressure exerted from the party opposed to the administration. It originated and has been carried on within the administration, and with as much vigor, zeal and fearlessness as would have characterized the investigation if it had been in the hands of opponents, instead of friends of the administration. Back of the exposures of fraud has been the initiative and the inflexible determination of the President himself, whose purpose from the beginning has been to punish every official who could be proven guilty, wholly regardless of consequences.

This is the right spirit. It inspires the confidence of the people, quite irrespective of partisan considerations. It takes the edge off from the weapon of partisan criticism, which might otherwise have been used to the discredit and injury of the administration. The results which have been achieved are indeed "a source of encouragement to all men who believe in decency and honesty in public life," it "redounds to the credit of our whole people," and is "a signal triumph for the cause of popular government."

Not all the wrongdoers have been brought to justice. But the work has not been abandoned. It will go on, without a doubt, until the last person against whom sufficient evidence can be obtained shall have been convicted and punished. Public officials who unsparingly pursue and punish evildoers in their own party are even more worthy of trust and confidence than those of the opposing political faith who would "turn the rascals out," in order, perhaps, that other rascals may be turned in.

Ex-President Cleveland says that Taylor, the colored man, did not dine with him as charged by Congressman Scott, and further than that, that the Congressman is using poor taste in thus speaking ill of the dead. This sentiment will be heartily echoed by a large number of Mr. Cleveland's own party, who will pretend to see in Mr. Scott's charge a thinly-veiled attempt to malign the colored gentleman.

A GREAT GRAFT.

The scandals in the Postoffice Department have turned out to be far more extensive and widespread than was at first supposed. The story of the peculations that have been going on is not pleasant reading for patriotic men who are proud of their country. It is encouraging, however, to note the vigorous and uncompromising attitude of the administration in this connection. There has been no attempt to cover up or whitewash those who have been guilty of malfeasance, but, on the contrary, every effort has been made and is being made to bring them to justice.

An interesting light is thrown on this story of corruption in an article contributed to the World's Work for March by N. G. Cunniff. Mr. Cunniff points out that the chief postal scandal is to be found in the inordinate prices paid by the government for the transporting of the mails. Many people have long had an inkling of an idea that there was something wrong in this part of Denmark, but very few have realized how gross this "graft" is—a job that puts all our little municipal schemes for making money at the expense of the people into the shadow. It is known that the mails are weighed on a certain day every year, so that the government may arrange for a rate of compensation for the ensuing term. It is also known that about this time, by a curious coincidence, the mails become overburdened with great sacks of heavy reading matter sent out from Washington with the franks of Senators and Representatives. Mr. Cunniff in his article says:

"The United States pays more money every year for the transportation of mail than all the other countries of the world combined. The bulk of this transportation is by railroad, for according to a special weighing of mail by the Postoffice Department in 1898, 85 per cent. of all the matter mailed in the country requires railroad carriage, and the proportion is not less abroad. Yet freight and passenger rates are cheaper to private individuals in the United States than in any other country. Why is it, then, that the cost of mail transportation is so high in the United States?

"In 1901, according to the latest statistics of the International Postal Union, Great Britain, France, and Germany alone—not to speak of the other countries—mailed more than 9,000,000,000 pieces of matter, as compared with more than 7,000,000,000 pieces mailed in the United States.

"The other countries of the world, omitting Great Britain, had 48,000 miles of post routes more than we. Great Britain's post routes added to this total would make the difference even greater. Thus, notwithstanding the cheapness of American railroad rates on other traffic than mail, foreign postoffices, taken all together, handle vastly more mail than ours, send it farther over a greater number of post routes, and pay less for the service. It cost our government in 1901, in round numbers, $38,500,000 for railroad transportation alone; the rest of the world for all their domestic transportation, by railroad, by wagon, and by messengers, paid but $37,000,000—$1,500,000 less."

The United States Postoffice Department reports a deficit for last year of $4,000,000. The real deficit is said to be $1,000,000 greater, for in the peculiar bookkeeping used in recording postal accounts, the salaries of the Postoffice Department, the rent of large city postoffices, and other postal items are not charged as postal expenses. But even at $4,000,000, the postal deficit is a national disgrace when we consider that it is unnecessary. It is caused, in the main, by the inordinate railway mail pay.

These are striking facts, which are surely deserving of the attention of those members of Congress who are anxious to earn a reputation as "watch dogs of the Treasury."

OPENING FOR CALIFORNIA LEMONS.

Most of the horticultural industries of California have had their ups and downs, since they first began to assume commercial importance. This is true of all branches of horticulture, as the growing of raisin grapes, of prunes, and oranges, and olives, and lemons, particularly the two last named. This, however, is no new thing. Half a century ago, when one year the exceedingly high price of potatoes induced many people to plant thousands of acres in this vegetable, the following year there was a great surplus, so that potatoes were sold at the cost of the sacks. The speculative fever inherited from the early gold days has entered to a great extent into the agricultural and horticultural industries of the State. A man will borrow money to plant thousands of acres of wheat, on the chance of a sufficient rainfall, knowing that the result will either make or break him. Then, again, horticulturists, when the market for their crop has been poor for several years, will dig up their trees and plant something else. All of which shows that the horticultural industry of California, great as it is, is not yet settled on an entirely sound foundation.

Among those who have been complaining the most during the past few years are the lemon growers, who say that their product has been selling for several years at less than it costs to raise the fruit. Various reasons are given for this, prominent among which, of course, is the ever-present complaint about high railroad charges. The chief difficulty, however, appears to be the fact that most of the lemons ripen during the winter, when the demand for the fruit is at the lowest ebb, and it has so far been found difficult to keep them in perfect condition until the summer months bring a loud cry for cooling beverages. Recently the Santa Fé Company, which has shown an intelligent and praiseworthy desire to forward the industries of California, has essayed a plan for storing lemons in the great centers of the Middle West, for the benefit of the growers. The complete results of this experiment have not been, so far, received.

A lemon grower recently advanced in the Pasadena News a suggestion which appears to be well worth considering. He says:

"San Francisco is thirty days from Australia, the cost of placing large well-packed shipments of lemons in Melbourne, including local freight, ocean freight, packing, tariff and commission, is $2.50 a box as against the $1.65, freight, packing and selling charges to an Eastern town. It is summer in Australia, and summer prices rule during the months when our winter prices rule. Their average price is about 25 shillings ($6) per box during the time our average price is $2.10."

The Australians import most of their lemons from Italy, and it takes six weeks, against our thirty days to get them through, via the Suez Canal. With the completion of the harbor at San Pedro—or even before its thorough completion—we may, as The Times has said, expect to see big steamships carrying the products of Southern California to countries across the Pacific, where they are in demand. If the lemon growers of Southern California are wise, they will investigate this proposition, and see what can be done in this way to relieve the present unsatisfactory condition of the industry.

The Bakersfield Board of Trade has been discussing the subject of establishing closer relations between that city and Los Angeles. It was decided to take up the question with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. The Bakersfield people will find us of Los Angeles more than ready to meet them half way in establishing closer relations. Kern county naturally belongs to Southern California. It is from 100 to 200 miles nearer to Los Angeles than to San Francisco, and in common with Southern California it is specially interested in the subject of irrigation, which has little interest for the people of Northern California. And it's a good thing, anyway, to get into the band wagon that leads the procession of progress.

Mr. Seijiro Shibuya, writes The Times advocating "an economic alliance" between this country and Japan, in order that the United States may be the better able to secure the trade of China. The correspondent asserts that the relations between China and Japan are so friendly that Japan could switch the Chinese business our way if we would enter into the alliance referred to. Mr. Shibuya's course of reasoning may be well founded, but the present Russo-Japanese War may change some things and the discussion will bear postponement.

Chicago labor unions now propose to have the City Council enact an ordinance limiting the number of hours which anybody shall work to eight per diem, and providing a penalty for violation thereof. When they get this matter all fixed up, they will probably turn their attention to an ordinance prescribing the amount of food which a man may lawfully eat, the amount of liquid he may absorb, the number of hours he may sleep, and so forth. Then what a nice place Chicago will be to live in.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska has decided that it is an offense to point even an unloaded revolver at a person. This is certainly good logic, as well as law, for such weapons are more dangerous than any others. In fact, there is little to choose between a gun that "isn't loaded" and the "perfectly safe" gasoline stove.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Mary Golden.

Mary Golden made her Los Angeles début last night before a good-sized audience of friends at Simpson Auditorium. Her appearance was a distinct success, judging by her encores, flowers and general hearty welcome.

Her voice is not a remarkable one in any sense of the word, for it is still undertrained and rather immature, but its owner possesses a pleasing personality and manner of gracious winsomeness. She is quite a linguist, and her programme last evening included songs in English, German and Italian.

Assisting Miss Golden were the Euterpean Quartette and the Thresher String Quartette. Solo numbers were given by Joseph Dupuy and A. Lowinsky. Mrs. Lowinsky palying all the piano accompaniments. Mr. Dupuy sang Wicker's "Herzensfruhling" in a ringing tenor that brought him an immediate encore, to which he responded with Neidlinger's "Slumber Song," the light lyric quality of his tones being shown at its best in that selection. Mr. Lowinsky delighted the audience with an excellent interpretation of Wieniawski's "Polonaise Brilliant," the hearers demanding a recall.

The programme as presented, exclusive of encores, was as follows: Quartette Number Thirteen (Mozart,) Thresher String Quartette; tenor solo, "Herzensfruhling" (Wicker,) J. W. Dupuy; "Strike, Strike the Lyre" (Cooke,) Euterpean Male Quartette; violin solo, "Polonaise Brilliante" (Wieniawski,) A. Lowinsky; soprano (a,) "I Know a Loving Heart" (Rodominsky,) (b,) "Ach Konnt ich noch einmal so lieben" (Allester,) Miss Golden; soprano solo, "Angel's Serenade" (Braga,) with violin obligato, Miss Golden; (a,) "Love Song" (Erlich,) (b,) "Loure" (Bach,) Thresher String Quartette; soprano solo, "Il Re Pastore" (Mozart,) with violin obligato, Miss Golden; "Love's Dilemma" (Dore,) Euterpean Quartette.

Rogers Concert.

Miss Blanche Rogers gave the fourth of her series of chamber concerts last evening, the event taking place at her dainty studio-auditorium in the southwestern part of the city.

From a musical standpoint as well as from the enthusiasm of the audience, the affair was the best of Miss Rogers's presentations this year. Assisting her were Bernhard Mollenhauer, violin; Ludwig Opid, 'cello, and F. W. Wismer, viola.

A trio by Bargiel opened the programme, and this was followed by a Schutt quartette. This composition, ending in a finale of Russian airs, seemed a timely choice.

Pianola Recital.

At the Southern California Music Company's auditorium a series of pianola recitals has been instituted, programmes of modern and classical compositions being interpreted under the direction of skilled pianola manipulators. About two hundred and fifty persons were present at yesterday's recital, and the list of numbers included a Chopin waltz, a Victor Herbert composition, a study by Moszkowski, and—by way of contrast—an up-to-date ragtime concoction. Two or three well-known masterpieces were played on the Aeolian orchestrelle, Suppe's "Morning, Noon and Night" being one of these.

Senator Edmund's Dry Joke.

Tom Cavanaugh, for many years deputy sergeant-at-arms of the House, is a Vermonter and he says that once upon a time Senator Edmunds came near uttering a practical joke; but the Senator was always so grave that Cavanaugh has to offer an affidavit every time he tells the story. He says that on one occasion Senator Edmunds gave a page boy a telegram and the little fellow ran off, but immediately returned to ask whether the telegram should be sent over the Postal or Western Union line. Senator Edmunds looked very thoughtful for a moment and then said: "Send it by Western Union; they may need the money."—[Minneapolis Times.

HIGHEST HONORS FOR MRS. GRAY.

IMPOSING FUNERAL OF BRAVE LITTLE WOMAN.

Flowers and Tears in Profusion Prove the People's Love—Rev. Will A. Knighten Speaks Eloquent Words of Praise—Police Turn Out in Full Dress Uniform.

With the highest honors that can be paid a member of the police department, the tired little body of Mrs. Lucy U. Gray was laid to rest yesterday in Evergreen Cemetery.

Hundreds of heads were bared as the casket containing her remains was borne towards her last resting place, and strong men wept as they gazed for the last time on the familiar face, now cold in death.

Touching in the extreme were the tokens of esteem and tributes of respect for the "mother of the force," as manifested at her funeral. It was no empty show of grief or forced shedding of tears over her bier that was witnessed during the last sad rites, for Matron Gray was sincerely loved and respected by her brother officers and by the public generally, so far as her acquaintance extended.

Sixteen years of continuous service as matron brought her in contact with many people, a large proportion of whom were unfortunates who needed the sympathy of a warm and tender heart, such as was hers. Although firm in the discharge of her official duties, she was always ready to extend the helping hand to the meanest of God's creatures, and many a poor wretch placed in her care regarded her as an angel of hope and mercy, instead of a stern executrix of the law.

The little home at No. 178 North Avenue 24 was all too small to accommodate the mourners who called to pay their last respects yesterday afternoon. The streets were thronged for blocks around with people who came to attend the funeral.

Almost the entire police force, in full-dress uniform, turned out as a guard of honor to escort the remains to the grave. Chief Elton, Capts. Bradish, Auble and Roberts (retired) and Sergts. Harris and McKeag acted as pallbearers.

A brief service, conducted by Rev. Will A. Knighten, was held at the house, at 2 o'clock, and the body was then escorted to Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church on North Workman street, where the public obsequies took place.

The cortége was headed by the Los Angeles Military Band, playing a dirge. Then came the police escort under command of Sergt. George Williams, marching in double file, with "Old Glory" draped with black crepe borne at the head of the column by Officer William Matuskiwix. The hearse, flanked by the pallbearers and followed by the bereaved family and friends in carriages, followed, while many others proceeded to the church on foot.

The little church was crowded to the limits with friends and neighbors and members of the police department, while many who could not gain admission waited on the outside to follow the remains to the cemetery.

The front of the minister's platform was banked with floral emblems contributed by friends. Among the most beautiful of the offerings was a large piece from the police department, and a replica of the police matron's gold star exquisitely executed, the gift of the police reporters of the city press.

The services commenced with the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light," by a quartette of mixed voices. Rev. Will A. Knighten then pronounced a eulogy of the dead, in which he briefly sketched her eventful career. Her life, he said, was one of unselfish toil from childhood to old age, and was an example of what a woman could do. The city of Los Angeles, the speaker declared, had lost a most faithful public servant in the death of Matron Gray, and her place would be hard to fill. Although her body was returned to clay, her good influence would continue to live and would prove a heritage to her children and children's children far richer than the products of the mines.

Mr. Knighten spoke as one who had sustained the loss of a personal friend. He had known Mrs. Gray intimately for eighteen years, and had officiated in her family at the marriage altar and in time of death. He closed his discourse with a fervent prayer for the repose of her soul and the comforting of those who were bereaved by her death.

The closing hymn was "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the casket was then opened and the friends were given an opportunity to view the remains as they filed by and out of the church.

The cortége re-formed and started for the cemetery in the same order as before, but at Downey avenue the police escort and friends on foot boarded three special trolley cars, which conveyed them to the cemetery.

At the grave the services were simple and brief. Many who did not attend the services in the church went direct to the cemetery with their floral offerings.

After the body was lowered into the grave the mound was literally covered from view by the flowers that were heaped upon it.

It was one of the largest and most impressive funerals of a public nature held in Los Angeles in many days.

The union messenger boys of Chicago are displaying a great deal more energy in mobbing those who took their places than is customary in the execution of their work.

The Mormon president says that the people of Utah are "broad-minded and liberal in their views." Especially in the matter of matrimony, they would appear to be almost generous.

According to the health reports, all New York has the grip, although it is believed that Judge Parker has not yet been able to connect his case with the Democratic nomination.

If the Kansas City custom of arming non-union workmen who take strikers' places becomes general, the work of "picketing" by the unions may smack too much of military life to be comfortable.

The celebration of imaginary victories has been prohibited by the Czar in Russia. If the Mikado should do that it would mean the curtailment of practically all the pleasures of his subjects.

In the Kentucky family where the quadruplets were named after Cleveland, Roosevelt, Hanna and Bryan, it it believed that the Republicans will be able to muster a majority on joint ballot.

Santos Dumont is in St. Louis for the airship contest, and to "pick out the proper place to alight," he says. He is much more particular about observing these little proprieties than our Prof. Langley.

THE BARTLETT MUSIC CO. OFFER ONCE MORE TO MAKE SPECIAL PRICES ON PIANOS.

ALL MAKES ARE INCLUDED AND EVERY STYLE IS REPRESENTED.

Today is the formal opening of our second great coupon piano sale. Almost everyone in Los Angeles and vicinity will remember that just two years ago we made the most remarkable proposition ever made by any reliable music house. It was this: Pianos of such standard makes as Weber, Kimball, Schumann, etc., were reduced in price from 30 to 40 per cent, and sold on payments of from $5 to $10 a month. But the most remarkable feature was that we actually paid and presented the receipt for the first $5 payment to each customer.

NOW LISTEN!

We make this same proposition once more. Turn quickly to page — and cut out the coupon. It is good for your first payment on any piano. There are only 75 pianos, so some few hundred people will be left with nothing but the coupon. The sale will last but a short time and you have nothing to lose. We pay the cartage and deliver the piano in your home without money and without price. You know that what we promise we perform. Ask any of your friends who have bought pianos of the Bartlett Music Co. as to our methods, and you will surely buy. We are open day and night. We never sleep. Clip a coupon and come to the old reliable, the Bartlett Music Co., 325-327 South Broadway, opposite the City Hall.

Custom Shoemaking

Men and women who are in the habit of having their shoes made to order will be glad to know that the Wetherby-Kayser Shoe Co. conducts a first-class custom shop on the premises. This firm also makes a feature of designing special lasts to meet the individual requirements of its customers.

"TWEENTIMES."

By E. A. Brininstool.

THE "UNCONFIRMED RUMOR."

We open our paper, just fresh from the press,
With never a second to lose,
And look at the headlines with tense eagerness,
Then hastily swallow the news.
We read of another Port Arthur attack—
That gunboats galore were knocked out;
That Japan has Russia again on the rack—
Has put her completely to rout.
Of course we agree that the papers should know,
Though only an "unconfirmed rumor" says so.

And up near the Yalu a furious fight
Has ended in slaughter galore.
'Tis awful to think of the sickening sight,
With the field running rivers of gore.
The dead and the wounded are lying around
By hundreds and thousands, and there
Is still in our ears the dull, resonant sound
Of shells booming out on the air.
"Japan has again whipped her Muscovite foe,"
We read, "for an unconfirmed rumor says so."

"And down in Korea there's trouble on tap,"
The cablegram says, "and the coup
Was given today by the Russ to the Jap,
And the little brown man's in the soup."
We picture the blare of the bugles, and then
The cheers of each charging brigade;
The gaps in the ranks of the combatants, when
There comes the dull-mouthed cannonade.
And we read that "Japan doesn't stand any show,"
Concluding, "An unconfirmed rumor says so."

Our war fever rises afresh, as we note
Manchuria's peril each day.
"The Jap has the Russ by his Muscovite throat,"
It says, "with a grip that's to stay."
The fresh-printed pages we eagerly turn,
The gory details to obtain,
And our hearts stand appalled at the news, when we learn
That "thousands and thousands were slain."
But still, the report may be truthful, you know,
Though only an "unconfirmed rumor" says so.

Each day a sensation is furnished to us
Red-hot, by the vigilant press;
We're given both sides of the Far Eastern muss,
But the outcome is left us to guess.
They're sinking war vessels and slaughtering men,
And bombarding towns over there,
And we—well, we read the dispatches, and then
Assume a most dubious air.
Of course we are left to believe them or no,
But an "unconfirmed rumor" declares they are so!

The Russian battleship Retvizan can give the nine-lived cat a few pointers.

Eggs are reported to be falling in Chicago. The theaters should have opened with a better class of plays.

And now "Parsifal" may be put on a Los Angeles stage. Well, we've stood both Patti and 'Lige Dowie this season.

HENRY'S HARD THROW.

Mr. Henry Britton, while standing at the Big Creek store the other day, threw a kiss at his sweetheart on the other side of the river. It struck a sycamore tree and knocked part of the bark off it.—[Hyden Thousand Sticks.

FORGET IT.

When you're feeling blue and glum,
Just forget it!
When your nerve is out of plumb,
Just forget it!
There are other chaps, you'll note,
Riding, in the self-same boat,
Choke the lump down in your throat,
Just forget it!

If your wallet's out of gear,
Just forget it!
If you've dropped the contents here,
Just forget it!
When you're grumpy and morose,
Not a nickel in your clothes,
Quit parading all your woes,
Just forget it!

Cole Younger now wants to get on the stage. He used to be contented with merely holding 'em up.

A Montana highwayman, after stopping a stage and compelling the lone passenger to alight, discovered to his chagrin that the man didn't have a cent. All he had in his pocket was a flask of whisky. Still, the robber should have been thankful that the bottle wasn't empty.

The Japanese language has no swear words, and it is said corruption in politics is unknown there. But wait until civilization gets a permanent foothold in that country!

John D. Rockefeller has become fascinated with skating. This sheds light on the question as to why he wanted to acquire control of the ice trust.

"A southern paper states that whisky can be made from cotton,"—says the Denver Post. Undoubtedly. We have heard of the cotton gin.

"WORDS THAT PASS IN THE NIGHT."

Scene, bedroom. Time, 10:30. Husband enters softly. Wife speaks:

"John, did you bring up little Buster's croup remedy?"
"Yes, dear."
"And the darling's Castoria?"
"Yes, pet."
"And the colic cure?"
"Yes, love."
"And the peppermint?"
"Yes, sweetheart."
"And the anise-seed tea and the catnip?"
"Yes, birdie."
"And the talcum powder and malted milk?"
"Yes."
"And his bottle and pacifier?"
"Yes, yes."
"And the cup of boracic acid to sterilize them?"
"Certainly, I did."
"And the hot-water bag?"
"Here 'tis."

ARIZONA.

ALL INSTRUCT FOR ROOSEVELT.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES IN TERRITORY UNANIMOUS.

Remarkable Evidence of Popular Sentiment Manifested Throughout Sun-kissed Land—County Conventions Warmly Denounce the Plan of Joint Statehood.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 2.—Arizona's six delegates to Chicago will go under instructions to vote for the renomination of President Roosevelt. Reports have been received from the Republican primary elections in every county in the Territory, showing practical unanimity in the instruction of delegates for the fullest support of Roosevelt. This has been done with little effort on the part of the President's appointees, who seem generally to have stood aside, confident in the good judgment of the people at large. For awhile there was some slight opposition in Maricopa county, led by J. C. Adams, former chairman of the Republican Territorial Central Committee, who sought election as delegate to the national convention, on the basis of "no instruction." But he pulled out, after sounding the temper of the party. In Yavapai county W. C. Bashford, one of the most honored of pioneer residents, declared himself a candidate for delegate, under the banner of the no-instructionists, but he was snowed under last Saturday in the primaries, despite his personal popularity. The people wanted Roosevelt and would tolerate no quibbling. In Gila county there is a slight disagreement among Republicans, solely due to the action of the Central Committee in naming delegates to the Territorial convention without calling primaries. It is possible that two delegations will come from Gila on this account, but it matters little, as both will be in favor of Roosevelt. Indeed, even the opposition to instructions at all times averred that they were ardently for the President's renomination, simply disliking the idea of being "tied."

The Territorial convention will meet at Tucson March 8. For delegates' places Maricopa county will present the name of Judge Joseph H. Kibbey; Graham county, H. S. Van Gorder; Cochise county, W. H. Brophy, and Yavapai county, Frank Wright. Santa Cruz county will advance W. S. Sturges for the place of national committeeman.

The county conventions that have met thus far, including all counties save three, have given the heartiest indorsement to the President and to the Territorial administration of Gov. Brodie. Several of the conventions have touched upon the point of Statehood, as well. The resolutions advocating Statehood are short and those denouncing joint Statehood are uniformly long. In this regard, the Maricopa county convention, held yesterday, declared itself thusly:

"We are unitedly and unalterably opposed to the proposed admission of the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico into the Union as one State. While we entertain but kindly feelings toward our neighbors, the citizens of New Mexico, any alliance such as proposed would be of great disadvantage to the citizens of this territory and would check the splendid development of our institutions now going forward within our borders. Not only are we naturally separated from New Mexico by distinct physical boundaries, but our customs, laws and schools are so radically different that if we cannot be granted the great boon of independent Statehood, we wish to remain under a Territorial form of government, continuing our development, until we shall finally be welcomed into the sisterhood of States as the independent State of Arizona."

We wait 'till pay day—10 to 40 per cent. Discount for the next few days. Clip coupon on page 4, Part II, good for first 2% payment on any piano. Bartlett Music Co., opposite City Hall.

WE SELL MONEY-MAKERS—

Solid investment propositions that will stand the closest investigation; we can establish you in a business whether you have $500 or $50,000.

$2000—We have for sale a fine bakery, lunchroom and delicatessen, located on Spring st. in a fine store building. This business is a money maker; can be developed into a very productive restaurant business, and we feel that we can recommend this to anyone looking for an opportunity in this line. This price is for spot cash transaction, but the present owner will take first-class mortgage or will exchange for city residence or income property and may pay some additional.

$4000—For a general merchandise business in near-by country town; this is a populous locality and the store practically controls the business of the surrounding country.

$1200—The grocery store we have at this price is one of the few smaller stores in this line in the city that will pay you for your efforts; we unreservedly recommend this to any prospective purchaser who wants to take possession of a well-established business in good location and which pays well; a fine trade at present and can be very materially increased merely by soliciting and without additional capital.

We also want to offer you a leasehold opportunity; this is on one of the finest buildings on West Second st., and a lease on the property may be had at a very low figure for a long term of years; the building is at present upon the property is one capable of being enlarged without destroying the present structure and the property also gives a 75-foot frontage upon which there are no buildings at present; we think that this is a chance to make money on somebody else's investment.

We have a client with money and ability who will invest up to $10,000 in the LUMBER BUSINESS. This is a man who knows how to make a business grow.

We have a client, an expert mechanical engineer, who has from $1000 up to invest right.

We look up the records of men wanting to purchase interests in established concerns and we will guarantee their honesty and financial worth.

The above are only a few of the good things we have on our list. We can locate you in any business in any section of the city or country. No matter what amount you want to invest, we will give you the benefit of our experience and place you where you can get a good revenue. We will not recommend any business to a prospective purchaser without first investigating same thoroughly, and if we give you a certificate as to the worth of a business you can bank on it absolutely.

OUR CLIENTS ARE LOOKING FOR GOOD INVESTMENTS FROM US.

HOLLANDER TAKES FITZ.

Placke Willing to Engage With Lanky Bob.

Clark Ball is Adopted as the Alien's Manager.

Telegraph Company Surprises Poolrooms.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Clark Ball, who was formerly manager of Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Munroe, the Butte miner heavyweight, has become manager of Placke, the champion heavyweight pugilist of Holland, who has come to this country in search of a match with Jim Jeffries. Ball announced today that he is ready to match Placke against Bob Fitzsimmons, and will post a forfeit of $1000 tomorrow to bind the match.

Ball is of the opinion that he has a great fighter in Placke, and states that he will make the match with Fitzsimmons just as soon as the latter announces his intention of signing articles of agreement.

WAR ON POOLROOMS.

TELEGRAPH COMPANY'S MOVE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—An open war has been declared on certain poolrooms here by the telegraph company which supplies returns from the various race tracks. Suddenly deprived of their information, after the jockeys and odds for the first race of the afternoon had been received, more than one hundred rooms where bettors congregated were thrown out of business until the larger concerns established telephone connection with rooms in Chicago, where the necessary news was obtained.

The trouble grew out of the notice served upon the pool syndicates in January, increasing the assessment for telegraph service and informing the gamblers that an inspector from the company's office must at all times have free access to the rooms.

When the telegraph sounders suddenly stopped, there was an anxious inquiry from all parts of the city, and the managers were informed that they had been cut-off because the inspectors, although admitted, had not been permitted to carry out their orders in many of the larger establishments, and their company had decided to enforce its wishes in the manner stated.

BASKET BALL SERIES.

CHALLENGE TO COLUMBIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—A challenge has been received by the Columbia University basket-ball team from the University of Minnesota for a series of games for the national intercollegiate championship. Columbia, by defeating the University of Pennsylvania Tuesday night, practically holds the eastern championship, but has two more games—with Princeton and Cornell.

Minnesota won the championship of the Western Conference Intercollegiate Association, and now proposes that the series of games shall be played in Minneapolis to settle the national collegiate supremacy. It is quite likely the challenge will be accepted.

"MICROBES" COMING WEST.

BOUND FOR LOS ANGELES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The "Microbes" are now speeding westward on their way to Los Angeles. The Chicago National League ballplayers left this evening at 10 o'clock over the Santa Fé, after bidding good-by to a delegation of friends at the station to see them off. The party was complete with the exception of those who are already in California and those who will be picked up along the route. Every man had reported at headquarters in good season, so there was no feeling of uncertainty in regard to players that pervades the American League headquarters.

The party is in charge of Secretary Williams. Six pitchers are included—Weimer, Wicker, Corridon, Briggs, Graham, Brown and Lundgren. Catcher O'Neill, Second Baseman Evers, Third Baseman Casey, Center Fielder Slagle, Right Fielder Jones, Moriarty and William and Howard, sub-fielders, constitute the rest. Manager Selee, Capt. Chance, McCarthy, Kling and Tinker are already in Los Angeles.

NEW YORKERS' OPENING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—It is practically settled that the New York American League Club will open the season in this city April 14 with Boston, and that the New York Nationals will play their first game April 19 with Boston. The schedules will consist of 154 games.

ED. CORRIGAN'S HORSES.

BATCH ARRIVES AT MEMPHIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Bishop" Poole, in charge of the California division of Ed Corrigan's horses, reached Montgomery Park today, direct from Ascot Park, Los Angeles. The consignment included Charawind, Lemco, Galba and other steeplechasers, in addition to Haviland, Harris, Orfeo and some two-year-olds. Poole's connection with Corrigan ceased with the arrival of the string here.

Poole will leave for New Orleans tomorrow to look over half a dozen horses he owns, including Foresight, the candidate for the Crescent City Derby.

CORONADO BEACH.

TATUM DEFEATS TUFTS.

HOTEL DEL CORONADO, March 3.—Mr. Tatum of Baltimore was too much for J. J. Tufts of Chicago in playing off the tie of the men's tournament yesterday afternoon. Mr. Tatum played a remarkably fine game and was close upon the heels of the winner of the tournament. The next event in golf will be the caddies' tournament on Sunday.

A driving party was given yesterday by Miss Evelyn Adams for Mr. and Mrs. James Joy and Miss Jenks, Mr. Joy's niece, from Detroit.

Mrs. J. O. Siemmons and Miss Helen Spalding have gone to San Francisco, the former intending to remain several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Winship, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Daniels this winter, are en route for their home in the East.

FAVORITE CHOOSERS PICK ONE WINNER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Favorite followers had a disastrous session at Oakland today, as only one first choice landed in front, and that was in the last race. Dungannon and Amasa were two supposed good things that failed to win. They were both plunged on. Dungannon finished second to Laocoon, but Amasa failed to get any of the money in his race. Davis S. was the medium of strong support in the third race, and he was returned winner, while Young Morello beat Montana Peeress, the favorite, for the place. Traverse gave Mr. Dingle, the favorite, a bad ride in the fourth at a mile and fifty yards, keeping him next the rail, where the going was somewhat heavy. As a result he was fourth, Pat Morrissey winning from Expedient and Prince Blazes. Handpress was easily the best in the last, and won from Modder and Fair Lady Anna. Pittsburgh Phil left today for Hot Springs, where he will rest up before going to New York. Summary:

Six and a half furlongs, selling: Adirondack, 104 (J. Martin,) 9 to 2, won; Past Master, 97 (Sherwood,) 10 to 1, second; Assessment, 103 (Buxton,) 6 to 1, third; time 1:24. Judge Voorhies, Nellie Bawn, Theodora L., Lou Cleveden, Mesto, Joe John and Mordenta finished as named.

Seven furlongs, selling: Laocoon, 104 (Knapp,) 6 to 1, won; Dungannon, 97 (Roach,) 11 to 10, second; Jack Little, 104 (J. Martin,) 9 to 1, third; time 1:30. The Bugaboo and Technique finished as named. Chapel left.

Six and a half furlongs, selling: David S., 110 (J. T. Sheehan,) 13 to 5, won; Young Morello, 108 (Haack,) 7 to 1, second; Montana Peeress, 103 (W. Daly,) 13 to 5, third; time 1:23½. Goldfinder, Seaforth, Blackthorn, Vigoroso and Gray Dolly finished as named.

Mile and fifty yards, selling: Pat Morrissey, 107 (Holbrook,) 21 to 5, won; Expedient, 104 (J. Martin,) 6 to 1, second; Prince Blazes, 107 (J. T. Sheehan,) 15 to 1 third; time 1:47½. Mr. Dingle, Glissando, Outburst and Chickadee finished as named.

Five furlongs, selling: Pickaway, 104 (Sherwood,) 6 to 1, won; Nonie, 97 (W. Daly,) 8 to 1, second; Quiz II, 109 (Bonner,) 9 to 1, third; time 1:03. Alice Carey, Pure Dale, Dr. Sherman, Amasa, Impromptu and Florinel II finished as named.

Six Furlongs, selling: Handpress, 110 (J. Daly,) 5 to 2, won; Modder, 97 (Traverse,) 7 to 2, secon; Fair Lady Anna, 102 (Bonner,) 2 to 1, third; time 1:15½. Yellowstone, Mountebank and Boutonniere finished as named.

JOCKY LEWIS TOO SLEEPY.

Loses Two Races by Being Too Confident.

Hildebrand Hands Over Three—Fine Work.

Joe Yeager Wins Good Wagers on Three Events.

Some of the sports are beginning to think that if Jockey J. Lewis would sleep more at night time and less in the afternoon out at Ascot Park he might win a few more races. Not that he doesn't sleep enough when he goes to bed, but that he has too many trances when he gets on the back of a good horse. He has lost three or four races in the past ten days by falling asleep in the stretch and permitting some beaten horse to slip by him and win. He had two cases of trancitus yesterday when he let Redfern beat him with Iras and Hildebrand with Waswift.

It has been said that Lewis is sick and thus has some excuse for his riding. This may be so, but it does seem strange that a boy should throw away so many races by carelessness when a little energy would keep him in front. No one catches Hildebrand at this business, and Sleepy Pete might take a few lessons from Yeager's good rider on how to ride in the stretch.

This sleepy trick was noticeable in two races yesterday and particularly in the fourth, when Hildebrand on Waswift won by a head from Lewis on Columbia Girl. Warte Nicht and Greenock were the others in this event, but they did not scare anyone, for they were as far behind all the time as you could throw a cat by the tail. Waswift carried 124 pounds to 95 for Columbia Girl, and just after the start these two raced out in front. They ran together like a team all the way around and swinging into the stretch the Girl showed in front. As they tore down through the straight path they were neck and neck and at the paddock gate, Waswift faltered under his heavy impost and Lewis forged ahead on the rail. Seeing he was in front he stopped riding, and then it was that Hildebrand commenced. The game horse Waswift responded nobly, and inch by inch he crept past Columbia Girl. As they dashed past the stand Lewis saw his danger and went to the bat, but it was too late, for Hildebrand's fine hand riding landed Waswift a winner by a head. It was a victory that all the sports considered themselves lucky to profit by, for if the jocks had been reversed it would have been nothing but Columbia Girl. Warte Nicht was kicked in the side by Waswift at the barrier and the jockey, L. Jackson, got a part of it, too, but it is probable that this did not affect Warte Nicht's chances so much as Columbia Girl running the quarter in :24¾ and the half in :48¼. Greenock was outrun all the way.

ANOTHER SLEEPY DEFEAT.

Sleepy Pete lost his first race in the second event, when he allowed Redfern to outride him on Iras. This one was the favorite at the closing price of 9 to 10, but in the race Durbar developed seven different kinds of speed and swung into the stretch two lengths ahead of Iras. Then Lewis eased up as Redfern sat down to ride. He went at Iras every way he knew how, and in a driving finish sent her across the line a head in front of Durbar. The others were hopelessly beaten off.

The riding honors of the day went to Hildebrand, who rode three of his mounts to victory. He out-finished Lewis, brought in Nanon and also landed Katherine Ennis an easy winner by four lengths from a fair field. The other winners were Mountain on Revolt in the first race, Redfern on Iras in the second and J. Boland on J. V. Kirby in the last.

A large crowd saw the sport, there being at least 4000 people in the park.

Joe Yeager must have cleaned up a good sized sum on the day for he played Waswift and Katherine Ennis strong and beat George Rose alone out of $1300 on Nanon.

Caesar Young was on the block of the New York club handing out tickets as usual.

Some of the books held out Chemist in the third, but this was not necessary, for he was never prominent.

Johnny Millin went to San Francisco yesterday afternoon to look after the shipment of Caesar Young's horses from Ingleside. Some of them will be sent here and the others to Memphis.

THE FAR EAST.

variously stated. The Russians have built a number of forts on both sides of the Yalu River, including extensive earthworks at Antung. The ice in the Yalu River is breaking up.

SUFFERING IN KOREA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Times' Nagasaki correspondent cables that refugees from Port Arthur say that 10,000 Russian troops, sent to Korea early in February, were obliged to return, owing to lack of supplies. There are now about 30,000 soldiers at Port Arthur. Japanese refugees tell of the terrible suffering and indignities heaped upon them at Port Arthur by Russian soldiers.

LANDED 15,000 MEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEMULPO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nine Japanese transports have landed at Chinampo 15,000 men with stores and munitions. The men were sent on to Ping Yang. The Russians did not attempt to prevent their landing. The activity of their troops in the neighborhood indicates, however, that they will endeavor to force the Japanese to give battle. The Japanese appear to be disinclined to fight at present, their plans not being matured.

JAPAN COMANDS THE SEA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Although Japan has lost a small cruiser and had one battleship's machinery disabled and another vessel damaged, she has complete command of the sea and will, through this means, effectually blockade and isolate Port Arthur and the territory near Dalny. The railway from Port Arthur to Newchwang was practically intact and trains running February 23. Telegraph lines by way of Peking and Irkutsk to Moscow are working. The Japanese have blocked several of the entrances to the Yalu River with torpedoes.

BOMB-THROWING AT SEOUL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOKIO, March 4.—An intrigue on the part of the opposition at Seoul against the conclusion of the Japanese-Korean proctocol culminated in the throwing of bombs at the residences of the Foreign Minister and his secretary, early Thursday morning. They escaped uninjured.

CAPTURED RUSSIAN VESSELS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NAGASAKI, March 3.—The naval prize court in session at Sasebo yesterday, upheld the legality of the capture by Japanese cruisers of the merchant steamers Argun, Mukden, Micasel and Russia; and the whalers Nicolai and Alexander. Other cases are pending. An appeal was allowed, to be taken within thirty days.

U. S. MILITARY ATTACHES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Capt. P. C. March of the General Staff, one of the United States military attachés to the Japanese army, has arrived from Washington. The other attachés who will accompany the Mikado's troops are Col. Enoch Crowner, Judge Advocate, United States army, and member of the General Staff; Capt. John F. Morrison, Twentieth Infantry, now stationed at Manila, and Capt. Joseph E. Kuhn, Engineer Corps; also stationed at Manila. These appointments were made by Gen. Adna R. Chaffee. Col. Crowder and Capt. March will sail for Tokio on the next steamer leaving for the Orient.

JAPAN'S FIRST ADVANTAGE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The activity of Japan, enabling her to reach Chemulpo first, gave her a decided advantage at the very commencement of the conflict. At noon on the day following the Chemulpo battle a large number of ships were seen approaching Chemulpo. The Russian legation authorities greatly hoped and expected that they were Russian transports, accompanied by the fleet, but, unhappily for them, they proved to be Japanese transports. There is absolutely not an atom of doubt in Korea that the Russians made an earnest endeavor to obtain command of Seoul by trying to have the Cossacks arrive here first.

RUSSIANS FEELING 'ROUND.

TRYING TO LOCATE JAPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Since the disappearance of the Japanese fleet from before Port Arthur, the Russian authorities have been awaiting anxiously the next move of the Japanese on sea. There is an inclination here to believe that the Japanese have been discouraged by the failure of their attacks and perhaps by losses they have not announced.

It is evident even from the meager information regarding the Russian dispositions in Northern Korea, that the plan for checking the Japanese land advance is perfected and that heavy reserves are being brought up the Yalu River.

Every energy of the authorities is now directed to prevent a blockade on the Siberian Railroad. Twenty new sidings, each of 2200 feet, are being erected. Owing to the heavy movement of rolling stock carrying reinforcements, war munitions and commissariat stores eastward, there is great danger that in bringing back the empty cars, the whole line may be stopped. With the sidings now building, the authorities hope to be able to keep the line clear, and to send eleven trains in each direction daily.

The government bank balance March 1 showed a decrease of only $4,000,000. The gold on hand amounts to $456,000,000.

KEEPING THEIR HEADS LEVEL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—A decree has been signed by the Czar, says a Times dispatch from a Russian correspondent, instructing M. De Plehve, the Minister of the Interior, to adopt strict measures against patriotic manifestations. It is held that these demonstrations are not only often inappropriate, because they celebrate imaginary victories, but that they are also likely to produce counter manifestations. The attitude of the pupils of the high school for women has caused the government to close that establishment.

JACK LONDON TELLS OF KOREAN FEELINGS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The American's Ping Yang special, via Seoul, from Jack London contains the following:

"To the Koreans, Japanese occupation is a source of ineffable joy. The first war prices that obtained increase day by day, and the coolie, mapu and merchant are equally busy amassing money, which will later be squeezed from them by the master class, which is the official class.

"Just now, the officials and nobles are anxious and frightened, while the poor, weak King knows not where to turn. He cannot elect to fly nor to remain in his palace, so he meantime graciously decrees whatever the Japanese politily intimate they would like to have, as instanced when he turned his soldiers out of their barracks in order that the Japanese soldiers might be made comfortable.

"Daily, troopships from Japan arrive, drop anchor in the outer harbor, and men, horses and mountain artillery in strings go by. Launches cross the inner harbor to the shore, and men depart by train to Seoul, twenty-seven miles away. It is the last time in a weary while that men will lift their legs and let steam carry them to their destination. From Seoul begins their 180-mile march north to Ping Yang and from Ping Yang still farther north.

Through the snowclad Korean mountains their way leads to Wiju on the River Yalu, where the Russians are waiting for them. I may quote Gen. Allen saying: 'Japanese infantry is as splendid as any in the world. They will render a good account of themselves.'"

CONDITIONS AT YINKOW.
PLANS OF THE RUSSIANS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

YINKOW, March 3.—[By Asiatic Cable.] The Russo-Chinese Bank is closing, preparatory to removing to Mukden. Women and children are preparing to leave Yinkow in anticipation of the arrival of the Japanese fleet, which is expected when the river opens, probably a fortnight hence.

The United States gunboat Helena and the British cruiser Espiegle are making preparations to leave the dry docks in a week's time.

On account of the impossibility of defending the coast at Yinkow until such time as a thaw permits the construction of intrenchments and forts, the Russians have prepared to retire up the main railroad line. There are practically no defenses here, and although the shifting and reshifting of troops and artillery to the small forts at the mouth of the Liao River has the appearance of an intention to defend Yinkow, the military authorities depend upon an inland engagement to put a stop to the Japanese advance.

As far as yet known, the only plans decided on are: First, that Gen. Kuropatkin's headquarters are to be at Mukden, Viceroy Alexieff proposes to remain at Mukden indefinitely, as that city is the center of the Chinese administration, and has a viceroyal bureau; second, that the plain west of Tashihchiao, which is almost impossible of defense, will be held, if possible, on account of the railroad connection with Port Arthur; third, Haicheng and Liao Yang are the extreme limits to which troops will be withdrawn, on account of the exposure of the railroad at these points.

That the Japanese will arrive before a thaw permits the construction of defenses is thought to be practically certain. It would appear also that the authorities expect Port Arthur to be besieged.

EXCITED RUSSIAN STUDENTS.
EVEN THE GIRLS MIX IN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The offended dignity of 167 girl students, out of 1000 who attended the University extension classes, has resulted indirectly in closing the university temporarily and in the partial closing of the technological institute. The incident which led to these results shows the excitable nature of students of both sexes.

Over eight hundred of the girls joined a few days ago in issuing an address of loyalty. The remaining 167 young women who had not been consulted held a meeting after the address had been sent in and protested, first, because the address had been presented in the name of the entire girl student body, and, secondly, because the term "pupil" instead of "student" had been used in the wording.

The resentment of the 167 girls grew as the meeting progressed, until there developed an extravagant proposal to send a message of congratulations to the Mikado. It was finally resolved, however, not to attend further lectures, and the resolutions to this end having been transmitted to the directors as unanimous action, the classes were closed. This action, however, was immediately rescinded when it was discovered that the resolutions did not emanate from the entire student body.

In the meantime the recalcitrants had aroused the sympathy of some of the male students of the university, who called a meeting. This ended in factional disturbances and rough encounters, with the result that the directors temporarily closed the university on account of the disorder.

Notice of the girls' protest having been posted in the men's technical institute the disgust of a Jewish student was aroused, and he tore the documents down. A few hot heads rebuked him for this act of intolerance, whereupon a quarrel arose and the Jew struck one of his opponents. Other Jews joined in to defend their colleague. The stewards tried vainly to separate the combatants, whereupon both sides turned upon and fought the stewards. When the fighting was over the students resigned.

GENERAL HOLIDAY AMONG MUSCOVITES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST PETERSBURG, March 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] For the first time since the emancipation of the serfs in 1861, the anniversary today was officially observed throughout the empire as a general holiday and with special services in the churches. The newspapers took occasion to review the reforms introduced by Czar Alexander III, who, by a stroke of his pen, freed 23,000 serfs, declaring that the present celebration may be regarded as a turning point in Russian history, marking the recognition of a wider freedom in national life, the realization of which is not far distant, provided the nation properly exerts the influences that have been so unexpectedly united by the war.

At the big Central Market of St. Petersburg thousands stood in the open air, uncovered, joining in the chanting of a Te Deum. Several Russian sculptors have gone to the Far East to model war types on the spot. This is believed to be the first attempt of the kind.

The government takes the view that the Japanese-Korean treaty is in direct contradiction to the Anglo-Japanese convention, the Russo-French declaration and all preceding international agreements proclaiming Korea's independence, and that, as it was drawn up under duress, it cannot have legal force.

The landing of 2500 Japanese at Song Chin, Korea, February 19, reported by Maj.-Gen. Pflug, chief of staff of Viceroy Alexieff, is believed here to be the origin of the recent reports of a Japanese landing as at Possiet Bay, and is considered to be an attempt to outflank the Russian advance on the Yalu River.

WAR BULLETINS FROM MANY POINTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Japanese officials are making special arrangements to facilitate the escape of Americans employed in the mines of Northern Korea. They are all being taken to Chinampo and thence conveyed by transport to Chemulpo. About 100 are employed in the mines in the Yalu district of the Oriental Mining Company. The smelters of the company are about 150 miles from Anju. News of the clash near Ping Yang between Japs and Russian outposts has caused a panic in Korean garrisons, causing soldiers to flee to the mountains.

STORIES OF INDIGNITIES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Japanese refugees who were brought from Wei-Hai-Wei by steamer give piteous descriptions of the indignities inflicted upon the Japanese by the Russian soldiers. The latter completely looted the Japanese quarter at Port Arthur and took their booty to their barracks. The sight of the plunder impelled their comrades to seek about. Finding the houses stripped, they robbed the people of money and jewelry. In some cases they even took men's clothing. Many women suffered indignities. All fled to the seashore and embarked in sampans, in which they tried to reach Dalny. The weather was bitterly cold and the sea was rough. Several were drowned. Others reached Chefoo on a British ship. Both Chinese and Japanese are very bitter in their hate of the Russians, owing to their treatment.

The Governor of Amur issued an official proclamation February 5 ridiculing the Japanese as a paltry nation and declaring that it was Russia's heaven-sent duty to crush the representative of the "yellow peril," thereby rendering a service to humanity.

LABOR.

EIGHT-HOUR BILL EXPOSE.

Manufacturers Appear Before House Committee.

Measure Failure Seen from Four Standpoints.

Police Protect Non-Union Men—Colorado Troubles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] C. M. Fay of Chicago, vice-president for Illinois of the National Association of Manufacturers took a few falls out of the eight-hour labor bill before the House Committee on Labor today. Mr. Fay discussed the bill from four standpoints: Those of the government, the manufacturers, the laborer and the general public—in connection with which, he treated the question as to whether or not it had a right to be regarded as expedient or practicable. He admitted the right of the government to buy or refuse to buy anything because it was made in eight hours or one minute, but pointed out it was inexpedient for the government to do so.

No private buyer, he said, would consent to buy a thing the cost of which would be largely increased under the bill being considered. A man who is bidding upon a certain work should be allowed to perform the work in a manner best suited, to his judgment, to make the lowest bid. Mr. Fay said if the eight-hour bill became law, the number of bids upon government contract work would be lessened, which would tend contrary to the government's interests.

Coming to the manufacturers' side of the case, Mr. Fay said he had an inherent right to make goods upon an eight-hour or a ten-hour basis.

"My plant in Chicago," said he, "is run ten hours per day, and my men are perfectly willing to labor that long. Shall I be penalized every time one of my men works more than eight hours per day? That matter lies wholly with me and my employés. If the bill were passed, I never again would touch a piece of government work; and it will be inexpedient for most other manufacturers to do so. There is dirt enough and fraud and evasion enough in government contract work now, without this committee putting a premium upon bribery and corruption."

As to the practicability of the proposition, from Mr. Fay's standpoint as a manufacturer, that would be out of the question. "Where will the operation of the bill stop?" he asked. "When the government contracts for food with the Armour Packing Company shall that food be traced by inspectors back to the farm and shall producers be compelled to not work more than eight hours a day?"

The laborer himself, Mr. Fay said, does not want his rights to work as long as he chooses limited. Labor unions themselves recognize the fact, for all the constitutions contain provisions that any member can work overtime. "The eight-hour bill is inexpedient and impracticable for the workingman, as well as for the general public, which demands twenty-four hours' service in certain cases."

Mr. Fay concluded by recommending that the enacting clause of the bill be stricken out.

I. W. Jenks, manager of the American Steel Hoop Company, and A. R. Hunt, general superintendent of the Homestead Steel Works, told the committee of the effect the eight-hour bill would have upon their business.

AIRSHIPS NOT ONLY CARE.

M. Santos Dumont Said to Have Tender Thoughts of Miss Lurline Spreckels.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That romance, no less than airships, has to do with M. Santos-Dumont's present visit to this country has just become known. In Paris, five years ago, the young inventor met Miss Lurline Spreckels, daughter of C. A. Spreckels, formerly of San Francisco. The young woman is beautiful and has many admirers, and M. Santos-Dumont, joining these, soon was much in love with her. Apparently, she returned his affection. But while nothing was to be said against the young Brazilian, socially or personally, Mrs. Spreckels had other ambitions for her daughter, and after two years, when the attachment showed no signs of weakening and M. Santos-Dumont was persistent, he was forbidden the house. Despite this, however, the young people found a way of meeting.

Miss Spreckels now is ill and her father's opposition is said to be diminishing. Mrs. Spreckels, however, is understood to be unalterably opposed to a match between her daughter and the aeronaut.

The arrest of Joseph W. Stark Wednesday night on account of threats to blow up the Huntington electric railway properties and to kill Mr. Huntington, his son and his employé fully detailed in Thursday morn Times, was the talk of the tow yesterday.

While Mr. Huntington and his asso ants were loath to have the man' tested and publicity given the matte the general opinion seems to be th ger acted wisely in having hi aced behind the bars, as his talk a tions gave ample grounds for the su cion that he is a dangerous lunatic. If not insane, as charged, then Star as made himself liable to crimin prosecution by his incendiary utte nces, made on divers occasions in t earing of numerous witnesses.

Although apparently rational o ther subjects, there seems to be litt ught that Stark is stark mad on t subject of his fancied grievance again he Los Angeles Railway Company a monomania, according to his tal ppears to have most dangerous te ncies.

Stark did not become violent over h rrest, and he was not strapped dow n a padded cell in the County Ho ital, as stated by yesterday's Expres nd Record, which got the news se ond-handed. When seen in the hospit y a Times reporter, soon after his st, Stark was quietly smoking a cigar ts on his cot in the detention ward and was not violent in any sense. H said he did not know why he was the The warrant authorizing his arrest h been read to him.

ARRAIGNED FOR INSANITY.

The prisoner was arraigned for i unity before Judge Wilbur yesterda and had his time for examination s for next Wednesday.

When he stood up for arraignme there was considerable craning of neck to see the man with such large ideas The court was filled, but they saw on a man of slender build and insignif cant appearance. Stark appears to h a man of weak character, and yet th strong set jaw and the compressed li would appear to indicate a grim deter mination to carry into effect anythin planned by the weak mind behind.

He was slovenly in appearance, an had a straggly beard of several days' growth, while his hair was disheveled and his clothing untidy. But he, hi self, never ast up straighter or a m seemed more alert at the answering to a n sense call of duty. By his side stoo George L. Keefer, his attorney.

The ceremony of arraignment w brief. He was informed by the cou of his rights, and then he was asked Wednesday next would suit him f examination. He promptly answer that it would, and with the exception that solitary answer he did not open h lips in court.

Though no intimation was given the fact, in court, it was stated ou side that Stark will demand a trial by jury. In such case expert testimony b the prosecution may be met by expe testimony by the defense, and as an i sane trial is of a quasi-criminal cha acter, the chances favor the accus more than if he should be examined by a medical commission.

As he was escorted from the cou room back to the County Jail Star seemed to rather enjoy the attenti bestowed upon him. He looked abou but without any smile or lightness o behavior. Rather did it seem as if h regarded himself as a martyr in a ju cause.

THINKS HE IS SANE.

Dr. C. W. Pierce, who has be Stark's physician since the injury h has had received by being thrown fro his bicycle, does not consider Star crazy, although the man's mental condition has been weak since the acc dent. Dr. Pierce says he never beli him make any incendiary threats, b he has complained about not havin received fair treatment at the hands o the railway company.

Dr. Pierce says the man's family i in destitute circumstances. One of the children—there are two little girls—is sick and the rent was due March 1 and there was no money in the house to pay it.

Last Tuesday night Stark swal lowed his false teeth, and he was taken to the General Emergency Hos pital, where he was treated by Dr. Armstrong.

BULLA WON'T INTERFERE.

Stark is a member of the Fraterna Brotherhood and was cared for by th order at the time of his injury. Yes terday morning when his arrest be came known, C. P. Dandy, the chie executive of the order of the Fraterna Brotherhood, called on the Supreme Counsellor, ex-Senator R. N. Bulla for advice as to whether it would b necessary for the Brotherhood to mak any defense for Stark on the insanity charge. Mr. Bulla gave the opinio that it was not the province of the order to interfere. If Stark is ad judged insane, his insurance policy wil become due, and in that event the brotherhood will not seek to shirk it obligations, but Mr. Bulla regards a foregone conclusion that Stark' interests will be protected by the cour without interference by his lodge brethren.

Mr. Bulla last night denounced as false the report in the evening paper that he would interfere in the case in any manner.

STARK'S THREATS.

James Parkerson, Esq., who was a witness to the interview last Saturday between Stark and Attorney Wideman in the latter's office, fully corroborated last night the report of the interview as given by The Times. "Without any previous knowledge about the matter," said Mr. Parkerson, "I was called into Mr. Wideman's office and introduced to Stark, who looked me over carefully and then repeated the statement already made to Mr. Wideman about his plans to blow up the Huntington properties.

"I remonstrated with him, as did Mr. Wideman, about the wickedness of his designs, and tried to dissuade him from it, but he persisted that he would blow Mr. Huntington and as many of his people as possible, to atoms.

WOULD-BE DYNAMITER.

Stark Arraigned in Court on Insanity Charge.

The Prisoner May Demand a Trial by Jury.

His Family Physician Says He is Not Crazy.

The arrest of Joseph W. Stark Wednesday night on account of his threats to blow up the Huntington electric railway properties and to kill Mr. Huntington, his son and his employés, as fully detailed in Thursday morning's Times, was the talk of the town yesterday.

While Mr. Huntington and his assistants were loath to have the man arrested and publicity given the matter, the general opinion seems to be that they acted wisely in having him placed behind the bars, as his talk and actions gave ample grounds for the suspicion that he is a dangerous lunatic.

If not insane, as charged, then Stark has made himself liable to criminal prosecution by his incendiary utterances, made on divers occasions in the hearing of numerous witnesses.

Although apparently rational on other subjects, there seems to be little doubt that Stark is stark mad on the subject of his fancied grievance against the Los Angeles Railway Company and his monomania, according to his talk, appears to have most dangerous tendencies.

Stark did not become violent over his arrest, and he was not strapped down in a padded cell in the County Hospital as stated by yesterday's Express and Record, which got the news second-handed. When seen in the hospital by a Times reporter, soon after his arrest, Stark was quietly smoking a cigar-ette on his cot in the detention ward, and was not violent in any sense. He said he did not know why he was there. The warrant authorizing his arrest had been read to him.

ARRAIGNED FOR INSANITY.

The prisoner was arraigned for insanity before Judge Wilbur yesterday, and had his time for examination set for next Wednesday.

When he stood up for arraignment there was considerable craning of necks to see the man with such large ideas. The court was filled, but they saw only a man of slender build and insignificant appearance. Stark appears to be a man of weak character, and yet the strong set jaw and the compressed lips would appear to indicate a grim determination to carry into effect anything planned by the weak mind behind.

He was slovenly in appearance, and had a straggly beard of several days' growth, while his hair was disheveled and his clothing untidy. But he held himself erect as if answering to a supreme call of duty. By his side stood George L. Keefer, his attorney.

The ceremony of arraignment was brief. He was informed by the court of his rights, and then he was asked if Wednesday next would suit him for examination. He promptly answered that it would, and with the exception of that solitary answer he did not open his lips in court.

Though no intimation was given of the fact, in court, it was stated outside that Stark will demand a trial by jury. In such case expert testimony by the prosecution may be met by expert testimony by the defense, and as an insane trial is of a quasi-criminal character, the chances favor the accused more than if he should be examined by a medical commission.

As he was escorted from the courtroom back to the County Jail Stark seemed to rather enjoy the attention bestowed upon him. He looked about, but without any smile or lightness of behavior. Rather did it seem as if he regarded himself as a martyr in a just cause.

THINKS HE IS SANE.

Dr. C. W. Pierce, who has been Stark's physician since the injury to his head, received by being thrown from his bicycle, does not consider Stark crazy, although the man's mental condition has been weak since the accident. Dr. Pierce says he never heard him make any incendiary threats, but he has complained about not having received fair treatment at the hands of the railway company.

Dr. Pierce says the man's family is in destitute circumstances. One of the children—there are two little girls—is sick and the rent was due March 1 and there was no money in the house to pay it.

Last Tuesday night Stark swallowed his false teeth, and he was taken to the General Emergency Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Armstrong.

BULLA WON'T INTERFERE.

Dandy, the chief executive of the order of the Fraternal Brotherhood, called on the Supreme Counsellor, ex-Senator R. N. Mr. Bulla gave the opinion that it was not the province of the order to interfere. If Stark is adjudged insane, his insurance policy will become due, and in that event the Brotherhood will not seek to shirk its obligations, but Mr. Bulla regards it a foregone conclusion that Stark's interests will be protected by the court without interference by his lodge brethren.

"I sized the man up as a dangerous lunatic and think it is well he has been taken into custody.

"I see an attempt made by an evening paper to make out that there is a conspiracy on foot to railroad an innocent man to the insane asylum or penitentiary. If the city of Los Angeles has a newspaper that will support an insane man in an attempt to commit wholesale murder and destruction, it is certainly nothing more than an organ of anarchy."

IROQUOIS POW-WOW.

Braves and Central Committees to Have War Council at Early Date.

At a meeting of the Iroquois Club last evening it was decided to invite the City Central and County Central committees of the Democrats to a council to be held at an early date. Maj. John T. Jones, sachem, Chairman Edelman of the city committee and Chairman John T. Gaffey of the county committee will call the meeting.

After studious examination of some dust-covered tomes the club has solemnly decided that Jefferson was born on April 13. On that date the organization is to have a banquet to which Max Popper, Louis Metzger, H. L. Bienfield and C. P. Kilne of the San Francisco Iroquois Club have been invited. It is expected that Superior Judge Bledsoe of San Bernardino will also attend and speak.

On motion of Dr. R. V. Day a resolution was adopted recommending a change in the State Constitution so as to permit the City Treasurer under certain conditions to deposit city moneys on interest in banks.

TWO FOOTPADS PADLOCKED.

BOYNE AND COLEMAN CAUGHT BY THE POLICE.

Victim of Highwaymen Last November, Remembers Their Faces so Well that He Picks Them Out Among Forty Prisoners—One Has Stolen Watch Chain.

James Boyne alias Barry and James Coleman, both ex-convicts, the latter having served a term of fifteen years for highway robbery, and the other two terms for larceny, are in the City Jail, charged with having committed one of the hold-ups on East Fifth street which were so numerous in that section last fall. C. E. Crawford, their victim, remembered their faces and described them so accurately that the officers had no difficulty in recognising them. The case appears to be particularly strong, in fact, one of the men has already made overtures to the officers to plead guilty, provided he is not given the limit, but no promises have been made him. The two men were arrested by Patrolmen Glenn and Alexander, and are considered among the really important captures which the police have made this year.

Last November Crawford was held up on Ruth avenue near Fifth street by three men who covered him with revolvers and took $25. The highwaymen made no effort to conceal their features, took their time in completing the robbery, and gave their victim an opportunity to scrutinize them closely.

Since the robbery Crawford has spent much time on the streets hoping to meet the men. Several days ago he saw and recognized Coleman and followed him, but the robber gave him the slip. Crawford reported to the police and the officers looked out for them. Glenn and Alexander came upon the two men together. When searched, the watch chain which had been stolen from Crawford was found on them. Crawford was sent for and without hesitation picked the two from a squad of forty or more prisoners in the jail. There is other evidence against the accused which the detectives are not ready to make public.

SUBDUED THE LION.

Thomas J. Myers, who subdued the horse-killing lion of the Norris & Rowe animal show in San José, came to Los Angeles last evening. The lion was in a pen in a box car in which car there was also a horse. The lion escaped from the pen and fatally injured the horse. Myers went into the car with a revolver loaded with blank cartridges, while a number of police stood ready to shoot the animal if the blank-cartridge shots failed to drive it back into its pen. The brute returned to its cage without much more trouble.

She is a pretty girl, constructed along the Lillian Burkhart lines, with the Burkhart imperfections left out, and there's no reason why she should not win dramatic success.

With this as a guide the surgeons attempted to reduce the fracture, but paralysis of the respiratory organs followed the operation, and he died. The Coroner will hold an inquest to determine the cause of the accident.

HIGH PRICE FOR PRYCE.

Villagers Entertain an Angel and Pay the Piper.

Self-styled British "Colonel" Leaves Them Sorrowing.

Irony in Banquet to Creditors. Bold Bluff Succeeds.

Where is Col. J. Pryce—self-styled British army veteran—debonair, suave, persuasive Col. Pryce?

And where are the goods that he bought, the goods that he sold; when will his pledges be redeemed and when will the long-deferred remittance from England materialise?

These are questions of interest to the good people of Cucamonga, Upland, Ontario and Pomona, and if Sheriff Ralphs of San Bernardino county can induce some victim of the "colonel's" persuasive powers to swear out a complaint, he will make it his business to locate the elusive ex-warrior and force explanations and financial settlements.

Last October Col. Pryce, as he called himself, made his advent at Cucamonga, representing himself as a retired English army officer in search of a quiet little corner of the earth. Three weeks ago he folded his tent and silently slipped away, ostensibly to Los Angeles, neglecting to notify his creditors of his plans and purposes.

THE INEVITABLE WOMAN.

When Pryce came to Cucamonga he was accompanied by a woman much younger than himself—the colonel confessed to 60 years—who was known as Mrs. Pryce. With a good address and interesting reminiscenses of days of conflict it was an easy matter for Pryce to gain the confidence of the Cucamonga people. The latch string of every home was out to him. Dealers in merchandise were eager to do business with him. They were soon given opportunity and now they are sorry.

BUYS A HOME.

The beautiful home of Thomas Feron, nestling among the orange and evergreen trees one mile east of Cucamonga, took the "colonel's" fancy. The twenty acres could be had for $12,000. It was a snap. A cash deposit of $50 was paid and the tranfer was made. The furnishings of the house, the stock and implements of the ranch, were all included in the deal.

But Pryce was fastidious. The home of his declining years must be not only comfortable but artistic. Extensive repairs and improvements were projected. Carpenters and painters were put to work and a transformation was effected. The place was made one of the most attractive of the locality. New furniture was purchased, floor coverings were renewed, wheeled vehicles of several varieties were put into commission; in fact, everything that might be expected to have place in the country seat of a gentleman of leisure was in evidence at the Pryce retreat—all for $50. That's where the joke comes in and what prompts the anxious inquiries of the trusting merchants who would like to know where Pryce is.

SUDDENLY DISAPPEARS.

Pryce hasn't been seen for three weeks. He left on a Tuesday to go to Los Angeles to inquire about his remittance from England. For months that remittance had been coming on Tuesday. Again and again the "colonel" journeyed to Los Angeles to hurry it up. On the last trip he forgot to go back.

Mrs. Pryce said he had fallen on the steps of his rooming-house and had wired her to hurry to his side. With her went all the personal belongings of the Pryces, and some of the personal property of Mrs. Feron, so the latter alleges. All efforts to locate the missing people have been fruitless.

When neighbors and merchants became convinced that the Pryces had decamped there was a stampede for the ranch.

RACE FOR POSSESSION.

Williams & Lucas, dealers in general merchandise at Cucamonga, having the advantage of distance, got there first, and appropriated everything in sight, and made off for the San Bernardino hills. The Pomona Implement Company's representative gave chase.

Among the goods confiscated by Williams & Lucas were material and vehicles to the value of $200, furnished by the Pomona firm. A compromise was effected, and amicable relations between the merchants were restored. The implement company had sold the goods supposedly for cash. When delivery was made by Agent Rhodes it happened to be Pryce's "busy day." Wouldn't he call again? Rhodes called again, but unfortunately it was Friday and Pryce never wrote a check on Friday. Later Rhodes was given a mortgage on the goods and so was enabled to recover his property.

The heaviest losers are Williams & Lucas of Cucamonga. Pryce favored this firm with the bulk of his patronage, and by fair speech and plausible assurances of oil stocks, English securities, and a mining association with the Rothschilds, credit to the amount of $500 was secured. "The good people of Cucamonga always pay their bills, this English gentleman certainly would," was the way the victimized firm argued. Their only compensation was the recovery of a little second-hand stuff.

RUBBING IT IN.

The thing that makes Williams & Lucas sore is that, as the "colonel" was "temporarily embarrassed," they favored him by paying the freight on several carloads of crushed rock that was ordered for the driveways of the Pryce ranch. Anything that Pryce was lacking Williams & Lucas cheerfully supplied. Oak & Co., dealers in dry goods and shoes, were also "in it" to the amount of $100.

And there are others. Carpenters, painters, mechanics and laborers are all wondering if they will ever be paid. C. M. Sykes of Upland, has an unsatisfied account for painting amounting to $88; the Hart Hardware Company contributed $100 worth of material, and the Atwood—Blakesley Lumber Company is looking for $125. So much for Upland.

LIKED POMONA DEALERS.

To the merchants of Pomona Pryce took quite a fancy. As stated the Pomona Implement Company was accommodating to the tune of $200. Wright Bros. & Rice, furniture dealers, would like to collect an outstanding account amounting to $386; Bryan & Son, upholsterers, are out $122, and Tomey & Miller, dealers in implements, $135.

It is claimed that the Pomona National Bank contributed to the support of Pryce, but to what extent could not be ascertained.

At Ontario Pryce confined his transactions to the Citizens' Bank. Just how the confidence of the bank officers was secured is not of record, but the Pryce paper was honored to the extent of $275. How much more was secured in personal loans could not be ascertained.

SOLD FERON'S PROPERTY.

Another source of income to the Pryces was the sale of the personal property belonging to Mr. Feron. A carriage was disposed of, and when the game was copped a span of horses was about to be transferred.

An amusing feature of Pryce's career at Cucamonga was a banquet given at the Metropole Villa, Upland. His guests were those who had assisted him in remodeling his new home. There were at the banquet board, carpenters, painters, brick masons, laborers, merchants, clerks, and stable boys. Although Upland is a "dry" town, the banquet was well supplied with the best of wines. It was a great "feed" and every one in attendance had a high old time. It was the event of the season. But the joke is on the caterer and the wine merchant, inasmuch as that Tuesday remittance never reached the Pryce abode, hence no funds for the settlement of bills.

Merchants, who supplied materials for the repairs upon the house have taken steps to safeguard their interests, and from the present outlook Thomas Feron will be forced to pay about $1500 for improvements ordered by Pryce.

THEY'LL MOURN HIM IN YUKON.

NOTED PHYSICIAN AND DIGGER OF GOLD DEAD.

Dr. Philip Daniel Carper, Healer of Sick and Wounded on Snowy Alaskan Trails, and Discoverer of Rich Gold Hill at Dawson, Called to His Reward.

'Long the far-off Yukon trail there will be sorrow for a death that took place in Los Angeles yesterday.

"Doc," who fought death away from the gold hunters when they sank under the hardships of the trail, cared for their ails, and pegged away with his own gold pan, too, passed out here yesterday—Dr. Philip Daniel Casper. He died at his home, No. 2216 South Figueroa street.

His career would have appealed to a Jack London; a high-priced nerve specialist, "called by the wild" from dosing fidgetty old ladies to the ice trail, where he set men's legs in the snow and hurried on again after his dog sleds.

He had won a reputation in his specialty in Chicago when the Klondike fever broke out. Although it had come to the pass where he was sent for all over the Middle West, he had to give up the practice and go; couldn't help it.

It was in 1897 when the fever went like wild fire over the country.

He went to mine, but had to doctor because men fell sick. The first year he was in Dawson his fees amounted to $8000. Still he found time to mine on the side.

It was a great joke. The "doc" got a mine. They knew he wasn't really crazy, but the miners had to own that the doctor was certainly a little "off." When everybody else was mining in the river, he marched out and planted a mine on a hill. He named it Gold Hill, and the "joke" nearly killed Dawson.

When Dawson saw the color of the stuff that came out of Gold Hill, however, Dawson was rueful—and sprinted for Gold Hill.

It was a great strike. The only thing then was to get men to work it. Dr. Carper used to tell interesting stories of paying a gang of men $1 an hour each and being overpowered with gratitude to them for working at all.

In those days he said he was only too glad to be able to pick up year-old tencent magazines at $1 each, boiled eggs at 50 cents each and apples at $1 apiece.

Trouble came up with the Canadian government about American doctors practicing in the territory, and Dr. Carper sold his claims and came to California. He had been in Los Angeles once before—a short time in 1890—and remembered the place as a haven after the cold Alaska.

Mining was in his blood, however. He bought the Good Hope, next to the Quartette, in the Searchlight district—a fine property.

Dr. Carper was born in Colfax, Iowa, in 1863. He studied medicine at the Iowa State University. In 1889 he was married to Miss Emma Condit. They had no children. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a Knight Templar. His funeral will be conducted under the auspices of the Masons, and will take place, according to present plans, Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Rolling Stock on Hand Now Nearly Exhausted.

Railroads Admit They Can't Meet Demands.

Severe weather conditions in the East have caused a shortage of cars in Southern California which is placing the orange shippers in a tight hole, and it is admitted by officials of the Santa Fé and the Southern Pacific railroads that the refrigerator rolling stock will be exhausted in five or six days, and that shipments from that time on will depend entirely upon the rapidity with which the cars can be brought back from the East.

"It is not quite as bad as a car famine," said G. A. Parkyns, general freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, yesterday, "but we are liable to be caught badly short. The railroad companies have done the very best they could, and under average conditions our supply would have been sufficient, but we have had to face weather conditions in the East that entirely upset all our estimates. The Southern Pacific Company had 5000 cars under contract from the Armour people for this year, but instead of making three or four trips with them we will probably be able to make only two. It has been impossible to unload the cars in the East and they have been held up in roundhouses and any available place of storage until the cold shall subside. We now have about five hundred cars at hand in the Los Angeles division, but as the shippers want 200 a day you can see how long they will last. We are hustling the empties back as fast as we can, and by my reports I see that 173 left El Paso yesterday and 94 the day before. If they will just keep on coming back at that rate we may be able to tide over the shortage without serious results."

A. H. Naftzger, president of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, said last night: "I am told by the Santa Fé officials that there is to be a shortage of cars and we sent out a bulletin today advising growers to hold up on their picking until we are able to find just how we stand on the car question. We are practically assured an orange crop of 30,000 carloads this year, and we will need 200 cars a day, for all working days, for the remainder of this month, and for April and May. We cannot count on the return of cars leaving here short of forty-five cars, which means that 9000 cars should arrive from the East during the next three months. It does not seem that the railroads will be able to get that many back here in that space of time, and I understand that the total number of refrigerator cars of the two companies is not more than 9000.

"We do not say that the railroads are entirely to blame in this matter, nor yet can we say that they have done their best by us. Some provision must be made in the future which will obviate any such condition of affairs as now exists. In my experience of ten years in the fruit business I never have known as unfavorable a winter for shippers as this one. It has been impossible to unload the cars in the East. Why, the oranges would freeze before they could be gotten into a store and once out of the cars it has been impossible to get them out of the city into the country, and people would not buy them if they could, as they do not enjoy eating oranges when it is 20 deg. below zero."

A long rain is said to be about the only thing that would relieve the situation. It would check the ripening of the fruit, delay the picking and give the railroads a chance to get their cars back here. The oranges have ripened more rapidly in Southern California this yeez than for many years in the past, probably because of the lack of rain. In one way, the shortage of cars is a good thing, for if the oranges could be sent East as rapidly as the supply demands, good prices would not be obtained, as the early shipments have not been disposed of and the market would be overstocked.

The Independents feel they are getting the short end of the car supply and claim the combine shippers are taking advantage of the shortage to freeze them out. This the railroad officials deny, maintaining that the allotment of the rolling stock is made without favoritism. "But they are all a little greedy about the cars, and when they need fifty they generally order 100," said one official yesterday.

ATTEMPTS TO WRECK LONG BEACH CAR.

THREE dastardly attempts to wreck a car on the Long Beach line of the Pacific Electric Railway Company were made last night. That a catastrophe was averted is little short of miraculous. Within a distance of half a mile obstructions were placed upon the track in three different places, all being of such character that, under ordinary circumstances, they would cause derailment. Although the detectives of the railway company, assisted by the city detectives and members of the Sheriff's force went to work on the case immediately, they have been unable to discover who tried to cause the smash-up or what was his motive.

A north-bound car left Domingues station about 9:15 o'clock and entered the deep cut this side of that station. It was moving at top speed because it was behind time. Near the end of the cut it suddenly struck something on the track and was almost lifted from the rails. Instead of toppling over it struck on the rails again and bounded on until the motorman turned off the current. The car men and passengers went back to investigate and found that a redwood cross-tie had been placed over the track, one end extending over the rail and the other end under the opposite rail.

The car had struck the obstruction with such force that the tie was splintered, and the wheels cut it through like an ax. The car was not damaged, and after the splinters of the tie had been removed from the track, the trip toward Los Angeles was continued.

Within 200 yards the car struck another obstruction, consisting of a heavy piece of lumber, such as is used in house foundations. This had been placed upright between the rails and then leaned in the direction toward the car, so the heavy coach struck it on the end and drove it more deeply into the ground, breaking it to pieces and breaking also the cow-catcher, but not damaging the car otherwise.

After that the motorman ran more slowly, and it was well that he did, for ahead about distance from there he discovered a pile of brush on the track. He had his car under control and stopped just as it struck the brush. Had the car been moving at its usual speed it would have been derailed and possibly turned over. Much loss of life might have resulted.

The crime was reported to the officials of the company as soon as the car reached Los Angeles, and deputies were hurried to the scene. They were reinforced later by several more officers and the search for the miscreant was vigorously continued.

The officers are unable to discover the motive for such a crime. Had the car been wrecked the dastard would not have been able to secure enough booty from the passengers to make it worth taking chances of detection, if robbery was the object. The search has not been abandoned. The penalty for such an offense is life imprisonment.

GRAND MUSIC IN PLANNING.

SEASON OF NOTABLE ARTISTS AT CONFERENCE TIME.

Great Basso and Great Tenor May Sing "Messiah," While Schumann-Heink, Most Renowned Contralto, is a Possibility in the War-oratorio, "Armimius."

As the plans for spring music unfold themselves, it appears that the real season of splendid melody bids fair not to begin until nearly May 1.

The group of great "events" scheduled in the harmonic world for the busy weeks of conference season will make the sporadic appearances of the winter seem tame in comparison.

The latest consideration is a plan for the production of the "Messiah" by the Permanent Choral Society, under the direction of Julius Albert Jahn. If this is done, the soloists will probably be Watkin Mills, foremost oratorio bass of England, and George Hamlin, leading oratorio tenor in America.

Vaguely looming out of the mists of possibility is another gigantic scheme for the edification of the local music-loving public. This is no less than a heavy production of the great war oratorio "Arminius," with a mammoth chorus supported by the full strength of the Symphony Orchestra, the whole serving as a background for the solo work of the most celebrated dramatic contralto in the world—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

Nothing is definitely known concerning the last suggested production as yet. Dates many and conflicting confront L. Behymer, upon whom the engagement of Mme. Schumann-Heink rests. The production of the "Messiah" is more probable, although Julius Albert Jahn fears that his big body of singers cannot be satisfactorily drilled in this massive music in the comparatively short time that remains.

Watkin Mills is coming here, and the engagement of George Hamlin seems certain. Mills, who is renowned for his splendid voice and artistic mind on two continents, will doubtless make several appearances in Los Angeles. Hamlin has achieved great reputation during the last few years, and today stands in the foremost position of all American tenors as an interpreter of religious music. Immediately following his appearance here, he will leave for a long series of concerts in Australia.

Other plans are going right along, too. It seems to be settled that Damrosch and his aggregation of orchestral players from the Metropolitan will be on hand to present, with their renowned soloists, the greatest of religio-dramatic works, "Parsifal," if it is the intention to make a concert presentation, and the music will be given as it has never been given off the Metropolitan stage.

In addition to these things, the "Conference Chorus," under the direction of Harry Barnhart, will do its share toward making a joyful noise unto the Lord and His assembled hosts of the Methodistic order. Nearly 600 voices have been entered upon the roster of the organization—and they are voices of people long accustomed to work in choruses, as well. With an outside addition from Long Beach, the total forces under the Barnhart baton will number between 700 and 800.

The end is not yet, say the knowing ones. Still another distinguished soloist is in the "dark-horse" state up the managerial sleeve, and an extra symphony concert will probably be scheduled.

COL. GRIFFITH COSTS MONEY.

Expenses of Trial Run Into Surprising Figures.

Shorthand Reporter Alone Has Bill for Thousand.

Large Amount for Witnesses, More for Lawyers.

Convicting Griffith cost a pile of money.

Griffith's expenses are no one's affairs but his own. He was borrowing money at three banks just before the trial, however. He had four lawyers and a raft of experts, who admitted on the witness stand they were to be paid for their services.

The cost to the county was so heavy that whatever fine Griffith may pay by way of punishment, there will be a large shyness on the balance sheet. There is no way to compute exactly. Approximate expenses can be given.

To begin with, the expenses of running the court:

Judge Smith's salary for the period of the trial was about $170; the salary of the District Attorney for the trial was the same. The salary of the clerk amounted to about $80; that of the bailiff, say, $45; an extra sheriff was usually on duty to help with the crowd, $40. It would be about $484 for keeping the legal machinery going.

The jury comes extra. Each man got $3 a day—also mileage, for Sunday and for the first and last days of the trial. The allowance is 15 cents a mile. Luckily none came from distances remote. More came from Long Beach than any other place, the legal distance of which is twenty-three miles.

The first days of the trial, fees and mileage was paid to about sixty men, who were examined before the selection of jurors was made.

This machinery account does not include the fees of the attorneys, Gage and Dockweiler, employed by Mrs. Griffith to assist in the prosecution. They didn't cost the public anything.

One of the items of expense was for the shorthand reporters. Every day the shorthand notes were transcribed into typewriting at a cost of 20 cents a folio. The shorthand reporter received in addition thereto, $10 a day for shorthand work.

His bill, filed with the Auditor, is $1067.50.

Added to this must be the cost of the shorthand work and the typewriting for the preliminary examination. It was vastly less, of course, as the preliminary examination lasted but one day. As there were about four and one-half days of this trial taken up by argument and the selection of a jury, the preliminary examination stenographer should have done something over a tenth the work of the trial stenographer, it seems.

It cost a good deal of money before Griffith's trial actually began.

There were other expenses to the preliminary, including the summoning of numerous witnesses, the taking of Mrs. Griffith's statement when it was feared that she would die, etc., not great in themselves, but counting up.

Since the commission of the crime last September, one or more detectives have been kept almost constantly employed getting the testimony together—and a splendid job they made of it. It was an item of expense, however.

The deputy who regularly has charge of this work gets a salary of $160 a month. The other detective was employed only at intervals and in summoning witnesses.

The witnesses were the heaviest item of expense. There were forty odd. They got their actual expenses for travel, 25 cents for a bed and 25 cents for each meal. The law assumes, however, that they get hungry but twice a day.

The public had to pay for the witnesses of the defense, but not the fees of its experts.

Three witnesses came from considerable distances, a bartender from San Francisco, Dr. Gardner from Belmont and Dr. Cohn from Napa. Their fares were paid; also their board.

The experts probably cost more than all the rest of the trial put together. It is stated that Dr. Gardner charged $1000 and all his expenses. He may be assumed not to have slept in a 25-cent bed.

At this point, definite information ceases. It is not known what the other experts cost.

There were seventeen. All were physicians of prominence, who do not work for the fun of it.

One, Dr. Joseph Kurtz, gave his whole time for many days, sitting in court, making suggestions and coaching the lawyers. He doubtless got a fee of proportions, as he is a man eminent among local doctors.

It is claimed that the prosecution had a number of Pinkerton men digging up evidence in the case. It is not known whether their fees came out of Mrs. Griffith's or the public's pocket.

A certain lawyer who should know says the expense of the entire trial, to the public, to Griffith and to Mrs. Griffith, will run into five figures, starting with a 5. The lawyers get the main proceeds.

Before the trial, people used to say skeptically that Griffith had too much money ever to be convicted, forgetting that there were also a few beans in the public coffers.

CHOKED AND ROBBED.

Victim of Mexican Highwayman Roughly Handled Because He Called Out.

Because when attacked by a Mexican highwayman he refused to keep quiet and submit to being searched, W. E. Westerfield, a printer, whose home is in Pasadena, was choked into submission and otherwise roughly handled by his assailant.

The robbery was committed near the corner of Ord and San Fernando streets at 9 o'clock last night, and, according to the story which Westerfield told the police, it was the work of one Mexican while another stood near by and kept a lookout for persons likely to interfere. Westerfield had been drinking and was walking in the direction of Main street to board a Pasadena car. At Ord street he was accosted by a Mexican, who said something he did not understand. The next moment the Mexican seized him and ordered him to keep quiet. Westerfield began to cry for help and was seized by the throat, choked almost into unconsciousness, and after he had fallen to the ground his assailant hurriedly secured $3, but failed to find $1.75 which was in another pocket.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

AT THE CITY HALL.

INCREASE IN VALUATION.

ASSESSOR ESTIMATES IT AT FIFTEEN MILLIONS.

Deputy Assessors Will Begin Work Next Monday at Noon—New Blank Forms for Assessment Lists Provided—Taxpayers Must Answer Pointed Questions This Year.

Work on the new assessment rolls will be begun next Monday at noon.

City Assessor Wismer said yesterday that he believes the assessed value of property within the corporate limits will exceed that of last year by more than $15,000,000.

For 1903-04 the assessed value of all real and personal property in Los Angeles was, in round numbers, $110,000,000. For the year 1902-03 the assessed value was $86,000,000. Consequently the rolls showed an increase of $24,000,000 for the twelve months. It is not expected that the increase this year will be quite as large.

"I believe that the figures placed on the rolls last year indicate very nearly the full cash value of property in this city, estimated upon a sound, business basis," said the City Assessor yesterday. "Fictitious or speculative values may rise and fall, but the true, intrinsic worth of the property is very near the figures of last year, according to my opinion."

The $15,000,000 increase this year is expected to come chiefly from improvements. Since the first of March, 1903, there have been issued 6453 building permits for improvements valued at $13,072,552. For the corresponding period the previous year 5213 permits were issued representing improvements valued at $11,402,104.

These figures show that for the twelve months ending March 1, 1904, 1240 more improvements of a value of $670,748 were made than during the twelve months ending March 1, 1903.

In the opinion of the City Assessor the actual cash, or intrinsic, value of an improvement, such as a house or business block, is about 60 per cent. of its cost. Actual cash value is defined by the code to mean a sum "which would be taken in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor." On this basis the buildings erected during the year can be counted on to add at least $7,000,000 to the roll.

There has not been the same rise in realty values during the last year as during the preceding one, according to the City Assessor. The activity occasioned by the construction and reconstruction of urban and interurban electric-railway systems in 1902, the building of the Salt Lake road, and the maturing of far-reaching plans, which showed that such able financiers as Henry E. Huntington, Senator William A. Clark and President E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific had firm faith in the future of Los Angeles, did much in that year to cause a rise in values. The rise was general and resulted in placing the values of property on a firm and stable basis, which the City Assessor believes will last for many years. There may be some further general increase in the price of property, but the City Assessor does not believe that it will come so suddenly or be so marked as was the rise during 1902.

Whether the tax rate is lowered or not this year depends very largely on the bond issues that may be voted. The water bonds for the acquisition of the West Side plant and for the construction of an impounding reservoir will not cause any increase in the rate, as the interest and sinking funds will be provided from the water revenues. The proposed bond issue for a detention hospital will not occasion any marked increase in the rate.

If no more bond issues are submitted the tax rate can be lowered, as the rate of $1.40 fixed last year was necessary to provide for more interest and sinking-fund bond payments than would ordinarily have to be met from one levy. The rate for the year before was $1.25. Should the estimated increase in the assessment rolls be made, the rate for the coming year ought to be very close to $1.30 if the library and jail-bond issues which were vetoed by Acting Mayor Bowen are not voted.

The City Assessor was not prepared to state yesterday whether or not he would attempt to assess State bank franchises. The question regarding their assessable nature is still in litigation and as the Assessor has until the first Monday in July to settle the question, he has not yet begun to worry over it.

Next Monday twenty-three deputy assessors will be started out to fix the values on property and to gather in the tax on unsecured personal property. Each one is required to give a $1000 bond to the Assessor. These men are all civil-service appointees and it is doubtless with some misgivings that the Assessor will start them forth. Many have had no previous experience in the work, although they were sufficiently well up on the theoretical side of the work to pass the examinations.

According to law the property owners have ten days from the official publication next Monday in which to file with the Assessor sworn statements of their holdings. After the expiration of the ten days the Assessor can legally put on an arbitrary assessment, which cannot be lowered by the Board of Equalization or any other body. It is the custom, however, to send the notices to property owners and to allow ten days from the time the notice is left at the house.

This year property owners will be face to face with a new assessment list, and it will require some tall sidestepping and expert falsification to get away from many of the questions which are very different from those of previous years.

"Have you any money, gold dust or bullion on hand or deposited in bank or in safe-deposit boxes?

"If deposited in bank, what bank?

"How much?

"If in safe-deposit boxes, what safe deposit?

"How much?

"If on hand, how much?"

These are a few of the very personal and engaging questions which the taxpayers will soon have to face.

BELLICOSE VETERAN.

PRIVATE HENRY IN COURT.

Private John M. Henry of Co. I, at the Soldiers' Home, played in the full glare of the limelight yesterday, when he appeared as the prosecuting witness against Capt. B. L. Goudy, whom he accused of embezzling $113.50 on June 1, 1903.

Judge Oster of San Bernardino was sitting for Judge Smith, and he had a hard time of it. Deputy District Attorney Donnell prosecuted, and that, too, was an onerous duty, all because Henry thought he could run the whole thing himself.

Henry is a very old man, with silvery white hair and whiskers that sweep half way to his waist.

"When did you make the first payment to him?" inquired Maj. Donnell.

Henry came down from the witness stand to where the light shone good, and tried to read from a battered old memorandum book. But his eyes were fixed rather upon the defendant than upon the book, and the sight was too much for him.

"You great big rascal," he said, as he pointed his finger at Capt. Goudy, "you know when you got the money, and that I asked you for it."

Defending counsel protested, Maj. Donnell told the witness to resume his seat, and Judge Oster called Henry sharply down.

"You are an old soldier and an old man, but you must observe better order in court."

"All right, Judge," was the answer, "all right, all right," and then the old man laughed good naturedly.

Henry then said he made the first payment to Goudy in March, 1902.

"I can give the day and date for everything," he said, "and it was on the——oh, you old scoundrel!" Henry was shaking his fist at the defendant now.

During the harangue Capt. Goudy maintained a calm and silent attitude, though everyone else was convulsed. The situation was absurd, and even Judge Oster had the greatest difficulty in maintaining his dignity. The jurymen joined in laughing. Then the court read the riot act to the obstreperous old veteran.

"Mr. Henry," said Judge Oster in an austere tone of voice, "if you were a young man I would send you to jail for contempt of court. Now stop this behavior and read from your book the amounts asked for by counsel."

The case, even from the standpoint of the prosecution was not very strong. Several veterans testified to having been "done" out of money by the defendant, but in each case they said they had "loaned" the money. John Henry stood all this with a fair degree of equanimity, but when the defence began his ire was aroused.

"Look me in the eye while you're talking," he called out to one witness, "and don't be trying to fool the court."

When one witness said something specially distasteful to him he accused him of being "a damned liar," and made no bones about it.

The jury were out a very short time and returned with a verdict of acquittal. Capt. Goudy, himself a feeble-looking old man, at once hobbled out and did not wait to exchange greetings with any of the comrades.

Treasurer's Report.

The City Treasurer's report of the receipts and disbursements for February was filed yesterday. It shows receipts for the month of $1,147,214.25 and payments amounting to $263,757.03, leaving a balance in the treasury of $1,158,297.97.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

CRAZY PERKINS WILL GO HOME.

MISS AUTIN'S ADMIRER AGREES TO LEAVE THE STATE.

He Will be Shipped to His Family in Indiana, and if He Returns to Los Angeles He Will be Treated as Any Insane Person—Escaped Three Times from Elgin Asylum.

W. W. Perkins chased across the continent from Chicago because he imagined himself in love with a swell society girl, who knew of him only as a crazy fellow who had escaped from an insane asylum.

Now he is going to chase himself back again, and by grace of the authorities will have his fare paid to Indiana. That's where he wants to go, and so long as he will go and stay no one here will raise any objection. And the officials at the Elgin State Asylum can go after him if they are aching to make a capture.

Perkins was before Judge Wilbur yesterday to be arraigned. Under the law of this State an insane person can demand to be tried by a jury, thus lifting the determination of a technical point out of the hands of the experts. Perkins would have done this had not other arrangements been made. The story of his common origin, and of his persecution of Miss C. Autin, one of the most prominent ornaments of select society circles in Chicago; and of his crazy impertinence in gaining a surreptitious entry to her home and there frightening her almost out of her wits, has already been told at length. The walls of the Elgin Asylum were not strong enough to keep Perkins, for the last time was the third he escaped.

He stood yesterday in court very quiet and perfectly self-possessed. He is an odd-looking man, possessing none of the marks of the would-be dandy. His face is coarse and heavy set, and large rings of puffy flesh give his dull little eyes a peculiarly repulsive appearance. He was accompanied by his attorneys, Bennett & Porter. One intimated to the court that if he and Attorney Stephens, representing Mr. Autin, would consent to a private conference he thought the matter might be disposed of at once. The conference was held.

Dr. Bledsoe of the County Hospital staff was asked by the court if, after having had Perkins under observation for ten days, he thought the case could with safety be dismissed, and the defendant permitted to go back to his home. Dr. Bledsoe replied the man could be permitted to go East alone with perfect safety.

The court stated he did not care to dismiss a case without consulting the complaining witness, and would like to have the ideas of Mr. Autin. Autin, who is now residing with his family at Pasadena, stated he was perfectly satisfied with the suggested disposition of the case, and then it was up to Perkins.

The escaped patient from the Illinois asylum took his seat upon the witness stand, and merely answered the few questions put to him by the court. He said he was willing to return at once to Indiana, provided his expenses are paid.

Judge Wilbur said that he could see no objection to such plan being carried out, unless it was absolutely necessary for the public safety that the man should be committed. When arrangements are completed for Perkins to take train the court said an order will be made dismissing the case. In all probability that will be done today and an unwelcome visitor will be shipped back to his people in the East.

GUARDIAN WANTED.

MEAD AND WIFE AT OUTS.

A. T. Mead and his wife lived for some time on Pico Heights, but as they couldn't get along they concluded to separate. The mother retained the custody of the boy, Walter, who is 11 years of age, and a daughter about 18 years also has her home with Mrs. Mead. Tiring of this arrangement, Mead thrice sought to kidnap the boy, but the vigilance of the mother forestalled him. Then he began suit to have the child removed from the guardianship of the mother, and asked that Rev. Mr. Shaefle, pastor of the Congregational Church at Pico Heights, be appointed guardian of the boy.

Yesterday in court Mead accused his wife of having a vile temper, of being profane, and of cruelly ill-treating the boy. Several witnesses, including three little girls, said they had heard Mrs. Mead use profane language, but that was two years ago, and since then they had not been near her place. It was also testified that she switched the boy.

Mrs. Mead contended that beyond paying the rent of $7 a month the husband allowed the family to look out for itself. She has but one hand, but has eked out an existence by taking in washing, and the daughter has contributed by working out. She denies having kept Walter away from his father. The daughter and the boy denied that their mother was either cruel or profane. The boy was questioned closely by the court, but maintained that his mother was not what his father alleged, and though he admitted he had been switched by his mother he seemed to indicate that it was deserved. The case was taken under advisement.

OPEN-SEASON WEDDING.

NOW DIVORCE IS DEMANDED.

Filomena Pittochelli obtained a divorce from Lorenzo Pittochelli yesterday in Judge Trask's court, on the ground of cruelty. The husband was divorced from his first wife only in March of last year, but it happened to be in the "open season" when there was a hiatus between the time when the old law ceased to operate and the new law went into effect.

Pittochelli hastened to mate again, and married the woman who gained her freedom yesterday. Mrs. Pittochelli told about hard treatment of her by her husband. Among other things she insinuated that Pittochelli had tried to dope her. She said she had been feeling somewhat unwell and her husband insisted upon her taking medicine. She was forced to take it, and with the result that she was made deathly sick, and tumbled and tossed in pain for some time.

Next time Pittochelli will have to wait for the expiration of a full year before he can actually marry.

DRIVER TOOK CHANCES.

NO BALM FOR HACKMAN.

W. E. Christie tried hard to win his suit against the Los Angeles Railway Company in Justice Young's court yesterday, but his claim of $299 went a-glimmering.

The action was for damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained in a collision. About midnight on January 21, Christie was driving his hack along Flower street in the direction of West Pico and while crossing the track at the intersection a car struck the hack and overturned it. Christie was thrown and shaken up, and alleged that he was laid up for repairs for three weeks.

It appeared from the testimony, that Christie had been afforded a good opportunity to see the headlight of the car, a better opportunity, indeed, than the motorman had to see the hack. Taking this view Justice Young gave judgment for the company.

COLTER DIVORCE CASE.

HUSBAND TELLS HIS STORY.

John A. Colter was the last witness for his side of the divorce proceeding before Judge Trask, and was open and blunt in his statements. He did not seek to evade examination regarding the facts of his having been for a time in Highland asylum, and in telling about it he roasted the institution and its officials.

Mr. Colter told how his wife had viewed him as a gay Lothario, and snapped at him if ever he looked at, much less spoke to any woman. He said that he became so afraid of these outbreaks he took care not to perceive the presence of a woman while his wife was about.

After this Mrs. Colter had her innings, and although she has not been upon the stand, a number of reputable witnesses have testified to various phases of her character, and always very much to her advantage. Indeed, some of the things said in the attempt to illustrate the homely virtues of Mrs. Colter were ludicrous.

All the allegations of the husband regarding his wife's habits were in turn negatived by the witnesses for the defense, but the case was not concluded.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

NETTLETON'S ESTATE. Rose B. Nettleton, widow of the late E. W. Nettleton, has filed a petition for probate of the will. The estate is valued at $52,000, and under the will the widow and a five-year-old son residing at Mason City, Iowa, are the devisees.

SUES FOR DAMAGES. Sarah C. Forsyth, administratrix of the estate of the late J. W. Forsyth, has begun suit against the Los Angeles Railway Company and the Los Angeles Hay Storage Company to recover $10,450 for the death of J. W. Forsyth, from injuries alleged to have been sustained through the company's carelessness. The deceased was a passenger on a Main-street car on March 16 last. At Seventh and Main streets the car collided with a hay wagon belonging to the Los Angeles Hay Storage Company, and the tongue of the wagon struck the deceased with violence. From that time on it is averred, Mr. Forsyth was ill until the date of his death, January 28.

AYRES ESTATE. Mrs. Dora L. Ayres has petitioned for probate of the will of Harry R. Escarick Ayres, who died February 12. She is the widow and resides on South Grand avenue. The estate is valued at $15,000, and the will is under date of January 8, 1903. The widow and son are the sole devisees.

SENT TO HIGHLAND. William Allen, a young workingman, was ordered committed to Highland yesterday. He imagines someone has injected something into his brain to change his religious views.

WHITTIER GRADUATES. Serof Arrata and George W. Gilmore, youths who have been to Whittier, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Oster to burglary in the second degree and were sent to the Folsom penitentiary for a year each. The lads broke into several stores at Santa Monica and stole provisions and hardware.

TOO MUCH SOOT. Judge Bledsoe, sitting for Judge Conrey, yesterday granted a restraining order prohibiting Mrs. C. A. Tarble from allowing the smokestacks on the Bellevue Terrace Hotel to emit an unusual quantity of soot. Suit was brought by C. Q. Stanton, who lives opposite the hotel, against J. Burkhart, the owner, but the responsibility was wholly assumed by the tenant and dismissed against Burkhart.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

MUST ANSWER FOR MURDER.

PHILIP LEE HELD OVER TO THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Justice Austin Does Not Deem Self-defense Plea Sufficient to Warrant His Acquittal Without Trial by a Jury—Gambler Rice Given a Place on Chain Gang.

The self-defense plea of Philip Lee, charged with murder, may be sufficient to satisfy a jury of his peers of his innocence, but it was not supported with the right kind of evidence to convince Justice Austin that he should be acquitted without the formality of a regular trial.

The preliminary examination of Lee, which had been hanging fire for several weeks, was concluded yesterday, and he was held to answer for murder without bail.

Lee shot and killed John B. Kearney in the Berwick Hotel, No. 449½ South Spring street, on the afternoon of February 2, as the result of bad blood between the men on account of Kearney's alleged attentions to Lee's mistress, Mrs. Hulbert, and his threats to kill her and Lee.

Lee has claimed all along that Kearney had drawn a revolver on him, and that he simply shot in self-defense. After the people's evidence was in, Attorney Luther G. Brown, Lee's counsel, called several witnesses to prove the self-defense theory, among them Mrs. Hulbert, who was employed as a chambermaid in the Berwick Hotel; her mother, Mrs. Carleton, the landlady, and her father, A. B. Carleton, a building contractor, who had been estranged from his family for three years, but who returned to visit his wife and daughter just in time to witness the tragedy.

Lee also went on the witness stand in his own defense, and he and Mrs. Hulbert testified that Kearney was the first to draw a revolver. The testimony of the other witnesses, however, was to the effect that Kearney did not have any weapon in his hand before the shooting, but that he made a motion toward his pistol pocket with his right hand after Lee had struck him several blows with a revolver or a blackjack. A revolver was found under Kearney's body after he fell, but nearly all the eyewitnesses agreed that Lee fired before Kearney had time to draw his gun.

The testimony showed that Kearney and Lee had trouble the night prior to the shooting, when Lee, who was a deputy constable and sort of a "bouncer" for the Hotel, in addition to his regular business of driving a cab, ejected Kearney from the house, and that Kearney next day purchased a revolver, fortified his courage with whisky, and returned to the hotel, breathing vengeance against Lee and Mrs. Hulbert.

Mrs. Hulbert has a husband living, but she has been very attentive to Lee since his incarceration on the charge of murder. She kissed him farewell yesterday, after Justice Austin made the order, holding him for trial for murder, without bail, and committing him to the care of the Sheriff pending trial by jury in the Superior Court.

GAMBLER'S TROUBLES.

RICE IN THE CHAIN GANG.

Edward C. Rice, one of the "cappers" for J. H. O'Brien's sure-thing gambling game, which was raided several days ago by Capt. Auble, was before Justice Chambers yesterday to show cause why he should not be made to serve a suspended sentence of 180 days for vagrancy. About a year ago Rice was arrested with another sure-thing gambler, named Crawford, and on pleading guilty to the charge of vagrancy, was let go on a 180-day "floater," on the promise that he would leave the city and give Los Angeles a wide berth in the future.

But Rice couldn't stay away; he returned a short time ago, but would not have been molested by the police, if he had not associated himself again with a sure-thing gambler in the business of skinning suckers.

Rice took the attempt to make him serve his "floater" very unkindly and made a strong spiel for clemency. He told the court that he did not understand that his "floater" meant perpetual banishment. He tried the climate of San Luis Obispo, but it proved too rigorous for his delicate health, so he returned to the best climate on earth, but before settling down here again, he took the precaution to ask Chief of Police Elton whether he would be allowed to remain, and the Chief had given his consent.

Chief Elton was called to the witness stand to refute or substantiate this statement, and said Rice had accosted him on the street and asked if an old "floater" against him would be enforced if he remained here, and the Chief replied that he had forgotten all about the case, but if he behaved himself and would not get into fresh trouble he could stay. The Chief did not promise him exemption if caught at his old tricks.

Rice had his wife and little boy with him in court to strengthen his plea for sympathy, but it availed him not. Justice Chambers condemned him to the chain gang for 180 days, and that is not the end of his troubles.

Tomorrow at 2 o'clock Rice is to be tried in Justice Austin's court for helping J. H. O'Brien to conduct a gambling game. O'Brien's trial is set for March 7, and it is likely to go hard with him, as Justice Austin fined him $100 a short time ago for a similar offense, and the court warned him then that a much severer sentence would be imposed if he was found guilty on such a charge again.

DOG-GONE BAD CASE.

GODFREY'S VICIOUS(?) "PUP."

"Everybody keeps dogs down there."

Such was the testimony in regard to the neighborhood of Thirtieth street and Orchard avenue in Justice Chambers's court yesterday.

A dog case was on trial and the entire population seemed to be interested in one way or another. Men, women and children of various ages and circumstances in life were called to the witness stand, and the attorney for the defense even wanted "Brindle," a colossal canine that is a cross between a mastiff and a Great Dane, put on the stand, but the court wouldn't stand for that out of consideration for Bailiff Hiriart, the official interpreter, who can interpret all sorts of mongrel dialects, but who does not understand dog language with a Danish accent.

"Brindle" was the cause of all the trouble, and his owner, Charles Godfrey, was on trial for keeping a dangerous and vicious dog. While assaults were being made by witnesses on "Brindle's" character, he was loafing in the corridor outside the courtroom, making friends with everybody that came along—the best-natured and most-gentlemanly dog imaginable.

Yet, notwithstanding "Brindle's" display of good temper and his reputation for being the playmate of all the kids in the neighborhood of Thirtieth street and Orchard avenue, the testimony showed that he has two dog murders to his credit.

Once when "Brindle" was chained to a post, a man sicked a bulldog with a great fighting record on him. The bull tried to grab "Brindle" by the throat, but before he could fasten his fangs, the Great Dane-mastiff got the neck of the pugnacious veteran of many battles between his massive jaws and after one or two vigorous shakes it was all off with Mr. Bulldog. The coroner's jury exonerated "Brindle" on the grounds of self-defense.

The next victim of "Brindle's" jaws was "Prince," a saucy collie, owned by A. M. Jones, an insurance agent residing near the Godfrey place where "Brindle" has his home. Whether "Prince" had his life insured or not in Mr. Jones's company, the testimony did not disclose, but it was shown that the collie met his death by running out and grabbing at the skirts of Godfrey's sister-in-law, as she was passing Jones's house. "Brindle" was tagging after his master's relative, and when he saw her assailed he ran to her assistance and gave the collie a good shaking. "Prince" was plucky and when he was let loose, he took after "Brindle" and bit him on the heel. The big dog would not stand for that, and when he next fastened his jaws on the collie's neck he did not let go until "Prince" was a subject for the dog undertaker.

The death of his dog incensed the insurance man, and he forthwith lodged a complaint against "Brindle" and his owner and the proceedings in court yesterday were the result.

Justice Chambers listened patiently to evidence, pro and con, mostly in Brindle's" favor, until 5:30 p.m., and then the court took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning to hear the testimony of the butcher who is alleged to have been bitten at some remote time by Godfrey's dog.

Window-smasher's Penalty.

J. F. Birdsall, a dipsomaniac who broke the plate-glass windows in the office of the California District Messenger Company in the Odd Fellows' building, because he could not get a drink of whisky at that place, was given a sentence of sixty days, by Justice Austin yesterday.

Police Court Notes.

Fay Jones, a dissolute negro, who forsook the honorable vocation of hod-carrying to become a sport and drunkroller, was sentenced to 120 days in the chain gang by Justice Chambers yesterday.

W. J. McKaroll, a Tropico rancher, paid a fine of $30 for cruelty to a horse, which is about ten times as much as the abused horse was worth.

Clara Boas was given a suspended sentence of fifty days for vagrancy, by Justice Austin. May Murphy, another frail sister, was given a thirty days sentence, which will be enforced.

LAND DECISION HOLDS.

The decision of the General Land Office in Washington in the case of the San Fernando Oil Company vs. Marcellus W. Brady, concerning a disputed claim to certain lands north of the city, was received by the local United States Land Office yesterday. It sustains the original opinion of the local office, July 28, 1900, Marcellus W. Brady, now deceased, applied to select the northwest quarter and north half of the southwest quarter of section 13, township 3 north, range 17 west, S.B.M., under the provisions of the script act of June 4, 1897. In 1901 the San Fernando Oil Company filed a protest, alleging to have been in actual occupancy of the land described long prior to the filing of the other application. The local office, after due hearing, decided that the land was not shown to have been occupied nor to be mineral in character.

BURDETTE SAYS GIVE GOD WAY.

PHILOSOPHY MAKES TEMPERANCE WOMEN FROWN.

Says Prohibition Doesn't Prohibit. Pasadenans Do Not Have to Come to Los Angeles to Get a Drink of Whisky—New Board of Officers Elected.

Burdette gave the Women's Christian Temperance Union a jolt yesterday that they didn't seem to like.

He told them that prohibition didn't prohibit, and advised them to let God have His own way and not be too free with suggesting ways and means to help Him out.

It was at the annual meeting of the Los Angeles W.C.T.U., Rev. Robert J. Burdette having been invited to deliver an address to the ladies in the afternoon. No subject was named for the talk, but almost the first sentence indicated that Mr. Burdette had determined to give them a little of his philosophy upon the subject of prohibition, whether they liked it or no. In part he said:

"You say that prohibition prohibits drinking, but it doesn't. I have been pretty near everywhere hereabout; been beyond the Jordan and among the Arabs, but I never saw a town where a fellow couldn't get a drink of whisky if he wanted it.

"A man living in Pasadena don't have to come to Los Angeles to get a drink of whisky; he can get it in Pasadena. Every now and then we pick up a man for being drunk on the street, and fine him a hundred dollars. He pays it and goes out to hunt another drink."

The speaker humorously illustrated the prohibition theory by the mother who sought to prohibit her boys from the use of certain dainties by hiding them away in the farthermost corner of the highest shelf, with the inevitable result of sharpening the appetite and strengthening the determination to get at them. He declared that while there was a possibility of preventing the boy getting possession of the coveted article, the enforced abstinence failed to teach him anything, and he would stick to it until he gained his desire.

"Men continue to give their lives to find the North Pole. It won't be worth anything when they find it, but they'll stick to it until they succeed.

"You can't prohibit the use of anything by telling a man he can't have it. You can't cure a man's appetite for whisky by all the legislation in the world. The children of Israel rebelled at their daily supply of fresh breakfast food and longed for the flesh-pots of Egypt.

"Take a pig out of the sty, wash him, rub him, make him shine like a piece of marble, turn him out and the first thing he will do will be to root the roses out of the garden. He's a pig still.

"You can't cleanse a man from the outside. You might as well try to cure his appetite for mince pie; he always liked mince pie and always will.

"God's 'Thou shalt not,' when you get down to the heart of it, means 'Thou ought not.' Teach a man he ought not, and after a while you will cure him. You say it will take a long time. Yes; I think God has been working with us about 7000 years. In His own way and in His own time He will bring it about.

"Leave things to God; don't meddle with His providences; don't suggest too many ways to Him. Never lose hope; go on with your work, but remember that 'thou shalt not' is not as good a way as 'thou ought not.'"

There was just a tiny ripple of applause as Mr. Burdette took his seat, but most of the ladies looked their displeasure.

The meeting of the Los Angeles union was for the purpose of hearing reports of all departments of the work during the past year, and the election of officers.

All the departments showed a great amount of work accomplished, and the superintendents were earnest and enthusiastic in making their reports.

This is said to be the largest W.C.T.U. in the world, having a membership of almost 900, and Mrs. Lucy Blanchard, who has been its president for many years, was again reelected yesterday. The full board elected is as follows: President, Mrs. Lucy Blanchard; vice-president, Mrs. R. A. Hawkins; secretary, Mrs. H. A. Terwilliger; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. R. Vance; treasurer, Mrs. S. D. Warner.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

DULL SEASON IN KERN FIELDS.

DIFFICULTY IN GETTING OIL TO MARKET IN LARGE LOTS.

Standard Not Working Its Pipe Line South of Mendota—New Line Talked of—Coalinga-Peerless-Perforates Its First Well.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

BAKERSFIELD, March 3.—The dull season in the oil fields of Kern county is causing a number of drillers and others to seek other fields of employment. The great trouble seems to be that there is no means of getting oil to market in any quantities, so as to realize a decent profit.

The Standard pipe line is not working on this end at present. After a suspension covering many weeks, during which the line was given over to the exclusive use of the Coalinga producers, the company again ran the stations from Mendota south and announced that it would move Kern River oil. It started up once, but it failed to keep the line going and after a recent break in the line, work has been entirely suspended south of Mendota.

The reason for this is disputed among oil men, some holding that the purpose is to relieve the pressure at Coalinga only, there being a great demand for oil of that gravity; others maintain that the heavy oil at Kern River refuses to flow with sufficient ease through the pipes. Whatever may be the cause, the company has not recalled the forces employed at the several stations. The men are there drawing their salaries and performing a few duties they are called on to undertake, but no oil is flowing. It is reported that orders have been placed for tanks which will be set up at the stations. It is whispered about that the company contemplates changes on the great pipe line in the near future.

Another line is even talked of. Some favor is lent to this gossip by the report that Superintendent Page has been summoned East for a consultation with higher officials.

The Associated Oil Company held its second annual meeting in San Francisco Monday, and the statement of the company is expected to be issued shortly.

The Coalinga-Peerless Company has just perforated its first well, which is now pumping 175 barrels of oil daily. At this rate it will produce 5250 barrels a month and at 23 cents—the price prevailing for 23 gravity—will give an income of $1094 a month or $14,190 a year. As the company's capitalization is $100,000, it will be seen that this is a handsome interest on the money invested. The Standard has built its line to the well and is taking the product at the price named. The company has 160 acres in the Coalinga field.

GHOST OF PAST MAKES HIM FLEE.

PROMINENT BAKERSFIELD MAN LEAVES HIS WIFE.

Has Been Missing Since November and no Trace of Him Can be Found. Writes Letter Saying Skeleton in Closet Forces Him to Leave Home. Ackerman Bound Over.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, March 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Merle Manley, a well-known contractor who has resided here three years, is missing, and his wife is frantic with grief. Last Thanksgiving Day the family went to San Francisco, and after a week's stay in the city Mr. Manley sent his wife and children to Los Angeles, where he promised to join them in several days. He then started for San Mateo, San Luis Obispo, and Santa Barbara. After two weeks' stay in Los Angeles, Mrs. Manley received a letter dated at San Francisco from her husband saying that "Some ghost of the past had sprung up in his life," and that he would have to go away. She concluded that she should not worry and that he might write to her. No word has been received from him since that time. Mrs. Manley has notified the police of San Francisco and other places.

Manley was prosperous, owns property and has constructed many buildings throughout the county. He graduated from Ann Arbor, Mich., and has wealthy relatives in Mount Vernon, O. His domestic life was happy. Several years ago he was struck on the back of the head by a hatchet and at times his mind seemed unbalanced. Dr. Prather of Bakersfield has treated him and thinks his disappearance is the result of mental derangement due to the blow. At the time of his disappearance he had several hundred dollars. It is reported to have been seen in Reno, Nev., five weeks ago.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food Eaten Is Worthless Unless Digested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means body and brain get all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year-old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bones of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

Indians and the Game Laws.

SAN FRANCISCO (Cal.) Feb. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In a recent issue of your paper we find an article relating to the case of an Indian who had been arrested by a State officer for violation of the State game laws on Round Valley Indian Reservation, in Mendocino county, and the decision of the United States District Judge, De Haven, which would give the impression that an Indian had a right to kill game at any time in the forest reserves and game refuges, as well as on Indian reservations.

Permit us to say this construction is entirely wrong, and having been copied in a number of papers, it cannot help but do a great deal of harm to the fish and game interests of the State, unless it is contradicted.

Judge De Haven's decision refers only to Indians on Indian reservations. The point in this case was whether or not the land on which the Indian killed the deer was within or outside the Round Valley Indian reservation. There had been a law passed by the Federal Congress, October 1, 1890, reducing the boundaries of this reservation. Judge De Haven, in substance, held that this law did not become entirely effective until twenty-five years after the passage of the act, and although the Indian in accordance with the provisions of that act, had received his allotment of land, the legal title was still in the United States, and the Indian was still a ward of the government.

In this case it was contended by the State that this land was outside the present boundaries of the Indian reservation. Judge De Haven held that it is still a part of Round Valley Indian reservation. His decision, therefore, had no reference or application to any government lands, except Indian reservations. Forest reserves and game refuges are not Indian reservations, and all violations thereon of the State fish and game laws can be prosecuted.

So far as the rights of an Indian to kill game at any time on an Indian reservation is concerned, permit us to say that is a close question. Authorities can be found on both sides, but there is no question that outside the boundaries of the Indian reservations an Indian is subject to the State laws the same as any other individual.

Yours respectfully,
CALIFORNIA FISH COMMISSION.
Charles A. Vogelsang, Chief Deputy.

WHY

Don't you give your heart the same chance you do the other organs?

Why? Because when any other organ is in trouble, it refuses to work, and you hasten to repair it.

The heart, the ever faithful servant, never refuses as long as it has power to move, but continues to do the best it can, getting weak-er and weaker, until it is past repair, and then stops. It is just as sick as the other organs, but because it will work you let it.

However, it's not too late for a "change of heart," so remember

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

The digestive tablets contain elements akin to the natural gastric juices, and relieve distress, cure all forms of stomach trouble.

Yerba Lip-Tus cures the most hopeless cases and the increased sales attest its popularity.

A physician at a sanitarium writes: "Send me six boxes digestive tablets; they are doing me good."

Mrs. M. Ellington, Weatherford, Tex., says: "I was a catarrh victim for 15 years, in painful headaches, and repulsive form. Lost sense of smell. Yerba Lip-Tus cured me."

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

RARELY beautiful blossoms and the settings of rich cut glass and silver made a beautiful scene yesterday at noon when Miss Alice Elinor Hart of Ninth and Burlington entertained friends at luncheon complimentary to Mrs. Wilson P. Hunt of St. Louis.

In the center of the table rose a tall cut-glass vase filled with American Beauty roses, on a centerpiece of handsome European lace. The handsome chandeliers were hung with smilax and smilax formed a fluffy canopy over the table.

The luncheon table presented a gorgeous appearance and was enhanced by the loveliness of the young hostess who presided at its head. The other rooms were filled with the fragrance of many flowers, American Beauty roses, beautiful Parma violets and rose-colored carnations being utilized effectively in the color scheme.

Miss Hart is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Bertha Tait, who left on Monday for the South, where she spends her winters on account of her health. Mrs. Tait has left her young daughter in charge of her elegant home, and the retinue of servants, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brant of Chicago acting as chaperone, during her absence.

Miss Hart is a girl of unusual beauty and charm of manner and has already made many friends in Los Angeles society, which always appreciates a pretty girl, and has wonderful intuitions as to the girl who is going to "take well." Miss Hart has surely been written down on the list of the lucky ones.

Those for whom covers were laid yesterday were: Mrs. Wilson P. Hunt, Mrs. H. Jevne, Mrs. Lee W. Foster, Miss Alma Mitchell, Miss Hortense Childs, Mrs. Charles Brant, Mrs. Scott, Miss Nannie Dillon and Mrs. Denis M. Riordan.

Talented Girl.

For the past five weeks Los Angeles has been fostering in its domain a talented young girl from Waterloo, Iowa, Miss Cora I. Bunn. Miss Bunn, though young and unassuming, is endowed with a most wonderful mezzo-soprano voice, which has attracted much attention throughout the East. In Chicago she was a member of the well-known Euterpean Quartette, and has the distinction of being the youngest member, first taking part in the concerts when she was but a slip of a girl in short dresses, and having continued with her music until now. She is a pupil of one of the best vocal teachers of Chicago. Miss Bunn has been requested to sing at the Unity Church on Sunday, and she has chosen as her solo "He Was Despised," from the "Messiah."

Miss Bunn has made many friends during her brief stay here, and has been much admired in society because of her fine voice and pleasing personality. She is a tall, willowy brunette, with beautiful brown eyes and brilliant coloring, and has a sweet, girlish way which is fascinating.

This bright girl expects to make her home in Los Angeles, where the roses bloom always and the sun does not spent most of his time playing hide-and-seek with the clouds. She is spending the winter with friends at No. 1425 Bush street.

Badger Club.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. E. W. Gilmore of Ocean View avenue was at ... to the Badger Club members. A ... interesting programme was rendered. First a paper was read by Mrs. ... E. Coles on the "Juvenile Court," and then a dramatic reading by Mrs. Mary G. Dunn of Chicago, and instrumental music was rendered by Miss Grace Adele Frebey.

The house was made bright with cut flowers and dainty refreshments were served in the afternoon.

Guest of Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Charles E. Kregelo of Indianapolis, formerly of this city, is the guest of Mrs. O. T. Johnson of No. 1221 Orange street. Mrs. Kregelo was one of the most prominent society women of this city and when she made her home here was well known. Her many friends will be glad to know of her visit, and it is rumored even though it is Lent, that there are several small things being planned in her honor. Mrs. Kregelo expects to remain at the Johnson home about two weeks longer.

Eastern Trip.

Miss Beatrice Wigmore, the pretty and popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wigmore of West Adams street, left last week for a visit with relatives in the East. She expects to be gone some time and during her stay will be the guest of her brother, Dean Wigmore of the Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Country Club Dance.

Last night the Country Club gave an informal dance at the clubhouse. There were about one hundred guests and the affair was jolly, as all the Country Club doings are.

For Miss Coulter.

A dear, petite little brown-eyed girl is planning a theater party for her big sister, who is soon to be married to the finest fellow in all the world, so thinks little Miss Brownie Coulter, who will entertain for her sister, Miss Belle, on next Saturday afternoon.

Miss Brownie's aunt, Mrs. F. K. Simonds, will chaperone the party with this beautiful child as the quaint little hostess, and the Misses Lelia Simonds, Fanny Coulter, Adele Brodtbeck, Annis Van Nuys, Inez Moore, Jane Campbell, Ada Ford and Bertha Pollard as guests.

Dinner for Fourteen.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Braun of Chester Place will entertain for fourteen of their friends with a dinner party. The affair promises to be most attractive, as the decorations are being arranged in an artistic manner.

To Visit Phoenix.

Mrs. Joseph C. Wickham leaves today for a visit with her father, ex-Chief Justice Webster Street of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickham have recently come here from Philadelphia to live, and society is gladly opening its doors to this handsome couple.

Notes and Personals.

Miss Zora Weaver, who has been traveling for the last year in Europe, has returned to her home at No. 950 South Hope street.

Miss Ruth Sterry of Terminal Island has been the guest of Miss Lucile Walton of West Adams street for the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Kays have moved from No. 1119 South Grand avenue in this city to their new residence in Hollywood.

La Paloma Whist Club met yesterday with Mrs. Eliza W. Fisher at No. 932 Alvarado street. Prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Walter J. Wren and Mrs. Gean Nance. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Dr. Ford at No. 937 Alvarado street.

HAND OF HELP FOR THE FALLEN.

HOUSE OF GOOD SHEPHERD TO BE LOCATED HERE.

Bishop Conaty Purchases Valuable Site on Pico Heights for Only Institution of the Order on Pacific Coast—Reformatory Work Among the Unfortunate Women.

Through the efforts of Bishop Conaty, which began with his assumption of the duties of this diocese, and which have been brought to a successful issue, Los Angeles is to be the site of a new House of the Good Shepherd, the only institution of this order on the Pacific Coast.

The bishop received from Rome the permission granted by the Sacred Propaganda, and approved by the Pope, which was granted at an audience January 30. This is the first official document received in this diocese from the new Pope.

Immediately after coming to Los Angeles, Bishop Conaty was deeply impressed with the need of reformatory and rescue work among the fallen women of Southern California, and with his characteristic energy, he set about the task of providing a practical work for this field.

An invitation was issued to the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, who make the rescue work their one occupation, to establish a house here, and application was made to Rome for its permission to effect this arrangement.

Six weeks ago, Sister Grace, Provincial Mother Superior of St. Louis, accompanied by another sister, came to Los Angeles and spent three weeks here as guests of the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart, while they made a thorough investigation of the field.

As a result of this investigation, Bishop Conaty has just closed a purchase of eleven acres of fine land on Pico Heights as a site for the new House of the Good Shepherd.

This is located between Pico and Sixteenth streets, and also has a frontage on Arlington street. The purchase price was in the neighborhood of $35,000, and the land was bought from Daniel Murphy, who recently purchased it from the Banning Brothers.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd have plans prepared for a magnificent three-story structure in the mission style of architecture, and which will cost probably $50,000, when completed.

At present only one wing—the penitential ward—will be constructed, but the others will be built as soon as the work is established. Six sisters of the order will be here within a few weeks to begin the work.

FLOATING "WILD CAT."

Worthless State Currency of Ante-bellum Days in Circulation in This City.

Many worthless bills are said to be floating about Los Angeles. Some perverted genius with an unlawful lust for gain has attempted to revive the wildcat State currency of ante-bellum days.

A number of the pieces of spurious paper money have been presented at the Los Angeles National Bank.

Two of the specimens of bad cash were shown yesterday. One is a $20 bill of the State Bank of New Brunswick, N. J. It is much soiled and very red on the back. The other is a $5 piece alike on both sides. It does not bear the cashier's signature.

Neither of the bills is dated. Both are supposed to have been printed from stolen or resurrected plates.

INTERESTING PLANS MADE FOR ARBOR DAY.

Procession Through the Streets to Central Park, Where Speaking Will Take Place—Planting in Plots in Elysian Park—Live Oak in Memory of "Pathfinder."

The Arbor Day Association, organized at the convention held last month under the auspices of the Civic Federation, met yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce to hear reports from the committees appointed to arrange for the ceremonies in Central Park and the planting in Elysian Park on the afternoon of the 17th inst.

A procession will move through the downtown streets previous to the gathering at Central Park for the speaking. Mayor Snyder and Bishop Conaty have been invited to speak. J. B. Lankershim will have charge of the parade.

After the ceremonies, representatives of the different organizations that have joined in the movement will be conducted to Elysian Park to plant their trees, on the slope near Cape Horn. Councilman Davenport, chairman of the Committee on Transportation, reported that arrangements have been made with the Los Angeles Railway Company for special cars, and that the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway has offered its two parlor cars.

Each organization represented will have a plot for planting, and a large stake, inscribed with the name of the organization and the date of planting will mark the separate clumps of trees.

The Ladies of the G.A.R. have made a request for a plot in which to plant trees to be reared in memory of the California Volunteers. The suggestion was made, and met with approval, that the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West plant a live oak tree in memory of the "Pathfinder," Gen. John C. Fremont. The live oak was chosen because the treaty of peace signed by Gen. Fremont with the Mexican commander on the taking of Los Angeles was penned under one of these native monarchs of the Southern California soil. The Bartlett-Logan Relief Corps will contribute its share to Arbor Day by planting a tree to the memory of Mrs. Jessie Banton Fremont, the late widow of Gen. Fremont, as she was a member of the corps.

The association voted to aid in the planting of the new Sunset boulevard as far as its resources will allow. This is expected to be done on Arbor Day with the coöperation of the members of the Sunset Boulevard Association.

Col. Melvin Mudge, representing the Federation of Improvement Associations of Los Angeles, addressed the meeting briefly, stating that the Arbor Day movement has the coöperation of the federation. In recommending live oaks as a successful tree for street planting, he stated that the Highland Park Improvement Association will have completed, by the date set for Arbor Day, the planting of five miles of streets to live oaks and palms, alternating. This statement brought forth a round of applause.

J. M. Guinn suggested that a movement be set on foot to have Arbor Day, March 17, declared a legal State holiday.

The Arbor Day Association was made a permanent organization. A meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce next Thursday.

BRIDE DESERTER GATHERED IN.

HANSEN, ALIAS D'ARGENTAGE CAUGHT AT LAST.

Accused of Felony in Marrying by Falsely Personating Another, and Soon Disappearing With Wife's Thousand Dollars, All Her Savings of Years—Wanted Since June.

Marinus Hansen, alias D'Argentage, was arrested yesterday in Santa Barbara at the request of the Los Angeles police department, and Detective Hugh Dixon left to bring the prisoner here for trial. The detectives have been trying to locate this man since June, and had sent his picture and description all over the country. He is wanted on a felony charge, and if the woman whom he victimized and robbed can now be found, the officers anticipate little difficulty in securing a conviction.

Under the name of D'Argentage, Hansen appeared in Los Angeles early last year and represented himself to be a Danish nobleman. He appeared to have considerable money, dressed well, and entered such society as would accept him for what he represented himself to be. On May 23, 1903, he married Hilma Sundin, stating to her that his name was D'Argentage, and that he would soon come into possession of a fortune left to him by an uncle in Denmark. The woman trusted him with her money, nearly $1000, the savings of years. On June 10 he deserted her, taking her money, and she has not seen him since. The detectives' investigation disclosed the fact that the man's name is Hansen.

A warrant charging felony was issued, under Section 528 of the Penal Code, which provides that any person who, falsely personating another, marries is guilty of such crime. Hansen left the State after having deserted his bride, and returned recently to Santa Barbara. His whereabouts became known through a letter which he wrote to a person in this city.

FRANK G. CARPENTER'S letter in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday will comprise an interview with Secretary Cortelyou on the labor problem.

SITUATION REASSURING. One the most reassuring elements in the ent situation of the larger finan- markets is that at both London New York the bank position, is the whole, a strong one. The Bank England's weekly statement, issued Thursday, was an unusually good and helped to increase the good pression made by the conclusion of fortnightly Stock Exchange settle- made there without any accord- ap. At New York, while the pres- ary rates for money are attrib- able in part to slackened demands, associated banks are, nevertheless, a comparatively firm position, last week's bank statement having been re- ved to a very favorable one. In latter connection the chief interest present centers in the expected call the Treasury Department on the tionary banks for $30,000,000 of the vernment money which they hold, was fully explained in the circular m Secrtary of the Treasury Shaw ued some weeks ago regarding the erations for the Panama pay- ts. The advantage of having ant portant matter of this kind settled advance is manifest, and it is for- ate that this course was adopted, ving as it has done, freedom from sudden or unexpected demands ing made on the depositary banks.—

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—Today's stock market was as stagnant as a pond, without inlet or outlet. It was only in stocks of minor grade, and which are usually obscure in the market, that the movements were distinguishable at all. There were a few advances of a point or more in this class. These advances gave the impression of firmness in the market, which would have been entirely without any tone. There were a few weeks in the summer of 1900 when the average dealings were near to the present level of dullness, but the dullness then was regarded as seasonable and probably temporary, and carried with it none of the profound discouragement which now pervades Wall street regarding any chance for better business in securities. Commission-houses do business at a loss, and the nominal price of stock-exchange seats show a sagging tendency, though no sales are reported. It is necessary to go back to the times prior to 1897 to find any exact parallel to the present feeling in Wall street. That was a time of a lifeless stock market, and idle millions of surplus reserves in the banks, and call loans were at nominal figures day after day. The fixtures of the date on or before March 25 for paying over the government deposits to be used in the Panama Canal payments opens the way for clearing up one of the uncertainties hanging over the market. The $16,000,000 paid over to the Panama republic, simply goes from one set of bank vaults and the sub-treasury into another bank vault, so that local bank reserves are the gainers to the amount of the payments to the sub-treasury. It has been allowed to be understood also that the Panama republic contemplates withdrawing only 20 per cent. of its payments from New York, leaving $4,000,000 for investment here. The transfer of the remaining $40,000,000 is expected to increase the remaining supply in New York both from transfers from interior government depositories and by payment from the sub-treasury. But the effect of the actual distribution to the canal company shareholders is a more obtuse problem in its effects. The accumulation of exchange already made by the bankers having the operation in charge and the proportion of Panama Canal shares already held in this country are the factors looked to to modify the effect of the payment. Bonds were steady; total sales, $1,035,000. United States 3's advanced ½ per cent. on call.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKET.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, March 3.—At the start, traders were bullish in wheat today, owing to reports of a drop in temperature in the Southwest, foreboding ill for the growing plant. Severe sandstorms in Kansas were also reported. Shorts at the outset were active buyers of the May option, the opening price of which was 1c higher, at 1.06@1.06¼. July was unchanged to ½c lower, at 94@94¼. A good commission house demand for July carried the price of that option up to 94¾@94¾. May advanced to 1.06¾. The reign of the bulls, however, was ended in about an hour. The pit crowd had become largely over-bought, and were eager to sell at every favorable opportunity. With the resultant declining tendency in the market, much long wheat began to come out. Many traders who had been supporting the market became convinced that the principal long interest had succeeded in dumping all of its holdings. Offerings became extremely heavy, and with almost no support prices declined heavily. Numerous stop-loss orders were reached, increasing the speed of the downward trend. Before the decline could be checked, May had declined to 96¾, an even 4 cents from the high point. July lost 3¼ to 3¾, selling down to 91¼. There was good commission-house buying of July on the break, and in consequence the price rallied slightly. May closed at 97 and July at 92¼. Corn was helped some by wheat early in the session, but as soon as that market showed a tendency to react, a decidedly weak feeling developed in the corn pit. May closed at 52¾, or 2 cents lower. July closed 3¾ lower, at 51¼. Oats showed weakness. The close was near the bottom, with May at 40¾@40¾, or 2 cents lower. July sold between 39@39¾, closing with a net loss of 1¼, at 38½. Provisions quickly fell in line with the weakness that was depressing the grain markets. Packers showed the greatest loss, closing 45 lower; May lard closed 22½ to 25 lower, and ribs were down 30.

[NEWS REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.]

TRIAL OF FAMOUS CASE BEGINS.

BOXALL ANSWERS MURDER CHARGE AT SAN BERNARDINO.

Testimony Introduced to Show that Revolting Accusations Brought Against Lloyd Were Admitted as Truth by Women Involved—Garcia Murder Case Dropped.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 3.—William Boxall was put on trial in the Superior Court this morning on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon upon his uncle, the late C. H. Lloyd, with intent to commit murder. The proceedings this morning embraced the testimony of John Ferre and his son, into whose wagon Lloyd leaped when escaping from the fire of his nephew, William Boxall. J. B. Frith and County Recorder Johnson also testified, telling in detail the horrible accusations made to them by Fred Lloyd against his father, the confession of their truth by Miss Nesta Boxall, Mrs. Horace Little and Margaret Boxall, and finally the circumstances when the capitalist was confronted with the charges, most of them unprintable. The case is heard by Judge Smith of Los Angeles.

The prosecution in the Boxall case rested this evening. In the introduction of evidence against the prisoner all reference to the late capitalist Lloyd's alleged criminal relations with his nieces, which was the cause of Boxall shooting him, was studiously avoided, making it incumbent upon the defense to bring out this ugly phase of the case to save Boxall from prison.

GARCIA CASE DROPPED.

The officers returned this morning from Daggett, where they were called to investigate the shooting of Pedro Garcia, who was killed in a saloon at that place. Garcia had money and lost it in the dives. He was one of fifty or more men in a saloon when, without any warning, several shots were fired, and he fell dead. No one could be found who knew anything about the shooting, and so the matter was dropped.

DODSON FREED.

William Dodson, who recently burned his way out of the jail at Barstow, where he had been confined for attacking a woman, was released from the County Jail this morning on instructions from the District Attorney, owing to the expense to the county which would be involved in an effort to convict him of any offense and the uncertainty of securing a verdict of guilty.

MAY CHEAT GALLOWS.

Trinidad Figueros, the alleged accomplice of her Porto Rican husband in the murder of a Chinaman at Needles recently, is critically ill in the County Jail with little chance of recovery.

ALLEGES DESERTION.

Marshal Shay has received a letter from Mrs. J. A. Olive asking assistance in locating her husband, who left her at No. 530 Fifth street, Los Angeles, with an infant child, taking all their money on the pretense that he was coming to San Bernardino for work and would buy a home here. The family arrived from Florida recently, the wife having no friends or relatives in this State. Nothing is known of Olive here. He has not applied for work as machinist at the shops.

THE TIMES IN SAN BERNARDINO.—A. W. Isenour, authorized agent, headquarters near cigar and news stand, N.E. corner Third and E. streets. Subscriptions and advertisements taken. The paper is not handled in San Bernardino by W. H. Eadie, nor in the store of L. D. Houghton. For fear of the bogieman (the walking delegate) these persons refuse to keep the paper for sale, thus weakly yielding to the bluff of the bogeotters and the threats of the local labor-unionists. Isenour, however, stands fast, the same as before, and independent citizens may always be served by him with their favorite journal.

SANTA ANA.

MRS. STEUCKLE SET FREE.

SANTA ANA, March 3.—The most forcible reason for committing his wife to the insane asylum, according to the testimony of Conrad Steuckle of Anaheim in the Superior Court today, was that she changed her mind about making a trip East to visit relatives. Steuckle had his wife arrested a few days ago on the charge of insanity, and her trial was held today. According to the testimony Mrs. Steuckle started East last week to visit friends, and when she had gone as far as Upland decided to come back. A report was circulated at the time that she had become insane on the way, and returned, laboring under the delusion that it was her duty to come back to prevent her husband from living with another woman. At the trial today, however, she appeared perfectly sane, and the examining physicians' findings caused her to be set at liberty.

COURT GIVES KARLS THE LIMIT.

NINETY-NINE YEAR TERM FOR RIVERSIDE MURDERER.

Union Prohibits Blacksmith from Doing Business—Mysterious Disappearance of a Woman—Patriotism Runs High Among Japanese Residents—Grand Jury Adjourns.

RIVERSIDE, March 3.—Although Alexander N. Karls was to have been sentenced tomorrow for the murder of Andrew P. Peterson, for some reason not explained he was brought into court this afternoon. Judge Noyes in passing sentence said that, personally, he was convinced of the man's guilt, and that if he had been a member of the jury he would have made it murder in the first degree, instead of the second. The court said Karl's efforts to commit suicide and his story about some man having the murdered man's horse in his keeping, were, to his mind, convincing proof of the man's guilt. The further fact that he was a fugitive from justice did not help his case, and although he had Christian parents (here Karls interrupted the court, and said, "Yes, Your Honor, I had good Christian parents, and they tried to bring me up right") he seemed wholly given over to crime. In conclusion, Judge Noyes said that while he could not sentence him for life, under the finding of the jury, yet that he would give him the equivalent, and he therefore ordered that he be confined in the State Penitentiary at Folsom for a period of ninety-nine years. As soon as the court adjourned, Karls was shaking hands with his attorneys, and, with a smiling face, he said "good-by, but this will only be for a few months." Knowing ones think he will either commit suicide or make his escape. Sheriff Coburn and Policeman John Baird started with Karls, heavily handcuffed, on the 5 o'clock train this evening for Folsom.

UNIONISM AGAIN MEDDLES.

Unionism has again made itself felt in this community. C. L. Brown, a blacksmith, concluded to open a shop. He put up a building on West Eighth street. When ready to open the establishment he found he would not be permitted to do business. The wholesale houses declined to sell him material, because he had failed to consult the "union." He is not a union man, and does not deem it necessary to ask consent of that organization, nor will he step out and let the union run his business. He has employed attorneys, and will see if there is not some recourse in law.

MRS. WRIGHT DISAPPEARS.

Mystery surrounds the sudden disappearance of Mrs. Anna Wright. Several weeks ago she left her trunk at a local boarding-house, expecting to send for it. Thus far no word has yet been received from her. Today Sheriff Coburn took possession of the trunk. The woman gave evidences of mental derangement before she left this city.

Every one of them wants to go, and those left behind greatly envy those chosen to go to the battlefields.

THE MOST RELIABLE TREATMENT.

I Accomplish More In One Week by Removing the "EXACT CAUSE"

Than can ever be accomplished by guessing through the mail.

Those who take my treatment are cured. Personal treatment and facilities adapted to the requirements are the foundation for quick and permanent cures. I wait for my fee until you are cured.

VARICOCELE—I cure in 5 to 6 days. Many men have treated unsuccessfully for varicocele. My treatment is painless and the results are complete and for ever.

STRICTURE—I cure the right way once and for all. I remove all urethral obstruction, inflammation and soreness, and restore the membrane to a healthy condition, usually in 10 to 15 days.

CONTRACTED DISEASES — Failure to quickly cure these conditions is due to harsh measures, which are the direct cause for chronic conditions. My treatment is the most cleanly and perfect known.

I cure Rectal, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Piles, Fistula and Blood Diseases, Wasting, Nervous and Chronic conditions causing functional derangement, impairing strength and vitality.

NOT BY MAIL.

MY TREATMENT is certain, absolute and sure, given in my own office and personally applied. I would prefer to cure those cases I treat than to attempt guesswork or uncertain methods which would follow if left to you. My treatment is the most effective known, and is not in common use.

Just Plain Truth

DR. O. C. JOSLEN, The Leading Specialist

After thoroughly investigating the current influences science has so far discovered I am of the opinion that my method marks the limit of medical possibilities in the cure of men's diseases.

So-Called Weakness

Weakness is merely a symptom of chronic inflammation of the prostate gland, which my treatment removes, thereby restoring strength and vigor.

I also cure Varicocele, Hydrocele, Stricture and Specific Blood Poison by my own original methods — different from those practiced by any other physician.

My fees are fair, my cures are permanent.

I will mail you free my pamphlet, "Live All Your Years a Man." Write for it. Consultation and advice free at office or by mail.

MEN

We are Specialists for Varicocele Hydrocele Stricture, Piles, Fistula Blood Diseases Contracted Diseases Loss of Vital Power Kidney and Bladder Troubles

Varicocele Cannot be Cured Without Detention from Work.

No man was ever cured of varicocele without stopping his work to be sure. We want our patients one year to guarantee a cure, but we will promise not to use a knife or any other surgical operation. We make the diseased tissue completely by painless operation known only to us. You can eat three times a day and sleep every night while under treatment. We can show you a hundred business men who will tell you from personal experience if the above is true. We will cheerfully refer you for banking and show you the proof of our cures here in the city for ten years' successful work with never a failure.

Contagious Blood Diseases.

May be inherited or contracted. While the system becomes tainted with the poison it may manifest itself in the form of sores; ulcers, sores, scrofula, eczema, stiff and painful joints, eruptions, copper-colored spots on the body, little pimples in the mouth, swollen and inflamed tonsils, loss of hair, decay of flesh and bones; if your symptoms are any of these, we invite you to take advantage of the treatment we offer, which will completely eradicate the least taint of poison from the system. You are cordially invited to consult with us in person, and we will give you such advice as will be for the best betterment of your condition. Our treatment has been perfected through twenty-one years' active work and is free from mineral poisons. It contains no injurious drugs of any kind, but goes to the very core of the disease and forces it out.

Stricture

Stricture can do more for stricture in less time with my improved, modern, painless method than could be done in months with the old, painful sound treatment. I can cure nearly every case in a few days, and by a cure I mean that the stricture will never give any further trouble. Remember, my method is entirely free from pain—and is certain in every case.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, 28 South Raymond avenue, March 3. Orange Grove boulevardiers mean business in their efforts to make the finest section of the city even more beautiful and comfortable. Yesterday afternoon the West Side Improvement Association was organized in the Board of Trade rooms, a set of by-laws adopted and directors elected. The object of the association is to encourage the improvement of streets and adjacent property, to beautify that section in general and to aid and promote all movements of the city tending toward the improvement of Orange Grove avenue and neighborhood. The district, residents of which are eligible to membership, is to be bounded by South Pasadena avenue, Columbia street, the bank of the Arroyo, or Arroyo View Drive, and Colorado street. A fee of $1 per year entitles to membership. The annual meeting is to be held the first Friday in March. There will be officers and an Executive Committee of five members.

TAPS CASH REGISTER.

A burglar battered in the rear door of the Model Grocery Company store at 25 North Fair Oaks avenue at 1 o'clock last night and tapped the cash register for $5. He was evidently a well-fed villain, for the well-filled purses were not molested. Manager W. Herlihy was notified and on examination said that nothing but the cash register seemed to have been disturbed.

The fourth of the Throop series of free public lectures will be given in the assembly hall of the institute this evening, March 7. Lieut. G. Ord of the United States Navy will deliver a lecture on what is attracting the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. He has just returned from Europe where he was detailed to observe exhibits from the great industrial nations of Germany and Austria. He will give especial attention to the military and naval displays and to the machinery exhibit, which promises to be the most extended ever attempted. The lecture will be illustrated by a large number of superb stereopticon views. Mr. Carden is sent out by the World's Fair Commission for the purpose of arousing interest in the undertaking. The lecture is free, and the public is cordially invited.

HORSE THIEVES.

The police believe a gang of horse thieves is operating hereabouts, which will be good news for owners of nags which they can't afford to buy. H. E. Warner yesterday reported the loss of a horse which is supposed to have been taken from his temporary barn with Dr. J. A. Wood in South Pasadena. A party of campers in a covered wagon are suspected. L. Leitz of Alhambra Park complains of losing a horse which he hasn't seen since Monday.

SANTA CATALINA.

GREAT SPORT FOR ANGLERS.

AVALON, March 3.—The Bay of Avalon presents a summer-time appearance, and fishers are almost as numerous as at the height of the season. The yellowtail, contrary to custom, have remained here throughout the winter, and are now furnishing great sport to the anglers. C. E. Harbaugh of Cleveland, O., out with John Roberts, took two yellowtail, ten rock bass and a drumfish. S. C. Smith, with a row boat, took three yellowtail, one weighing thirty-six pounds, and two of twenty-five pounds each, and six rock bass. Mrs. B. W. Merrill went out yesterday afternoon and took a twenty-five pound yellowtail, and this morning duplicated it. A dozen other persons took from one to three fine fellows each.

Mrs. B. C. Church of Duluth, Minn., took what is probably the woman's record yellowtail this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Church have been indefatigable fishers for three weeks and have had great luck. This morning Mrs. Church landed a yellowtail weighing twenty-two pounds and soon after hooked a big fellow that kept her busy for nearly half an hour, and when landed it was found to weigh forty-three pounds.

DIGGING INTO THE PAST.

Catalina has had a visit from Prof. F. W. Putnam, director of the Department of Authropology of the State University at Berkeley. For several years the University of California, through the department represented by Prof. Putnam, has been engaged in an ethnological and archaeological survey of the State, and a large amount of material, illustrative of Indian life and culture in the past and present, has been collected, which will be preserved in the university museum.

AZUSA, March 3.—Lafayette D. Woodworth died at his home near Irwindale Wednesday evening, after a brief illness, of pneumonia. A few hours later his son, Joel N. Woodworth, also died. The younger Woodworth, who formerly resided at Sioux City, Iowa, but has for several months past made his home in Los Angeles, was called here last week by his father's illness and immediately upon his arrival was taken with an acute attack of typhoid pneumonia, resulting in his death.

CARS ARE SCARCE.

Orange shipments this week have been much curtailed owing to the scarcity of refrigerator cars.

Recent reports from the mountains show that last week's rainfall, which measured an inch and a quarter at Azusa, was nearly three times as much at the Power Company's intake, some ten miles up the canon.

CLAREMONT.

COLLEGE TOWN NEWS.

CLAREMONT, March 3.—The College Lyceum met last night to debate the question, "Resolved, that Public Opinion is Stronger than Law." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Dwight and Johnson. The negative won, supported by Messrs. Kepner and Bent.

Mrs. N. R. Richardson of Long Beach has just sold four lots on the southwest corner of College avenue and First street, to A. P. Condit.

WHITTIER.

BEAUTIFYING RESERVOIR HILL.

WHITTIER, March 3.—Today thirty-five members of the Woman's Club spent the morning on Reservoir Hill, which they hope in time to make into a pretty little park. Drives have been laid out, paths will be graveled and terraces and slopes planted with flowers, trees and shrubs. Today's work was the setting out of a thousand geranium slips, and the sowing of flower seeds. The drive around the top of the hill has been outlined with pan palms, and many other ornamental trees will be put on the slopes. The club has received several donations for this purpose, and the City Council has had the ground carefully prepared by landscape gardeners. Among the other contemplated improvements for the hill is a fountain and a children's playground.

SALE OF SCHOOL BONDS.

Whittier people are rejoicing over the sale of the Union High School district's $75,000 issue of school bonds to the State this week at a premium of $622. The cash will be available for use in about ten days.

FERNANDO.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE.

FERNANDO, March 3.—A debate between the Fernando Union High School and the Long Beach High School will take place on the evening of March 11, subject "Resolved, That the occupation of Manchuria by Russia would be of more advantage to civilization than the occupation by Japan." Miss Catherine Hubbard and Harry Lawrence of Fernando will discuss the negative.

VARIOUS NOTES.

C. D. Hubbard today sold for the Rolfe estate ten acres, one-half mile west of the mission, to Albert and William Lendorff. The Lendorff brothers will establish a large chicken ranch on the property, devoted exclusively to the raising of thoroughbred White Wyandotte and Plymouth Rocks.

W. E. Wilson, foreman of the Porter Land and Water Company, will soon leave Fernando for Exeter, Tulare county, to take charge of the Moore ranch.

Postmaster E. L. Brown has broken ground for a new residence on Cells street.

Burglars entered the billiard hall of Pico & Prister and looted a slot machine, getting away with about $40.

The Mackay Rancho Water Company's olive plant will close down this week. The company has put up over 13,000 gallons of pickles and about 2000 gallons of olive oil. This has been a very successful season and some of the growers will realize over $800 per acre gross for their fruit.

The Farmers' Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of the Rev. Dr. Monroe.

The Orange Growers' packing-house, which has been shut down for a few days, is running full force.

HOLLYWOOD.

CAT CAUSES SERIOUS FALL.

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Mrs. Bernard Deslin, mother of Mrs. William Code of Whitley avenue, met with a painful and possibly fatal accident this morning at the family residence. While passing from the rear of the house to the yard, she stumbled over the family cat, which was lying on the steps, and fell, striking her head on the cement pavement. Dr. Palmer attended her, and discovered a fracture near the base of the skull. Mrs. Deslin is nearly 70 years of age, but has a vigorous constitution, and it is hoped she will recover. Her daughter, Mrs. Code, is in Arizona, but has been summoned home.

Mrs. H. J. Whitley and daughter have gone to Coronado for two weeks.

Petitions are in circulation for signatures asking the City Trustees to place electric lights on all the streets of Hollywood.

LONG BEACH.

DISPUTE OVER SEWER.

LONG BEACH, March 3.—There is a conflict between the City Trustees and Contractor C. L. Powell, who constructed the second section of the outfall sewer. Inspector Kelliher says the work is incomplete, and has been shirked in several particulars, to which the contractor retorts that the inspector neglected his duty. The trouble was discussed this afternoon by the City Trustees, and it was agreed that City Attorney Baker and Attorney McCutchan who represents Powell, should select a disinterested sewer expert, who is to pass on the work, both parties agreeing to abide by his decision.

Contractor E. L. Plantico will begin work next Monday on the lateral sewers in districts Nos. 1 and 2, employing about fifty men. He expects to complete one district in the business part of town in four weeks, and the other in two months.

BOATMAN SOLD LIQUOR.

In City Recorder Chapman's court Monday a jury found Clayton Lybarger, a boatman, guilty of violating the liquor ordinance. His offense consisted of volunteering to get some whisky for a passenger who was afraid of becoming seasick. The passenger proved to be a private detective in the employ of the Anti-Saloon League, who repaid Lybarger's kindness by filing an information against him. After overruling a motion for a new trial, the Recorder fined Lybarger $75. An appeal will be taken on the ground that the ordinance does not cover the case.

WATER-PLANT TALK.

There is talk of a municipal water plant for Long Beach. Since the two water companies have come to an agreement on rates, fear is expressed in some that they may go higher. A number of taxpayers who opposed the projected electric-lighting system now favor the establishment of a municipal water plant. But no project for establishing such a plant has taken tangible form as yet. What develops will depend largely on the acts of the company, between whom "agreement" has been reached, and just how much that "agreement" means.

SEASIDE NEWS BRIEFS.

A novel entertainment to be given under Board of Trade auspices is planned for the near future, it being a minstrel show, to be arranged by ladies under the leadership of Mrs. Mariam Eskridge and Miss Killiam of Los Angeles.

A newcomer in Long Beach is C. F. Mehrs, a jeweler of Silver City, Iowa, who enjoys the distinction of having built what is said to be the smallest steam engine in the world. It is complete in details and weighs a penny-weight. It has been on exhibition at two world's fairs, and taken special premiums. Mr. Mehr comes to the Coast in search of health.

Manager A. J. Wallace of the Seaside Water Company has sold the Parker home on Cedar avenue to Superintendent W. L. Porterfield of the Home Telephone Company. It is one of the finest finished residences in the city, and will be occupied by the new owner at once.

The Pomona, a twenty-four-room tenement, located near the corner of Chestnut avenue and Second street, was sold Tuesday to A. Tipsy of Central Kansas; consideration named, $12,000.

A revision of estimated losses of yesterday morning's fire on American avenue places the aggregate damage at about $5000. The loss of the Long Beach Hardware Company is at least $2500, damage to the Horn building about $1000, and to Swift's grocery store, oil house, delicacy store, five-room dwelling and to Mrs. Van Vleet's rooming-house at least $1500.

"A fool and his money are soon parted," but the wise man takes his money and earns more with it by advertising in The Times. Telephone your wants to Main 501, and our Long Beach agency will take your ad. and send it to the main office.

SAN DIMAS.

HIGH SCHOOL BONDS CARRY.

SAN DIMAS, March 3.—Voters of the Bonita Union High School district by a large majority today authorized the issuance of $30,000 bonds for a High School building and site. The common school districts in the High School district are San Dimas, Lordsburg and La Verne. The trustees of the district have an option on a twelve-acre site in La Verne, which they may buy for $1500. There were 121 votes cast for the bonds and 21 against them. The opposition, which, it had been expected would be active, was almost dormant today. Those who favored the bonds turned out with automobiles and made the day an exciting one.

Hayes have been appointed to the board of stewards.

Rev. J. W. Poole, who recently came here from Kansas, has accepted the pastorate of the Holiness Church.

DOWNEY.

Monday he appeared before Justice of the Peace Phillips for trial and plead guilty. He was sentenced to sixty days in the County Jail. This is the second time he has been in trouble. He served a term of eight months for implication in turning a harrow down on a sidewalk, teeth up, causing serious injury to a person who fell over it.

TROPICO.

TRACK LAYING BEGINS.

TROPICO, March 3.—A band of Indians and Mexicans with their squaws, papooses, dogs and parrots, arrived last night. There are forty-five men in the band who will proceed to lay the ties and steel rails on the right of way just completed for the Los Angeles, Tropico and Glendale electric street railway. A single track will be laid to Glendale and a double track back to Tropico. From Tropico track laying will proceed west toward the river. A force of 125 men will be added to the present band the latter part of the week.

OCEAN PARK.

OFFICER HURT BY BULLET.

OCEAN PARK, March 3.—Burton E. Geer, the deputy constable who was shot in the arm last night, returned to his home in Los Angeles today. Geer was guarding the Neff bakery, which is under attachment. He had been sleeping in the store, and last evening about 9 o'clock received a flesh wound in the arm. The report is given out that the shooting occurred in an encounter with a burglar who was attempting to rob a bankrupt bakeshop. How the accident happened is not known, but it is the general belief that one of the constable's revolvers was accidentally discharged.

WILL TAX DOGS HIGH.

The Board of Trustees of Ocean Park met tonight in committee of the whole and decided to enact an ordinance imposing the maximum license on dogs. The shooting of firearms within the city limits will be prohibited. Bicycle riding on the sidewalks will be regulated. A pure food law is under consideration. BUSY FEBRUARY AT SAN PEDRO.

BUSINESS OF PORT SHOWS SATISFACTORY INCREASE.

Record of Arrivals and Amount of Cargoes—Power Yacht Nellie Libeled for Small Claim—Cars Laden With Coal Run Off Track—Pipes for Gas Works.

SAN PEDRO, March 3.—The report of the local customhouse for the month of February shows the arrival during the month of 62 steamers, 23 schooners, 2 barkentines, 1 bark and 1 ship; a total of 90 vessels. In addition there arrived 2 revenue cutters and 1 British cruiser. The net tonnage of these vessels was 36,469 tons and they carried crews of 1332 men. These vessels brought 21,686,000 feet of lumber, 7,462,000 shingles, 253,000 shakes, 2,360,000 laths, 2439 poles, 2086 piling, 3600 tons of coal, 101 tons of asphaltum, 5439 gallons of wine and 461 tons of merchandise. Of passengers 4873 arrived and 5132 departed and 539 tons of merchandise were exported.

Receipts of lumber figured at the wholesale price would amount to $556,000 for the month. The receipts show good increase over the corresponding month of last year, about 2,000,000 in excess of that time.

Excellent progress is made in discharging the 3600 tons of coal brought by the large steel ship Bangalore, and it is expected she will be out by the end of the current week.

POWER YACHT LIBELED.

Deputy United States Marshal Traeger this afternoon libeled the power schooner Nellie on account of a claim filed against the yacht for $71.61 by the Southern California Lumber Company for material and lumber furnished between July and October 1903.

The Nellie is of 41 tons and is well known among yachtsmen in this locality. She is owned by W. J. McGimpsey and Erasmus Wilson of Los Angeles. It is stated that the yacht is mortgaged for $7000, probably all she is worth.

WILL FIGHT CLAIM.

It is probable that the libel suit against the schooner William Nottingham, Charles Roos, master, by the Crescent Wharf and Warehouse Company, yesterday for $125 will not be settled without a fight. Capt. Ross states that the dockage charges of the Crescent Company are exorbitant and in addition says he has a counterclaim for $54 for use of his donkey engine in the discharge of lumber.

SEAPORT NEWS.

Four cars of coal which had been loaded from the ship Bangalore at the Southern Pacific wharf ran off the track this afternoon while being switched, and narrowly escaped plunging through the wharf. Several of the heavy boards and timbers of the wharf were splintered, but not enough to allow the cars to fall through.

Among the fishermen who fish for the wholesale market it seems to be either a "feast or a famine." Last week local dealers could hardly handle the amount of large catches brought in, while this week no fish are taken. Today the launches Borcich and Columbia returned empty handed and the fleet of sailing vessels came in with very light catches.

The Edison Electric Company has a large force of men at work putting in pipes for the gas works. The engines and boilers are on the ground. The company will be ready to supply San Pedro with gas by May 1.

RUSSIA SUMMONS RESERVES.

Her Full Strength to be Mustered Against the Japs, Who Are Arousing the Manchurians' Hostility.

The Mikado's Forces Pressing Forward to the Attack. One Hundred Thousand Have Landed in Korea. Port Arthur is Reported Blocked.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The summoning of her reserves today by Russia is regarded as an important move by the military authorities here, and indicates, they say, that Russia realizes the great task which she has before her.

Dispatches from independent sources indicate that Japan is pressing her forces forward to attack the Russians in Southern Manchuria before the Czar's troops can be sufficiently concentrated to successfully resist the onslaught.

Japanese troops are being rushed in Northern Korea and through Chinnampo, which is much nearer the northern base than Chemulpo, and it is reported that a big force is to be landed at Yinkow, taking the Russian fleet, while the main body invades Manchuria from the south.

HUNDRED THOUSAND LAND.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VLADIVOSTOK, March 2, Via. St. Petersburg. (Delayed in Transmission.)—According to information received, forty Japanese transports, escorted by the entire naval fleet, have been energetically landing troops in Korea at Chemulpo and Fusan. It is estimated that fully 100,000 men have disembarked and it is supposed that an immediate advance on Northern Korea is contemplated.

From the fact that the Japanese fleet is thus employed, it is felt that no immediate attack on Vladivostok or Port Arthur would be made. The Russian landing of 2500 troops at Song Chin on the northern coast of Korea has been confirmed.

The rumor that a quantity of transport material and 90 tons of salt fish have been discovered laid away in secret places in the neighborhood of Nikolsko, is confirmed. They were apparently for the use of the Japanese forces toward the end of the summer.

PORT ARTHUR IS BLOCKED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch]—The Sun's Sebastopol correspondent says that Admiral Skrydloff, commander-in-chief of the Russian Black Sea fleet, has received confirmation of the statements that the entrance to Port Arthur has been blocked to the extent of imprisoning the Russian battleships. Therefore, while the Japanese invest the outer roads, the Russian cruisers and torpedo-boats have no hope of success should they attempt a sortie.

IT IS THE RETVIZAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 5.—Little change in the Far Eastern situation is reported this morning. It is apparent that the Japanese are busily engaged transporting their forces into Korea, and this work is facilitated by the enforced inactivity of the navy. According to the Sebastopol correspondent of the Daily Graphic, Admiral Skrydloff has learned privately from Port Arthur that the Russian battleship Retvizan lies in such a position as to block effectually the exit of battleships from the harbor, the passage being practically open only for cruisers.

The correspondent adds that Russia's new battleships now building on the Baltic will be ready for active commission before the end of August.

CORNER ON WELSH COAL.

The Japanese officer who has charge of Japan's financial and commercial interests in England declares that his government foresaw the possibility of coal being declared contraband of war, and that it been contracting large shipments of Welsh coal for years, so that today it had a supply of Welsh coal for the use of the navy for years.

The recent Japanese elections resulted favorably to the ministry without greatly altering the strength of political parties. The returns are approximately 130 Constitutionalists, 96 Progressives, 90 without party and 83 members of the small group.

QUIET AT VLADIVOSTOK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VLADIVOSTOK, March 4.—All is quiet here. No Japanese warships have been seen since Feb. 25, when ten ships were sighted on the horizon, but soon disappeared. The inhabitants continue to leave Vladivostok for Nikolsk, Kharborovosk or Europe. There are no signs of spring. The ice is heavy and the cold severe.

EXPEDITING FORWARD MOVEMENTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, March 4.—Information received from official sources in Korea confirms previous reports to the effect that Chinnampo is free from ice, that the Japanese have ceased debarking troops at Chemulpo, and that they have taken advantage of the opening of Chinnampo to land troops there, thus expediting the forward movement.

Official advices from St. Petersburg confirm the reports that a decisive movement is anticipated on the part of the Port Arthur squadron, now that Admiral Makaroff has arrived there, that torpedo boats especially will be brought into play, and that in spite of reports to the contrary, Russia is understood to have an ample supply of torpedoes for these crafts.

SUPPLIES FOR VLADIVOSTOK

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOKIO, March 4.—It is evident that several vessels, laden with coal, provisions and other contraband articles, have recently effected the passage of Tsugaru Straits and succeeded in reaching Vladivostok. Their exact number and names are unknown, and it is stated that they included British, Norwegian and German vessels. Two of them are said to have carried cargoes of Australian coal. Japan evidently refrained from making a special effort to prevent their passage, and it is not improbable that she calmly permitted the delivery of the contraband goods, calculating that they would prove useful to herself at a later stage of the campaign.

The Vladivostok squadron continues inactive, though it has an ample supply of coal and the ships are in good condition. It has evidently been instructed by the Russian government to remain close to the Vladivostok batteries in preference to risking a fight in the open sea. It is declared to be only a question of time before this squadron will receive the attention of the Japanese navy.

GERMANS HEAR PRO-JAP NEWS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Count Inouye, the Japanese minister here, privately informed several of his intimate friends in this city today that the Japanese army won a series of brilliant and important victories in the course of the past week, but that public announcement of these successes is withheld for strategical reasons. It is believed here that the Japanese troops have practically succeeded in isolating Port Arthur and in outmaneuvering the Russians in the Yalu region.

REPORT TWO WARSHIPS SUNK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A missionary at Tengchau, in Shantung, reports that, February 25, twenty-eight Japanese castaways landed there. They said they were from a large war vessel which had been sunk between Port Arthur and the Miastau group of islands as the result of an action with a Russian ship. The Russian warship, these sailors told the missionary, was destroyed by their ship and was the first to sink. Two hundred Japanese were rescued by a Chinese junk. None of the Russians were saved.

JAPANESE NAVAL EXPEDITION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A large fleet of Japanese transports was sighted yesterday off the Island of Fupima, which lies between Nagasaki and Fusin. The transports were convoyed by several warships. Evidently they were proceeding to some port in Eastern Korea. This indicates the formation of a military advanced base, while Fusin will be the landing base.

BY FIRE OR FLOOD.

Record of Hot, Cold or Wet Propositions Handed Out to Humanity from Montana to New York—Convalescence of the Elements.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OKLAHOMA CITY (O. T.) March 4.—Three persons perished in Wednesday night's prairie fire, and the financial loss is estimated at $500,000. The dead:

W. H. MOYER, near Walter; overcome while fighting fire.

DR. HARMON, near Lawton; burned to death in his stable.

Unknown boy, near Lawton; body found on prairie; burned to a crisp.

Further reports of property loss by both fire and wind indicate that the first estimate was too low. The damage by wind extends over seven counties in the Southwest. The total losses from fire and storm can as yet only be estimated, but it is the general opinion that they will reach $500,000.

Hastings, Leger, Walter, Olustee, Granite, Elk City, Cache, Temple, Snyder, Willow, Bloomington, Sayre and Mountain Park all report damage by wind both in town and surrounding country.

Scores of persons are suffering from burns and broken limbs. At Elk City, three members of the family of M. S. Watts were seriously injured by the demolishing of their home in the hurricane.

The area from which reports of damage by wind come covers a hundred miles square, and so means of communication over the district are meager. This difficulty is increased by the fact that poles are burned and wires blown down.

The little town of Francis, west of Mangum, was destroyed by fire, but no particulars are given.

RESIDENCES DEMOLISHED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

HOBART (Okla.) March 4.—Reports continue to come in of damage done by the prairie fires and windstorm in Kiowa and Comanche counties. Three residences at Snyder, a small town near here, were demolished and seven persons were injured, none, it is believed, fatally. At Mount Park, several houses were demolished and half a dozen persons injured, none seriously. A strip of six miles wide and nine miles long burned twenty miles south of Hobart. The loss in the Kiowa country will exceed $150,000.

LOSSES IN KANSAS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) March 4.—Reports of losses from the prairie fires in Kansas continue to come in, although the fires have burned themselves out. Near Holland, six members of the family of John McClure, a farmer, were burned, none fatally. At Holland, the United Brethren Church and several small buildings were destroyed.

IN INDIAN TERRITORY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GUTHRIE (Okla.) March 4.—Specials from Indian Territory tell of fierce winds and numerous fires on Wednesday night. Ardmore, I. T., reports property loss of $270,000 by fire in the country near by. No loss of life is reported.

WATER LEAVING PITTSBURGH.

CREST OF FLOOD PASSES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—The crest of the flood reached here this morning, when the Herrs Island mark showed 29 feet, 1 inch in the Allegheny River at that point. The water is now slowly receding and no further danger is apprehended, the cold wave having checked the rise. The damage done probably will not exceed $250,000.

Along Pine creek and in the Turtle creek valley, especially, the havoc was beyond any done in recent years. Industrial establishments along the two rivers were compelled to close down and thousands of men were thrown out of work. The railroads of the district suffered to an unusual extent. So far as known, there were no lives lost.

FUEL SUPPLY CUT OFF.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CLEVELAND (O.) March 4.—With a temperature of only a few degrees of the zero mark, thousands of people dependent upon natural gas for fuel, suffered intense cold today because of the washing away of the gas mains of the East Ohio Gas Company, leading from this city to the West Virginia gas fields. Manufacturing plants have closed down until the mains are repaired. Similar conditions prevail at Akron and other towns.

COLD STOPS FLOOD DANGER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOLEDO (O.) March 4.—The cold wave has postponed all immediate flood danger at Toledo. The up-river fords are frozen and the waters held by them will remain until a thaw.

COLD IN NEW YORK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—A severe gale is sweeping through the city. The temperature fell 12 deg. in four hours—from 40 at 8 o'clock to 27 at midnight.

THREE TRAINS BURIED.

SOME SNOW IN MONTANA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LEWISTOWN (Mont.) March 4.—Somewhere between here and Lombard, nobody knows just where, three trains—one a freight and two mixed passenger and freight—have been buried in snow drifts for two weeks. For three weeks, the road to Lewistown, the famous "jawbone" road of Central Montana, running 115 miles through Fergus county, has been completely blocked. Snow plows, with big gangs of men, have been bucking the drifts night and day but snow falls almost daily.

It is probable the missing trains will not be reached until a thaw sets in. The two mixed trains carried about twenty passengers. The crew of the freight train managed to reach Harlowtown and procure provisions and it is believed the snowbound passengers on the other trains have succeeded in reaching some of the ranches, where they are being taken care of.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Moderating weather was the portion of Chicago today. A further rise is predicted for tomorrow. The minimum today was 19 and the maximum 34 deg. Middle West temperatures at 8 p.m.: Cincinnati, 34; Cleveland, 22; Concordia, 46; Davenport, 34; Alpena, 12; Bismarck, 34; Cheyenne, 42; Denver, 60; Des Moines, 36; Detroit, 24; Dodge City, 46; Dubuque, 34; Duluth, 8; Edmonton, 34; Escanaba, 16; Grand Rapids, 28; Green Bay, 20; Huron, 38; Indianapolis, 32; Kansas City, 40; Marquette, 16; Memphis, 44; Milwaukee, 26; Minnedosa, 10; North Platte, 48; Omaha, 40; Rapid City, 38; St. Louis, 36; St. Paul, 28; Sault Ste. Marie, 10; Springfield, Ill., 34; Springfield, Mo., 40; Wichita, 46.

CHICAGOANS IN REVOLT.

For the first time since March 3, 1843, 3000 residents of Chicago have become tired of the municipal government, and will ask that the Council place their homes outside of the city limits. The petition will be presented to the Council Monday evening. With no voice in the kind of municipal government maintained and no benefits received from the city, they determined to leave Chicago and cast their fortunes with the farmers or the nearby villagers. The section whose citizens desire to secede is three-quarters of a mile square in the extreme southwest part of the city. Just across the street to the west lies the village of Riverdale, with its paved streets, sidewalks and other municipal improvements, and for fifteen years the residents of the village have been making a jest of the conditions in the near-by section of Chicago.

JOHNSON'S NURSING PERIODS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BATTLE CREEK (Mich.) March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nursed the husband, was nursed by the wife and now is married to the widow is the unique record of Will K. Johnson. He was once nurse at a sanitarium here, but now is the husband of the widow of J. W. Sam, a wealthy real estate dealer of Houston, Tex. Sam came to the sanitarium two years ago for treatment. Johnson was assigned to his case, and Sam grew greatly attached to the young man. When Sam returned to Houston, he asked Johnson to go with him. Johnson fell ill, and Mrs. Sam nursed him. Sam died, and Johnson returned here. Mrs. Sam followed, and they were married Wednesday. They have left for Houston on the way to California, where they will live. Johnson is twenty-four and his wife fifty-one.

NEW WISCONSIN CAPITOL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADISON (Wis.) March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. La Follette will spend immediately $45,000 to repair and restore enough of the burned Wisconsin capitol to house the State government and will not call an extra session of the Legislature. This was the substance of a long proclamation to the people issued tonight. The contemplated new capitol will cost perhaps $5,000,000.

POOLROOMS CLOSE DOORS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The three big poolrooms of Louisville, after many years of successful operation, closed their doors tonight. A decision of the Kentucky Appellate Court upholding an ordinance in affixing a severe penalty for betting on races was the finishing blow. The ordinance probably will prevent betting at Churchill Downs this summer.

TERROR IN PRINTING TOWN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Continued attempts on the part of members of the Franklin Union of Press Feeders to send press feeders employed in shops of the Chicago Typothetae to the hospital or the grave have aroused the Employers' Association of Chicago to the support the Typothetae. Today at a meeting of the Employers' Association, the Franklin Union career of tyranny and bloodshed that has converted "Printing Town" into a realm of terror was discussed. It was decided to prosecute a search for offenders who are not already on their way to the bar of justice and to furnish united support to the Typothetae in crushing the bloody uprising of the outlawed organization.

WAR NEWS AFTER MIDNIGHT.

MIKADO TO KOREA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—The Emperor sent a personal dispatch to the Emperor of Korea, informing him that war had been declared solely in order to secure permanent peace in the Far East, and expressing deep satisfaction at the conclusion of the recent protocol, which would lead to increased intimacy between the two countries. His Majesty also thanked the Emperor and his two sons for their magnificient grants on behalf of the Japanese troops. Advices from Seoul agree in reporting signs of the improved attitude of the Koreans toward Japanese.

GUARDING AMERICAN MINES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Horace N. Allen, United States Minister to Korea, considered it necessary to send a guard of marines to the American mines at Unsan belonging to J. Sloat Fassett of New York, which were reported, February 27, to have been seized by the Russians. Sixty men have been sent to a spot 120 miles north of Ping Yang.

STATE DEPARTMENT ASTOUNDED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The State Department officials are astounded by the reports that Mr. Allen has sent a part of the small marine guard at his legation in Seoul to protect gold mine concessions near Unsan. Such an order to American troops to proceed through Korea into the very theater of war is declared to be at entire variance with the designs of this government, unless extraordinary circumstances have arisen.

"PROTECTION" FOR CHINESE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHEFOO, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Russian government has ordered Viceroy Alexieff, who is at Mukden, to make offer to Chinese of the willingness of Russia to protect the Manchurian Railway, providing troops, horses, barracks and supplies, on condition that China accords to Russia the permission to march troops through Chinese territory. The Chinese government is certain to refuse this disingenious offer.

INSURRECTION IN ALBANIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 5.—In a dispatch from Salonica, European Turkey, a correspondent of the Daily Mail says a fresh insurrection has broken out in Albania. The districts of Mitrovitza and Ipek are in open revolt, and the Turkish authorities appear to be paralyzed.

SUNKEN JAP CRUISER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4.—The following dispatch, dated March 3, has been received from Maj.-Gen. Pflug, commanding the Russian forces at Port Arthur: "All is quiet at Port Arthur and Yengtse. According to information given by witnesses, a Japanese cruiser, having three funnels, lies near Chemulpo, between the islands, having recently sunk there."

A correspondent of the Daily Mail, cabling from Chefoo under date of March 1, said among other things that he had seen a Japanese cruiser of the Niitka type, 2300 tons, beached at the entrance of Nam Yang Creek, which is fifteen miles south of Chemulpo. Japanese naval vessels of the Niitka type have three funnels.

ITEMS FROM HARBIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 5.—Telegraphing from Harbin, a correspondent of the Matin says a special staff of officers has started for Lake Baikal to meet Gen. Kuropatkin.

The Central Telegraph Office at Harbin will henceforth be closed to the public. The concentration of Chinese forces west of Mukden arouses suspicion in spite of the repeated declarations of China's neutrality.

Cossacks are advancing into Korea, where the attitude of the natives toward them is variable.

RETIRED FROM THE YALU.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 5.—In a dispatch from Tokio, a correspondent of the Times says: "Russians recently were conveyed to Possiet Bay from Vladivostok and crossed the Tumen River into North Korea. The Russian troops who hitherto have been south of Anju have retired north toward the Yalu River."

The martial law regulations published at Vladivostok February 9 betray great solicitude with regard to provisions. The objections of France to Japan's obtaining the Seoul and Wiju Railroad concession are met by the plea that the railroad will be required for strategic purposes.

RUSSIANS EASIER IN MIND.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4.—There exists high authority for the statement that Russia now has reason to feel more tranquil regarding the attitude of Great Britain. The real reason for the visit to St. Petersburg of Count Benckendorff, Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, while ostensibly to see his son off to the Far East, was personally to assure his government of his belief that the suspicions concerning Japan's ally were ill-founded, and that Great Britain, although standing by the obligations of the Anglo-Japanese treaty, would not move unless compelled to do so by the entrance into the Far Eastern affairs by a third power.

Count Benckendorff had a long interview with the Czar and Foreign Minister Lamsdorf, and the Associated Press learns that he convinced the authorities that Great Britain was acting in good faith. He conveyed assurances that the Anglo-Japanese treaty contained no secret clauses and that it was not directed especially against Russia, its sole purpose being, according to the dispatch, the preservation of the balance of power in the Far East, which might be threatened by another coalition such as followed the Chino-Japanese war and which resulted in the exclusion of Great Britain from further international settlement of Far Eastern questions.

The Associated Press is also credibly informed that the British and French governments have a thorough understanding, by which they have pledged non-interference. Russia now feels much more secure against European complications. The more moderate tone of the English and the Russian press during the past few days is regarded as additional evidence of a better understanding between the two governments.

JAPAN'S DESTINY IS WITH HER FLEET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "If Japan can maintain her supremacy upon the sea, there is no doubt that she will be victorious in the present conflict. As long as Japan can control the seacoast from Vladivostok to Port Arthur, she will be master of her own destiny."

This significant statement was made this morning by Eki Hioki, now first secretary of the Japanese legation, who arrived in Washington late last night. Hioki is one of the foremost of the younger Japanese statesmen. For years he has labored for the "open-door" policy in China, and, with Minister Conger and Consul-General Goodnow, has accomplished a great deal toward the commercial emancipation of the Chinese. He was one of the secretaries of the Japanese legation in Washington, in 1891 and 1892, and was Consul-General to New York for a long while. Briefly, he is a Japanese diplomat of the modern school, broad-minded, conservative and thoroughly patriotic.

"The victory of the Japanese fleet at Port Arthur or Chemulpo," continued Hioki, "will prove to be a master stroke of the war. We realize that Korea and Southern Manchuria are a long way off from St. Petersburg and Moscow, and that Russia will be unable to maintain an army of any great size in either of these two countries, unless she can keep them supplied with ammunition, equipment and provisions from one of the Siberian or Manchurian ports. It is claimed now Russia has 200,000 men at the front. Think, then, how much provision is necessary, particularly in winter weather, to protect the army from cold and hunger and disease. If Russia can maintain this army, she must exert every energy and every facility.

"If she attempts to increase this army, she will decrease her chances of victory, because more than 200,000 men cannot be supplied by the transcontinental railway. Then, too, the Chinese natives in Manchuria are restless, and have openly avowed their friendship for Japan. It will not take such a great force to attack the railway guard at some favorable point and destroy more track in an hour than Russia could repair in a week. With 200,000 Russians in the peninsula, their food supply cut off on the north and the Japanese navy in control of the sea, the result is obvious. That is why I say Japan need have no fear, so long as she is in control of the sea. At the same time we can increase our army and keep it well-provisioned."

"How large an army can Japan put into the field thoroughly equipped?" was asked.

"That is hard to say," replied Hioki, "as we have never been put to such a test, but I believe without difficulty we can outnumber the Russians two to one, if necessary."

PRINCE WAS INSANE.

Military Court Says Von Arenberg Was Not Responsible for Killing of Natives.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERLIN, March 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The military court of the First Guards Division, which yesterday began an inquiry into the sanity of Lieut. Prince Prosper von Arenberg, who is serving a term of imprisonment for the murder of a native suspected of being a British spy while commander of a station in German Southwest Africa, today decided that the Prince was mentally irresponsible when he committed the murder, and therefore declared null his sentence of death and subsequent commutation to fifteen years imprisonment.

The court listened all day to the reading of the testimony on which the Prince was convicted, dealing exclusively with the killing of native "Willy" Cain, who was arrested on the Prince's suspicion that Cain meant to assassinate him. The testimony showed that the Prince shot Cain with a revolver as the latter lay bound, and caused a soldier to run a bayonet through Cain's heart, the Prince himself taking the ramrod and twisting it around in the bullet wound, which was in the head.

A motive for the crime mentioned in testimony of private soldiers formerly under the Prince's command was his infatuation for a comely Damara woman, Yokbeth, Cain's wife, who had rejected his attentions. The Prince, after the murder, asked Yokbeth to enter his household and she replied:

"And see the murderer of my husband every day? No."

The Prince sat through the long sitting of the court, apparently unmoved.

The case excites the deepest interest in Germany, and a Socialist who heard the decision of the court said:

"That means 10,000 more votes for us."

ited States Circuit Court of Ap- s at San Francisco, Decides to Purge Mine Men, but to Them Subject to Order of ana Judges.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A. M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—The States Circuit Court of Ap- today decided not to purge of Capt. E. Augustus Heinze, Josiah ze and Alfred Clark, but to them subject to the orders of the Court of Montana. The opinion, by United States Circuit Judge Morrow and concurred in by Gilbert and Ross, was ren- in the noted case of Heinze et al. Butte and Boston Consolidated Company.

The matter decided was a writ of directed to the Circuit Court of and to review an order of that ding Heinze and his part- ity of contempt of court in an order of court permitting ection and survey of certain claims in Montana.

May 17, 1898, the Butte and Bos- Consolidated Mining Company a bill of equity in the Montana Court against the Montana Ore ing Company, Chili Gold Min- Company, John McGinnis, Ed- Whitmore and Carlos War- defendants, to enjoin them extracting ores from the Michael ine, of which the Butte and claimed to be the owner.

In justification of their action the defendants, but an in- which is still in force, was On October 1, 1903, the Butte Company presented a pe- to the court, stating that the in- junction had been violated. Heinze and his associates filed a denial. After several other legal proceedings, the case came to trial and Heinze and his partners were found guilty of contempt of court. From this order a writ of error was allowed.

In his opinion dismissing the writ, Judge Morrow said:

"The complainant is simply asking to be allowed to protect his own property and rights, and it would be a miserable failure of justice if the court has not the power to enforce obedience to its orders in such a proceeding.

"The conclusion we reach is that the judgment of contempt of court which the appellants seek to have renewed upon the present writ of error is a judgment in a civil proceeding; that it is remedial and coercive in its execution, and that it has been entered by the court for the purpose of enforcing the private rights of the complainant judicially determined in its favor, and that the appellants are subject to its terms and conditions. It follows that it is a judgment that cannot be reviewed upon this writ of error, and the writ of error is therefore dismissed at appellants' costs."

MEADOWS ESTATE IN COURT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]

SALINAS, March 4.—A contest commenced by a disinherited son, Frank Meadows, has been on trial for several days in the Superior Court, and the jury this afternoon rendered a verdict which stated that the testator, James Meadows, at the time that he executed the will and codicil, was unduly influenced by his daughter, Isabelle Meadows, against Frank Meadows, and that, owing to said influence, the will was void and invalid.

Hammond said he would not have the money until he sold the wood. The robber counted "One, two, three." Hammond then said "Shoot; I have no money." The man then lowered his pistol and ordered Hammond to drive on. Dann was next held up by the robber, who secured a gold watch worth $125, but Dann did not give up his money. Another man then came along and chased the highwayman, but, not having a pistol, could not continue the pursuit.

MORE PARADE DISPLAY.

Bebel Makes Long Speech in Reichstag, in Which He Criticizes German Army Maneuvers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]

BERLIN, March 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In the Reichstag, today, long speeches were made by Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader, and Gen. Von Einem, Minister of War, on military affairs.

Herr Bebel adversely criticised conditions in the army, and quoted military writers in support of his views. He maintained that the present system of army maneuvers was useless, and cited a military writer who had said that if the army was led in the next war as it was during the last maneuvers attended by the Emperor, the defeat of Germany would be unavoidable. Drill is a mere preparation for parade display; there is too much luxury in the army, and the frequent changes of uniform tend to increase this luxury, he said.

Herr Bebel referred to the maltreatment of soldiers, and said nothing was done to prevent it. He said the fact that the electoral prince of Saxe Meiningen had been dismissed from the command of the Sixth Army Corps immediately after issuing an order against the maltreatment of soldiers, had created a peculiar impression.

"I wonder," the Socialist leader continued, "that privates so seldom resort to self-defense. If I were maltreated as a soldier I could not control myself. I should say 'Here's a hazard for your life.'"

He attacked the administration of the army for suppressing the discussion of military questions in the press by officers on the active or inactive lists, and declared that army officers in France have full liberty of discussion.

Gen. Von Einem denied the right of the Socialists to say they are helping the army. Socialists, he said, enter the army with a spirit that fosters insubordination, and this is responsible for much of the maltreatment. He denied that the prince had been dismissed on account of his order against maltreatment and said:

"Whom His Majesty appoints as a corps commanded is a purely personal affair. I decline to speak of this matter, because I know nothing about it. Moreover, the Prince was not dismissed, but was made an inspector general. Officers of the corps are the highest class in the nation, because they are the educated flower of the nation."

At this remark, Herr Bebel shouted: "The highest class in the nation is the teachers."

Gen. Von Einem, continuing, denied that the German manuevers were worthless, and said that Lord Kichener was introducing similar maneuvers into India as a result of the experience gained at the battle of Omdurman.

BALKAN SITUATION SETTLING.

BERLIN, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The opinion in diplomatic circles in Berlin seems to be that the situation in the Balkans is improving and the suspicions of the powers, which have been aroused by the report of Bulgarian armaments have been set at rest by the assurances of the government at Sofia. FAIRBANKS ENTERS THE CAMPAIGN RACE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana is now a straightout candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice-President of the United States and has authorized his friends to do what they can to forward his candidacy. Senator Fairbanks has not made formal announcement of his candidacy yet, and probably will not do so very soon, if at all, but he has communicated his decision to become a candidate to all his close political associates, and he is squarely in the field.

This move was made against Senator Fairbank's own convictions, for he declares that he would much prefer to remain in the Senate than be a candidate for Vice-President, even with the certainty of election. His associates in the Republican party, however, have insisted so strongly that he be a candidate in the interests of the party that he has at last consented.

NOT FIT FOR CRUISERS.

Lieut. Rodman Testifies that Pearl Harbor Channel is Much in Need of Dredging.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A. M.]

HONOLULU, March 4.—[By Pacific Cable.] In the suit of Contractors Clark and Henry against the Oahu and Ewa plantations to recover $26,000 under an alleged agreement of the plantations to supplement the inadequate Federal appropriation of $96,000 for the dredging of Pearl Harbor Channel so as to open it to navigation, the deposition of Lieut. Rodman has been taken.

He makes affidavit that the channel was dredged according to the Federal contract; and completed, is 31 feet deep and over 200 feet wide, but is unsafe for vessels over 500 tons, on account of its tortuousness. He declares that $500,000 will be required to improve it to a condition equal to the necessities of war time. To enter it with the present channel, cruisers would have to use their twin screws, besides requiring the assistance of a tug. It is stated that if the plantations do not pay the claim of the contractors the harbor will not be opened to commerce.

NO HAWAIIAN EXHIBIT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A. M.]

HONOLULU, March 4.—It has been definitely decided that Hawaii will make no exhibit at the St. Louis Fair. The sum of $50,000, which the legislature appropriated for an exhibit, will be returned to the treasury and be used in relieving the stringency caused by a recent decision of the Territorial Supreme Court invalidating the County Government Act. The effect of the decision was to turn the management of all county affairs to the Territorial government. Gov. Carter states that an extra session of the legislature is probably unavoidable, as the treasury is unable to cash outstanding warrants.

Coroner Thinks Possibly Ten Bodies Are Beneath Wreckage of Collapsed Hotel.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A. M.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—That several bodies, possibly nine or ten, are still buried in the ruins of the wrecked Darlington Apartment Building, is the opinion of Coroner Scholer. Eight cement workers had been employed on the building, only three of whom have been accounted for, and nine or ten men had been working as locksmiths and lathers on some upper floors, for whom no account has been given. The work of removing the wreckage was continued today with the utmost energy.

TEACHING OF POLYGAMY.

J. Smith Tells Committee of Mormon Practices.

His Uncle Joe Inaugurated Plural Marriages.

McLachlan and the Postoffice. Isthmian Commission.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Joseph F. Smith of the Mormon Church was called to the stand by Senator Hoar at the opening of today's proceedings before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections. The Senator desired information on the subject of rights of women in the church, and whether they hold any priestly authority. Smith said women are regarded as the equals of men in all matters of voting, but that in "holding priestly office" women are not regarded on the same plane. He explained that the women have a charitable association known as the "Women's Relief Society," in which they have authority to perform certain prescribed duties. This authority is confined to the relieving of distress, but women are not ordained high priests, apostles or elders.

Tayler asked about M. F. Crowley, one of the apostles, and Crowley's talks on doctrine, and in answer to questions by Senator Dubois, Smith said Crowley was elected as an apostle in 1897. Reading from the Deseret News of June 25, 1903, regarding a speech by Smith at the Weber Stake Reunion, Tayler asked Smith if he was correctly reported in saying that the doctrine of plural marriages was a revelation by God to Joseph Smith, Jr., and to reject that would be equivalent to a rejection of God himself. Smith believed he was correctly reported, and when a list of names of those present, including Senator Smoot, was read, Smith said the list was correct. He declared that he would not have had the article published if he had been consulted. Pressed for a reason, he said that he was under injunction not to teach the rightfulness of polygamy, and that he had refrained from so doing in public.

Senator Hoar called attention to the fact that the speech was teaching polygamy in private to the important and influential gathering at the reunion.

Smith said his statement was merely to set right a matter of history in regard to the president who inaugurated the system of plural marriages.

"Some persons held that Brigham Young was the first," he said, "and I knew it was Joseph Smith, and I brought forward my aunt, Beaheba W. Smith, who had received the endowment from Joseph Smith at Nauvoo. She was the last living witness, and I took that occasion to refute a false statement. It was a matter of history and not a teaching."

Smith said he had avoided teaching polygamy, but that the manifesto had not in any manner changed his convictions on the question of plural marriages.

Senator Hoar asked him why he avoided practicing what he had held to be a divine command, and the witness answered it was because of the more recent manifesto stopping the practice. Senator Hoar persisted that, according to the witness's own statements the practice had not been stopped, and Senator Foraker interposed abruptly that the witness had gone over the matter fifty times, and he could see no purpose in the continued questioning along that line. Senator Hoar resented the interruption, and said Senator Foraker's statement suggested that he had asked one question fifty times and had received fifty answers. He objected to the inference, and when Senator Foraker arose to answer, he too, stood up. The two Senators faced each other in what threatened to be a serious clash.

Senator Foraker said the Senator from Massachusetts "could say what he pleased, of course, but I have not said he asked fifty questions."

"I accept the disclaimer from the Senator from Ohio," replied Mr. Hoar, but the aggressive manner in which it was said failed to relieve the situation.

After more heated words, Senator Beveridge, who occupied a position directly between the two, requested permission to ask a question. He said he wanted to address "Mr. Smoot" and immediately substituted the name "Smith." In the laugh that was provoked, both Senators sat down and the hearing continued.

Senator Beveridge desired to know whether the church considered that the laws were being obeyed when polygamous cohabitation had continued since the manifesto of 1890, and Chairman Burrows made the question more personal. He said: "You have said today that you were obeying the laws in not teaching polygamy since the manifesto was promulgated. Do you think you were obeying the law in having eleven children from different mothers since that time?"

"I obey the law so far as teaching is concerned. I have not said that I have obeyed the law in my practice. As I have said before, I preferred to take my chances with the law rather than to abandon my plural families. Polygamy has not been taught in the church by any of the officials. The church has obeyed the laws, even if I have not," said Smith.

Reference has been made many times to the revelation commanding plural marriages, and Senator Hoar said that although the ground may have been covered before, he would like to have it go on record in answer to this question: "When, where and how was the injunction in favor of polygamy received by the church? What I want to know is whether the practice is arbitrary, or merely permissive."

Smith explained that the revelation was made by Joseph Smith, Jr., at Nauvoo in 1842, but was not publicly proclaimed on account of the disturbance against Smith. This doctrine, he said, had been taught by Joseph Smith to Brigham Young and his associates and preserved by Young. It was taken to the Salt Lake Valley in 1847, and in 1852 was proclaimed by Young and accepted as a revelation."

"Does that answer your question?" asked Smith.

"It answers as to when and where, but not how," said Senator Hoar. "What I want to know is, whether the members of the church were compelled to practice the polygamous marriage, and if that is true, why it is that only 3 or 4 per cent. of the Mormons have practiced what has been declared to be divine command."

"DESTROYING" OF WIVES.

Smith called for a copy of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, and read a part of the revelation, which, he said, has been accepted in the nature of permission to take plural wives, and was not mandatory upon the members of the church. Other passages from the same revelation were read, particularly the portions which prescribe the manner of taking more than one wife. It was set forth that if one wanted to espouse a second virgin he could do so by obtaining the consent of the first, but that if the consent of the first was withheld, he was at liberty to proceed without it. It is set forth also that where the first refuses consent to share her husband with another woman she would be "destroyed."

Senator Pettus asked the meaning of the word "destroyed" in that sense.

Smith answered that she would be destroyed by the Lord, but that he was not informed "just how the Lord would go about it."

"Then it does not mean that the husband could destroy her?" Senator Pettus asked.

"No, never."

"I take it, then, that the question of getting a wife's consent to marry again might just as well be eliminated entirely?" said Senator Beveridge.

"Just as well," answered the witness.

Senator Overman asked Smith if he knew whether any one of the six polygamous apostles had disobeyed the law in regard to polygamous cohabitation since the manifesto of 1890.

"I do not know," answered Smith. "I only know that they were in the same status of polygamy at the time of the manifesto as I was myself. I do not pry into their family affairs. I am happy to say that I am not a 'spotter' or an informer. I am not a paid spy."

"Yet you might, without being a paid spy," persisted Senator Overman.

"I know nothing about it. As I have said before, I am not a spotter or informer," answered the witness.

The words "spotter" and "informer" were hissed, rather than spoken by Smith.

"Neither am I a paid spotter or informer," retorted Senator Overman, "yet I know that in my town people have children. I think you might answer that question without using the words 'spotter' and 'informer' in that manner.

"I beg the Senator's pardon," the witness responded.

Senator Dubois asked several questions direct and to determine the correctness of the statements that no more than 3 or 4 per cent. of the Mormons were polygamists, and said he believed he could show that a greater percentage of them had been convicted of the charge. He asked Smith how many of his predecessors had been monogamists, and Smith said he believed that all of them had plural wives.

"And I believe you said your successor to the throne had more than one wife?" said Senator Dubois.

"I wish to correct the Senator," responded Smith. "There is no successor to the 'throne.'"

Senator Dubois said he would withdraw the offensive term, that he merely wanted to ascertain that the successor had been determined upon and that he is now a polygamist. The witness admitted that this was the case.

Quoting from the New Testament, Senator Hoar said it is stated that there is a command that "a bishop shall be sober and have one wife——".

"At least one wife," Smith interrupted.

"Well, we don't construe it that way in our church," said Senator Hoar, amid laughter. "What I wanted to get at is this: Now, I know several bishops in our church who are bachelors. Do you regard it as a divine command that the bishops shall have one wife or more? What I want to know is how you construe that command."

"I believe the practice of polygamy was general among the Jews at the time the scriptures were written," said Smith. "I believe that it was commanded that a bishop should be a married man, because his duties made it necessary that he should be an experienced man."

(Here the chairman had to rap loudly to restore order in the committee room.)

Senator McComas took the witness in hand to bring out whether, as the head of the Mormon church, Smith had ever rebuked the apostles of the church for teaching polygamy since the manifesto of 1890, and Smith declared: "No member of the church has ever taught polygamy since that time."

"How about Apostle Grant?"

Smith asserted that the incident over which the anti-Mormon papers had made "such a hubbub" had been a declaration merely that Apostle Grant had two wives. That declaration, the witness said, had been made by Grant in a private speech, and he had not taught the practice of the system.

"What would you do if the principle of plural marriages was publicly attacked?" asked Senator McComas.

"We would defend it," said Smith.

When this point was reached, and as none of the Senators desired to ask any more questions of the witness, Taylor was instructed to put in the various documents and books which he desired to offer as exhibits. He said it would take him half an hour to read them, and the committee adjourned until afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

When the afternoon session opened, Taylor read from the book "Doctrine and Covenants" the first revelations of "Joseph the Seer" at Kirkland, O., in 1831, declaring that he had been chosen to receive revelations, and that none other should be chosen "until he is taken," and then to be chosen through him only. Many other extracts from subsequent revelations were read, including that relating to polygamous marriages and the authority to "seal for eternity" or to perform "celestial marriages." These passages were incorporated into the record as a part of the testimony.

The book on Mormonism by Brigham H. Roberts was next taken up and treated in the same manner.

Senator Hoar, in a lengthy statement, going over the testimony that had been introduced, said it would soon be known whether Taylor expects to controvert facts, as set forth by Smith, that there have been no plural marriages since 1890, but that those who had plural wives would continue to care for them.

"I expect to show," said Taylor, "that many plural marriages have been solemnized in Utah since 1890."

"And that Mr. Smoot had knowledge of them?" asked Senator Beveridge.

"Whether with his knowledge I cannot say. I cannot connect Mr. Smoot's name with every word I utter," said Taylor. "I expect to show that these marriages have been consummated among officers of the church and that Senator Smoot as a member of that hierarchy, must have had knowledge of the fact."

Many questions from the book called "Articles of Faith" were included in the record, among them one which declared "that the chosen of God has the same authority to teach His word and make commands as powerful as though they came from the Savior Himself."

This was read to sustain revelations to Joseph Smith, Jr., or his successors.

A pamphlet on the Thatcher episode by Edwin G. Woolley, was read, in which it was said that if Thatcher persisted in his candidacy for the Senate on a platform not in harmony with the wishes of the church, the logical outcome would be to cut him off from the church. It was stated also by Mr. Woolley: "It would be the same if any other person in the church should persist in running for office in contradiction of the wishes of the church."

Smith was then taken in hand by the defense, and questioned by Worthington. Worthington called attention to "an apparent inconsistency" in regard to the authority of more than one person to receive revelations.

Smith said that only the president could receive revelations, "for the entire church, though every member of the church could receive revelations for his personal guidance, provided they lived worthy to receive inspirations from God."

The last revelation received, according to Smith, was in 1882, and came to President John Taylor, calling two men to the apostleate.

"That is the only one in twenty-two years, then?" asked Worthington.

"The only one except the manifesto," said Smith.

AS TO THE BIBLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—"Why is it that the manifesto does not appear in the doctrine and covenants with the other revelations?" asked Worthington.

"It is an oversight, I should judge, I believe now, from what I have heard, that it should be in, and I certainly will use my influence to have it inserted in the next edition published," answered Smith.

"Do you amend the Bible by pointing out certain points that should not be taken literally?" asked Worthington.

"No, we do not interfere with the King James version of that book," was the answer.

"Do you contend that the Bible should be amended?" Tayler asked of the opposing counsel.

"Well, I do believe there are some things in the Bible," Worthington was saying, when Senator Hoar interrupted hastily with the statement that such discussion had no place in the hearing.

Worthington put into the record the manifesto and many other documents which had been ignored by Tayler, and then resumed questioning the witness.

Smith testified that the law making polygamous cohabitation a crime was passed by the Utah Territorial Legislature, which was overwhelmingly composed of Mormons, and that the constitutional convention was also composed to a large majority of Mormons, so that the laws of Utah legislating against polygamous cohabitation really were the result of the efforts of Mormons themselves.

Reference was made to the Evans bill which passed the Utah Senate March 8, 1901, and a few days later the House. This bill provided that no prosecutions for polygamous cohabitation should be instituted, except on complaint of husband or wife. The bill was vetoed by Gov. Wells.

Smith had said he was in favor of the bill, and was asked why.

"PEEPING TOMS" WORRIED HIM.

"Well, it was rather a personal matter with me, I was one of those unfortunate, or otherwise, men who had a numerous family, and we were made the prey of prying individuals who were continually spying into matrimonial relations. I thought if such a law was passed it would be a boon to myself, as well as a relief to those in a similar position and put an end to this continual 'spotting' of our private affairs. I spoke to a few friends about this bill, but to no members of the Legislature."

Senator Hoar asked a number of questions to determine the relative weight of revelations and the laws of the land when the two came into contact, and asked particularly in regard to the old revelations.

Smith said that with the old members it was the effort to uphold the laws, but with the younger ones—well, they were a little hard to control.

Bringing the question up to the later periods, Senator Hoar wanted to know what Smith would do if the revelations conflicted with the law.

"Which would you obey?" he was asked.

"With me, perhaps, the revelation would be uppermost," said Smith.

"Can you say 'perhaps' to such a question?" interrupted Mr. Hoar, severely. Continuing, he said: "Suppose you receive a revelation commanding your people to do something which would conflict with the law of the land? Which would they have to obey?"

"Whichever they pleased," was the reply. "There is no compulsion."

Then he read from one of the standards of authority: "Let no man break the law of the land, for he that keepeth the laws of God hath no need to break the laws of the land."

Smith, in answer to Senator Beveridge, said that under the discipline that had been maintained for the last twenty years, the people in the Mormon church would obey the laws rather than any revelation which might be in conflict.

"Which would you do?" asked Senator Burrows.

"I should strive with all my might to obey the laws of the land," said Smith, and he added, "but I should not like to be put into a position where I should be compelled to abandon my children. I could not do that."

Smith said that he had never received any revelations direct from God, but that if any should come, it might be by audible voice, inspiration known only or heard by himself, or, as in the case of Joseph Smith, Jr., who received the Book of Mormon in writing.

Senator Bailey showed a great deal of interest in the subject of the manifesto, and directed a number of questions to ascertain whether that was a revelation, or a proclamation provoked by the knowledge that Congress intended to interfere with the continuance of polygamous marriages. Smith said the manifesto was a revelation to President Woodruff.

Senator Dubois asked many questions to determine the effect of the revelation which was contrary to State laws, opening a new line of inquiry.

On account of the lateness of the hour, it was thought best not to go into the questions before tomorrow.

The committee adjourned at 4:40, until 10:30 o'clock tomorrow.

MR. CLAYTON'S FRANK.

NOT ABUSED BY DINWIDDIE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The sequel to the charges of the misuse of the franking privileges of the members of Congress by advocates of the Dolliver and Hepburn Original Package Bill, made yesterday, came just as today's hearings closed. Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, who had been charged with the misuse of Representative Clayton's frank by Duncan B. Harrison, representing the United States Brewers' Association, obtained permission to explain the affair to the committee.

Mr. Clayton, who is a member of the committee, interrupted Rev. Dinwiddie, saying he desired to repeat what he had said on the previous day, to the effect that if his frank had been misused by Dinwiddie, and this could be proved, he would prosecute him.

"What I want to know," he concluded, addressing Rev. Dinwiddie, "is whether my frank has been used in a manner in which it should not have been used, and I want to know if you did it. I had no remedy in the matter except to denounce the man if I can find him, and I want to know if it is you or Mr. Harrison."

Rev. Dinwiddie explained that he never had sought to frank public matter that did not bear on legislation or public matters in relations thereto. He read a statement prepared by his secretary, Miss Church, that the positive rule of the office of the Anti-Saloon League, as laid down by Mr. Dinwiddie and carefully observed, had been that only public documents, Congressional Records and extracts therefrom should be franked.

"And nothing has been sent out," continued the statement, "under Mr. Clayton's frank save the extracts from the Record, except in some cases a copy of the report recommending the passage of the bill. On other frankable matter, other franks have been used.

"I am perfectly satisfied," said Mr. Clayton, "and I say right here now that I do not believe Mr. Dinwiddie abused the use of my frank. And I believe all that boast of Mr. Harrison was made for the purpose of further prejudicing Mr. Dinwiddie before this committee."

CANAL COMMISSIONERS' TRIP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Admiral Walker, chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, conferred with the President today. At the conclusion of the conference, Admiral Walker said he had advised the commission by telegraph to come to Washington at their earliest convenience. He said he expected the commission would sail on March 22. If, however, all the members could not arrange their affairs so as to leave at that time, the commission would leave a week later.

Rear-Admiral Rixey, surgeon-general of the navy, is going to Panama to make an inspection of the sanitary conditions. No date has been set for his departure. The health of the marines and of the officers and men on the ships on duty in isthmian waters comes under the charge of Rear-Admiral Rixey, and he will make a careful investigation of the sites selected for camps. On his return, he probably will draft a report incorporating any recommendations he may see fit.

There are on the isthmus six surgeons of the navy already. One of them who has just returned, reports that the health of the men is excellent.

SAN DIEGO QUARANTINE.

APPROPRIATION FOR REMOVAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce today ordered a favorable report on the bill appropriating $200,000 for the cost of removing the San Diego quarantine station to a new site and equipping it with buildings and wharf in order to make room for the proposed naval coaling station on the present quarantine site.

Representative Daniels, Commander Jaynes and Surgeon Glennan of the Marine Hospital Service were before the committee to urge favorable action. The bill has already passed the Senate.

IT'S UNCLE SAM'S PROJECT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Discussion of State Department questions occupied the entire time of the Cabinet meeting today. The assurance is given that no important action regarding any of the subjects under consideration was taken. The project of laying a cable line from Japan to the Island of Guam is under consideration by this government, but no action has been determined upon.

It is said on trustworthy authority that neither the Japanese nor any other foreign power will be allowed to lay the cable now, or at any future time. Whenever a cable line is constructed between Guam and the mainland, it will be under the authority and jurisdiction of the United States.

ARIZONA'S SECRETARY OUT.

ISAAC T. STODDARD RESIGNS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Isaac T. Stoddard, Secretary of the Territory of Arizona, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted to take effect April 1.

Some time ago charges were filed against Secretary Stoddard. He was charged with promoting the incorporation of companies in Arizona, for which he received lucrative fees. In itself this was not contrary to the law, as the Secretary is entitled to the fees of his office, but when the Governor and Legislature of the Territory sought to curtail the Secretary's fees and to put his office on a salary basis, Stoddard, it is charged, endeavored to prevent the action, and not only refused to exhibit his books to a legislative committee, but it is said burned them to prevent their inspection. It is alleged that the fees of the office under Stoddard's system paid him about $50,000 a year. This fight against Stoddard became so spirited that he finally tendered his resignation to the President.

Today Senator Platt of New York talked to the President in behalf of Stoddard, who is a son-in-law of Judge Martin of the New York Court of Appeals. A decision had been reached, however, to accept the resignation, and the announcement of the decision soon afterward was made.

GEN. GRANT'S GRANDSON.

TO WED A FRENCH BEAUTY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. Algernon Sartoris, grandson of President Grant, has sailed for France to marry a famous Parisian beauty. For love of her he has joined the Roman Catholic Church. M. and Mme. Nouffiard of Paris authorize the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Jermaine Cecile, to Capt. Sartoris, the wedding to occur in June.

Mlle. Nouffiard is the granddaughter of the late Sir Charles Halle, the distinguished English musician. Her brother, M. Charles Nouffiard, is now Secretary-General of the French Congo territory, a position of high responsibility and trust. Mlle. Nouffiard is 22 years old, a pronounced blonde, petite, and described as altogether charming. She is a godchild of the late Comte de Paris.

Capt. Sartoris was born in Washington and educated in England. His residence is divided between this city and St. Louis. At the beginning of the Spanish war, he was appointed first lieutenant in the First United States Volunteer Engineers, and upon the request of Maj.-Gen. Fitzhugh Lee was made the latter's aide-de-camp.

GOVERNMENT CEMENT.

PLANT FOR TONTO DAM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Interior Department has decided to proceed with the erection of a government cement plant in the vicinity of the Tonto Basin, Arizona, for furnishing material for the big irrigation project there. This decision is the result of the rejection of the bids submitted by cement manufacturers, the government estimating that it can erect a factory and produce the cement cheaper than it can buy it from the manufacturers.

ISTHMIAN COMMISSION.

ITS FUTURE MOVEMENTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] While the programme of the new Isthmian commission has not been definitely arranged, the general plan has been laid down subject to modification.

This is for the members to sail March 22 or March 25 from New York and spend about one month on the Isthmus. Some of the seven members of the commission have never studied conditions on the spot, and they will wish to go over all the ground first; then they will need some time to digest their newly-acquired information. That is why a month has been arbitrarily set in the present plan for their stay. In anticipation of the possibility of a claim by the French company for additional compensation for work done since the offer of $40,000,000 was first accepted, the old commission at the last previous visit, comprising Maj. Black of the Engineer Corps, a younger army engineer named named Brooke, a civil engineer and a clerk remained, to keep account of what was done. The quartette made their headquarters at Culebra, and have reported weekly ever since. It is understood that they are also prepared to show what deterioration has taken place in the plant and property generally, as the result of the company's carrying on its work in a manner nearly perfunctory and with a small force.

LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE.

M'LACHLAN TALKS UP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At today's meeting of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, the bill to raise the limit of cost for the site for the new Federal building in Los Angeles was taken up for consideration, but the committee did not arrive at a conclusion, because no quorum was present.

Representative McLachlan was on hand, and told the committee how badly off Los Angeles is for additional postal facilities; how her postoffice business is booming faster than that of any town in the United States; how patient she has been in all this trying delay, and added that property in that city is booming so fast that if action is not taken right away, the United States government will be compelled to pay a good deal more two years or so from now to get land than at the present time. This line of talk seemed to make an impression upon the members of the committee, and the indications are that the committee will take favorable action on the bill at its next meeting.

O'Brien Going to Asylum.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Robert Manning, the War Department messenger who was shot by William O'Brien, passed a comfortable night. The indications are now that the wound is not dangerous as at first supposed, and Manning has a good chance of recovery. O'Brien appeared in Police Court today on a warrant charging him with assault with intent to kill Manning. Assistant United States District Attorney Given suggested that the man be committed to jail, and the jail physicians notified to confer with the St. Elisabeth Asylum authorities and report to the court. The court concurred in this suggestion, and the prisoner was sent to jail without bond, pending proceedings looking to his return to the insane asylum. He was on parole from that institution when he did the shooting.

SHE'S PROUD OF IT.

One of Five Surviving Wives of Mormon Leader, Says Polygamy Suits Her.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edna L. Smith, one of the five surviving wives of Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon Church, tonight gave an interview in which she emphatically endorsed all that her husband has said on the witness stand at Washington relative to polygamy, and added many other expressions from the standpoint of a woman. Her most noteworthy expression was:

"I am a plural wife and I am proud of it. I want all the world to know that I am positive that the doctrine of polygamy came to Joseph Smith, the prophet, as a direct revelation from God. I know this as much as I know that I am a happy woman, that the years of my life as a plural wife have been happy years; and that I have never once regretted the step I took in marrying Joseph F. Smith. I am proud that I am his wife, and the mother of some of his children."

Mrs. Edna Smith is a woman of strong personality and deep religious convictions. She is one of the most enthusiastic upholders of polygamy and other peculiar Mormon doctrines in the numerous family of Smiths. She was married to Joseph F. Smith in the early sixties, at the same time that her sister Julia was espoused by the Mormon leader.

Smith's first wife, Levina A. Smith, his cousin, always refused to accept the doctrine of polygamy, declaring that it was foisted on the Mormons for convenience. When her husband married the Lamson sisters, Edna and Julia, the first wife declared her independence of her husband, went to California, and there secured a divorce, naming the Lamson sisters as co-respondents. About the same time, Smith secured a church divorce from her. She is now dead. Smith married the Lamson sisters, with one ceremony on the same day in the Endowment House.

"This inquiry about Senator Smoot is nothing short of persecution," declared Mrs. Edna Smith. "It seems that the world will never tire of persecuting us; the whole world is in arms against us, but that does not make us abandon what we know to be the true gospel. Of course, I approve all that President Smith has said on the stand. How could he say otherwise when he knows the word of God?"

RATES TO GO UP.

Fire Insurance Men Alarmed by Great Losses in Baltimore, Rochester and Other Cities.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Fire insurance rates on risks in the congested districts of large cities are to be advanced, according to the Journal of Commerce. The great losses in Baltimore, Rochester and other cities have thoroughly aroused underwriters to the conflagration danger of important business centers throughout the country, and a committee of twenty was appointed by the executive committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters to discuss the whole subject of business risks.

After several meetings, this committee evolved a statement which was addressed to all members of the national board, embodying nearly all the insurance companies of importance in the United States.

The committee recommends that at the meeting of the board next May the entire subject shall be gone over thoroughly because it is one of vital interest to the business men of the country; that a sub-committee be at once appointed to define the boundaries of the congested districts of cities having a population of 100,000 and over and by expert opinion determine the relative danger of conflagrations in these districts by reason of defective fire department, water supply or of building construction; that this sub-committee shall fix for recommendation to the various rating associations a schedule for the advance of rates in such congested districts, and that a schedule be prepared by the sub-committee applicable to all congested business district, making uniform charges for area, height of buildings, as well as for vertical openings through floors and roof, open stairways, lack of standard fire shutters, blind attics, walls and floors not

LABOR.

TO PREVENT OVERTIME

One Distinctive Feature of Eight-hour Bill.

Daniel Davenport Addresses House Committee.

Mine Workers Come Down in Their Demands.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The House Committee on Labor today continued its hearings on the Eight-hour Bill. Daniel Davenport of Bridgeport, Ct., executive agent of the American Anti-Boycott Association, appearing especially for the Citizens' Industrials Association of America, made the principal argument against the bill. He briefly reviewed the eight-hour movement from a historical standpoint and read from the principles of the Boston Eight-hour League, which, he said, was the pioneer in the agitation to make an eight-hour work day," compulsory.

"The principal point I desire to call the committee's attention to in this bill," said Mr. Davenport, "and one which, to my mind, is the most obnoxious feature in it, is its terms, and this is something I am sure every one does not understand. It would rob the working man of the right to work more than eight hours a day if he wanted to; a right for which his father bled and died, and a right which is today as much as at any other time in the history of our government the foundation-rock of American freedom."

He said his former remarks had been published in all the papers of Bridgeport and that the beaming countenances of many workmen and congratulations he had received from them were highly pleasing to him.

"And," continued Mr. Davenport, let me say to you, gentlemen, if it will come to pass that any member of the union, when a job has to be done for the government, is told he cannot have the privilege of working overtime on this job, for overtime pay, he will resent it and resist it. I know I am speaking in the presence of those who claim to represent the sentiments of the workingmen, but the rank and file of these organizations do not understand that this is a bill to prevent overtime; but when they do, they will fight against it, to a man. If this bill is to be so amended as to eliminate the Sunday and other objectionable features, as I say, could be little harmed by the passage, but the great difficulty is with the proposal of such unreasonable legislation, which has thrown the committee into a morass of difficulty from which no amendment can extricate it; it simply goes deeper and deeper into the mire."

LABORITES ANSWERED.

At the conclusion of his argument, Mr. Davenport was subjected to a searching fire of cross-examination by the labor leaders present. Mr. Gompers, president of the International Association of Machinists, took issue and Mr. Schuntesis, chairman of the National Legislative Committee of the Knights of Labor Organization, followed a close second.

Mr. O'Connell called Mr. Davenport's attention to the fact that in his statements he had refused to disclose the names of members of the anti-boycotting league, saying the time he would explain why which he had not done. Mr.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

"The principal point I desire to call the committee's attention to in this case," said Mr. Davenport, "and one which, to my mind, is the most objectionable feature in it, is its terms, and this is something I am sure every one will understand. LABORITES ANSWERED.

At the conclusion of his argument, Mr. Davenport was subjected to a galling fire of cross-examination by the labor leaders present. Mr. Gompers, president of the International Association of Machinists, took the stand and Mr. Schusteis, chairman of the National Legislative Committee of the Knights of Labor Organization, followed a close second.

Mr. O'Connell called Mr. Davenport's attention to the fact that in those statements he had refused to disclose the names of members of the anti-boycotting league, saying that at the time he would explain why he had not done. Mr. Davenport, in reply, said that in view of the fact that there is a great organization known as the American Federation of Labor, with headquarters in Washington, with 1,200,000 members engaged in directing boycotting operations against different concerns, it was thought that if a man was asked to join the anti-boycott association it would be better to assure him that his name would be kept in business confidence so that he might not be exposed to criminal acts of the American Federation of Labor. This, he said, was the reason he felt in honor bound not to disclose a member of the anti-boycott association without his express consent.

Mr. O'Connell reminded Mr. Davenport of his having characterized the bill as socialistic in one of his previous arguments and asked him to point out the socialistic features and to define Socialism. In answer to this, Mr. Davenport said the principal socialistic feature of the bill was that it deprived a man of his right to sell his labor in quantities of more than eight hours out of twenty-four.

MARKETS DOING BUSINESS.
DESPITE BUTCHERS' UNION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OAKLAND, March 4.—Every meat market in this city was doing business today, despite the lockout of the butchers' union. In the non-union shops, which number all but four markets, the employers were at work with such help as they have been able to pick up. The quartette of union shops were also busy and the proprietors who have declined to join the Bosses' Association say they can hold and supply their customers.

CRIPPLE CREEK (Colo.) March 4.—Damage suits aggregating $300,000 growing out of the recent conspiracy cases against Sherman Parker Thomas Foster and W. F. Davis, union leaders, were filed against F. J. Campbell, owner of the Vindicator mine, today. Campbell swore to the complaint against the men. After a trial lasting nearly two weeks, the defendants in the conspiracy cases were acquitted. They now demand damages from Campbell. Another suit for $25,000 damages was brought against D. C. Scott by W. F. Davis, which is based upon damaging statements made by Scott on the witness stand during the trial.

CUT DEMAND IN HALF.
MINERS COME DOWN A PEG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) March 4.—The operators' and miners' sub-scale committee, shortly after convening today, took a recess to allow the miners' committee and officers to hold a conference. After the conference the sub-scale committee presented what they said was their ultimatum, cutting their demand in half, and asking for a two-years' scale at one-half of 12½ per cent. advance in wages given last year. This would be a reduction of 6 cents on a ton from the present scale and a decrease in other labor of about 6 per cent.

President Mitchell and F. L. Robbins, for the operators, said that a general joint session would be held tomorrow to receive the scale committee's report. If the terms offered by the operators are accepted or little changed a scale will be signed tomorrow.

THREE DAYS' BOMBARDMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—There has been a three days' bombardment of the Japanese of Port Arthur, according to a Herald dispatch from Chefu and timed at 8:30 o'clock this (Friday) morning.

The attack was kept up at intervals on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Japanese ships attacking the town were in action first at a distance of nine and three-eighths miles from the forts, and then they drew closer, their range being four and three-quarter miles.

AKAROFF'S TASK AT PORT ARTHUR

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The arrival of Vice-Admiral Makaroff at Port Arthur created interest in that much-talked Russian stronghold. It is believed that the Russian government has confidence in his ability to restore the former Muscovite prestige in the Far East, which, it is claimed, has been through the incompetency of Viceroy Alieff and Admiral Stark. One thing is certain, and that is that Admiral Makaroff will make some decisive move shortly, and some lively things are expected from his direction. It is reported that both France and Russia are doing everything in their power to prevent any entanglement in the war. Both countries are anxious to have the present era of peace between them continue, and are ready, in spite of existing circumstances, to do what they can to localize the conflict and preserve the peace of Europe. The tone of the Russian press, it is also pleasing to observe, is showing a more friendly feeling towards the United States as the later and true motive is becoming better understood.

A Berlin dispatch states that the Chinese Minister there in an interview today intimated that China is convinced that one of the belligerents is bound to endeavor to acquire Chinese territory as compensation for the expenses of the war. For this reason, China was sending troops to the Manchurian frontier to prevent, if possible, any occupancy which might form the basis for such claims.

From advices from Seoul, it would appear that the recent explosion inside the castle walls was really a plot to kill the Foreign Minister, who negotiated the protectorate understanding with Japan. The affair is supposed to have been the work of the Peddlers' Guild, which is dissatisfied with the protocol.

A Steady Slugger
Coffee
Works

In ways people fail to understand.

With many persons it sets up stomach disease and directly congests the liver, thus causing yellow skin, bad breath, constipation and extreme nervousness and frequently heart trouble.

One can find out exactly how much coffee has to do with bad feeling and sickness, by leaving it off entirely for 10 days. Drink Postum (well made) in its place and note the change in feeling. That's an easy way to fix the guilt on the "fellow" that is silently and in a most stealthy manner doing deadly work.

If health and the ability to "do things" are worth anything at all it is certainly worth such a test, attended by no inconvenience whatever; on the contrary, one feels better from the beginning.

The styles are the pretty and popular eton effects with shoulder lapels to simulate a cape; handsomely trimmed in silk straps; well lined; dress skirts beautifully flared and elegantly finished. The values are phenomenal and we expect a quick clean-up on these fine suits; therefore we advise an early selection; all sizes to start with; today while they last, per suit, $13.48.

BUSINESS.

Activity was slightly stimulated in the New York stock market yesterday, but without effecting any more appreciable movement of prices than the dullest of the week. A rush at Chicago to secure wheat took prices up, but the market on the whole was fluctuating. The close was 97 for May and 92⅞ for July.

TWIN EVILS.

The so-called Anti-Injunction Bill and the Eight-Hour Bill, now pending before Congress, are twin evils, which should be defeated, and which will be defeated if well-directed and legitimate efforts to accomplish that result count for anything. The House Committee on Labor, which has these bills under consideration, has been pretty thoroughly enlightened, during the past few days, as to the vicious character of these measures which the union-labor lobby at Washington is endeavoring to have enacted into law. It has been shown conclusively that the Anti-Injunction Bill, if made a law, would go very far toward robbing the courts of their power to protect the rights of citizens against lawbreakers bent upon invading and trampling upon those rights which the law guarantees to all citizens alike. If the Anti-Injunction Bill were entitled "a bill to legalize thuggery and to encourage intimidation," the definition would more correctly describe its real scope and purpose. The courts have used the writ of injunction almost from the time when courts were first established, and the power thus used has seldom or never been abused. To take from the courts this necessary instrument of justice would be to take a long step in the direction of inviting and encouraging anarchy. It does not seem possible that Congress can be guilty of so retrogressive and indefensible a piece of legislation.

As for the Eight-Hour Bill, while it is not so vicious as the anti-injunction measure, it is a piece of mischievous legislation which Congress should turn down with such emphasis that its sponsors will not be likely to bring it before Congress again very soon. This bill proposes that the government shall be required to discriminate in the purchase of supplies against goods made by workmen working more than eight hours per day, and in favor of goods made by workmen working eight hours. The purpose of this measure is to use the government of the United States as an instrument for the enforcement of an eight-hour work day. The bill would be more honest if it declared point blank that eight hours should constitute a day's work throughout the United States, and that it should be a misdemeanor for any person to work more than eight hours per day under any circumstances. But such a plain declaration of the purpose of the bill would make it unconstitutional, without much doubt; while the measure as it stands, should it pass, might be declared valid.

At all events, whether valid or not, the proposed eight-hour law would be impracticable, as well as unjust to a large proportion of the people. Men who labor have an undoubted right to work eight hours, or ten hours, or any number of hours conformable to their inclination, their strength, and the terms that may be agreed upon with the men who employ them. The government has no just power to restrict this right. Employers have an equally clear right to operate their factories eight or ten or more hours per day, as their business may require, and as may be mutually agreed upon between them and their employes. The government goes entirely out of its just and proper domain, when it attempts to interfere with these rights, or to regulate the conduct of private business in any manner.

In the purchase of products such as it needs in its various departments, the government has no moral right to discriminate between the products of one citizen and those of another—for all citizens help, or are supposed to help, support the govern[illegible] buy its supplies as the private consumer buys them, from the lowest bidder, on a fair competitive basis. So soon as this simple rule of commercial procedure is violated, the government departs from its just and proper position and becomes a supporter or champion of some special interest or class. This the government cannot justly do, for it represents, or is supposed to represent, all the people, not merely a few, and it has no moral right to show special favors to any. The Eight-Hour Bill, if enacted into law, would be a perversion of government functions, and a rank piece of special legislation. Measures of its kind have no proper place on the statute books of the nation. The enactment of this measure is demanded by but few persons, and its effect, if passed, would be detrimental to the great majority of citizens.

MIGHT AND RIGHT.

It is not to be wondered at that the recent decision of The Hague tribunal has caused surprise in Venezuela. It has caused surprise, not unmingled with regret, in other parts of the world besides Venezuela; for it is apparently an assent to the doctrine that, under certain conditions, might may be successfully substituted for right in the determination of international disputes or misunderstandings. While The Hague decision apparently gives assent to this doctrine, it is to be hoped that the sanction is only apparent, and that the full decision, when considered in all its bearings, may be found to be susceptible of a less sweeping interpretation.

According to the telegraphed synopsis of the decision, it is to the effect that the three powers which blockaded Venezuela (Great Britain, Germany and Italy,) have a right to a preference of thirty per cent. of the customs duties at La Guayra and Puerto Cabello. These powers, it will be remembered, acted in concert in pressing their claims, the German action being particularly aggressive. It was principally through the action of United States Minister Bowen that the entire controversy was referred to The Hague. Before the agreement for such reference was entered into, the three powers above named had insisted that their claims should be given preference over all others, principally for the reason that they had blockaded the ports of Venezuela, thus bringing force to bear for the collection of their claims.

Naturally, there is quite a bitter feeling in Venezuela over The Hague decision. The opinion is expressed by high officials that "the value of future decisions handed down by the arbitration tribunal is destroyed, because, in this finding, the tribunal has consecrated the triumph of might over right." This is of course a very sweeping and a very pessimistic view of the matter. It is hardly to be supposed that the tribunal has consented to commit itself to the medieval doctrine that might can make right, and that the nation that gets its warships in first shall be entitled to the preference in collecting claims against a weaker nation. There are probably some circumstances which the tribunal felt bound to take into consideration, other than the facts of the blockade, in giving the preference to Great Britain, Germany and Italy, and that the decision in this case is not to be construed as an absolute precedent.

Minister Bowen, while evidently much disappointed at the decision, does not regard it as the final declaration on the questions involved. "The tribunal was called upon to establish a new principle in international law" (he says in an interview,) "namely, that all creditor nations should be treated with equal consideration; that preferential treatment should not be obtained by blockades and bombardments. The tribunal refused to establish this principle; but other principles now recognized as sound by international law were also at first rejected. We must therefore have patience."

This view of the decision is wholesome in its optimism. It is certainly to be hoped that Minister Bowen's optimism will find full justification in future decisions bearing upon the subject. The principle contended for by Mr. Bowen is so obviously just that it must, it would seem, eventually prevail in the adjustment of international claims. It is rather late in the day for the world's civilization to take a step backward.

Anybody who reads the weather reports that come from the East just now can scarcely fail to admit that the climate of Southern California has [illegible] value apart from the sal-

RIGHT, WRONG AND RICHES.

During the Griffith trial one of the attorneys for the prosecution, in his address to the jury, made the statement that "among all of the 2000 prisoners in the State prisons of California there is not a single rich man." One must usually make considerable allowance for the statements incorporated into a speech delivered by a hired attorney, for the purpose of influencing a jury in favor of his client, or against his opponent's client, but in this case the speaker, who has held the office of chief executive of the State, should have had exceptionally good opportunities of ascertaining the facts in regard to his statement. If that statement is even measurably true, it is certainly a striking and most unpleasant comment upon the administration of the law in the Golden State.

When the time arrives that a majority of the people of a nation become imbued with the belief that money will purchase juries and courts, then that nation is standing right at the beginning of the downward path, even if it has not already entered thereon. We hear altogether too frequently, on all sides, such remarks as that so-and-so is sure to escape severe punishment for his crime, because he has plenty of money to oil the wheels of justice, if not in the shape of direct bribing of officials, then in heavy payments to skilled attorneys who are proficient in every "trick of the trade," by which delay after delay is secured, until justice is ultimately worn out, the attention of the public diverted, and the question at issue almost forgotten—except by the taxpayers, who have had to foot a big bill for the expenses of prosecuting the case. It is true that such talk as this frequently emanates from the thoughtless, flippant and the ignorant, who know little of what they say, but unfortunately it is not by any means confined to them. A short conversation with any experienced lawyer who is willing to talk confidentially, and not for publication, will give a thoughtful person plenty of food for reflection, and almost justify the pessimistic inquiry as to how long a nation can endure after it no longer has one law alike for all, whether rich or poor, powerful or weak.

They do these things better across the water, as we recently had evidence in the case of a wealthy and prominent man who had hobnobbed with kings and princes. He had not committed a murder, nor had he directly robbed a bank. He had simply dabbled in what some of our big capitalists are pleased to call the "higher finance." Yet an English judge, after a jury trial, gave him the heaviest penalty allowed by the law, namely, imprisonment with hard labor for several years. Whereupon he killed himself. If this man had been tried in the United States, possessing as he did the considerable remains of an immense fortune, does anyone for a moment believe he would have received such a sentence, or even that he would have been found guilty at all until after a long and tedious succession of appeals and new trials and other devices for delaying the descent of the sword of justice upon the criminal? A short time ago an Eastern judge suggested that no appeal should be allowed in criminal cases. As we said at the time, this suggestion appears to be well worthy of careful consideration. At present, the continuous succession of processes by means of which a wealthy man may succeed in staving off justice tend to bring the law into discredit and contempt.

Again we say that if that statement quoted at the opening of this article is true, then it is high time for patriotic Californians to put on their thinking caps—or perhaps, rather, their fighting clothes—and take immediate steps toward securing such reforms as will remove this dark stain from the escutcheon of the commonwealth.

An insane lover is about as bad as an insane dynamiter—so the much disgusted Auten family has found out. The only safe place for either degenerate is behind the bars. The attempt to stir up morbid sympathy for such enemies of society in general is anarchistic as well as silly. Public rights and safety are above those of the individual, and no matter how pitiable the personal case may be, the public must ever be protected from the Guiteau and Czolgosz types, who always have had their newspaper defenders, and always will have them. Shut up the murder-breathing cranks every time! Has the fate of McKinley been so soon forgotten?

Our esteemed contemporary, the London Post, claims to have been "informed on good authority" that if the Japs are successful in Manchuria, Russia will not be permitted to assume a dominant attitude in that section, and that "the idea of Russia's policing the railway will no longer be entertained." This is all well enough, as far as it goes; but it will be noticed that there is a great big "if" in the way of carrying out this scheme.

As was expected, the railroad won the Ninth-street transfer case. The people who wanted transfers made a mistake in going into a legal fight for them. They were misled by incompetent advisers. Some things may better be won by other methods than a club. Unfortunately the law stands against the Ninth-streeters in this case. They should have resorted to diplomacy.

President Smith says that it is necessary for a Mormon gentleman to secure the consent of his wife before he can contract additional marriages, but that if she withholds her consent, he may proceed without it. It is evident that the Mormon fathers were conservatively careful in reposing any dangerous amount of authority in the hands of the women.

The latest scheme of Chicago trade-union managers is to get up a big street parade of children who work in the various industries of the city, to be followed by a trolley ride and picnic; the object being, not to give the [illegible] as might at first minds trade-union ideas, with the purpose of organizing them into unions, to be controlled by the Chicago Federation of Labor." The Chicago branch of trade-union ideas, if instilled into the minds of the young, cannot have other than evil results. The youth of that wicked city will learn evil soon enough without subjecting them to this source of infection.

Dan Sully appears to be playing a sort of football game with the cotton market just now. Perhaps before long Mr. Sully may find the people of the country playing football with him, after they get "real good and tired" of this game of cornering the supplies of staple commodities by speculative work on the stock exchanges.

A formal letter of denial from Grover Cleveland has definitely established the fact that Mr. Cleveland did not, while he was President, invite a colored man to take breakfast with him at the White House. A large section of the country will breathe easier, now that this momentous issue has been decided.

The Y.M.C.A. must look to its laurels. The Women's Association of a similar name is getting bigger and more prosperous—quite distancing the older organization. Why? Perhaps its work is more practical, more effective, more tangible and better led. The Y.W.C.A. does things every day.

The Razor Crank.

"A man may be quite rational and reasonable in all ordinary affairs, and yet be quite daffy on the subject of razors," said the barber. "I have six razors here—one for every day in the week that a man is supposed to get shaved—and pays me to hone them every week. Some mornings I have to try them all on him before he stops grumbling, and even then may have to use one of my own razors. At other times he will order me to use the same razor for a week or two. I can't fool him by changing it, either.

"Another customer who comes in only for an occasional shave, talked to me for six months about the fine razor he had at home. I told him that as we seemed to have none in the shop to suit him, I should be obliged if he would bring it around for me to look at. He did. Well, sir, it was a meat ax. I would as soon think of shaving a man with a carving knife. But I shaved him with it, and he never peeped."—[New York Press.

Capt. Rush R. Wallace has been commissioned in his new rank to take effect from the 19th of last November. Capt. Wallace is now on duty with the marine battalion serving at Olongapo, Subig Bay, P. I.

Dispatches received at the Navy Department last week announce the intended early departure of Brig.-Gen. George F. Elliott, commandant of the Marine Corps, with his aide, Capt. Henry Leonard, from Colon for this country.

Lieutenant-Commander Harry M. Hodges, the recently-appointed hydrographer for the Navy Department, has arrived at Washington. The last sea duty of Commander Hodges was on board the Chicago, where he was navigating officer.

Rear-Admiral French E. Chadwick, formerly president of the Naval War College, Newport, has been selected to succeed Rear-Admiral Charles S. Cotton in command of the European station, and announcement to this effect is expected soon.

A board consisting of Capt. John H. Dayton, Lieutenant-Commander Frank Friday Fletcher and Lieut. Albert C. Dieffenbach convened at Washington on February 22 to make official inquiry into the cause of the recent explosions on board the Iowa, in which several guns were demolished.

In addition to his present duties, Commander R. H. Galt has been directed to report to the commandant at the Norfolk navy yard as ordnance officer of that yard. This additional duty is in consequence of the unexpected detail of Commander Clinton K. Curtis for the command of the Montgomery by reason of the injury of Commander N. J. K. Patch of that vessel, necessitating his detachment and treatment at a naval hospital.

Jumped on the New Yorker.

A New Yorker blew into town Sunday night, and after telling all he knew, which took him about five minutes, ventured the remark that he liked Philadelphia, but it was too slow.

"Yes," said one of his hearers, "it is slow. You see, it's waiting for New York to catch up. We had a centennial exposition here in '76, and we got it out on time, and made it pay, too, but that is a mere incident. Chicago had a show in '93 which was exactly one year behind the date; New Orleans followed with an exposition that was a fluke, besides being a year behind, and here is St. Louis doing the same thing. Yes, we're slow."

"Well," said the New Yorker, "what you say is true, though it hadn't occurred to me before, but if New York got up a show you can bet it would come around on time or a little before."

"Yes, it would," said the Philadelphian. "I remember very well how New York tried to get Congress to have the world's exposition of 1892 in celebration of the discovery of America located on Manhattan Island. They talked and talked and talked, and that's all they did do. Chicago sent men down to Washington, who brought the show home with them, while New Yorkers were asking each other, 'What shall we do to get it?' Yes, we're slow, but New York isn't so swift, either."—[Philadelphia Telegraph.

MINES AND MINING.

IN SMELTER TRUST'S PATH.

INTEREST IN FLUX ALONG THE SALT LAKE ROAD.

Sulphides and Other Ores of San Bernardino County Likely to be in Particular Request—Galena Mountain Near Soda Lake—Rock at Ten Dollars per Pound.

The desert country along the route of the Salt Lake Railroad in California and Nevada is claiming the attention of the American Smelting and Refining Company—popularly called the smelter trust—to a marked degree, and it is possible that the great combine may be compelled to depend almost entirely upon the product of that district for ore for flux.

George Gunn, field expert of the American company, is working along the proposed route and the result of his investigations will prove of especial interest to his company and the mining public. Smelters must have lead sulphides or similar ores for flux, and San Bernardino county particularly, is in a position to furnish a large percentage of this class of ore.

A mountain of galena ore containing gold values of $20 to $200 per ton is said to exist in the property of B. W. Bullock and others, situated about twenty-two miles from Soda Lake on the line of the Salt Lake road. Mr. Bullock is building a wagon road from his mine to the new railroad and says he intends to ship his ore to the smelters in Utah as soon as the road is completed. Freight charges have heretofore been prohibitive, but with the near completion of the road, it is expected that desert mining will receive an immense impetus, for low-grade ledges can be worked at a profit.

In speaking on this subject yesterday, a well-posted mining man who has just returned from a desert trip, said: "There is more activity in the desert along and lying contiguous to the line of the Salt Lake road than ever before. The smelter people are alive to the possibilities of the situation, but as they are a 'gum-shoe' concern, little is known in advance of their operations. In the Providence and New York Mountains, and, in fact, throughout that entire district, there are vast deposits of galena ore showing good values in gold. With a fair rate by the new road, this ore can be marketed at a good price, for I am reliably informed, that the smelter managers are willing to treat the ores for the lead sulphides contained in them. With a low railroad rate and a short haul by wagon you can see that the profit on some of these so-called low-grade propositions will be immense, as the smelting charge is nothing.

GOLD ROADS' GOOD SHOWING.

The Gold Roads Mine near Kingman—the stock of which was floated in Paris by O. P. Posey of Los Angeles—is making a great showing in the mining world, according to reports received in this city yesterday. Recently the management demonstrated that values were better at a depth when the ore chute was proven continuous, and richer at the 400-foot level. Now a number of sets of lessees are developing new ground along the strike of the ledge, in order to ascertain the continuity in the hill. Some results are fairly astonishing.

A small lot of ore sent out by one set of lessees was settled for at the rate of nearly $10 per pound—$16 pounds netting over $3000. Another lessee has marketed some $2000 rock and their work has opened another large body of low-grade ore.

The earnings of the mine are now reported to be in excess of $1000 per day. The ore in the various levels averages from $14 to $20 per ton. The management is said to be contemplating a number of improvements in both mill and mine, including important changes in handling and reduction of ores.

She Was Prejudiced.

"How did you like the intermezzo at the opera last night?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle.

"Not very well," replied her hostess. "Josiah though he was great, but it always turns me against a person when they have their whiskers running down to a point that way."—[Chicago Record-Herald.

By the light of the old North Star,
While the sunset dies in the golde

Will sail for that land afar.
Oh, list to the gentle plash, little boy
Of the wavelets against the strand
As hey softly ride o'er the crimso

While peacefully over their crest w

Toward the beautiful Slumber land.

The silvery moon hangs low, little boy,
When the harbor bar is passed
To the joyous strain of a sweet refrain,
And we anchor in port at last.
Then the Sand Man leads us ashore,
little boy,
To his beautiful castle there,
In a shady dell, where his minions dwell,
And over the land weave a magic spell
Of enchantment everywhere.

Then, out for a trip we will go, little

Through this wonderful land of Dream;
And, side by side, we will take a ride,
Down a roadway of chocolate cream;
There are bon-bon trees everywhere,
little boy,
And an ice-cream-soda lake,
While the walks are made and the highways laid
With cinnamon drops of a crimson shade,
And curbings of layer cake.

Then the first faint flush tints the sky, little boy,
And crimsons the peaceful bay,
The ship's bell rings and the Sand

"All aboard for the land of Day!"
Then, out with the flowing tide, little

And over the spray and foam,
While the pale stars gleam, and the

With a silvery light on the rippling

Till the harbor bells ring "Home!"

HIS LITTLE SLIP.

The other day a man in this town walked uptown with a lady. He carried a pair of skates on his arm to take to the pastorium for mending. When they got to the pastorium he said to her, "You do not patronize——" and with that he tumbled to what he was about and fell down and broke his nose on the sidewalk.—[Dartford (Wis.) Ad.

"AS A LITTLE CHILD."

Little child who wakes at night,
Frightened, at the somber gloom,
Clamors for a ray of light,
To drive the darkness from the room,
Quiet Dreamland sweetly goes,
Contented, if a hand is near
Lovingly, because it knows
There is no terror it need fear.

Man, who stumbles through the gloom
Aimless manner, seeking light,
Will wander blindly to our doom,
Traveling by our own might,
When in darkened paths we stray,
If we cry aloud, the Father hears,
Soon reaches out His hand to stay
Our apprehensions and our fears.

Of course, a man with five wives must be a cool, crafty fellow if he can get home in the early hours from his club and sneak up to bed without waking any of 'em up.

"Painting it Red."

There have been lots of stories told

"painting it red," remarked Senator Money, of Mississippi, to a group of friends, "but I believe the expression originated on the grand old Mississippi.
Away back in the '50's racing was the most exciting feature of river life, and whenever an opportunity was given for the sport, every man on the boat would prepare for the contest by greasing his lifts depended on the result.
Upon entering the race the first thing was the captain would be, 'paint her red, boys,'" and the firemen would pile on the coal and wood on until the smoke stacks glowed like the noonday sun in a fiery crimson glare could be seen for miles around on the dark river. To paint it red' grew to mean something glorious good time, either on the river or on land. The expression became world-wide, until now it is universal.—[Washington Times.

WAR AGAINST EMPIRICS.

STATE VETERINARY BOARD WILL PROSECUTE.

Campaign Directed Toward Illegal Practitioners to be Waged in Southern California—Candidates for Certificates Are no Longer Examined by Official Body.

A vigorous campaign against illegitimate practice of animal surgery and medicine is announced by the State Veterinary Medical Board of California. The war against incompetent veterinaries has been on for some time in the northern part of the State, and is about to be extended through the southern counties.

At the semi-annual meeting of the board yesterday at the Hollenbeck the Prosecution Committee reported that since last September there had been seven arrests for illegal practice and that convictions had been secured in all the cases.

"Our legal position on these prosecutions is strongly fortified," said a member of the board. "The State veterinary law is modeled very closely after the act governing human medical practice. We therefore have many Supreme Court decisions on which we can base our actions, and have at instant command the results of twenty years' experience in the medical field.

"We find that Texas fever, glanders and other contagious and infectious diseases of animals in Southern California are diminishing in extent and we hope before long to secure the abolition of the quarintine now in effect against the southern part of the State with respect to animals."

On January 1 the examining functions of the board were abolished. Candidates applying for certificates permitting them to practice veterinary surgery are no longer directly examined by the board as to their knowledge of animal anatomy and medical and surgical treatment, but are instead required to show diplomas of reputable veterinary colleges. In order to procure a certificate a candidate nowadays must have attended a college for three or four years.

Present at yesterday's meeting of the board were Dr. D. F. Fox of Sacramento, president; Dr. E. J. Creely of San Francisco, secretary; Dr. J. J. Streets of Ventura, Dr. W. J. Oliver of Los Angeles and Dr. W. E. D. Morrison of Los Angeles.

The Committee on Foreign Commerce and Revenue Laws from the New York Chamber of Commerce has reported in favor of the bill pending in Congress to authorize the President to coöperate with the principal maritime powers for the extension of the exemption principle to protect property at sea not contraband of war.

These lots are closer to the Courthouse than Westlake Park, where such lots are worth from $2000 to $3000. Surrounding them is beautiful and picturesque; new residences dotting the hills in every direction; big street im-provements are under way. Glendale elec-tric line will soon be completed, and this part of the city is scheduled for a grand march to the front right away. The more of these lots your friends buy the more money they will make. Have them take Hollywood cars to office, corner Sunset Boulevard and Alvarado, and S. D. RANNELLS will show these lots and other property, or see M. L. WICKS, room 128, Hellman Bldg., or MOYE W. STEVENS, 125 Temple st.

JAPS DEMAND A CONCESSION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Japanese Minister has demanded that the Korean Foreign Office grant a concession for the Seoul-Wiju Railway to the Japanese, in accordance with the recent protocol. The proposed arrangement may create an issue between the Korean and French governments.

FAMILIES LEAVE NEWCHWANG.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

YANGKOW, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In consequence of Gen. Krijenofski's determination to defend Newchwang, many families are leaving. In spite of the refusal of the Chinese railway authorities to convey grain and cattle, large quantities of these commodities are arriving here overland.

DECISIVE OPERATIONS EXPECTED

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TIEN-TSIN, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hostilities are expected at Newchwang directly the river is open, probably in a fortnight. At present, there are twenty inches of ice. Russians will make an attempt to mine the mouth of the Liao River as soon as such operation is possible. The Russians at Sinaintung are sorely harassing the people for supplies. Newchwang and Hai-Icheng are certain to be the scene of decisive operations in the near future.

JAPS PLANNED TO CORK.

CLEVER SCHEME THAT FAILED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A resident of St. Petersburg who has just arrived here from Port Arthur, having left the day before the last Japanese attack, tells an interesting story which seems to indicate that the Japanese planned to cork the harbor before firing a shot. He says that on the day of his departure a big merchantman, flying the Japanese flag, approached the entrance, and in the narrowest part of the channel suddenly stopped, signaled "I am sinking," and commenced to settle. Luckily, a tug with steam up was close by, and towed the Japanese vessel into a shallow part of the outer harbor. The merchantman was loaded with iron. Her captain declared he had been caught in a storm and the pumps which had kept the steamer afloat broke down just as the entrance of Port Arthur was reached.

The wife of a Russian naval official attached to the armored cruiser Rossia, who has just arrived here from Vladivostok, described the scene there at the outbreak of hostilities. At 5 o'clock in the morning of February 9 a shot was fired by the flagship and signals were hoisted calling all seamen and others who were on shore leave to come on board. There was great excitement and enthusiasm among the people on the streets. The warships in the harbor were surrounded with ice, and crowds gathered about them, watching the ships receive their war colors and cheering as the ice-breaker opened a channel. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, headed by the Rossia and accompanied by the hurrahs of the people gathered on the ice, the fleet steamed out.

According to a service organ, the cost of the rations of the Manchurian troops averages 40 kopecks each, of which 28 are for meat, 3 for tea and 9 for bread. The average for the Liao Tung soldiers is 45 kopecks.

AMERICAN NEWS PLEASES.

RUSSIANS BETTER SATISFIED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Russian press hailed with great satisfaction the American dispatches of the last few days, as indicating a change in the disposition of the Washington government toward Russia. But the Bourse Gazette and the Novoe Vremya this morning discuss in a sober-minded fashion Russo-American relations and the danger of permanent estrangement. The Bourse Gazette says there is something regrettable in the present relations between these two world powers. It adds:

"They transcend the bounds of common logic. The position taken by Americans since last June and the anti-Russian newspaper campaign in the United States are so inexplicable that they seem like a nightmare. Since the beginning of its history, America has inspired the liveliest feeling of friendship and admiration among Russians, and diplomatic and political expressions of these feelings have been continuous and constant. In Russian social circles, there has ever been a veritable worship of the classic land of liberty, and Americans have always heretofore made Russian friendship the cornerstone of their foreign policy. Suddenly, as if an evil spirit had broken loose, the Americans, despite their practical turn of mind, began to do everything to stimulate Japanese aggressiveness and seem now to be anxiously awaiting Japanese victories in Asia, where important American commercial interests are centered. As a matter of fact, hostility between the United States and Russia would be as great a misfortune to civilization in the twentieth century as was the rivalry between France and Germany in the nineteenth. The duty of every right-minded man is to arrest the growth of this animosity.

"Russian diplomacy owes it to the Americans and to the whole civilized world to do its utmost. We are not called upon to reecho the hostile sounds coming from beyond the Atlantic, because the unfriendly sentiments do not exist among us. The latest advices permit the belief that it will be much easier to remove the misunderstanding than the enemies of Russia may think."

The Novoe Vremya says it does not know whether the Washington Cabinet influenced such an incident as the gift of $10,000 by Charles R. Crane of Chicago to the young Czarina's fund for Russian soldiers and sailors and the pro-Russian Irish demonstration in New York, but the paper believes it notes an important change in American official tactics, beginning with a disinclination to favor the Japanese cable project, followed by the report of Secretary Hay's dissatisfaction with the anti-Russian press campaign, which disposition was further proved by his not insisting on dispatching United States consuls to Antung and Mukden at this time, which quite agrees with President Roosevelt's decision to allow Mr. Morgan, (appointed United States Consul at Port Dalny) to remain at home for the present and not to send the battleship Kentucky to the scene of hostilities in the Far East. The paper adds:

"We are certain that this change is as agreeable to the Americans as it is to us. The antagonism of Washington distressed, but did not frighten us, for things could not come to a rupture, as prudence must end always in dominating impulse, and there was no serious reason for a quarrel. The practical Yankees must realize that the telegram of the American Consul at Moscow to Chicago to the effect that American business in Russia was suffering by reason of the anti-Russian feeling, said to exist in the United States, illustrated the feelings not only of the Moscow merchants, but of all branches of the Russian trade. What he predicted happened in the case of England after the Crimean war. Germany stepped into the British shoes."

In conclusion, the Novoe Vremya says: "All is well that ends well. If the light, cool fog which has been hanging over Washington is dispelled and the good old feelings return, we shall be the first to welcome them."

LETTER TO KING EDWARD.

CONTAINS THE CZAR'S REPLY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, March 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Russian Ambassador, Count Benckendorff, who returned from St. Petersburg today, visited King Edward and presented the King with an autographic letter from the Czar. This was in answer to a letter sent by the King, who on hearing that the Count intended going to St. Petersburg, sent for the Ambassador and asked him to hand to the Czar an autographic letter in which King Edward in the most friendly terms emphasized Great Britain's complete neutrality during the war in the Far East and said he trusted that the Czar would pay no attention to the press reports intimating that Great Britain was not neutral, nor to any unfriendly comments of the English papers, which the King regretted.

The Spectator tomorrow will say in a long article on the effect of the Russo-Japanese war on international relations, especially relations between Russia and Great Britain: "We do not want to appear as alarmists, but we would be doing harm and not good if we tried to conceal the fact that the present situation in regard to the foreign affairs is one of considerable anxiety."

The Spectator points out how the Russian feeling of resentment against Great Britain is steadily rising, the Russians being convinced that Great Britain is the chief cause of their difficulties by encouraging the Japanese to go to war.

"Without considering whether there is any truth in this view," continues the Spectator, "the important fact is that it is held by the Russian people and that public opinion is in such a state of excitement that war with Great Britain would be extremely popular."

Proceeding to explain why the military power should try to escape the humiliation of a possible defeat by a small Asiatic power, the Spectator remarks: "A great European war would obliterate all traces of the Japanese war. A popular war would cover up an unpopular one and give the Russians an excuse to make peace or withdraw from Japan's reach and staunch the bleeding in men and money now going on in Manchuria."

Further, according to the Spectator, military men in Russia believe the war against Great Britain would be conducted in company with Germany, whose colonies could be taken in the event of the British being victorious, while, "as the Russian fleet has already gone, Great Britain could not inflict injury to Russia."

The Spectator proceeds to warn the press against giving Russia occasion for picking a quarrel, especially referring to the "aggressive anti-Russian tone of the Times under the impression of partisanship," which, it declares, "it is difficult to condone or even understand."

Continuing, the Spectator says: "That the Times should give occasion to those who desire to embroil Russia and Great Britain is rendered more remarkable by the fact that the Times has done much excellent service in pointing out the trend of German policy. It is to be feared that the harm done by the want of restraint originally shown by the British press cannot now be undone, but at least our newspapers should realize the need of not playing into the hands of the military party in Russia, or providing material for those who desire to prove to France that her ally has been treated in an unfair and hostile spirit by the British people. While explosives are lying about, there always is need of extra care and circumspection."

The Spectator concludes by urging the government to be vigilant and have its plans prepared for all emergencies, saying: "We must look the facts in the face and prepare to take the consequences of the Japanese alliance. One of those consequences was the activity and bitter hostility of Russia and the opportunity afforded the German Emperor to knock the heads of the European powers together and get something of advantage to his nation."

CZAR IS CONCILIATORY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, March 4.—To the gratification of France, better relations between Russia and Great Britain are promised as the result of the visit of Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador to Great Britain to St. Petersburg. From an authoritative source, it is learned that Count Benckendorff not only carried verbal assurances of the absolute neutality of Great Britain in the war, but that he was the bearer of documents establishing the facts that the London government did not want war and has used determined efforts to prevent it, urging on Japan the fact that the British press did not represent the attitude or wishes of the British government.

Official advices from St. Petersburg show that Count Benckendorff's representations cleared away many suspicions entertained by the Russian authorities. Russia does not desire unfriendly relations with Great Britain. She therefore met the British government half-way, and it is understood that Count Benckendorff was charged with most conciliatory measures by the Czar. This new phase of the situation, which has been the subject of conversation between Count Lamsdorff and ambassadors accredited to France, has given rise to a feeling in official and diplomatic circles that it will be possible, after all, to confine the Far Eastern war to Russia and Japan.

YACHT RACE IMPROBABLE.

No Challenge from Lipton Can be in Time.

His Friends Say He Will Try it Next Year.

Making Duck Laws for Grover—Beats Long.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Members of the New York Yacht Club, in fact, yachtsmen everywhere, seem to agree that there will be no challenge for the America's cup this year. The time has passed when a challenge could be accepted by the New York Yacht Club, unless they waived even the six months' notice which they gave some of the challengers for the cup. The race, according to the deed of gift, must be sailed between May and September, and there would not be time for the defenders of the cup to build a new yacht, in case they decided not to risk the safe-keeping of the trophy with the Reliance.

It is said on excellent authority that the committee appointed at the last meeting of the New York Yacht Club to frame a reply to Sir Thomas Lipton's letter has not yet sent a reply, so it is not likely that Sir Thomas will send a challenge until next year. That he will challenge again, either with a smaller sloop or with a schooner yacht, is the firm belief of a number of his friends in this country.

DO AWAY WITH DUCK LAWS.

BILL TO AID CLEVELAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RICHMOND (Va.) March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The back-bay district of Princess Ann county, Va., is the favorite hunting ground of ex-President Cleveland, and ever and anon the Princeton statesman is wont there to repair, and many are the wild fowl that have fallen before his steady aim. But Mr. Cleveland has been hampered by the laws of Virginia for the protection of toothsome ducks. To remove this difficulty, so that he may hunt whenever he is so minded, Dr. George T. Snead, member of the Legislature from Princess Ann county and an ardent admirer of Mr. Cleveland, today introduced a bill repealing all laws which interfere with the shooting of ducks.

SCORES NINE KNOCKDOWNS.

NEARY DEFEATS LOUIS LONG.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Neary was given a decision over Louis Long of Oakland, Cal., in a six-round bout here tonight. The Milwaukee boy scored nine knockdowns, and had his man all but out.

At the close of the third round, Long was hanging on to avoid punishment. In the fourth round, Neary knocked him down twice, and he was so groggy in the fifth that Neary put him to the floor five times, but just failed of a knockout each time. In the sixth, Long went down twice, but managed, by hitting desperately, to last through the round.

VIGNAUX DEFEATS SUTTON.

AMERICAN GAINS APPLAUSE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the banquet ball of the Grand Hotel, Vignaux of France again defeated George Sutton of America for the world's championship at eighteen-inch balk-line, one shot by 500 to 387. Vignaux's average was 12 32-39 and Sutton's was 10 7-38. The best run for Vignaux was 89 and the best for Sutton was 79. After one hour of play Vignaux had 115 points and Sutton 124, the latter having made runs of 21 and 2. Vignaux then made 29, 21 and 83, and soon increased his score to 257, Sutton's tally being 153.

The play up to this time was somewhat slow, Vignaux's open table work being in strong contrast with Sutton's more scientific display of nursing. Although necessarily limited in nursing in this style of game, Sutton made a high run of 79 in the thirty-fourth inning. He was frequently interrupted by applause.

CLIFFORD BEATS MARKHAM.

BOTH MEN KNOCKED DOWN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) March 4.—Jack Clifford of Butte knocked out Tommy Markham of Utah tonight at the end of the eighth round of hard fighting. Both men were knocked down in the first round, but Markham's lack of condition, he having signed for the fight on three days' notice, told heavily against him. The blow that did the business was a left hook square in the solar plexus.

CONTINUOUS POOL.

KLING WINS FIFTH SERIES.

Carney and Kling gave a poor exhibition of pool playing last night at the Lincoln rooms on South Spring street, both players being very much out of form. They missed easy shots and picked out hard ones without any apparent reason, and altogether were disappointing to their friends. Kling made a total of 158 balls to 127 for Carney, making the total score for the five nights' play 750 for Kling and 727 for Carney.

The runs last night were as follows:

REDFERNS ARE RULED OFF.

Judges Hand the Family a Hard Call Down.

Jockey Refused to Ride and Something Dropped.

Hildebrand Again Shows How to Ride Horses.

The Redfern family got a finishing blow yesterday.

Jockey Arthur Redfern, who has ridden many a winning (and losing) horse in various parts of the United States, and his father, W. W. Redfern, who is known to fame as the father of the jockey, were ruled off the turf.

This action by the judges was the big sensation of the day, and, strange to say, but very few people knew it, for it happened just before the last race, and such news does not always travel fast when the final race is about to be run. The jockey walked away with his medicine, but Judge Hamilton angrily hustled the Old Man Redfern out of the judges' stand and ordered an officer to take him out of the grounds.

REDFERNS WILL SUFFER.

This action will keep Jockey Redfern from riding on many race courses in the United States and will teach him a lesson he will not forget. Just where he will be able to ride is a question, for it is more than likely that the big majority of race tracks in the country will respect the ruling and will keep Redfern on the ground until he makes peace with the Western Jockey Club. He will not ride in the West, and whether he will be able to in the East depends on how well the eastern people respect the rulings of this western track, which has powerful affiliations in many parts of the country. The Redferns will certainly get down on their knees and beg when they realize just what they have done.

This sensation will come as a surprise to many people, and yet there are as many more who will say, "I told you so." Dozens of sports have been looking for something to happen to the Redferns any day. Jockey Redfern has not the greatest number of friends a boy can have, or he has ridden some very "funny" races at Ascot Park.

WHY IT HAPPENED.

The climax came in the sixth race. Hildebrand had the mount on Schreiber's Buccleuth, although J. Lewis is Schreiber's regular rider. With Lewis displaced he was put on Laureates, and as soon as the judges saw this they decided that, under the racing rules, Lewis could not ride Laureates in a race wherein his own stable had an entry. They accordingly ordered that Redfern should ride Laureates. This the young jockey protested he would not do, and Old Man Redfern was sent for and told that his boy must ride as the judges had ordered. Redfern, the elder, also declared that the jockey should not ride Laureates, and on this declaration the judges ruled off both father and son. The elder Redfern gave as his excuse the apparently silly reason that once upon a time his boy had wanted to ride Chub in a race and Lewis was given the mount. This did not go with the judges and the Redferns were accordingly given what was coming to them.

THE LAW OF IT.

The racing rule under which Jockey Redfern was ruled off is the Western Jockey Club ruling No. 204, and is as follows:

"The judges, in their discretion, shall have the right to put upon a horse a rider selected by them, and shall have the right to place a horse in charge of a trainer they may select. An owner or trainer who refuses to permit a rider or trainer to be changed as herein provided, and a trainer or rider who refuses to take charge of or ride a horse on the order of the judges, shall be ruled off."

The elder Redfern was ruled off under Section 205 of the same rules, which is as follows: "A person refusing to obey the orders of the judges may be fined, suspended or ruled off."

CRUZADOS WINS AGAIN.

The other sensation of the day was the victory of Baldwin's Cruzados in the Green Meadows Handicap at six furlongs, which was the fourth event on the card. In this were Cruzados, Elfin King, Golden Rule, Glennevis, Ocean Dream and Pat Bulger. As soon as the odds were posted the sports flew at the books and climbed over each other to buy Golden Rule. It was really amusing to see them shoving and pushing to get a chance to spend their money, and for five minutes there was little heard but "Golden Rule, 9 to 5." Caesar Young, in fact, didn't offer anything at his store for some time but Golden Rule 9 to 5 and 3 to 5 a place. Everything else almost was neglected. Cruzados opened at 6 to 1 and rose to 15 to 1 at post time. It really looked for a time as if there was nothing to the race but Golden Rule, for from fourth in a straggling start Redfern at once sent him to the front, heading Elfin King at the half and leading him by two lengths into the stretch. Cruzados was third, three lengths away, and when he straightened out Mountain began to ride him. Leap by leap he gained on Elfin King and together they passed Golden Rule, who was skinning the rail. At the paddock gate they forged in front of Rule, and Hildebrand on Elfin King deliberately cut over to the rail in front of Golden Rule and shut him off. Redfern being obliged to pull up. Cruzados and Elfin King thundered on and in a hurricane finish Mountain landed Cruzados a winner by a head from Elfin King. It was a sad blow to the sports, but they are hopeful that some day Golden Rule will get enough weight off to win a race.

Hildebrand was the star of the jockeys, for he had three firsts and two seconds out of five mounts. He won with El Oriente in the first, Metlakatla in the second and Buccleuth in the last and was second on Elfin King in the fourth and His Eminence in the fifth. There was some talk about this fifth race, however, many sports claiming that Grail ran second instead of third to Straggler.

Buccleuth in the last was the only favorite to win, the other winners, however, being played quite strongly. A big crowd saw the sport, and the betting was brisk on every race.

MINOR BASEBALL.

HIGH-SCHOOL GAME.

The Commercial High School team of this city will go to Compton today to play the club of that town this afternoon. The local team won the championship last year, and this year up to the present time Compton has won ten straight victories. For this reason the friends of both teams are expecting an exciting contest. Last Saturday the Compton team defeated the Los Angeles High School by a score of 9 to 3, in a ten-inning game.

NEW BLEACHERS.

READY FOR MEET TODAY.

Everything is in readiness at Claremont for the Southern California field meet today. New bleachers have been built, and the track has been put into first-class shape.

The visiting teams and newspaper men will be dined at the college at 11:30 o'clock, and lunch will be served the visitors at a nominal charge an hour later.

A basket-ball game will be played this morning.

Oriente nicely placed first part; went away from his field in the stretch, but had to be hard ridden last furlong to stall off the rush of Phyx. The latter ran a good race; was weakly ridden. Glenrice allowed to drop out at first part; closed fast in stretch; was given a shocking ride. Jingler ran a fair race. Athelrose early speed, but quit badly. Christian ran clever race. Betty ran out all the way. Others not much.

SMITH LEADS THE GOLFERS.

Alex. Ahead and His Brother, George, Close Up.

Open Championship of South the Prize Sought.

Amateurs Make Fine Showing—The Finals Today.

Sporty old King Boreas made the best score by long odds in the open championship of Southern California yesterday, and incidentally, the casually observant onlooker had his fill of variety. Flying derby hats scooting merrily for the nearest oil deposit, swirling skirts and twinkling ankles, sandful eyes and sandless greens—how the blustering old norther must have laughed in his sleeve to see such fun!

The times were tough, indeed. But, look you! Out step the Masters Smith! Of course. Wherever there is trouble, there are the Smiths in the midst of it.

It may be that there are so many of them that neither trouble nor anything else that stalks upon the face of the earth can get away from them.

Anyway, there they are, Alex and George, brother and brother, side by each.

But, by Hutchinson, this golf is a queer game.

Here is Alexander Smith, for instance, doing all kinds of totally inexplicable things—such as taking five for a dinky hole, with never an ounce of difficulty within a mile. Or, worse still, driving into an off-course bunker, plunking his third easy iron shot into the ditch, overrunning his fifth, short on his sixth, missing his putt for a seven and down in eight—all this on a bogey five hole.

Or again, a fat drive, a short second, a wild third into the brush, a too speedy fourth right over the hole and full six yards beyond the green. And then, a beauty, a dream of a shot that makes everything else worth while—on, along, and acuri, and down in five.

Or, yet once again—merely by way of variety—Dinky (No. 5) in one! Luck, you say. Why, yes, in a way. Luck, to an extent, because the man does not live who can guarantee to do it even once within the term of his natural life. He may do it, or, again, he may not.

Still, it were better to say luck—plus skill. For, some way, these brilliant streaks usually spring into being with the expert precisely at the time that he needs them to offset his lamentable falls from grace.

All of which means that Alexander Smith, the Nassau and Ensenada professional, notwithstanding some curiously bad holes, landed at the 36 hole halfway house ahead of his sixteen competitors, and only three strokes worse than bogey.

George Smith, professional of the Oakland Club, cantered in almost abreast of his elder, and possibly more noted, brother, with his two consistent rounds of 81 each—162—four worse than bogey.

T. C. Waterous, a well-known amateur, late of San Diego, and now of the Los Angeles Country Club, topped the remaining eight professionals and all of his amateur brethren with 81, 84—165, and thereby ran a notably close third to the Smith boys. W. K. Jewett, the present Southern California amateur champion, had the best morning score, beating Alex Smith and Colonel Bogey by one stroke. But, alack and alas, the combined influences of furious wind, topping, and not a little wretched luck, led to a bad, but by no means irretrievable, breakdown.

It should be said, in all fairness, that the wind was, in the main, almost entirely responsible for the many high scores of the afternoon round. Accurate putting was entirely out of the question—not so much because a raging wind really greatly affects the course of the ball, as that the player is afraid that it will so affect it—and he is thereby bereft of all confidence.

With confidence gone, one might as well putt at the moon—and, as a matter of fact, much of the afternoon putting was fully worthy of even Queen Luna herself.

Arthur Rigby, the tall, lithe young professional of the Los Angeles Country Club, is not by any means to be overlooked in this bid for championship honors. Modest, unassuming, and strictly business to the core, Rigby is greatly and deservedly liked, and it would please the members beyond measure if he could sport the laurel crown on the home links for the coming year.

True, with six strokes to the bad from Alex Smith this is hardly likely; but our canny young Scot should certainly pocket place money.

Young Hunter, the greater, had two fairly good rounds—fairly good, that is, for him—and, but for the wind, would probably have had even better than his present sixth place.

Johnston, the Presidio professional, and Ernest Martin, Rigby's able lieutenant at the Country Club, had capital morning rounds, but the fatefully favorite 89 of the afternoon cyclone swept them into midstream—with grave danger of being washed away.

Mr. Fairbanks, steady as clockwork, sure as a calcumeter, with never a mistake at the tee or through the fair green, got the wind, the ball and the putter into unfriendly rivalry, and the mystic 89 rose up out of the inglorious melee.

The two busy B's, J. A. Brown and J. W. Broad, buzzed afield and sipped the varying sweetness of thirty-six different blooms—only to find themselves at last lulled into hypnotic quiescence by the four enfolding petals of the cabalistic 89.

The rear is so far courageously and surely looked out for by the genial and popular Tom Bendelow of Chicago-Spalding renown. It may be said, however, that unusual conditions not infrequently task a player out of all proportion to his real ability; and Mr. Bendelow, without a shadow of doubt, had far more than his share of evil visitation on this score. Moreover, some men exploit their genius in the making of courses, and others in the marring of them.

Tom Bendelow is a great maker. Many of the marrers are known—but they shall for the nonce be nameless.

So much for yesterday. Today the professionals change amateur relationships, both in the morning and afternoon—and that may bring about some unlooked-for changes.

For, be it known, some accompaniments are good and helpful, and some are—well, let us say, neither precisely good nor exactly helpful.

In the afternoon round will come the final tussle. It may be that the finish will be very close and exciting. It is to be hoped so, in the interests of sport.

These games are open to the public and a great crowd is expected. To those who are unversed in such contests a word of earnest advice may be offered—that perfect quietude of body and tongue be observed while a player is preparing and executing his stroke.

SICK CHORUS GIRL.

Miss Montez of the Casino Suddenly Overcome With Symptoms of Poisoning.

One winsome face and figure were missed from the chorus at the Casino last night, all on account of pretty Miss Montez's fondness for canned peas. The young woman became suddenly sick just as she was about to go on in the first act and was taken to her apartments in the Touraine. Her condition was so serious that it was feared she would die in a few minutes, and Bresee Bros.' ambulance was called.

At the Touraine at 1:30 o'clock this morning, Miss Raymond, the young woman's room mate, said the only way Miss Montez's sudden sickness could be accounted for was the fact that she had eaten canned peas and they might have been poisoned. Dr. L. F. Bleasly attended Miss Montez and said she showed undoubted symptoms of strychnine poisoning, and he thought it possible she might have taken an overdose of medicine containing strychnine. She has been pronounced out of danger.

HE PREFERS TO REMAIN.

Perkins Will be Tried on Insanity Charge.

Queerly Infatuated Man is Heard in Court.

Auten Family's Persecutor in Haggling Mood.

L. W. Perkins was crossed by another crazy streak yesterday and said he would see the court, attorneys and the whole Auten family far away before he would budge from Los Angeles.

He said that Southern California is good enough for him, and that he is not going back to Indiana or back to anywhere else at this stage of the proceedings.

As a consequence all negotiations are off and Perkins will have to stand trial on the insanity charge on the 16th inst. The defendant stood his ground in court, and though he said very little, it was straight to the point.

Perkins professes to be enamored of Miss Cora N. Auten, who is said to be one of Chicago society's most charming and popular young women. But it is the story of Caliban over again. Perkins possesses no graces of appearance, manner or of mind.

LIKE A BURGLAR.

Without ever having even met the girl for whom he professed adoration he forced his way into the Auten home and hid himself like a common burglar. And by such antics he has made the life of the Auten family miserable. The most charitable construction to be placed upon his acts, so it was believed, was to believe him insane, and he was sent to the insane asylum at Joliet. Three times he escaped, and the last time it was to follow for 3000 miles across the continent the girl he was persecuting with his attentions.

But this crazy bicycle maker had sense enough to perceive that he was not to have any chance afforded him of double dealing, and he agreed on Thursday that he would return East to Indiana provided his expenses were paid. He conceded so much himself in open court. And then he became obdurate again. The nature of the man would show itself. He bargained like a huckster.

First of all he wanted $100 in addition to his fare East and expenses. He [illegible] the money just because he [illegible] it, so he said. He seemed well [illegible] that the arrangement was a compromise, but he thought he saw a chance to hold up the Auten family for some money and he named his figure. But while Mr. Auten is a very wealthy man, and has money to do all things for the comfort and protection of his family, he has not a cent for blackmail.

Then Perkins went further and refused to go back East at all. In a way Bennett and Porter, his attorneys by appointment of the court, had become responsible for him, but he gave them scant consideration. Yesterday Attorney Stephens, appearing for Mr. Auten, said that Attorney Bennett desired, he understood, to be relieved from any responsibility in connection with the departure East of Perkins, and he asked Judge Wilbur that the case be set for trial. Then several other suggestions were made, but the defendant himself put a quietus on them all.

"But it will be depriving me of my liberty," he exclaimed, when it was suggested that the Sheriff buy his ticket and put it with the expenses of the journey in the hands of the conductor of the eastbound train.

Attorney Stephens said that if Perkins went East of his own volition well and good, but he would have the conductor telegraph him if the defendant left the train, and papers would at once be filed again and the defendant would be rearrested and brought to trial. Attorney Stephens said that the man's conduct showed that he was unwilling to go, and so he wanted the case set for trial.

"Your Honor," interposed Perkins in a whining voice, "nothing was ever said about my being deprived of my liberty. It understood that I was to have full charge of the ticket and the money after I got upon the train."

MIGHT LEAVE TRAIN.

In that he had thought wrong and Attorney Stephens told him so. The attorney said that he was fully convinced that Perkins contemplated leaving the train at the first station and returning here to make more trouble. Counsel adverted to the fact that the affidavit of the superintendent of the asylum in the East set forth that the defendant "is dangerous to be at large."

"Well," again spoke Perkins, "before this thing ever came up I was offered $500 and a ticket to the Philippines if I would take it."

The court ignored the remark, and it passed without comment, but if Perkins would in good faith promise to go to the ends of the earth and stop there, or get off the earth if he felt like it, there probably would be no difficulties put in his way by anyone.

"It may look strange, Judge, Your Honor," said the defendant, "my running away from the asylum, but I'd never have got away alive if I hadn't run away. Mr. Auten said in the presence of my mother and two sisters that his money would keep me there."

"Mr. Perkins," answered Judge Wilbur, "I don't want you to think that the court wants to coerce you into leaving the State. You are entitled to a trial and you can have one, only the proposition that was made here yesterday appeared to be the best for all parties."

WOULD SUBPOENA AUTENS.

"Well, I want to subpoena the Auten family," sulkily said Perkins.

Attorney Stephens said the members of the Auten family would be present. Then the case was set for trial, and Perkins went out of court with the same mask of indifference upon his face that has covered it from the first.

It is stated on the authority of the eastern officials, and on the papers in the case, that Perkins is a degenerate. The term is very loosely used, but in his case it is said to be applicable, for the form of his insanity is of a dangerous type, though the man apparently can talk rationally enough. His persecution of women began long before he forced his unwelcome attentions upon Miss Auten. One woman left Chicago in despair of ever being able to free herself from the attentions of her persistently insulting suitor. Then he became involved in the same kind of trouble with two other women, whose lives he ingeniously contrived to make a burden to them before he turned his attention to the society belle whose parents accepted the situation and had Perkins arrested and tried for insanity.

TRIUMPHS FOR METHODISTS.

LONG TIME-LIMIT AND GREATER CUT FROM CHICAGO.

Bethlehem Institution Will Have Double Dedication—Free Ride to Dolgeville — Formal Opening of Deaconess Home—Woman Will Tell of the People of China.

Still more triumphs have come to the managers of the Methodist General Conference. While the rate from all points in the East has been announced as a single fare for the round trip, a special rate of $50 for the round trip from Chicago is now announced, which is almost 50 per cent. less than half-rate. The railroads seem willing to bend every energy toward making that general-conference trip a record-breaker.

The time limit, which is now given out for the first time, will also tend to greatly augment the number who will seek the opportunity to visit California. Tickets will be placed on sale everywhere on April 23, which will bring people here in time for the opening of the conference. The tickets will be good for return leaving Los Angeles not later than June 25, which gives almost a month for sightseeing after the adjournment of the conference.

Nothing now seems wanting to make it the greatest crowd that ever came to the Coast.

All arrangements continue to go satisfactorily forward for the entertainment of the delegates and their friends, and Secretary Hough says that every incoming mail brings further evidence of the coming of a vast multitude.

Sale of the private boxes and reserved seats in the Pavilion will commence in Simpson Auditorium on March 16.

BETHLEHEM'S ACTIVITIES.

The lot for the new men's hotel at Bethlehem Institutional Church will be dedicated at the corner of Vignes and Ducommun streets on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There will be suitable addresses and music.

At 3 o'clock cars will leave Aliso and Vignes streets for Dolgeville, to attend the dedication of a lot in the new village which has been donated to the Bethlehem Institution for the purpose of building a mission there. The cars will be free to all adults who may desire to attend.

Evangelist Conrey will speak in Bethlehem Church at 11 o'clock a.m., and at 7:30 will deliver an address accompanied by beautiful stereopticon pictures. There will be illustrated songs and moving pictures. Everything free at Bethlehem.

FORMAL OPENING.

The formal opening of the Homer Toberman Deaconess Home, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, located at Bellevue avenue and Custer streets, will take place on Tuesday afternoon. The exercises will be held in the Bellevue-avenue Church, just across the street from the home, at 2 o'clock. Short addresses will be made by Miss Cora Tatham, secretary of the Y.W.C.A.; Rev. A. C. Smither of the First Christian Church; Rev. Dr. R. S. McLarren of the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church; Rev. G. A. Hough of Vincent Methodist Church, and Rev. E. P. Ryland of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Solos will be rendered by Mrs. E. T. King and Miss Eleanor Lloyd. Following the exercises in the church a reception will be held in the home from 3 to 5 o'clock.

"THE PUBLICANS."

At the gospel-temperance meeting in Blanchard Hall on Sunday night Francis Murphy, the famous blue-ribboner, will make his address from the topic "The Publican," and Murphy's free lance will no doubt swing freely. There will be a good musical programme under the direction of J. W. Eccleston. Solos will be rendered by Mrs. French, little Annie Row and others, and duets by Mr. and Mrs. Eccleston.

Mr. Murphy will address the operatives at the Troy Laundry on Tuesday at 12:30, noon.

TALK ABOUT CHINA.

Miss Clara Leffingwell, who has been seven years in China, including the period of the Boxer riots, will deliver an address in the Free Methodist Church, No. 606 East Sixth street, on Sunday evening. Her subject will be "China, the Celestial Empire; Its People, Religious Customs and Needs." She will exhibit costumes, books and curios from China.

BRIEF NOTES.

W. A. Amend, in charge of the boys' work at the Y.M.C.A., will deliver an address this morning at 9:15 under the title "Fun and Wisdom on the Farm." It is open to all the boys of the city whether members of the association or not. As many as 108 boys have attended these Saturday-morning meetings. On March 26 the Hiking Club will go to Rubio Cañon.

Dr. E. A. Healy will address the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Rev. E. H. Pretz will talk to the young men at 4:15.

The session of the First Presbyterian Church announces that ninety-five new members will be received into the congregation on Sunday morning—thirty-six of them on confession of faith.

B. Fay Mills will speak in Hazard's Pavilion on Sunday morning, in Simpson Auditorium at 3 o'clock and in Unity Church at 7:30. His afternoon address will be "Why and How I Changed My Religious Opinions." Mr. and Mrs. Mills went to Catalina on Friday and will return this evening.

The Trotter Brothers Trio will sing at a service to be held at the Union Rescue Mission, No. 145 North Main street, tonight. They will also sing at the gospel-wagon services on Sunday. Sunday night M. C. Trotter, superintendent of the City Rescue Mission, Grand Rapids, Mich., will speak on rescue-mission work.

During the reconstruction of the new Vincent Church, Rev. G. A. Hough will preach in Masonic Hall, Thirtieth and Main streets. His subject tomorrow morning will be: "Shall We Banish the Saloon?"

BONSALL RETIRES.

Does Not Care to Serve Longer on Board of Managers of the Soldiers' Home.

The six years' term of Maj. W. H. Bonsall as member of the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers in this county is about to expire, and he yesterday sent a telegram to the California Senator to the effect that he is not a candidate for reappointment.

In speaking of the matter yesterday afternoon, Maj. Bonsall said:

"This Soldiers' Home business takes up a great deal of time. There is no salary nor other monetary compensation in it, and I think some other gentleman should have a chance to secure the honor for the next few years. I want to add that I cannot forget how gracefully ex-Gov. Markham acted six years ago, when he withdrew in my favor; and as his name is now mentioned among those of other distinguished gentlemen, I think it a graceful thing in me to withdraw in his favor."

There will be five new members named by joint resolution of the House and Senate, probably the latter part of this month or early in April.

Will it Ever Stop?

Will the never-ceasing aches of the back ever stop? Many a sufferer mentally asks this question after vain efforts to find relief and cure for backache. There is a cure, but you can't expect to find it unless you know the cause of "that bad back." Most backache pains come from the kidneys, and the seat of the trouble must be attacked. Plasters, liniments and lotions may relieve the ache, but will not cure, as they fail to reach the cause—the Kidneys.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Cure bad back and every kidney ill—rheumatic pains, sleeplessness, nervous conditions, diabetes, dropsy, gravel and all complaints of the Kidneys and bladder down to that dread destroyer, Bright's disease. A safe and sure remedy, endorsed by friends and neighbors.

Can you ask for better proof than this?

Los Angeles Proof

Mrs. E. Hutchinson, of 134 Toluca street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Dean's drug store at Spring and Second streets, are a wonderful soothing and curative remedy. For the past four years I have suffered more or less with kidney complaint, which seemed impervious to any medicine which I used until I tried Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of three boxes quickly demonstrated their wonderful value. I certainly endorse them strongly."

YOUNG WOMEN SQUEEZED.

Elegant New Quarters Are Already Outgrown.

Remarkable Activity Calling for Great Home.

Size of Christian Association an Astonisher.

The board of directors of the Young Women's Christian Association met yesterday and made a general review of the work.

The Los Angeles association, with its 2500 members, is a source of pride to every resident of the city who is aware of the magnificent proportions of the association and of the great benefit it is to the young women of the city.

"The people do seem real loyal and interested in us," said Miss Cora Tatham, the general secretary, yesterday, "but I do wish people knew just what a fine lot of girls we have.

"We were never so crowded as we are now, not even in the old rooms on Second street. Our whole work has doubled since we came here," said the secretary with justifiable pride and satisfaction as she surveyed the handsome quarters in the Conservative Life building. "There are so many more ways in which we might reach out if we just had the room." Her face beamed at the thought of some sweet day having a building of their own—and of course they will.

"We now have every day at noon more than 900 girls for lunch, and during December we had over 1000 every day, and between 800 and 900 are enrolled in the educational classes.

"Visitors from the East are simply amazed when we tell them that we are the largest association in the United States in point of numbers, and of our work in general. They don't seem to know such a thing possible away out here."

DOMESTIC ART.

Some of the practical things that are being done by the associations are proving immensely popular with the girls. For instance, there are six millinery classes of ten pupils each, and the seventh class will be organized next week. For a payment of $3 the girls learn everything in the modern millinery art, under a competent instructor, from the making of a hat from the raw wire up to putting on the ostrich tip. The classes in sewing and shirt-waist making are also very popular.

A new and remarkable demand has arisen in the association. So many of the girls live on the "light housekeeping" plan, and so many visitors came with questions as to how to prepare some little dainty to tempt the appetite that it was decided to give a free public demonstration of domestic science, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Susan E. Pearce. To this demonstration any lady in the city is welcome, and it is expected that it will be the greatest cooking class ever assembled in this or any other town.

A FROLIC IN THE GYM.

Another jubilation is planned for "St. Patrick's Day in the Mornin'." It is likewise "Arbor Day" and the regular social day of the association—the third Thursday in March. In the evening there will be a "frolic" in the gymnasium, where all the girls are expected to become acquainted with each other.

"I consider it good religious work," said Secretary Tatham. "We have a fine lot of girls, who are good at making the strangers acquainted. Of course it has been preached to them a good bit, but they do it in fine shape. I'm awfully proud of them."

The secretary says that there has also been a marked increase in religious activity among the members, and she has arranged for a woman's mass meeting on Sunday afternoon, March 27, for which some large house will be secured. The meeting will be addressed by G. Campbell Morgan of the Northfield Boys' School, who will be here under engagement with the Ministerial Union.

"If people understood what Mr. Morgan really is," said Miss Tatham, "it would require a much larger house than any in Los Angeles to accommodate the crowd. He is one of the most marvelous men I have ever heard. We will also probably have mass meetings on the other two Sunday afternoons during Mr. Morgan's stay—March 20 and April 3—to be addressed by other persons we have in mind, as on those days Mr. Morgan will address men's meetings."

Miss Harriet Brown, State secretary, who resides at Palo Alto, will be in the city on next Sunday and will address a meeting at the association rooms at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

PRACTICAL GOOD.

The employment department, which now requires the constant attention of one of the secretaries, Mrs. T. G. King, has been of inestimable benefit to many girls and women. During the month of February between fifty and sixty young women were neabled to secure situations, and more than 200 women were directed to proper boarding-houses.

Two deaconesses are now in the employ of the association—one at the Santa Fé and one at the Southern Pacific station. The pathetic stories they are able to tell would make an interesting book, but through it all they are one of the jolliest women in Los Angeles and their good spirits act as a tonic to many a poor wayfaring woman. One of the deaconesses tells of meeting a girl who came all alone from the east, but found no one to greet her at the station. The quick eye of the deaconess caught her distress, and after some the girl confided to her that she had come here to meet her affianced and that they were to be married, but by some mishap he had failed to meet her. The deaconess took her in, heard her story true and saw her happily married to the man for whom she had crossed the continent. To show the far-reaching nature of the work, the deaconess was but yesterday a guest at dinner at the home of the happy girl-wife.

One of the pathetic cases is that of the son of a boy, 16 years of age, who was picked up by the deaconess upon his arrival at the station. He had come here in the hope that the climate might heal his lungs and that meantime he might be able to make sufficient money to live. He had a little money and an order was made to get him in a hospital, but he was a consumptive and no room was open to him except the County Hospital, and every bed there was occupied. For several weeks the boy has had this boy, whom she calls George, on her hands, and it is hoped that he will not live long, but that he will never be cast out, and everything possible is being done for his comfort.

FUN IN OPEN AIR.

Every Saturday afternoon a bunch of the girls play tennis at Pico and Figueroa streets; another bunch goes boating in Westlake, and a third detachment walks to the country. All of these events are in the personal charge of the Outing Committee and the physical director of the association.

Rev. Malcolm J. McLeod of Pasadena will deliver a lecture, to which the public is invited, on Tuesday evening, March 8, upon the subject: "The Bible in Literature."

B. R. Baumgardt will talk to the Travel Class about Sweden, on Thursday evening, March 10. This is for members only.

NEED A HOME.

No one reading of this wonderful association and its great usefulness must be told of the need of a suitable building in order that it may still farther carry good to the girls of Los Angeles. One of the dreams of those in charge of the work is that some day they may have a place where the girls may find a home in every respect; where they may live in comfort, safety and happiness, just as if they were actually in the homes of their parents. This condition is the result of an incredible number of young women living and maintaining themselves in Los Angeles, having come here from all parts of the country, believing they could find the greatest amount of happiness in the Land of Sunshine.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Mrs. Raymond Brown, one of the best-known Wagnerian exponents in the country, will arrive in Los Angeles Tuesday, and will be a guest at the home of her uncle, Dr. F. E. Corey in Alhambra, for a week or more.

Alhambra is looking forward with delighted anticipation to Mrs. Brown's presence in its midst, for she made a flying visit to her relatives there last year, upon which occasion all the musical people for miles around were gathered in to share the wonder of an evening of Wagnerian interpretation at the home of Dr. Corey. In remembrance of this, her first visit to California, Mrs. Brown had the above photograph taken in the very gown in which she appeared upon that evening, and sent as a delicate compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Corey.

She is to appear next week at the Friday Morning Club, where she will give a lecture recital on the great Wagnerian masterpiece, "Parsifal." She is also to give a recital at Hotel Green, in Pasadena, at Santa Ana and at Alhambra. Mrs. Brown's home is in New York City, and her husband is a popular illustrator and a great friend of Kirk La Shelle, whose comic operas are illustrated by Mr. Brown's clever posters. Mrs. Brown is not only known for her wonderful accomplishments in the musical world, having appeared before nearly every woman's club in the country, in this capacity, but she is a charming, fascinating woman, possessed to an unusual degree of that potent something called personality, with which she invests her work.

Tapestry and Old Furniture.

The Friday Morning Club rooms presented an unusual spectacle yesterday with the quaint tapestried hangings that adorned the walls, representing medieval castles, old French gardens and various rare and attractive designs, while interesting old furniture, one piece dating back as far as 1600, was effectively arranged for inspection.

Many valuable treasures had been loaned for the occasion, the object being to illustrate the gradual development in furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Lungren had supplied from their treasure-trove an old Elizabethan chest, elaborately carved, and used in the days of "good Queen Bess" to contain the wedding outfit of a bona fide bride. A Georgian chair, a Windsor chair, and an old dressing case also came from the Lungrens' home. A most remarkable executioner's chair, taken from a Japanese temple, and a Korean money chest, brass-bound and padlocked, formed a part of the display which also included rare tables, Chippendale chairs, a quaint lowboy, and many other antiques.

Mrs. Berthold Baruch read a bright and comprehensive paper on the history of tapestry, unfolding this old-time hand work which she properly called "painting in textiles," even going back to the time when faithful Penelope wove her web, and stating that the loom that she used as pictured upon an old vase, is the self-same kind used by the Navajo Indians in weaving their rugs. She also brought in very effectively the incident of Hamlet, and the "rat behind the arras."

Mrs. Baruch was followed by Miss Mabelle Doolittle, a pretty and graceful young furniture designer, who gave an excellent talk upon "Good Furniture, Old and New."

Wednesday Morning Club.

The first meeting for March of the Wednesday Morning Club took place last Wednesday, and consisted of a business meeting, including the reports of committees and classes, and the report of Mrs. E. C. Hayward, who was the delegate to the State convention. A fine musical programme was rendered by the Euterpe Mandolin and Guitar Club, under the leadership of Mrs. K. L. Craig. Miss Rheem, Mrs. F. Roberts and Mrs. Peoples, also contributed to the programme, while Mrs. A. S. C. Forbes gave an interesting address upon the "Battlefields of California."

The programme for the month includes: Shakespeare section, under Mrs. Greenleaf, and class luncheon, March 9; music section, under Mrs. Park, March 10; Shakespeare section, under Mrs. J. H. Crawford, March 16; club at home, March 17, hostesses, Mrs. Nellie Tilley and Mrs. J. M. Armstrong; Shakespeare section, under Mrs. Greenleaf, March 23; current history, by Mrs. Lou V. Chapin, March 28; Shakespeare section, under Mrs. Greenleaf, March 30.

Whittier Happenings.

Whittier Woman's Club held a meeting Wednesday afternoon, listening to an exposition of the features of the true house beautiful and the house comfortable by the household economics section, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lindley. Papers were read by Mmes. A. H. Dunlap, Jr., E. J. Saunders, Murray E. Clifford and W. V. Coffin, and an interesting collection of photographs bearing on the subject of the afternoon was explained by Mrs. Lindley. Current events were under the direction of Miss Orendorf, whose assistants were Mrs. Will A. Smith, Mrs. J. N. Hurst and Mrs. Allan J. Wilson. The club will observe March 30 as social day, for members only.

OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE NOTES.

The field meet with U.S.C. and the victory resulted in no particular demonstrations, save in the remarks of President Wadsworth, at chapel time, when the fracas was commented upon. He stated that, with President Bovard of U.S.C., he thought that hereafter the faculty should have a hand in the conduct of a field day and in the prevention of the disgrace attached to the withdrawal of a team from the field; for the faculty allows these things, gives money for them, and in the event of any trouble, receives the brunt of the blame.

Walter Thatcher, a prep. student who won many laurels last year on the diamond, has been elected captain of the baseball team for this year, and already men are in practice for that sport.

The Oratorical Association yesterday appointed April 8 as the date for the home oratorical contest.

SETS OUT TO KILL

MRS. ETZ ATTACKED TWICE AND LEFT IN A PITIABLE STATE.

Saved From Fatal Results of Second Encounter with Grip by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Not content with smiting down its victims once, the grip often repeats the attack, and is followed by such distressing after-effects that many sufferers succumb through exhaustion and sheer discouragement. It is just here that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved such a help to thousands of dispirited people.

"I suffered from two attacks of the grip," says Mrs. Mary M. Etz, of No. 309 West Clinton street, Elmira, N. Y., "and the second attack was followed by terrible after-effects. I suffered for nearly a year and during a great part of that time my symptoms were constantly increasing in severity, although I was under the care of a doctor and a nurse.

"There was an incessant ringing noise in my ears which was distracting to an extent that I cannot describe. I had very weak heart action and I believe that my kidneys became affected. There were terrible pains in my back and limbs and my feet and ankles were swollen. I had night sweats and sometimes a cold numbness would come over my limbs.

"My trouble was complicated with sciatic rheumatism and at times I could not raise my foot two inches from the floor. The rheumatism grew gradually worse as my system was weakened by the poison the grip had left in my body. About this time a friend of mine who lives in Cortland recommended that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I did so and had taken but one box before I was relieved. In all I took six boxes and was cured. One remarkable thing I noticed about the pills was that they began to give me strength almost as soon as I began the treatment. I shall be glad to have you publish my statement and I hope the pills will be as much of a blessing to others as they were to me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so promptly helpful in obstinate cases where other remedies fail because they act directly on the blood, expelling all poisons and supplying the elements upon which the entire system depends for its strength. They also repair shattered nerves and minister hopefulness to overcome the depressing effects of diseases like the grip. They are sold by all druggists throughout the world. Fifty cents a box; six boxes for two dollars and a half.

TRAVELING, says a wise man, is a "fool's paradise," yet our journey across the continent has been a pleasant one. We are content, and when we say this we mean that we acted wisely when we chose the Santa Fe to travel from West to East.

Our appetites have been satisfied by the good things of earth. Good food is what a Hawaiian loves best. We have slept soundly at night.

We recommend the Santa Fe to the people of the Infant Territory of Hawaii, and in parting say "Aloha." SAMUEL PARKER,

He was on top of the shovel to see if it would clear an overheard bridge, and forgot that there was an end girder, which struck him, laying open his scalp from the forehead to the back of the head. FRENCH GATHERING.

Movement Started to Organize Branch of the Alliance Francaise, for Study of French.

The members of the French colony of Los Angeles turned out in force last night to hear one of their prominent countrymen, M. Emile Labarthe, an advocate of the Court of Appeals in Paris and a commissioner of the French government to the St. Louis World's Fair, lecture on "Japan, Ancient and Modern."

The programme was entirely in French, and those familiar with the language who did not attend the gathering in Blanchard Hall missed an eloquent discourse.

Although the subject announced for th evening dealt with the distant Orient, the real purpose of the meeting was one of direct local interest.

The occasion was the initial effort to arouse sufficient public interest here in things French, more particularly among Americans, to warrant the establishment of a branch of the "Alliance Francaise," of Paris. This society is subsidized by the French government, and is devoted to the purpose of spreading an interest in the French language, history and literature throughout the world. The visiting French envoy is a representative of the home society, and M. Jacquard-Auclair, editor and proprietor of "L' Union Nouvelle," of this city, has been appointed its special delegate to found a branch in Los Angeles.

With the aid of the French government, the parent society sends noted French lecturers and men of letters to appear before the branch societies to spread a knowledge of French, and conversational gatherings in the mother tongue are also instituted by the branches of the Alliance Francaise.

M. Labarthe, the speaker, made some opening remarks on the beauty of the French language and its value as an aid to the study of the world's history, past and current. Before beginning his pretty discourse on Japan, he took pains to explain that, on account of his official connection with his government, it would be impossible for him to touch upon the Russo-Japanese war, or political events leading up to it.

Th speaker, who just returned from an extended tour of the Orient, dealt principally with social, industrial and picturesque Japan, and the wonderful transition of the eastern empire from barbaric to civilized. He paid a glowing tribute to the fascinating qualities of the Japanese woman—the unspoiled, coy Japanese maid, who, he acknowledged with regret, is giving way to a less naive, less poignant type before the commonizing customs of western civilization.

M. Labarthe, who is an accomplished elocutionist, also gave a selection from Victor Hugo which aroused vociferous applause. He struck a popular note in speaking of the traditional friendship between France and America, which he characterized as a "tenderness."

The remainder of the programme was composed of piano solos by Joseph Ricard, Mlle. Madeline Gutin and Mlle. Agnes Buissert, and two vocal solos in French by Mr. Dupuy.

NOT AUTHORIZED.

Stationary Engineers' Association Says W. H. McCarthy Doesn't Represent it.

The National Association of Stationary Engineers declares positively that W. H. McCarthy is not authorized to get advertisements for that organization.

It appears that McCarthy employed the ancient scheme of soliciting advertising for a souvenir to be issued as if in the interest of the association. He applied to the association for authorization and failed to get it. Then he kept on soliciting business announcements as if he were representing the stationary engineers.

Now, as a clincher, the association in a communication bearing the official signature of Secretary F. S. Thomson and the seal of the concern, states emphatically that McCarthy has no authority to represent it far advertising purposes.

JOLLY PRIEST OF OPTIMISM.

Cyrus Townsend Brady, Author and Preacher.

Talks Interestingly of His Methods of Work.

Will Preach in Pro-Cathedral Sunday Morning.

"When I cease to be an optimist, I want to cease to be a man."

If the Universal Sunshine Society doesn't make this man its president forthwith, it makes the mistake of its life.

Cyrus Townsend Brady, author, clergyman, soldier, sailor, etc., etc., etc., ad infin, looks the part. You recognize the soldier the moment his footstep is heard upon the threshold and his well-groomed, erect, active figure comes into the room.

And when he grasps your hand and says "Good evening," the whole emphasis is on the "good."

REV. CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY.

But Cyrus Townsend Brady has the distinction of being the most prolific modern American writer—and he always finds publishers—and his works always sell—and he has a charming wife and babies—and such a combination leaves mighty little chance for the tenets of pessimism to get in their work.

Mr. Brady is in Los Angeles, visiting at the home of his brother, Col. Jasper Brady, No. 862 Green avenue.

And here is the keynote to his success:

"Whenever I undertake a thing," he said yesterday, "I do so believing I am going to make a success of it. If I'm bowled over in the attempt, I simply get up, brush the dust off my coat, remark that I had a deuce of a good time trying and go at it again in the same spirit."

Just to look at this man you'd know he's one of the "take-it-by-storm" kind. His great broad shoulders—adored of all women—the tremendous manliness of him—admired by all men—his merry smile, his quick wit, his bubbling-over enthusiasm for everything that's worth while; all these make you forget that there is no hair on the top of his head in the place where the hair ought to be; make you forget that he's a successful and entertaining writer and a distinguished clergyman; make you forget his accomplishments in the charm of his personality. Certainly, in this age of the worship of the Golden Calf, no higher tribute can be paid to anyone.

Cyrus Townsend Brady studied theology under that splendid gentleman, Bishop Worthington of Omaha, Neb., and was ordained deacon in the Episcopal church in 1889 and priest a year later. He was rector of the Episcopal churches of Missouri and Colorado and archdeacon of Kansas.

"Are you devoting yourself entirely to literary work now?"

"As a business, yes," he replied. "But I preach the gospel every Sabbath possible, for pleasure.

"Not that my literary work is so sordid that it isn't a pleasure," he hastened to add, "for I need hardly tell you I love my writing. It, too, is a great pleasure, but it's my real 'business.'"

"Were you in Missouri long enough to absorb any——"

"No, sir—just long enough to absorb a wife, and get out," he replied quickly, apprehending the nature of the query.

Mr. Brady will preach next Sunday morning in the Pro-Cathedral. He and Dean Wilkins are old-time friends.

"Your first visit to Southern California, Mr. Brady?"

"Yes; and it's refreshing after coming from San Francisco, which was a disappointment in many ways."

Then he told the old, old story about Southern California, only praising it in his own way.

He expressed it thus deliciously:

"Perhaps, if a fellow lived here long enough, he really wouldn't want to die and go to heaven."

"Working now?"

"No, sir! Absorbing a bit, perhaps, in my transcontinental and Pacific Coast trip, and laying some foundations, but not working a particle."

"And home is——"

"New York."

He said it just as all New Yorkers say it.

"But really," he hastened to explain, "I'm not like some New Yorkers, for I can see things worth while outside of New York, besides scenery. People—and much else. You know New Yorkers say there's nothing outside of New York except scenery. I'm not prepared to admit the entire truth of this."

"And now that I've been away from New York, and from work, several weeks, I'm impatient to get back—to both," he continued.

"Back to the dear old 'den' and the quiet hours with pencil and scratch pad?"

"Er—not exactly, for I don't work that way. I cannot. I must be walking when I write—pacing up and down the room, talking to a stenographer."

Another illusion dispelled.

No going to a garret, locking himself in its dusty depths, "thinking, and still to think" before the dying embers of the fireplace, and all that sort of thing.

"After breakfast, say about 8:30 o'clock," he continued in response to a direct query as to how he works, "I call my stenographer, go to my room upstairs, and walk up and down, dictating. I cannot be still when I'm writing. I must be moving. My first book, 'For Love of Country,' I talked into a phonograph, and it nearly killed me, for I had to stay right there, in a chair, and talk into that machine. After perhaps two or three hours of dictating, I look over correspondence, manuscript, proofs and keep busy until 1 o'clock. In the afternoon I always go out, and in the evening I usually study."

That's his way—and it seems to have been marvelously successful.

"Of course, I compose everything before I begin to talk it," he explained; "compose it wherever I happen to be—even on the crowded streets. I go downtown, my mind absorbed in outlining some new work, and override friends and family on the streets, so oblivious am I to everything except the work."

His eyes twinkled suddenly. Then: "That's the only time my wife lets me override her."

Dr. Brady doesn't save all his quickness for his stenographer.

He's a wonderfully versatile writer. He has tackled everything except poetry.

"Didn't you ever try your hand at verse?"

"Oh, yes—but they never saw the light of day. I know my limitations well enough to realize that it wouldn't do to let the world see my alleged poetry."

"By the way," he continued, "it's about time for another real poet to appear. They come in cycles, you know. Longfellow, Whittier, Tennyson and all the old loved ones are gone, and none has come to take their place. Kipling? Ah, yes, Kipling. Sturdy, strenuous, melodious if you will—but not poetic."

There had been much of levity between us up to this moment. But now Dr. Brady's eyes lost their fun, and he started to speak beautifully of the old school of poets, and the prospects for a new and equally worthy school.

"There is no modern poet," he said, "there is much of rhyme, good strong, sonorous rhyme, but all the beauty, the depth, the delicacy, the wonderful and glorious mysticism, the——"

(Infantile voice from upstairs: "Gee, brother, ain't you cleaned up yet?")

(Another voice: "Sah! Jack, come up here this minute and keep quiet.")

The youngsters were going out for the evening, with the rest of the family. But perhaps one of these little fellows will be the next Longfellow. Who knows?

"But, Dr. Brady, will there ever come a return of the old days of poetry, or is the world becoming too occupied in the chase for coin to develop dreamers?"

"Of course they will return—better than ever," he replied, emphatically.

"Then you're an optimist?"

"Decidedly! When I cease to be an optimist I want to cease to be a man!"

One could easily have chatted thus through many hours, for Dr. Brady makes time slip by swiftly and delightfully. The popularity of his works is easily reflected in the man himself.

Cyrus Townsend Brady is one of the best-known figures in modern literature. His published works are innumerable. He is, as was stated, the most prolific writer of the times. He is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, was chaplain of the First Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American War, and has seen active railroad service with the Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific Railroads. Looking at him, it is hard to realize that a man so young in appearance could have accomplished so much.

He arrived in Los Angeles, with Mrs. Brady, Thursday, from San Francisco. They will visit several Southern California points, then start homeward via Arizona, and Dr. Brady expects to be back in that upstairs room, within thirty days, pacing up and down, dictating some more interesting pages to his stenographer, and—happy.

It will not be surprising if his next book has a tinge of the Sunland in its pages.

ROBBER BEATS AGED WOMAN.

STRIKES STUNNING BLOW IN FACE AND RUNS.

Victim is Mrs. B. A. Thompson of University — Highwayman Takes Purse, but it Contains Only Seventy-five Cents—She is Nearly Prostrated by the Rough Treatment.

Mrs. B. A. Thompson was brutally beaten and robbed near Seventh and Olive streets last evening. The victim is aged and weak. The robber was a well-dressed man.

She had been calling on a friend, and had started to take a Traction car to her home on a small ranch south of University station. She was walking on Olive street, when she observed a man coming not far behind. Her suspicions were not aroused till she had reached a dark place from which there were no other pedestrians in view.

The man came closer to her and asked something which she did not understand. She turned to inquire what he had said. With one hand he struck her a stunning blow on the face, while with the other he grabbed her purse.

The woman was knocked against the fence, and before she could recover the man was running down the street. Mrs. Thompson screamed, but before assistance came the robber was out of sight.

Immediately after the robbery Mrs. Thompson went to the Police Station. She was so much overcome with the shock produced by the rough treatment that she was scarcely able to tell what had happened.

As described by her the highwayman wore dark clothes and a soft hat, and carried a bundle of papers under his arm. The purse which he secured contained only 75 cents.

Officers searched the vicinity of Seventh and Olive streets, but found no trace of the thug.

GAFFEY AND GOAT'S MILK.

Boss Kelly of San Pedro Unbosoms Himself.

Says Angeleno Politician is Trying to Butt in.

Bath-house Luke and Game Over Harbor Front.

"Bath-house" Kelly is indignant. It's about Gaffey.

Gaffey of Los Angeles is trying to butt into chaste San Pedro politics of which Kelly owns the patent rights.

Kelly, who only wants all the frontage there is left on the new harbor given him "for a bath-house"—modest Kelly—had a couple of candidates for the Board of Trustees who would "do the right thing."

Now comes John T. Gaffey—the nerve of him!—with a couple of other candidates, one of whom is Justice Downing.

Kelly talked it over with his friends yesterday—also a reporter. Kelly's scorn stingeth like an adder.

"Me?" said Kelly—sarcastic Kelly—"Me? Don't ask me about election. Ask this stiff Gaffey. He's the boy knows all about elections."

Well if that wouldn't burn a bald spot on Gaffey!

Kelly is a big Irishman with a diamond, who made a fortune in a unlocmade saloon.

He objects to being called "Mr. Kelly."

"Don't call me Mister Kelly," he said in a voice of pained protest when called out from the crowd. "My name's Luke Kelly."

"Who's Mr. Gaffey?"

At the question, Kelly was almost struck speechless.

"Mister Gaffey?" said Kelly, with a crushing emphasis on the "Mister." "Him? He's in Los Angeles. What's he do? Huh! Butts in!"

A red rag was thrown out to Kelly, who was inwardly beginning to boil and bubble.

"What's Gaffey got to do with election?"

Kelly glared. "Why don't you ask Gaffey?" But Kelly added: "I tell you, This Gaffey, he's the original member of the Buttinski family."

Kelly grumbled and smoldered under his breath.

"Gaffey!" he snapped; "Gaffey! I tell you what makes Gaffey butt in. He was raised on goat's milk. I wish he'd had some of his mother's milk onct in awhile. He might 'a been a full-sized man."

San Pedro's head walking delegate gave a gracious nod and the waiting sun sank with a sob into the union-labeled ocean; but the softness of sunset did not enter Kelly's wrought soul.

"They tell me," said the reporter pensively, avoiding Kelly's eagle eye, "they tell me that Gaffey is going to elevate Judge Downing and Brother Hill into the Board of Trustees."

"Who was telling you?" demanded Kelly.

"Well—er—people."

Then Kelly disposed of the case of the ambitious justice of the peace of San Pedro.

"Him? You couldn't elevate him into office if you put dynamite in his pants."

Exit Judge Downing, who had no permit of Kelly.

"They tell me," persisted the reporter to Kelly, "that you are trying to run in a lot of fellows on the Board of Trustees so that they will give you the harbor front to build bath-houses on."

Kelly didn't say anything for about a minute. He peered through the gloom; looked up and down from the foot to the head of the man who asked—silent but eloquent scorn.

At last Kelly turned away to the dying sun which was quitting on union hours, and cast the last remark over his shoulder: "There are a lot of 'em who need baths all right, all right, but I ain't building bath-houses."

Kelly vows he has nothing to do with it, but there are to be "doings" in this election—the hottest San Pedro has ever seen.

Two City Trustees are to be elected. The candidates of the Kelly party are N. W. Tilton and Thomas Nelson. Tilton being at present a member of the board.

The anti-Kelly candidates are W. C. Hill, T. J. Pickering, Justice H. C. Downing and George H. Peck.

The Kelly faction claims that Downing and others, if elected, would do away with saloons. In San Pedro this would be worse than taxing air. "Antis" passionately deny the cruel slander.

Downing and the others running for ninat Kelly claim that they should be elected to keep Kelly from getting the water front.

It will be remembered that awhile back Kelly got an inspiration about bath-houses. He said a bath-house on the only public remnant of the harbor front would be great. As to what part of the unowned frontage he wanted; he wanted it all. He applied to the Trustees for a franchise for a strip 2500 feet long and running out 600 feet. And there were those who had a suspicion that it wasn't for a bath-house. At the least calculation such a franchise would be worth $200,000.

The application for a franchise was laid on the table. The anti-Kelly people claim that if Kelly's trustees get into office, Kelly will win the franchise.

Kelly insists, however, that the franchise was but a passing fancy, light as air. Wouldn't have it now!

ELLEN BEACH YAW IS STILL GIRLISH.

QUIETLY and unostentatiously—just as quietly and unostentatiously as she crept up the tall ladder of fame, Ellen Beach Yaw yesterday came home.

She wasn't going to let anybody know that Ellen Beach Yaw was in this part of the country.

She is at present domiciled at the country residence of her brother-in-law, Benjamin Thorp, who lives four miles south of Azusa. The celebrated California soprano lilies her sense far removed from the bustle and stir of city existence—she uses "existence" advisedly; says it isn't "life"—and prefers the chirping monotony of the little birds to the most melodious street-car curve ever invented.

When one goes to see Ellen Beach Yaw he takes a Pacific Electric car to Monrovia, if he is wise, and thence to the Thorp residence, set in its shielding bower of heavy-laden orange trees, there is a beautiful drive of twelve miles. This is the drive that Miss Yaw had, and which she says pleased her more than anything else since her arrival in the United States.

It is just the sort of place that she loves, nestled away from the soul-killing marts of civilization and guarded by the two treasures of art-land, birds and flowers. The tall, slender girl in this setting makes a pretty picture of charming and unaffected American womanhood at its best.

Said she: "Even coming across the desert I began to feel at home, and the bare sand and isolated stumps of pitiful sage brush seemed to be calling a most joyful welcome to me. The other passengers on the train were gloomy and dejected, and buried themselves in sleep and novels to escape the tedium of the Mojave; when I didn't they wondered why. I couldn't be tired of that, you know, because it meant to me the beginning of California, the sunshine land whose equal I have never seen nor never expect to see.

"I was never so glad to be anywhere in my life as I am to be at home today. There are so many people I want to meet, and I wish you'd especially convey a message for me to my dear friends, the newsboys. Tell them I've got something solely for their edification which I'm going to show them before long."

It is next to impossible to get Miss Yaw to talk about herself. She prefers to discuss local places and events, European news, her friends—your friends—anything, in fact, rather than Ellen Beach Yaw. Yet her triumphs have been as great as any woman's in the world. She went away under the difficult handicap of a "phenomenal-voiced" singer from the West. She had the prejudice of advertised freakishness to overcome, and establish herself as an artist whose recognition should come upon merit alone.

Latest Photograph of Ellen Beach Yaw, Taken in Paris.

She has retained her health, her girlish look and all the unaffected sweetness of her disposition. In addition she has mastered four languages, has familiarized herself with modern art, literature and events as they bear upon the progress of the world, and has achieved a pinnacle of celebrity as an operatic actress of maturity and power. Quite an accomplishment, is it not, that Miss Yaw should do this without the sacrifice of a whit of her bodily strength and kindly disposition?

Just before leaving England the management of the Paris Opera Comique cabled her to come at once to their city, and prepare for leading roles on the Comique's stage, her début to be made in April. She replied that she had made up her mind to come home and see her mother, and that nothing could shake her out of the determination. They allowed her to go and still gave her their contract, by which she will perhaps return to the French capital in June. She will make her début in "Lakme," and in her concert here she will sing the grand aria from that opera.

A pretty farewell "testimonial" was given her by the English public. A day or two before she sailed for New York she gave a concert at Newcastle, at which 800 persons were turned away. The following day she sang at Manchester, and 3000 persons trudged through a pouring rain to see the California songstress.

Miss Yaw brought home trunksful of gowns and trophies of theatrical triumphs; but except for exhibition purposes these will be of little use during her stay here.

"What will I do in California?" said she. "Well, that's simply answered; I am just going to rest and enjoy birds and flowers and nature to the utmost."

IMBIBED FREELY.

Effect of the Brand of Los Angeles's Public Spirit on Business Men of Oakland.

If one may judge from the reports that come floating down this way from the "City across the bay from San Francisco," the business men of Oakland, or many of them at least, are talented drinkers. It seems that the delegation which visited here recently imbibed so freely of the brand of public spirit, which is always to be found on tap in Los Angeles, that they fairly boiled over on their return. Nothing would do but those who came must meet with their less fortunate brethren who stayed at home and tell of the wonderful things they saw and the wonderful people they met during their pilgrimage. Then they called a meeting of the Boomers' Club (they call them "boosters" up there,) and a great crowd gathered in the Board of Trade rooms.

"They are a wonderful people, those Angelenos," said Mr. Elliott. "From the time we were met at Santa Barbara we listened to a continual song of praise; never one word derogatory to the section. One member of the Los Angeles Board of Trade told us of the beautiful parks, big hotels, recent conference, how his city spent $11,000 in entertaining 13,000 people, described the famous race track, theaters, harbor at San Pedro, and numerous other important things without even catching his breath. Really, his faith was sublime. But with it all was not one allusion to anything lacking, any of the drawbacks. Not even the lack of rain was mentioned until we brought up the subject. Then came, promptly, the response: 'Oh, that's all right; you know Los Angeles is founded on a gravel bed, and when we want water all we have to do is go down for it.' They advertise far and wide and reap rich results. I met a man in Pasadena and another in Long Beach who had never even heard of Oakland. That can be due to but one thing—we have not set our attractions and resources before the easterners sufficiently in the past. Let us plan to do it properly in the future, and get Oakland on the map."

Mr. Wallace said that he had found the trip pleasant, profitable and gained much inspiration. He considered that Oakland's streets were superior to those of Los Angeles, and said that though several millions had been expended on the nearest harbor, twenty miles away, it would not compare with that of Oakland, should one million be spent in its improvement.

Secretary Stearns stated that the trip to Los Angeles had done more to awaken a civic pride in the excursionists than anything else ever had done. He said: "No one can estimate its benefits. Oakland has ten opportunities to their one, and it will now proceed to get on the map."

H. C. Capwell arose and said that Oakland would never need to exaggerate in advertising her natural attractions, as God had done so much for Alameda county. "To Los Angeles county He gave nothing except climate. Man has done it all; reclaimed a desert that was as barren as Sahara itself, and made it what it is today."

And so they went on; they were overflowing with the recently-imbibed enthusiasm, and it was all the chairman could do to keep them from all talking at once. The Oaklanders are evidently aroused and they do say that it was the brand of spirit they imbibed on their Los Angeles pilgrimage that caused the awakening.

CANNY SCOT IN TROUBLE.

Donald McLaren, an elderly man whose name and thistle-burr brogue proclaim him as a native of the land where the bonnie briar bush grows, was arraigned before Justice Austin yesterday for petty larceny. It is charged that McLaren swiped $20 from a roomer in a lodging-house where he had been living under the guise of a wealthy mining man. He pleaded not guilty, and had his trial set for March 12. In default of bail he will spend the interim in jail.

AT THE CITY HALL.

FRANCHISE TO BE GRANTED.

BOARD FAVORS LAMAR-STREET CONCESSION.

Public Works Committee Overrules McAleer and Votes to Advertise Franchise for Sale—Library Bonds Dead—Hour Allowed for Hitching, Instead of Twenty Minutes.

A petition signed by hundreds of Southern Pacific employés was presented to the Board of Public Works yesterday, asking that the Council advertise for sale a street-car franchise on Lamar street from Alhambra avenue to Main street and on Avenue 20 from Main street to Mission road. This petition was supplemental to an application from property owners of the First Ward.

Southern Pacific employés are interested because the proposed line, if built, will run near the big shops of that company just east of the river. The property owners are anxious that the railway company should build the road because they believe it will greatly enhance the value of their property.

R. A. J. Norton the railway interests had a warm defender and enthusiastic advocate yesterday. Mr. Norton made the speech of his life in support of the petition. His words did not fall on barren or stony ground, as the majority of the board eventually voted to advertise the franchise.

Councilman McAleer was the only one to oppose the franchise. He said he did not think the Council should grant any more franchises to the railway company until the transfer and other questions had been settled in court. It was his idea that, if the Council refused further concessions, the railway company would press the cases in court, but that, if the company was granted every favor, the litigation would be indefinitely prolonged.

Mr. Norton made the point that the people and not the railway company wished to secure the franchise. He said that it was very important to the First Ward that the line should be be built, as otherwise the Southern Pacific Company might place the entrance to the shops on the Ninth Ward side and thereby permanently injure McAleer's bailiwick.

After much argument back and forth, Nofziger said:

"Well, McAleer, I guess we'll have to come to your rescue."

Davenport nodded assent, and the recommendation was made that the franchise be offered for sale.

McAleer looked a bit relieved. To be consistent he had to oppose the franchise, but it is more than probable that he was secretly gratified at the outcome of the hearing before the board.

MINOR PETITIONS.

Maier & Zobelein were granted the right to build a passageway under and across Alisо street from their brewery to a bottling works. The work is to be done under the supervision of the City Engineer.

The McCarthy Company obtained permission to place a fifty-barrel oil tank in Broadway near Court street, and Robert F. Jones was granted a similar privilege.

The petition from the Automobile Club of Southern California, calling attention to faults in the refilling of excavations was referred to the Street Superintendent with power to act. It was the opinion of the board that present ordinances cover the complaint fully and that a more strict enforcement will result in bettered conditions.

HOUR FOR HITCHING.
CHANGE IN THE ORDINANCE.

Automobiles can be left "hitched" for one hour in a given place if the Council adopts the recommendation of the Committee on Legislation, which met yesterday morning. Heretofore the limit has been twenty minutes.

This recommendation was adopted in response to a petition signed by the most prominent merchants of the city and by the Automobile Club of Southern California. Attorney Oscar Lawler for the merchants and Secretary A. P. Fleming of the automobile club presented the matter to the Council last Monday and were at the City Hall yesterday to reason with the committee.

The merchants represented to the Council that it was necessary to keep teams hitched near their places of business for a greater period than twenty minutes while members of the automobile club found it impossible to go to lunch in their cars without tramping to the Police Station later and paying a fine.

DON'T THROW STONES.
PROTECT WIRES AND GLOBES.

After deliberation yesterday the Committee on Legislation granted the request of City Electrician Manahan for an ordinance protecting the wires of the fire-alarm and telegraph system. This ordinance will specify that no wire shall be placed within ten inches of a fire-alarm wire if running parallel to it, and shall not cross a fire-alarm wire within sixteen inches. There is an ordinance on the books today which says that no wire shall be placed within six feet of a fire-alarm wire, but the measure is a dead letter.

"I am sometimes compelled to violate that ordinance myself," said City Electrician Manahan yesterday. "Under those circumstances I cannot well ask others to observe it."

An ordinance will be recommended to the Council by the committee, making it a misdemeanor to throw stones at or break any of the globes of the street-lighting system. Last month there were 776 "outages," which cost the lighting company $195. Many of the failures of lamps to burn were found to be due to the fact that mischievous persons had broken the globes with stones or other missiles.

BOND ISSUE DEAD.
NOTHING FOR LIBRARY NOW.

Five members of the Council stated yesterday that they were opposed to passing the library and jail bonds over the veto of Acting Mayor Bowen. After due consideration the Councilmen are convinced that the city should wait until an issue of $500,000 can be passed to erect a library building and palace of fine arts that will be a credit to the city. This decision settles the bond question as six of the nine votes are required to submit an issue.

The only additional bond proposition that might pass the Council would be one to build an addition to the City Hall on the north side. Yesterday it did not seem probable that even this would be done.

nUless there is a change in the sentiment of the Councilmen between now and next Monday, there is no reason why the ordinance fixing the bond election cannot be passed at that time.

Republican members of the Council were influenced in their stand by the fact that to pass the library bonds over the veto of Acting Mayor Bowen, at the request of Mayor Snyder and his Democratic Board of Library Commissioners, would be a direct slap at their president.

Todd (Democrat) stated yesterday that he is opposed to the library issue and will not vote for it for political considerations or otherwise. Davenport will not favor anything except an addition to the City Hall. Bowman's vote will be against the issue, and, almost without question, Nofziger and McAleer will vote to support Bowen in his stand.

When the fall election is at hand it is probable that a bond proposition for a library will be submitted. This will not occasion extra expense and will insure the fullest possible expression of the voters on whatever issue may be submitted.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

ATTORNEYS ARE BOUND BY OATH.

BAR ASSOCIATION AGAINST ATTORNEY JONES.

Proceeding for Disbarment on the Ground that by Fraudulent Conspiracy He Violated His Oath as an Attorney Heard Before Judge Conrey—Allowed Time to Answer.

Attorney O. H. Jones cut a sorry figure in Judge Conrey's court yesterday. He was there to answer to the accusation of having been untrue to his oath as a sworn attorney-at-law, and officer of the court. W. J. Hunsaker, as chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association, and W. H. Anderson, appeared as his accusers in the proceeding for his disbarment.

Mr. Jones is an old and feeble man—partially crippled, indeed. The pity of it! And yet the accusation alleged the most deliberate and grossest kind of fraudulent conspiracy. The case came up yesterday, not on actual trial but on the sufficiency of the accusation.

The story has already been told at length, but briefly Mr. Jones was attorney to the executors of the estate of the late Phoebe V. Cairns, and in that position contrived to appropriate a large amount of money properly belonging to the heirs to the estate. The deceased had left the major part of her property to charity, and Jones was quick to realize that that portion of the will could not stand. The law of this State is against any such method of making bequests for charitable purposes. He communicated with the eighteen heirs in the East and told them that he could by picking a flaw in the will get more money for each of them than they otherwise would receive, if they would empower him to act for them. The larger number did so, and then Jones went into court and had those provisions of the will referring to the charity bequests knocked out, and the court ordered that the estate be divided among the heirs, share and share alike.

A month after this order was made, and when it was definitely known that each heir would receive about $250, in round figures, Jones again wrote to each of the heirs asking for power of attorney to act for them, and telling them that in a very short time he hoped to be able to win out in the matter he had broached to them and about which he had imposed secrecy upon them. To sum up, Jones is alleged to have receipted to the executors for the full amount of each heir's share of the estate, but forwarded only a very small amount in excess of what they would have received had the charitable bequests in the will not been knocked out. The heirs getting some excess assumed that they had got all that was coming, and that Jones had kept his word to send more than they had anticipated in the first instance, but the attorney was the big winner. And this, too, after the court had allowed him a sum deemed to be sufficient remuneration for his labor as attorney for the estate.

Jones had filed his objections to the sufficiency of the accusation and attempted in a few rather wandering remarks to uphold the points he had raised. Mainly, however, he relied upon the three years statute of limitations under a certain section of the Penal Code.

The latter point Mr. Hunsaker urged was altogether irrelevant and referred to felony cases, whereas in the present proceeding it is sought to have Mr. Jones disbarred because of fraudulent conspiracy which is a violation of his oath as an attorney and counsellor at law.

Answering the other points raised by the accused Mr. Anderson merely read the accusation. He said that was the best, and, perhaps, the only answer that could be made. In exact detail all the facts in connection with the alleged conspiracy were set out, and after that there was nothing much left to be said. Mr. Jones did attempt to make a few remarks, however.

"I may state," he said, as he stood uneasily on his feet in front of the court, and spoke with a tremor in his voice, "that I am not making this defense because I wish to continue in practice. I sold my library long ago and have not practiced nor do I intend to resume the practice of law."

He contended in a few closing words that the accusations are not sufficient under the law, but Judge Conrey promptly held to the contrary, and Mr. Jones was allowed ten days to answer if he elects to do so.

ATTORNEY O. H. JONES,
Defendant in disbarment proceedings.

WOLVERINE SUED.
OLLIE WATKINS AGAIN.

Ollie J. Watkins has steered the Wolverine Fruit Company upon the rocks apparently, for the concern is now being sued on a note for $1000 by Eugene Whitcomb. But the mere fact of being sued for this amount does not indicate just where the wily Ollie got in his work, although his name is appended to the note as the secretary of the Wolverine Fruit Company.

It is an old story how Ollie contrived to butt into the affairs of this fruit company just about the time that it was being organized by Frank C. Giffin, a young man with some money but no great amount of snap. But snap is one of Ollie's strongest points, and he very speedily had Frank Giffin and the Wolverine Company just where he wanted it—under his thumb. Now comes the first ventilation of matters in court.

On January 3 the Wolverine Fruit Company gave a note for $1000 to the order of the American Loan and Trust Company, the note to bear 8 per cent. interest per annum, payable on demand. The ordinary stipulation was made that if the interest should not be paid it should be compounded quarterly and added to the principal. The American Loan and Trust Company endorsed the note over to the present plaintiff, and he exercises his right to declare both principal and interest due and payable, because the interest, "payable on demand," has not been paid.

The note was made by F. L. McKinley, president of the Wolverine Fruit Company, O. J. Watkins, secretary, and Frank C. Giffin, vice-president. The names are all familiar. The American Loan and Trust Company is the twin organization of the Ideal Credit Company, both of which were launched by Ollie Watkins, and carried along on the get-rich-quick plan. That is if suckers were plentiful. Ollie would get rich quick. McKinley, the president of the Wolverine, was Ollie's right bower in the Ideal Credit Company and was injected into the Wolverine at the time that Ollie persuaded Frank Giffin that he was a suitable man to make up the number of incorporators required under the law.

In the action just begun judgment is asked for $1011.50 and also that execution issue against the Wolverine Company at the corner of Seventh street and Broadway, and that the business be sold, etc., etc. Ollie Watkins is in his element in a tangle of this character. He himself is judgment proof, and old judgments against him can be collected around the agencies, for surely two-bits on the dollar. So he can afford to look on while the Wolverine Fruit Company, of which he is such a shining light and industrious official, bumps upon the rocks of financial trouble. He is all right whatever betides.

TANGLED HOME.
MRS. M'CRILLIS'S HUSBANDS.

Mrs. Katherine A. McCrillis is in court attempting to show to Judge Wilbur that she is competent to attend to her own affairs. In the premises that is a difficult question to determine, and in the meantime Mrs. Dora E. Gage is to the front affirming that her mother is just as incompetent as when she was appointed her guardian last year.

Mrs. McCrillis is a well-preserved woman of 52, and for some time past has lived separate from her husband at Long Beach. Mr. McCrillis, who is well along in years, realizing that it is "not good for man to be alone" went to living with another woman. Then his wife, believing that he had obtained a divorce from her, married a Mr. Von Kalkan, who was a neighbor and friend of her husband's. Mr. Von Kalkan, however, a very few weeks Mrs. McCrillis got tired of her second husband—by courtesy—and left him, and about that time McCrillis thought he had better be moving in the matter and began suit for divorce, and won out.

At this time Mrs. Dora Gage applied to the court to be appointed guardian of her mother, on the ground that she had an estate and was not competent to look after it herself. After several months of tutelage Mrs. McCrillis became tired of the arrangement and applied to be restored to competency. She went upon the witness stand yesterday, and told a story of tangled-up conditions that was not lacking in the elements of humor.

She said that when she married Von Kalkan she thought that her husband had got some kind of a divorce from her, and that she was free to do as she pleased. Then, she said, she learned that her husband had promised to pay $300 to Von Kalkan if he would marry her and take her out of the State, poison her and get rid of her at any cost.

"Who told you that?" interposed Judge Wilbur.

"Von Kalkan told me that," answered the witness innocently, as if there was nothing so very much out of the common.

"And did you believe him?" again queried the court.

"I didn't at the time," said Mrs. McCrillis, "but later on I began to think that perhaps there was a good deal of truth in it."

It also came out in the testimony that although McCrillis had obtained a divorce from his wife, it was after a guardian had been appointed, and no service had been made upon the guardian and consequently there is a possibility of the divorce case being reopened if Mrs. McCrillis thinks that she has been aggrieved in any way.

The complications of the case were too many for Judge Wilbur to decide off-hand, so he continued the hearing to have other witnesses present, and see if the case will become more badly balled up or whether new light will illuminate the situation.

TRIED TO HEDGE.
HIS SENTENCE INCREASED.

It pays to be straight with the court, and so Ben Littleton discovered yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to stealing a check and raising money upon it. Ben was brought up first on Thursday morning, and then he confessed, in answer to the inquiry of the court, that he was guilty, but denied that he had indorsed the check. As that was the nub of the offense Judge Oster continued the case until yesterday, and then again asked Ben if he had indorsed the name, "George B. Ellis." The young man didn't want to own up, for he thought if he did that would cinch him hard and fast. He said he pleaded guilty all right, but that he couldn't remember whether he signed that name or not, it was so long ago.

"This man is in an anomalous position," said the court. "He says he pleads guilty, but that he didn't sign the check. That, in effect, is saying that he is innocent."

The affair took place last December. Littleton was working for a man named Anchors, and one morning was sent on an errand to a business house. He entered the office to which he had been sent and found the morning mail on the desk, but no one there. He nipped up a letter and returned to Anchor's place. He told his employer that he hadn't had time to open his letters and thereupon proceeded to open the letter he had stolen. It contained a check forwarded from Riverside for $26.25, and with ready wit he said that he'd like to get it cashed. Anchors told him to sign it and he would cash it all right, and then Ben did append the signature of George B. Ellis. Anchors asked him about the name, and Ben told him that in Los Angeles he was going by the name of Ben Littleton, but that when he worked in Riverside he went by his own name, and that the amount of the check was coming to him for wages. Then he got the money.

"I want to plead guilty," he repeated more than once.

"But did you sign that check?" asked Judge Oster severely.

Ben looked at Attorney Duncan for aid in his extremity. The attorney told him that if he pleaded guilty he would have to say that he did write the signature, and only then did Ben acknowledge his misdeed, and in a very half-hearted way.

He got three years at Folsom, about three times as much as if he had made a clean breast of it at first.

COURT NOTES.
BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

TIME AND MONEY. J. W. Patterson was before Justice Pierce yesterday to be tried for stealing thirteen railroad ties belonging to the Southern Pacific Company, and valued at $5. The defendant had demanded a jury trial and thirty jurors were present in court in answer to subpoenas. At the last moment it was discovered that none of the witnesses had been subpoenaed, and the case had to be continued.

A FORLORN CREATURE. Gabriel Valesquez, a Mexican speaking no English, was before Judge Oster yesterday and pleaded guilty to burglary. He broke into a store and stole a pair of blankets and some shoes. Attorney Duncan represented the defendant, but he couldn't give the court any information about his client. He said that he appeared to be a forlorn creature, without any bad record. The court took pity on the man and sentenced him to only one year at Folsom.

BURGLARS CAUGHT. S. E. Nolan and M. E. Amey were arraigned before Justice Young yesterday, and their examination set for Tuesday next. The men are charged with breaking into the barn of Fred Humpler near Santa Fé Springs, and stealing half a case of eggs, a sack of wheat, a sack of barley and about twenty pounds of alfalfa seed. Deputy Sheriffs Franklin and Gilbert picked the men up near Los Nietos, and one of them made a confession of what they had done.

TWO DIVORCES. Sol Davis was granted a divorce from Cora B. Davis by Judge Allen yesterday, on the ground of desertion. In the same department Minnie L. Hersey was granted a divorce from Benjamin E. Hersey, on the ground of cruelty.

AN OLD TROUBLE. James J. Jackson has begun suit against Sheriff White to recover $50.50 remaining in his hands, and for $250 as damages for the plaintiff losing his position through the trouble arising out of the attachment put upon his salary by the Sheriff.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

CALVES DANGLED OVER AWNING.

QUEER WIND-UP OF NAUGHTY MIDNIGHT REVEL.

Policeman Rescues Two Tipsy Females from Perilous Position and Gets Roasted for It—Mr. Krause's Dutch is up—Detectives Dragnet Snares Cattle Thieves.

About 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning Patrolman William Matuskiwiz heard a woman's screams issuing from a room on the second floor of Sam Sullivan's joint at Fifth and Spring streets. He ran upstairs to investigate, and when he got to the room whence the noise emanated, he found it deserted, but in great disorder and the window open, while the sounds of a scuffle between two excited females were audible from the wooden awning upon which the window opened.

On looking out of the window the officer saw two women clawing and hugging each other, while two pairs of shapely female calves were dangling over the edge of the awning and the owners of the said nether extremities were in momentary danger of dropping bodily into the gutter fifteen feet below.

Several men in adjoining rooms were watching the novel fracas, but none of them attempted to rescue the women from their perilous position. Officer Matuskiwiz gallantly threw himself into the breach, and springing out on the awning he grabbed both women by the arms and dragged them back into the room.

It was a strenuous task, and the officer expected that the fair combatants would be thankful for their timely rescue, as in another moment they would certainly have fallen to the street and received painful, if not fatal, injuries. Instead of showing gratitude for their deliverance, the two women set upon Matuskiwiz and gave him the tongue-lashing of his life. They felt disgraced to have a policeman's "dirty paws" laid upon them, and they denounced the minions of law generally for interfering with "ladies" who were merely having a good time.

When Matuskiwiz couldn't stand the abuse any longer he called the patrol wagon and had the two termigants taken to the City Jail and locked up for disturbing the peace. They were identified as Mrs. Maud Bridges, wife of a railroad man living at No. 804 East Third street, and her sister-in-law, Miss Jessie Bridges of Long Beach. They said they had been drinking with a Pasadena dentist, who accompanied them to the room over the saloon, where Miss Brides, who had never been on such a lark before, became hysterical and jumped out of the window upon the awning which she mistook for a porch. The other woman followed to drag her back, but Miss Bridges was reckless of her danger and struggled to escape.

The tooth-puller had vanished when the officer appeared on the scene, but he called at the Police Station yesterday to learn the fate of the women. They pleaded guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace when arraigned in the Police Court yesterday afternoon and were fined $10 each.

NOTORIOUS JOINT.

Sam Sullivan's saloon and so-called restaurant at the northwest corner of Fifth and Springs streets, where these women made a spectacle of themselves, was also the scene of other trouble yesterday morning. While Patrolman Matuskiewicz was rescuing and arresting the women R. W. Adams, who had been robbed of his watch was being held in one of the private rooms of the place and was not allowed to report the robbery to the officer whom he knew was there. He was released from the room later and immediately caused the arrest of E. J. Griffith, a notorious character, and accompanied him to the Police Station. There he stated that he had been drinking with some women whom Griffith had introduced. He became drowsy and went to sleep with his head on a table. While he slept his watch was stolen and he accused Griffith and a waiter named Sam Meier of the theft. They denied it, of course, but the victim of the robbery told his story in such a manner that the officers were convinced that he was telling the truth and the locked up Griffith on suspicion and sent another officer to Sullivan's place to arrest Meier, who was also locked up. Both men are still in jail. Later the watch was recovered. It may be difficult to convict the two prisoners of the theft, but the police will hold both of them until their records can be investigated.

Several members of the Police Department who were at the Police Station when the robbery was reported asserted that Sullivan's place is one of the worst in the city; that although he has a restaurant liquor license, drinks are served there after the saloons are closed without the semblance of serving meals with them. They asserted that the notorious Pantheon saloon was never worse than this place, and they expressed surprise that some action has not been taken before now by the Board of Police Commissioners to make the managers of the joint show some respect for law.

KRAUSE'S DUTCH UP.
AFTER LAW DEFIERS.

Building Superintendent Julius Krause had his fighting clothes on again yesterday—not his uniform, just his every-day jeans—and started a fresh campaign against the owners and lessees of the premises at Nos. 213-215½ West Fifth street, to compel them to comply with the fire ordinances.

The shack located at the numbers above mentioned is owned by William and Charles Chick, and was gutted by fire January 24. The Building Superintendent immediately after the fire notified the owners and lessees that the structure was too badly damaged to be safely repaired, and that the entire structure would have to be torn down before it could be rebuilt.

The notice was disregarded and the lessees, Robert Marsh and S. D. Sturgis, proceeded to make repairs without getting a permit from the Superintendent of Buildings. Mr. Krause had them arrested for this, and on March 1 he again notified them to remove the damaged structure within forty-eight hours. This order was disregarded and the repairs were proceeded with in defiance of the authority of the Superintendent of Buildings.

Krause had given the parties concerned every opportunity to comply with the law, but got tired of temporizing. Accordingly he had the two Chicks, Marsh and Sturgis haled into court yesterday on a blanket complaint charging the whole four with misdemeanor. They were given until 9:30 o'clock this morning to plead, and Krause says if they want to fight the case on technicalities, he is ready to meet them.

LIND'S DELUSIONS.
FEARS SECRET FOES.

John Lind, a curly-haired Swede about 23 years of age, was arraigned before Justice Austin yesterday on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon and having lottery tickets in his possession. Lind pleaded that he carried the revolver for self-protection, as he was bothered by secret enemies who were following him around and trying to do him harm. He could not account for the lottery tickets, unless some enemy slipped them into his pocket, just to get him into trouble.

Lind's rambling remarks to the court clearly showed him to be mentally unbalanced or feigning insanity. A man owning property on Adams street, who had employed Lind as a sub-gardener, testified that the fellow had been acting queerly of late, and was in the habit of firing his revolver at imaginary foes at night, and carrying a naked light around the house and barn. The neighbors feared he would shoot somebody or set the buildings on fire.

The police were notified of his revolver practice and when he was arrested and searched the revolver and lottery tickets were found on his person. Justice Austin deferred sentence until 9 o'clock this morning, and in the mean time Lind's mental condition will be inquired into.

DETECTIVES' DRAGNET.
SNARES CATTLE THIEVES.

The dragnet which Detectives Shearon, Jones and Murphy have spread for a band of young livestock thieves headed by James Cronin, a Whittier State School graduate, has resulted in haling five young men before Justice Austin the last few days. One of them, Robert Small, charged with helping to dispose of stolen property, was discharged owing to insufficient evidence. Cronin and Louis Williams were held several days ago to answer for the larceny of two cows belonging to Rancher Wilcut. Cronin and George Walters were held to answer yesterday for the larceny of a mare belonging to Isaac Dixon, and Cronin and George Ratchelior were held jointly for the larceny of a horse belonging to William V. Anderson.

Police Court Notes.

William Brock, who ran into the arms of Special Officer Remgen while attempting to break into a house, was held to answer for attempt to commit burglary by Justice Austin yesterday.

W. H. Bollyn was arraigned for burglary, on complaint of Detective Cowen, and had his examination set for 3 o'clock this afternoon.

S. R. Meyers, who disturbed the peace by having a fight with L. Lamb, paid a fine of $15. Lamb, who simply acted on the defensive, was acquitted.

L. B. McNabb, a building contractor, was fined $5 by Justice Chambers for obstructing North Broadway with building materials.

LOSE FIGHT FOR TRANSFER.

DEMURRER IN NINTH-STREET CASE SUSTAINED.

Los Angeles Railway Company Wins First Blood in the Contest Over Tickets—Judge Oster Holds that the Latest of Two Conflicting Statutes Should Prevail.

The Los Angeles Railway Company has won first blood in the fight for the Ninth-street transfers. Judge Oster has sustained the demurrer filed in the suit of Robert A. Hayden, on his own behalf and also as the assignee of seven others, claiming similar charges.

The claim set up rested on the constitutionality and validity of "an act to provide for the establishment and fix the rates of fares on street railroads in cities and towns of more than 100,000 inhabitants," which was approved January 1, 1873. Attorneys for the defendant company contended that the act was special legislation and therefore unconstitutional, and the court holds that as the law was adopted under a previous Constitution permitting such legislation the objection was not well taken. But when the attorneys raised the point that an act of 1878 had been repealed by an amendment to section 501 of the Civil Code in 1903 they were on more solid ground.

"It is well settled," says the court, "that repeals by implication are not favored and that when two statutes deal with the same subject, both may be given force if possible. Nevertheless, when they are clearly repugnant, and the integrity of both cannot be maintained, the second in point of time must prevail, and the first be repealed."

Judge Oster goes into the matter at considerable length and quotes a number of authorities, and then proceeds: "To adapt to the present occasion the language quoted, and which has the double sanction of the Supreme Court of California and the Supreme Court of the United States, a careful comparison of the act of 1878 and the amendment of 1903 can leave no doubt that it was the intention of the Legislature by the latter statute to regulate the entire matter to which they had reference; to make such changes in the law as it stood as they thought best, and to substitute their will in that regard entirely for the old law upon the subject."

This is a knockout for the labor leaders and the Los Angeles Rail-did they think He could, or have done, and how? Prevent m, or guide the boat to land, the storm?

III.

Rebuking the Storm." (Verses 39-41.)

He awoke, and rebuked the and said unto the sea, peace, be and the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. And He said unto them, Why are ye fearful? Have ye not yet faith? And they feared exceedingly and said one to another, Who, then, is this, that even the wind and sea obey Him?"

(1.) His Words of Command.

He did it with a word, but it was a word of authority from Him who made all things. It was as easy for Him as Edison finds it easy to control a machine that he has invented, as the engineer finds it easy to stop the roar and whizz and flash of the electrical machinery by working a little lever. It was a word of rebuke as if some unruly animal had been making trouble. Mark alone tells us the words in which He expressed the rebuke—"Peace, be still," meaning exactly "be silent; be constantly muzzled," and the wild beast lay down to be muzzled and ungrowling repose. Here Jesus shows His real deity and in His nature the divine and human blend without clash or contradiction in the unity of one person.

(2.) His word of reproof and comfort.

That was spoken to the disciples, showing that their faith was defective and they were to blame for it. They had seen enough of His power to know that His sleep did not put a limit on it; they knew enough of His tender sympathy for all and his special love for them, to know He would not neglect them. They deserved the rebuke and profited by it, for it had comfort for them in the implication that He could not be indifferent to their welfare. The stilling of the storm itself would teach the lesson of trust, for He did it completely. Usually after the wind ceased blowing, it would take the sea a long time to get calm, but now it was like glass in a few minutes and they could not but feel safe with Him.

(3.) The effect on them.

It was first awe of such might, but it would change to love of the mighty one in time. It was next a question that they kept asking themselves and even asked each other about what sort of being Christ was. His love for them and His power over nature startled them. They had seen Him do wonderful things, but this is to them more unique and wonderful than any other deed. Yet they still have many things to learn.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The two things to lay to heart are that Jesus here exercises the divine prerogative of controlling matter by the bare expression of His will, and that this divine attribute was exercised by the wearied man, who, a moment before had been sleeping the sleep of human exhaustion. The marvelous combination of apparent opposites, weakness and divine omnipotence, which yet do not clash, nor produce an incredible monster of a being, but coalesce in perfect harmony, is a feat beyond the reach of the loftiest creative imagination. If the evangelists are not simple biographers, telling what eyes have seen and hands have handled, they have beaten the greatest poets and dramatists at their own weapons, and have accomplished 'things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme."—[Maclaran.

Do not think for a moment that the presence of Jesus Christ in the ship of your life will keep the storms from blowing. There are moments of religious excitement when preachers and teachers lay the reins on the necks of their thought-horses and get run away with. We sometimes paint very rosy pictures of the voyage of life "with Jesus at the helm." We are so anxious to get our friends to embark that we call a very stormy ocean a quiet inland lake, and represent the happy voyagers as lolling on the decks and sailing on an even keel. That may be your way of getting to the desired haven, but it has not been mine. I have heard the wind howl through the rigging, and seen it split the sails. I have felt the waves wash over the gunwales. I have been hoisted by them until my ship has hit the clouds, and gone down into their troughs until the keel has scraped the bottom. And I cannot yet say that I hope I'll never see another storm.—[Goss.

POINTS TO IMPRESS.

(1.) That Jesus was an instance of a perfectly normal human being, the only one known to history.

(2.) That He never does for us what we can do for ourselves.

(3.) That He never does for Himself what we can do for Him.

(4.) That He trusts His previous interests in the hands of His disciples.

(5.) That we must never go where we cannot expect Him to go with us.

(6.) That the presence of Jesus does not prevent storms, but assures us of safety, in spite of them.

(7.) That, when we are in trouble, the only help is to go to Him.

(8.) That we not only get relief from peril, but lessons of providence from Him.

(9.) That "Jesus never raised storms, but He quelled them."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

LIFE STORMS AND THEIR STILLING.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer-meeting Topic of the Christian Endeavor Societies, the Baptist Young People's Unions, the Epworth Leagues, etc., for March 6: "How Christ Stills the Storms of Life."—[Ps. cvii, 23-31.

By William T. Ellis.

"I've slept on an ocean steamer in a fog," says a voyager, "when we were so uncertain of our bearings that soundings were constantly taken, and the cries of the leadsman merged into my unconsciousness with the hoarse warnings of the ship's whistle and the ringing of a fogbell off in the darkness somewhere. Yet I slept as soundly and serenely as ever I slept in my bed at home. Why? Because I trusted the captain. I knew that he knew his business. He needed no worrying of mine. So while he watched, I slept." This is the secret for all who would be at peace in the storms of life. If Christ is captain, trust Him. Have faith in His power and wisdom. When we ask Christ to take the oridge and control the ship of our life, is it not foolish to indulge in any misgivings or fears. "Have faith in God."

There is no "don't worry" recipe like a glimpse of the serene and radiant face of Jesus.

Sometimes Christ stills storms by strengthening the sailors.

The peace of the Christian is a vindication of the gospel. The teaching which can carry men fearlessly and calmly through all of life's great trials and petty annoyances, with an unfailing song in their hearts, is a teaching more than human. And every disciple who looks out upon the world with a steady eye and unruffled spirit is an advertisement of the incomprehensible peace of Jesus.

Trouble in the barnyard reveals itself by unusual clatter and racket. Noise and fuss are a fowl's signal of distress, in which it resembles many human beings. Not all souls are brave and strong and silent in calamity. The friends who manned the boat in which Christ slept on Galilee lost their heads when a storm arose. He rebuked them for their fear and agitation. They were perfectly safe with Him aboard, and even if they had been doomed to go to the bottom their excitement would have lessened neither wind nor wave. The Psalmist's words are a message for today, "Then are they glad because they are quiet."

Storms prove a ship and troubles test a life. Better to have wrestled with the tempestuous seas than never to have sailed out of the harbor's shelter.

Not always, nor often, is it by subduing the outward tumult that Jesus stills for us the storms of life. He chooses rather to impart a heart of courage to overcome the tumult.

Sometimes He delivers His own out of their distresses, as He did the children of Israel, but more frequently He delivers them in their distresses, which is better. It is better to be given strength to win a battle than to be spared the battle altogether, since we are to win through the likeness of the Son of God by the enemies we overcome.

In the bitter waves of woe,
Beaten and tossed about
By the sullen winds that blow
From the desolate shores of doubt,
Where the anchors that faith has cast
Are dragging in the gale
I am quietly holding fast
To the things that cannot fail.
—[Washington Gladden.

The life which knows no storms knows no strength.

Ocean travelers are sometimes affrighted by storms which are really not serious, but which, in their inexperience, they esteem dangerous. Their need is larger knowledge, so by the storms they pass through they gain a sense of relative values. So it is with troubles. More tears are shed over the trifling troubles of youth than over the great disasters of maturity. A knowledge of proportions comes by these experiences, and the mission of some hardships is to fortify us against greater. Blessed is the man who does not mistake every inconvenience, difficulty or loss for a great trouble.

There is no protection in life's storms like the presence of Christ. Where He is there is peace.
Over and over it comes to me—
The thought of Christ on the stormy sea.
In times of trouble and loss and pain,
When my heart's a ship on the wind-swept main.

Over and over it comes to me—
The thought of my comrades on Galilee,
And their awe when the winds obeyed His will
As He spake and said to them, "Peace, be still."

Over and over it comes to me—
Each human life has its Galilee,
And Christ is ever the Christ of old
When His "Peace, be still," to the waves was told.

Better strengthened in a storm than solaced after it.

Life's journey is long for two worlds, one of them uncharted—and there is comfort in remembering that while many storms must be met by the way, they are only by the way. Every one will pass and be forgotten, but life goes on forever.

The oil of God's spirit tranquillizes the worst waves of this world's woes.

LONG-LIVED FAMILY.

Funeral of Nonagenarian Willis Bisbee. Four Aged Brothers and Sisters Among Mourners.

Among the mourners at the funeral of Willis Bisbee, who died March 2, in his 92nd year, and was buried yesterday afternoon, were two brothers and two sisters of the deceased, ranging from 73 to 83 years of age. Two other brothers passed away after having reached the age of 83. The surviving members of this remarkably long-lived family are O. L. Bisbee, aged 83; Mrs. Louvina Clark, 77; Mrs. Mary Seeley, 75, and R. A. Bisbee, 73.

Willis Bisbee, the eldest of the family, was born at Warsaw, N. Y., April 13, 1812. He emigrated to the Middle West in 1846, and for many years was engaged in farming at White Pigeon, Mich. In the fall of 1886 he came to Los Angeles with his daughter, Mrs. E. E. Watson and spent his declining years in retirement. He passed away Wednesday at Mrs. Watson's home, No. 234 East Twenty-third street, after a brief illness. Besides the daughter, Mrs. Watson, he also leaves one son, John Bisbee, in this city, and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral service was conducted at Bresee Bros.' parlors, by Rev. S. K. Gibson, an old friend of the family. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The body was interred in Evergreen Cemetery.

BIOGRAPHY.

An Exhaustive Work.

JOHN MARSHALL. LIFE, CHARACTER AND JUDICIAL SERVICES. Three volumes. Callahan & Co., Chicago.

This is a work which will fill a place in many libraries and be regarded as a valuable addition. And yet it is a book that hardly any one will undertake to read through. It will be read in parts with pleasure, and will be laid down by all except a very few as wearisome. The explanation of this more or less paradoxical statement or prophecy is that the book is like an encyclopedia, but without the variety of an encyclopedia. It is more connected than a dictionary, but it suffers from the fault of incessant repetition. We hardly agree with the editor that it might have been delived before one audience. No audience except deaf persons would have remained after a tenth part of the book had been delivered. For the book is made up of the commemorative addresses that were delivered on the occasion of the centennary of John Marshall's appointment to the position of Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. This commemoration was held in response to the suggestion of Mr. Adolph Moses of the Chicago bar. It was at once recognized that the event proposed as a date to be commemorated was of great importance, and that it would be well to recall the immense benefit that came to this land through the interpretations of the Constitution delivered by Marshall or under his inspiration. He was in a sense the creator of the Constitution. It had existed before him. But it was an imperfect instrument, in that the interpretation of many a blind phrase had not been made, and with all its attempts at being complete showed when brought to the test many doubtful points, and points apparently unprovided for. It was the good fortune of the country that Marshall was appointed by President Adams. A few weeks later, Jefferson came into office, and a wholly different school of interpretation would have held the place which was filled by the loose constructionist, Marshall. It was because Marshal was a loose constructionist that the Constitution was brought by his interpretations into a workable condition. The whole future of the country depended upon his manner of dealing with the new and unforeseen questions that arose, and his long continuance in office, more than a generation, made it possible to give a direction to the interpretations of the Constitution that has remained permanently fixed in the history of the country. The immense valuable service rendered by this distinguished Virginian was generally recognized and in almost every State in the Union the commemoration of the day was entered into with enthusiasm by all the members of the bar, and not merely in their private capacity, but as officials of the court. At Washington the greatest celebration naturally took place, but in all the important cities the same theme was handled by men who were distinguished for their legal attainments as well as for their official position. Of course there was a vast amount of similarity in the various orations that were delivered throughout the country. There were naturally different ways of putting the same thing. There was also a variety in the treatment introduced to a considerable extent by the different minds that handled the same theme. But the assertion that the same audience might have listened to all the orations is preposterous. We have been wearied by reading merely a few, in spite of the remarkably high character of the addresses before us are all well got up. There are excellent illustrations of the places connected with Marshall and portraits reproduced with skill. There are added to the addresses and proceedings on the actual day of commemoration the eulogies delivered by Mr. Sinney and Justice Story in 1835, soon after the death of Marshall, the address of Mr. Phelps before the American Bar Association at its annual meeting in 1879; of Chief Justice Waite) and the oration by Mr. Rawle in 1884, at the unveiling of the statute of Marshal in the Capitol grounds in Washington. The addition of these seems to give a rounding out to the volume and adds much to its value. It is impossible to read any number of these brilliant orations without being impressed with the surprising consensus of the most eminent legal minds of this country, as to the importance and valde of the work of Marshall as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States for so long a time. At the same time we cannot but regret that the three massive volumes before us are not a well written history of Marshall, a biography which would give the life and thought of the man by one who made an independent investigation into the sources. The editor suggests the possibility of publishing a volume or series of volumes containing the important decisions rendered by Marshall. We shall look forward to this as an important addition to the accessible facts in connection with the career of this great jurist. But we shall not be satisfied unless there appear a suitable biography in the light of the large issues that have been directed by the work of Marshall.

HISTORY.

Hennepin.

A NEW DISCOVERY OF A VAST COUNTRY IN AMERICA. By Father Louis Hennepin. Edited by Reuben Gold Thwaites. Two volumes. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

This famous historical document, which has long been regarded as an important source of American history, is reprinted from the second London edition of 1698, with fac similies of the original title pages, and illustrations, and the addition of "Introduction Notes and Index by the author of "The Jesuit Relations and Allied Documents." Each volume of this edition corresponds to a part of the original issue. The paging is continuous. The editor has corrected obvious mistakes in the typography of the original, but otherwise left it unaltered. The student, therefore, has in this work what is for all intents practically the same as the London edition of 1698. The introduction is interesting and gives a good account of Hennepin and some criticism upon his style, and his value as a trustworthy narrator. The man seems to have been, in spite of his manifest faults, an interesting personage. He was possessed with a desire for foreign travel. Fate somehow made a monk of him when he should have been a soldier or better still a sailor. He loved from his youth to see strange lands and to hear about marvelous adventures. He tells us of the way in which he used to linger about the taverns listening to tales there related of adventure in the New World. Strange conduct it would seem for a Franciscan monk! But the nature of the man remained firmly set in spite of the fact that he had entered the religious life. He was able early to get away from his work as a priest in Flanders, and to go to Canada and to see something of the new life that was there being built up by the energy of the French. It was not the humdrum life of the English colonists, who were steadily laying the foundations of a great state. It was the exciting life of the hunter and trapper, of the voyageur and courier de bois, that interested the monk in Canada. By various schemes, not wholly clear, he got himself attached to several expeditions, and most important of all to that of La Salle into the upper part of the Mississippi Valley. Here he saw plenty of strange sights, met with strange people and had his fill of adventure. His work as a writer is marred by very serious faults. He cannot be depended upon in many important points, especially where he himself is involved. In his description of the manners and customs of the people, se seems to be rather accurate. In his accounts of natural scenery he is for the times excellent. But in his account of the expeditions there is always an attempt, by no means concealed, to make the part he played more prominent than was warranted by the facts. He purposely overlooked and omitted all reference to those missionary efforts of others, especially of the Jesuits, that in any way seemed to detract from the sole glory of his own. He ever seeks to magnify his own importance. The history of the book itself is not creditable to Hennepin, and the reader has constantly to be on his guard in believing what he has to say of the details of the expeditions in which he took part. But with these limitations, the work of Father Hennepin has great and abiding value. It may not be truthful throughout, and we are inclined to think that he had a mind that did not clearly distinguish between truth and fiction. But it throws a great deal of light upon some of the obscurer passages in the history of the Middle West. The notes and editorial work generally aid the student in using the volume aright.

World Battles.

FAMOUS BATTLES OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. Edited by Charles Wells. A. Wessels Company, New York.

The great success of Creasy's books on the decisive battles of the world seems to have inspired this volume. It differs from Creasy's works as to selection in that the importance of the battle as deciding great wars is not taken as the reason for inclusion in the present volume. But all sorts of battles, by sea and land, are described. The first volume is devoted to the period between 1801 and 1817. At least we are so informed by the title page. But the last battle is that of Waterloo, which took place in 1815. The heading to the section, however, reads "The Battle of Waterloo, 1817, A.D." The reader is left to draw inference as to the care shown in such a statement.

The second volume covers the period between 1861 and 1871. Whether there is a third volume covering the period between the fall of Napoleon and the American Civil War or not, we have no means of ascertaining. There is no intimation of any definite number of volumes to complete the set. If the first volume (we call it such for convenience) was carelessly and uncritically arranged, the second is even more so. We have only a few of the famous battles. They are one-half devoted to the American Civil War, and the remaining half devoted to the Prusso-Austrian War and the Franco-Prussian War, with the exception of two small pieces devoted respectively to the battle of Archahree Fork and the Ashanti War. There is not a word about the war between Denmark and Prussia. Not a word about the war between France and Italy against Austria. There is not a word about the war for the consolidation of Italy. The work, as a whole, is a more or less better-shelter collection of descriptions of battles. The authors are varied as the contents. We have some excellent pieces by Archibald Forbes, some extracts from the story books of Henty, Sir Walter Scott's account of the Battle of Waterloo, and pieces of A. S. Mackenzie, August Evan Abbott, and others. Where these pieces were first published we do not always know. There is no indications of the source except in a few instances. The books are interesting in spots. It depends upon the writer who, for the time being, occupies the field. The printing of the volumes is fair. The pictures are atrocious. It appears to us that the usefulness of the book is rather limited.

SOCIOLOGY.

A Useful Book.

SOCIOLOGY. THE SCIENCE OF HUMAN SOCIETY. By J. W. Stukenberg. Two volumes. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

The science of sociology has passed through a number of interesting phases within a comparatively recent period. At first the science, as is not infrequently the case, was not known under the present name; in fact, was hardly recognized as a distinct branch of human study. We believe that it was with Comte that the present name arose. It came into being, in a certain sense, with that remarkably one-sided philosopher. The theory of evolution made a great change in the position and methods of the new science. It seemed very plausible to regard the whole body of society as an organism. The idea was as old as human literature, and has appeared in one form or another everywhere. But in the hands of the new biological method, the theory of the organic nature of society received a new interpretation. Evolution was and is social life as in the life of the lowest forms of existence. It was a new and powerful development. But at the same time there came into prominence a number of sciences that were concerned with the various phases of human society. Political economy, as it was called, became an independent science, possibly a little more independent than was wholly satisfactory. There was also anthropology. This sought to explain a great deal that belonged to human society. There were still other moral and social sciences. It was evident that there was no clearly defined space for sociology. It might, however, be the science which was composed of these other sciences, a sort of comprehensive epitome of all that was known of human society and its forces. But this would be no master science. It would be simply an epitome of other sciences. It was evident that the place of sociology was in danger, and as a consequence any profitable study of its phenomena seemed doubtful. The essential point was to turn aside from false analogies, such as were suggested by the exclusive biological conception, and equally from the narrow views that would make the science of no significance. It was necessary to study phenomena that were distinctly social. The results of students groping about was that the attention was directed toward what was distinctive of society, not what it had in common with lower forms of life. It was seen to lie in consciousness. This Tarde did in his work in which he saw the fundamental idea of sociology in the law of imitation. This did also Giddings in a wonderfully masterly way in his statement of the consciousness of kind, which he showed was the fundamental social phenomenon. Prof. Stukenberg followed, in the present volume, in the footsteps of these masters. He was a man of many brilliant parts, well versed in philosophical speculation and devoted to sociology. But his book is somewhat of a disappointment to us. We had expected more. There is a certain crudeness about it that rests. The author has seen fit to cut it up into paragraphs, with the usual result. Each paragraph stands out as a more or less detached thought and suggesting the condensation of a larger work than the incorporation into a whole. The exposition is elaborate, and yet it lacks a certain fullness that can often be acquired without great length, in the fullness of thought and the compact and logical arrangement of parts. The book is in spite of faults that will be obvious to any reader is a distinct contribution of value and will be found useful by students. If it is not a great book, nor a brilliant book, it is at least a useful book, with clear exposition, sound reasoning, careful arrangement, and no one who reads it can fail to have a large idea of the author's ability without being convinced that the masterpiece of sociological speculation has not appeared as yet.

FICTION.

Clara Morris.

LEFT IN CHARGE. By Clara Morris. G. W. Dillingham Company, New York. (Price $1.50.)

It is not given to many to achieve in two provinces of art, as Clara Morris has done. There is no doubt that she writes well—in a crisp and sparkling style, embellished by original and often striking figures of speech, by touches of pathos and flashes of humor. Her new book, a novel, dealing with country life in Illinois, in the middle of the nineteenth century, exhibits all these literary virtues; as it is also illustrative of certain—perhaps minor—defects that we have learned to expect in her work. Chief of these is the inability to forego small stage effects and stage "business," by which the dramatic or pathetic situation is heightened or lightened. It is noticeable, for instance, that there is always someone to stand looking on, like the brisk, witty parlor maid of the comedy stage with appropriate comment that sets things in their right relation and affords vent for the emotion of the audience, be it admiration or indignation. It is always the correct thing that is said—the thing one would have liked to hear had one been there; the crass phrase of cutting ridicule, the expressive epithet that gives us the heroine's loveliness in a nutshell, the tender word of pity and anger that puts the cruel conduct of the villain and the womanly courage and self-sacrifice of the heroine in exactly the right light; the thing that is so seldom said in real life, or said badly, or only when it is too late. In order to accomplish such effects, Clara Morris does not hesitate to put the most incongreous words into the mouths of her characters—poetic terms and figures of speech utterly foreign to their mental constitution, unusual terms and figures, the product of her own literary inventiveness. And her characters not only say the right thing far too often, they also think the right thing (which is still more unusual in real life) unless it conduces to the general or to a particular effect for them to do otherwise; when, on the contrary, they are the most impossible of dull clods. For instance, the old stage device for winning a laugh by enveloping the hero in a fog of bewilderment over the charmingly yet exasperatingly incomprehensible ways of the heroine is a frequent device of Miss Morris. These touches often add to the lightness and vividness of the style; yet they are literary faults, measured by the highest standards, and if they could be shed without making the style laborious through the effort, the result would be desirable. Less serious, because more superficial, are Miss Morris's quite occasional breaks in English, as for instance, her description of Kate Gallaway (page 36) "the short, cross, stout woman, who already she did not like." Few people will class this piece of fiction as on a par with Miss Morris's stage reminiscences. Nevertheless, "Left in Charge" is a story of considerable plot and human interest. The chief character is a girl who is left behind, at the age of 8, by a mother converted to Mormonism and hurried off to Illinois by the elders. This child is already earning money in light household service, when she is abandoned, and continues to support herself, until in womanhood, her admiration and love are won by a French Canadian who saves her life. The man turns out a rake and finally a polygamist, and she leaves him to the wife who has come from France to claim him, and sets out to earn her own way. She has a child, a baby girl, whom her pseudo husband loves, and for the sake of this child he pursues her from place to place, in different parts of the country. Finally, she gets track of her mother and sister, and goes to find them in Illinois. Here she meets her husband again and is freed from him by the shot of a man whose sweetheart he has insulted. The love story of this other pair is interwoven with that of her own fortunes, and the life of her relatives, the Gallaways, amusingly described.

The Matinee Girl.

THE FIRST LOVES OF PERILLA. By John Corbin. Fox, Duffield & Co., New York. (Price $1.)

Perilla, christened Susanna Jane, is a matinde girl whose susceptible heart, or rather, imagination, is affected by her stage heroes, so that she imagines herself in love with leading dramatic lights, one after another, to the delight of her admiring bachelor uncle, who acts as father confessor. Like the Shakespearean lady, she never tells her love, but contents herself with buying stacks of photographs of her transient flames. Then, when she finally falls really in love, with a lifelong friend just out of college, she is appalled at confronting herself as a woman with a past. Remorse seises upon her, and for a time she is puzzled as to her duty. Her uncle attempts to play matchmaker, but, being a mere man, muddles things; at least, he might do so, were not the two lovers quite capable of managing their own affairs for themselves. The story, about nine thousand words in length, is published in tiny book form, in daintiest typographical dress, with a charming picture of Perilla as frontispiece.

Clever Detective Plot.

THE YELLOW HOLLY. By Fergus Hume. G. W. Dillingham Company, New York. (Price $1.50.)

The author of the famous "Mystery of a Hansom Cab" has but little literary art in the sense of style or depth of character study; indeed, much of the time, he cannot even write commonly good English; but he certainly possesses a remarkable ability in the handling of situations and the development of a mystery plot. In "The Yellow Holly," which opens with the usual murder, the reader is repeatedly led, with success, on false trails until the end of the book, the plot growing more instead of less complex as it unravels. His suspicions flit from person to person, from a noble lord to a music hall dancer, from the ostensible detective of the tale to the mother of the heroine, from the daughter of the murdered woman to the hero himself; and the final clearing up of the mystery will draw from few an honest "I told you so."

Written for the Stage.

While Clara Morris borrows from the stage, in her literary work, probably from mere mental force of habit and possibly without being aware of the theatrical influence, there are a number of authors who are now evidently writing directly with a view to dramatization, merely taking in the loose change of the public on the way to the stage door. Brady's latest book belongs to this class of novels, and one is not surprised to learn from the author that the work of dramatization has already been performed. Plot and characters are of a type popular at present on the comedy stage. The hero, whose name, Elijah D. Tillottson, is typical of his personality and the story is precisely the sort of figure that wins the loudest applause from the galleries—a middle-aged, self-made multi-millionaire, originally well educated but a trifle roughened in externals by long residence in South America; bluff, sincere, extravagantly generous and impossibly chivalric, flinging money to the dogs on the slightest provocation, especially where a woman is concerned, and making it again as easily as he throws it away. Formerly his type hailed from somewhere in the West—preferably a mining camp; but since the West has become more civilized, we have to import it, in deference to cold fact and the sensibilities of the natives, and South America is as good a land for the purpose as any. Elijah D. Tillottson does not obtrude upon the deeper feelings of the audience to the overworking of its nerves. He is neither strong enough for tragedy nor fine enough for high comedy, but is mixed to just the right mental consistency to keep the house in a perpetual pleasant titulation of emotion, see-sawing between smiles and tears.

The other male characters of the book are moulded on a similar plan. The Honorable Reginald Killigern Kentigrew is the usual stage Englishman, to be identified by his monocle, his "you know," "ripping," "jolly," etc., which are inserted in his conversation as indiscriminately as "I guess," "stranger" and the other verbal labels with which the stage American is tagged by British authors. He, also, is of an incredibly chivalric type. Tillottson's South American partner is possibly even more chivalric, plays very successfully the part assigned on the medieval stage to Herod—namely that of the clown; and his "Whoopee!" of delight at first sight of the heroine is supposed to bring down the house.

The heroine is herself, of course, entirely decorous and charming (a blue-blooded New York society woman) and is but seldom allowed to cause a laugh, then only one in which admiration is mingled with amusement in equal proportions.

According to the plot, Elijah D. Tillottson, the Honorable Reginald, etc., and a third party of lesser interest, are all in love with the heroine, Miss Livingstone, and all propose to her in succession, Mr. Tollottson first, of course, in order to engage the early sympathies of the house. He is so manly and earnest, despite his South American peculiarities, that Miss Livingstone experiences the awakening of a new feeling for him, and is inclined to accept him, but defers the decision until next day. Insulted by her brother, Tillottson in the meantime determines to make himself the equal of the woman he loves in wealth, at least, if he cannot in culture. He therefore sets off again puts off her decision, and starts out to double his fortune of five millions, allowing himself the ample period of two months in which to accomplish this little undertaking. Miss Livingstone also puts off the other two lovers for two months, as she is not sure of her feelings, and forbids them to see or communicate with her during the period, since Mr. Tillottson has elected to follow this plan. All three, however, send flowers daily—Tillottson roses, the Hon. Reggie violets, and the third man carnations.

Tillottson, aided by his partner from South America, who also puts an entire fortune of five millions into the deal, starts out to manipulate a corner in coffee on the Stock Exchange. By a strange coincidence, the Hon. Reggie goes into the deal, and Bertie Livingstone, the heroine's brother, embezzling her fortune, plays opposition, endeavoring to bear the market. Just as the corner is established, Tillottson learns that Miss Livingstone's fortune is involved and promptly ruins himself to save her; the South American partner going cheerfully into this part of the transaction as into the other. The Hon. Reggie proves the usual good fellow and informs Miss Livingstone of the facts, and the latter proposes to the now recalcitrant lover, who accepts with humility but great joy. The two devote their ill-gotten gains of the Stock Exchange to charity and Tillottson makes over his suddenly paying Brazilian mine to the partner.

All of which is very amusing, and also good comedy—of its kind; but not fiction of a high class. We may laugh over it, but we can hardly take it in any literary seriousness. However, undoubtedly Mr. Brady did not intend it to be taken seriously.

NEW MAGAZINES.

The March number of the Critic contains an article by President Roosevelt on "The Mission of the Republican Party." This article outlines what should, in the opinion of the President, be the policy of the Republican party if its maintenance in power is to secure material prosperity and national development. The paper is to be printed later as a "Foreword" to the "History of the Republican Party," by Francis E. Curtis, which G. P. Putnam's Sons now have in press.

Mrs. Stepney Rawson, Robert W. Chambers, Roy Rolfe Gilson, Alice MacGowan, Margaret Sutton Briscoe, Grace Lathrop Collin, Kate Whiting Patch, Charles B. de Camp, and May Isabel Fisk contribute the short fiction to Harper's for March.

The leading article in the March number of the House Beautiful describes the "Art-Craft Movement" as a feature in a college art department. There is a finely-illustrated article on basketry.

The February bulletin of the Southern California Academy of Sciences contains a scientific descriptive article on "The Bees of Southern California," by T. D. A. Cockerell; an article on the nesting habits of Trypoxolon apicalis Fox, by Dr. A. Davidson, and a resume of present knowledge regarding "Prehistoric Man and His Development." In a leader H. M. Hall reviews some recent work on American, and, in particular, Southern California flora.

A very clever little story is "The Extra Girl," by James Forbes, in the March Ainslee's. It is a short human document in the form of a monologue.

Charles G. D. Roberts has a finely descriptive nature article in the March McClure's. It tells a story the opposite of Jack London's "Call of the Wild"—the story of a black bull born and bred in the wild, who, seeking his kind in a domestic herd, proved unfit for the new environment, and perished. Thomas Nelson Page writes on "The Negro; a Southerner's Problem." Anthony Hope has a stort story which one suspects to have been suggested in a measure by personal experience. One of the brightest bits of fiction for the months is Jeannette Cooper's "A Candid Violet," in the same issue.

Some of the best articles published on gardening are appearing in Country Life in America. The March number has several, all finely illustrated—one on rock gardens, two on sweet herb gardens, one on gladiolus growing, one on formal gardening, besides seven prize articles on different phases of the subject, the widely announced article on the Arnold Arboretum, etc.

The leading article in the month's World's Work is an illustrated one on Korea, Japan and Russia, by Robert E. Spear. Ezra S. Brudno, author of "The Fugitive," one of the striking new books of the year, writes on "The Russian Jew Americanized." Guy Warfield contributes an article on the effects of the coal strike; Herbert Laurence Stone one on "Ten Years' Advance in Railroading." Adele Marie Shaw, who is making a systematic study of the public schools of the country for a series of articles, writes this month on "The Ideal Schools of Menominee." "The Postoffice and the People" and "The Control of the Approach to the Panama Canal," are the titles of articles written respectively by M. G. Cunniff and William Thorp.

The frontispiece of the March Century is a full-page portrait of the Pope in color. The story of the picture is interesting. Some one—who, no one knows—made a snapshot of Pius X when he was Patriarch of Venice, as he passed in the procession of Corpus Christi. From this small photograph George T. Tobin has made a large drawing. To insure correctness of every detail of dress and likeness, the drawing was submitted to officials high in the church, and to authorities on Catholic vestments. Only when they had pronounced the portrait and its treatment excellent was work begun on the reproduction.

John Bassett Moore, LL.D., who contributes the leading article to Harper's Magazine for March, on "Beginnings of American Diplomacy," has formulated some of the government's important diplomatic dispatches. Prof. Moore is the man who, after graduating from the Univerally of Virginia, entered the State Department as a law clerk in 1885, at a salary of $1200 a year, and in one year rose to the rank of Third Assistant Secretary of State, later becoming Assistant Secretary of State. He has now been for some years professor of International law and diplomacy in Columbia University.

Arrangements have just been completed by which John Fox, the well-known novelist and author of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," will go to the war in the Far East for Scribner's Magazine. The large, popular interest in his work assures for his articles an attention which few others could command. Mr. Fox is a graduate of Harvard, and was a correspondent in the Cuban war in 1898. T. F. Millard, whose reputation as a war correspondent was first made by some of the most striking articles published during the Boer war, will also be in the field for Scribner's Magazine, and will accompany the Russian forces.

PEOPLE AND THINGS LITERARY.

One of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's daughters, Miss Janet Ward, has lately translated a work of Prof. A. Julicher's entitled "Introduction to the New Testament." It will be published by Messrs. Smith, Elder & Co., who are Mrs. Humphry Ward's English publishers. Mrs. Ward has contributed a preface to her daughter's work.

The Woggie Bug is to be one of the star characters in L. Frank Baum's new book for children, "The Further Adventures of the Scarecrow and the Tin Woodman." Mr. Baum is at Coronado Beach, Cal., putting the finishing touches to his story, and incidentally playing golf.

Dr. Josiah Strong, who is best known as the author of "Our Country," and as the head of the American Institute for Social Service in New York, has prepared a year book under the title "Social Progress." This is an encyclopedia and almanac of social, economic and religious statistics, which have been compiled from the latest sources and from all parts of the world.

Among the spring publications promised by James Pott & Co. are: "Flower of the Fort," a historical novel by Charles Hemstreet; "Ole Time Travel," by A. Innes Shand; "In Shakespeare's England," by F. S. Boas; "Bygone London Life," by G. L. Apperson, and "The World of Animal Life," edited by Fred Smith. Three new volumes, "Alfred Tennyson," "Robert Browning" and "William M. Thackeray," are promised in the Beekman Biographies. A volume on "Chester," by B. C. A. Windle, will begin a new series, entitled "Ancient Cities."

H. M. Johnston, author of "Napoleon; A Short Biography," which is shortly to be published by A. S. Barnes & Co., has been appointed lecturer in Italian history at Harvard University.

The question was recently asked whether the short stories published in Harper's Magazine were written mostly by men or women. An examination of the pages of this magazine for 1903 resulted in the statement that of the 110 short stories published in Harper's during that period, fifty-four were written by men and fifty-six by women. All the serials appearing in Harper's in 1903 were by women—"Lady Rose's Daughter," by Mrs. Humphrey Ward; "Sir Mortimer" by Mary Johnston, and the novelette, "Judgment," by Alice Brown. While there were a number of English authors represented in the fiction throughout the year, the large majority were American.

Dan Beard, famous as an illustrator and known also as the author of several books for boys, has written a book entitled "Moonblight and Six Feet of Romance," just published by Albert Brandt, Trenton, N. J. It is a story of a great strike in the Pennsylvania coal regions, in the telling of which is brought out not only the dramatic side of such a struggle, but the problem of human rights and the wrongs of the present system. Illustrated with fifty pictures by the author.

Booker T. Washington recently figured in an incident that gratified him very much. He was going North on a train in the South, and while seated in the dining-car watched a group of young men at the end of the car. He became a little suspicious on account of the size of the group, and their constant gaze. The dining-car conductor had to request the young men to keep out several times. Finally, one of the men came to Washington's table, and said he was one of twenty students returning to Trinity College after the holiday recess, and that all wanted to meet him. It will be remembered that the controversy over Booker Washington, which started in Trinity College, attracted national attention. John Spencer Bassett of the faculty declared that the head of the Tuskegee Institute had done a notable work. There was a fierce storm of criticism. Dr. Bassett was brought to trial for his utterance. A notable victory for academic freedom resulted.

Mr. Chesterton's biography of Browning, the most popular of recent issues in The English Men of Letters Series, is just going into its third edition, and Jack London's novel, "The Call of the Wild," into its seventh. New editions are also preparing of "The Adventures of Elizabeth in Rugen," which promises to outstrip its predecessors; Mr. Phillpotts' "Romance of the west country," "The American Prisoner;" "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife;" "The People of the Whirlpool;" and "Modern English Prose" by Profs. Carpenter and Brewster of Columbia.

Although a poet, Edmond Rostand has rather a practical mind, and the dramatist's neighbors near Cambo as well as the dwellers in several other rural districts of France are blessing him for an eminently businesslike innovation that is about to be introduced in these "departments" through his influence. Ever since he has lived on his secluded estate in the heart of the Lower Pyrenees, Rostand has been maddened by the slowness, haphazardness, and general badness of the postal service in that district. The author of "Cyrano de Bergerac" is a motorist, and not long ago he asked himself why in his neighborhood as well as in other "chateau" districts where estates are distant from the railway stations the mails could not be collected and distributed by means of automobiles? Shortly after conceiving this idea, Rostand sounded the French Secretary for Postes and Télegraphes on the subject, and that official has been so taken with the idea that next spring not only the Lower but seven other French "d will be furnished with sim In the case of Rostand's v will mean a gain of nearly hours in communication w not here a significant h rural delivery routes in States?

OFFICIAL SALES. Both Home Telephone and Home Trust showed gains. Home Trust was offered at 45 yesterday and today sold at 50, closing at 49½ asked. Reed Crude sold at 1.18 and 1.17, with 1.20 bid at the close.

NEW YORK BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES. Commenting on the report of Bank Superintendent Kilburn of New York, Bradstreet's says: "The total resources of the trust companies showed a slight decline—a little over $1,000,000—as compared with a year ago. They amounted on January 1 this year to $1,033,735,826.61. The bonds and mortgages held showed an increase of over $7,000,000 and stock investments one of over $4,000,000. The amount loaned on collaterals showed a decrease of over $44,000,000, while loans on personal securities exhibited a gain of nearly $14,500,000. The capital stock paid in in cash showed an increase of $3,175,000. The surplus fund exhibited an increase of over $4,500,000 book value, and the undivided profits a decrease of over $2,000,000. If it were not for the fact that there were four more companies reporting than there were a year ago the decline in resources would have been much more marked than the comparison above given makes it appear.

CODFISH SCARCE. The critical scarcity of cod and haddock was given emphasis during the week, when several of the largest shippers of this fish in New England withdrew all quotations.

The largest cod and haddock concerns are now out of the market, so far as spot sales are concerned. One of the largest firms in Gloucester withdrew prices on cod, cusk, haddock and hakemess fish cut from all three. Others have done likewise, and it is probable that not a pound of fish could be bought from these firms at any price. Several of them have stocks on hand but it will be used for filling future contracts. As a rule, the fish houses do not make pro rata contracts and those who sold for future delivery this year have been badly bitten.

There is no absolute famine in codfish, and probably will not be, as jobbers still have some stock on hand and the high price will probably limit the consumption to a point where the small supply will be sufficient. The current price of medium bank cod, in a large way, is 6¾ cents, which is about 2¼ cents above normal. Other grades are in proportion.

DRIED FRUITS. An improvement in the market for dried fruits is reported both in the East and in California. The improvement is rather in the way of demand than of better prices, but the heavier buying that is regarded as almost certain during the next two months will doubtless result in advances.

CITRUS FRUITS. Orange shipments Thursday were 156 carloads. Of lemons 11 carloads went forward, making 3673 for the season's total.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Eggs declined this morning to 17½@ 18 cents for candled. Case count remain unchanged.

Hay is weaker and a decline is expected before long. There is ha enough to supply the demand until new crop comes in, and whenever it becomes apparent that a crop is to be harvested this summer, offerings will be very heavy.

Platt's Chlorides, the proper Disinfectant.
The Boards of Health in all parts of the country agree that consumption is an infectious and communicable disease, and is usually transmitted from the sick to the well by means of the dried and pulverized sputum floating as dust in the air. This being the case, it can in a great measure be restricted by the use of proper disinfectants. Platt's Chlorides, one part to ten of water, frequently sprinkled about the consumptive's room, particularly before sweeping, and the same disinfectant, one part to four in water, in the cuspidor or vessel receiving the poisonous and offensive expectorations, is especially applicable, as it is a liquid without odor or color, and its frequent use is not

STATE OF TRADE.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say that business continues to improve despite the difficulty of low temperature and higher prices. Weather conditions have been singularly unpropitious, deep snow retarding the distribution of merchandise and excessive cold delaying the opening spring trade and structural work. Yet retailers are making extensive preparations, and plans are submitted for numerous building operations. Prospects have improved on the Pacific Coast, where much-needed rain has fallen. Railway earnings for February were 2.3 per cent. less than last year, bad weather restricting traffic. It may be said with some degree of assurance that the iron and steel industry has made further progress in the right direction, and the prospect is brighter than it has been at any time during the winter. Domestic hides are weaker than is explained by the seasonable deterioration in quality. Failures for the week in the United States were 236, against 208 last week.

Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that trade and industry are still irregular, being active in favored sections, but hampered in others by the prolongation of winter weather, with its concomitants of delayed transportation, car shortages or floods. Among the industries, reports indicate activity in iron and steel and prices of some grades of iron firmer, but the iron ore situation is not yet settled, the coke supply is insufficient, and a soft coal strike overhangs western industry generally. The agricultural situation on the whole is one of great strength and a record-breaking acreage will go into cotton. Railway earnings reflect the most unfavorable winter weather in many years, in a decrease of 20 per cent. in January, net earnings representing a decrease in gross of 5 per cent. February returns promise to be no better. The feeling is still that good settled weather would help to repair the backwardness of general business and be particularly helpful to building and other lines of outdoor work, in which operations are practically at a standstill. Collections are fair to good. Weather conditions have shrunken eastern wholesale trade, and retail business is backward. Manufacturers are buying wool only to cover actual needs, and while stocks are small, buyers disposed to purchase find dealers willing to meet their views. There is little activity in lumber. Eastern shoe manufacturers report demand for spring goods backward as a whole, but leather stronger in price. Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ending March 3 aggregate 1,561,086 bushels, against 2,091,488 bushels last week, and 3,497,694 bushels this week last year. Business failures in the United States number 189, against 200 last week.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Activity was slightly stimulated in the market today, but without effecting any more appreciable movement of prices than the dullest of the week. Up to noon, the number of shares traded in was not far below the day's average, but after that the dullness set in. From that time the market dropped back into the rut. There was nothing to explain clearly the spurt of activity. Traders were seemingly impelled by the idea that permanent inactivity is impossible, and that the longer it continues, the more likely would an attempt to put an end to it prove successful. Today's demonstration, although conducted with a little more confidence and determination than, for some time, was purely professional. The movement of individual stocks had a good deal to do with the general tone. The settlement upon the terms of the Panama treaty drawn up in this country and concurred in by bank depositories was regarded as a satisfactory clearing-up of a doubtful matter and as offering a possibility of stimulation to investment here on the part of the French and Panama beneficiaries. Some trouble was reported from Paris to the effect that the settlement, but the power for disturbance of this factor was felt to be about at an end. Reports of gross earnings of railroads for the fourth week in February, though showing a large proportion of loss compared with last year, are relatively better than for preceding weeks, and offer some encouragement for the plea that inclement weather is responsible for the greater part of the losses. A glance at the list of net changes for the day will show that various causes were not very effective in bringing out the higher prices which those who professed to believe in their efficacy hoped for. A decline in Northern Securities on the curb was a reminder of the recurring effort to be looked for from the Supreme Court decision day Monday. The movement of currency has been in favor of New York, and a gain in cash for the week is indicated of nearly $2,000,000, in spite of the outgo of gold to South America, transfers to Chicago and absorption by the subtreasury. This was regarded with dissatisfaction rather than otherwise, as showing a decreasing interior need of money. Bonds were rather firm but dull. Total sales, $1,486,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

CHINESE NEUTRALITY AS GERMANY SEES IT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In official circles, the attitude of France toward Russia in the event of active participation by China in the Far East war continues to be much discussed. The following appreciaion may be regarded as an official view:

"It is well-known that the Russian government has favorably received China's declaration of neutrality and it is generally known in various cabinets of Europe that the Russian government is very desirous that war thus forced upon them shall be restricted in territory, as far as circumstances will permit.

"No steps were, therefore, taken in Paris which might in any way implicate France. Count Lamsdorff more than once announced that nothing was further from the Czar's intentions than to bring about a general conflagration. These declarations are strengthened by the fact that the Kaiser is animated by an equally peaceful sentiment and the rapprochement of England and France has developed into an important political factor. Consequently, the action of America with regard to the neutralization of China was unanimously accepted, even by Russia herself. She has raised no objection to maintaining the integrity of China and her sovereignty in Manchuria.

"This neutrality was very welcome, although doubts were entertained as to whether the Peking government would be able to raise a force sufficient to repress any internal opposition to the principle. In diplomatic circles, it is felt that the powers would not have been able effectually to guarantee the neutrality of China, for the simple reason that they would be powerless to oppose the wishes of the Chinese war party, should such party gain the upper hand even in Russia."

SHOT AT IN BED AFTER BEATING.

PECULIAR NIGHT ATTACK ON A VENTURA FISHERMAN.

Harry Ray Claims Harry Guthrie Assaulted Him With a Deadly Weapon, and Guthrie Says He Can Prove an Alibi—Jealousy Said to be the Cause.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Harry Ray, a fisherman employed by Mrs. Dickinson, was rudely aroused from his slumbers at 2 o'clock this morning by a man astride him pummeling him with his fists. After beating Ray almost to death, the assailant jumped off the bed, stepped back, pulled a pistol and took a shot at Ray.

The bullet missed, buth the pistol was held so close that the fire from it lighted the bedclothes. The would-be assassin ran out of the house and into the darkness.

This afternoon Ray swore out a warrant charging Harry Guthrie, another fisherman, with an assault with a deadly weapon. Guthrie was arrested and gave bonds for his appearance Monday. Jealousy is alleged as the cause of the shooting. Guthrie says he was not at the Dickinson house at all, and can supply an absolute alibi.

SANTA BARBARA.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC WINS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, March 4.—The first of several condemnation suits instituted by the Southern Pacific Company for a right of way across the city by the new cut-off has been tried in the Superior Court, the company coming off with flying colors as the jury awarded W. H. McCaleb, the owner of the land, a sum less than that which the company offered in the first place. According to rumor McCaleb wanted about $15,000 at first, but the amount asked for when the case was finally submitted to the jury was about $11,000. The company offered him $8900 before the suit was commenced, and the jury awarded him only $4350. According to one of the jurymen $5500 was the largest amount held out for by any of the jurors, and $4000 the lowest, the verdict being in the nature of a compromise. The question of the necessity of the proposed cut-off did not come before the jury, Judge Taggart ruling that it was a point of law and should be passed on by the court. Of the many condemnation suits commenced by the company all but five have now been settled, most of them out of court. The jurymen in the McCaleb case consider that the offer of the Southern Pacific Company was liberal.

RUSH OF GUESTS.

During the week the Hotel Potter has filled with astonishing rapidity, 600 guests being there. Dances, riding parties and boating excursions are of almost daily occurrence. The cotillion danced last Saturday evening proved so successful that another is being arranged for next week. Nat Moore, son of J. H. Moore of Chicago, and Miss Wrigley, also of Chicago, led the cotillion.

FOR GOOD ROADS.

President Moore Tells of an Effort Which is to be Made to Build National Highways.

W. H. Moore of St. Louis, president of the National Good Roads Association, arrived in the city yesterday, and is staying at the Van Nuys.

The purpose of Mr. Moore's visit is to call a Pacific Coast Good Roads Convention in California, for the appointment of delegates to the great international convention to be held in St. Louis in May, in conjunction with the fair. This afternoon he will confer with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and will leave at 3 o'clock for Sacramento. After a conference with Gov. Pardee—who is one of the vice-presidents of the national association—it will be decided whether the Pacific convention will be called in Los Angeles or San Francisco.

Mr. Moore intimated that the people who are planning to build a State Camino Real would better wait a bit, in view of certain good-roads measures affecting this Coast which the association intends to promote in the near future.

"We want to see a State organization in California," said he yesterday. "When this convention meets, such an organization will be formed, with auxiliaries in each county. We also want the State aid plan originated here, to help county work, and to start a movement toward the enactment of a stringent State vagrancy law, that every vagabond and prisoner serving on a misdemeanor charge, may be employed in road building. Similar measures are to be taken into thirty-eight State Legislatures next year, as the result of the work of the association.

"It is certain that the Brownlow bill, calling for $24,000,000 to assist the States in road building, or some similar bill, will be passed in the Fifty-ninth Congress, if not before, and we want California to be so organized as to be able to handle its pro rata of such an appropriation quickly and advantageously. In the event of the passing of the bill referred to, California's proportion would be $430,000, apportioned according to population.

"We want to see the Pacific Coast strongly represented in the international convention in St. Louis next May, where a practical exhibition of methods in modern road building will be conducted on the fair grounds, under direction of leading engineers from different civilized countries of the world.

"Another thing under discussion is the establishment of a good automobile racing course on the Coast, that would bring here every winter the millionaire enthusiasts of the world.

"At the St. Louis convention an effort will be made to have introduced in the Fifty-ninth Congress a bill calling on the government for an appropriation toward the construction of 15,000 miles of good roads, connecting the State capitals from Maine to California. This would include three routes, northern, central and southern, and would put a highway straight down the Pacific Coast from Seattle to San Diego, probably traversing, through California, the route of the Camino Real, if found practicable for the purpose by the government engineers who would supervise the work. The total cost of such a system of roads is estimated at $75,000,000, a half of which would be contributed by the States.

"In connection with the good roads movement which is taking hold all over the country, Postmaster-General Payne told me recently that he intends to ask the Fifty-ninth Congress for an annual appropriation of $25,000,000 for the rural mail delivery service, covering an area of 1,000,000 square miles.

The Southern Good Roads Convention, similar to the one to be called here, is to be held in New Orleans April 6-7.

With Mr. Moore is Col. Albert Blair of St. Louis, a representative of the Westinghouse interests and a road expert.

WOULD RETURN HERE.

John W. (George) Barter, Ex-Mayor, Will Sell Large Landed Estate in Ireland.

The life of an Irish esquire, surrounded by his large landed estates, and supporting a handsome establishment in one of the fine old castles of the land of the Blarney stone, has palled on one young Angelefio, who tumbled into this fortune about three years ago while he was working as a pressman in this city.

The dreary fogs and continual rains of the Emerald Isle are such an unsatisfactory contrast to the sunshiny days of this southland, that Esquire John W. Barter, known in Los Angeles as "Johnny" George, has declared he cannot endure it any longer, and that, despite the attractions in the way of his beautiful estate, he intends to sell off the land and come back to Los Angeles.

This is the word that Esquire Barter has sent to friends here during the past week. He is in favor of the sale of the lands to the tenantry, as provided under the Irish Land Bill, and as soon as his business affairs are closed up he will come to Los Angeles.

The Barter estate includes three villages and many acres of farm lands, a beautiful country home and one of the old castles, Inchigeela. The property is in Droomcarra, County Cork, and was left to the present owner by his only uncle on his mother's side.

John W. George was for several years a lieutenant in one of the companies of the Seventh Regiment, and spent most of his life in Los Angeles. It is not strange that he feels a longing to return to the Land of Sunshine after experiencing the rains which have been so prevalent in Ireland the past year.

It is said that in County Cork only a small proportion of the farmers were able to save their stock feed, on account of the excessive wet; and an Irish paper received here this week states that Mr. Barter had voluntarily granted the tenants of his estate a reduction of 12½ per cent. on the rents now due.

LONG BEACH.

BAND OUT OF POLITICS.

LONG BEACH, March 4.—The Long Beach Marine Band proposes to keep out of the municipal election fight. It has been rumored for several days that the band, smarting under the efforts made several months ago to have the dances discontinued, would enter city politics this spring and take an active part in the campaign.

At a business meeting of the organization this morning, almost the first act of the boys was the unanimous passage of a resolution declaring that the organization would take no part in the contest as an organization, but would remain strictly neutral, the members to vote as they pleased.

It is not thought probable that the dance feature will be prominent in the campaign, now that the band boys have expressed their neutrality.

G. S. Stone, manager of the band, to whose efforts much of the success of the organization is due, resigned two weeks ago, because private business affairs interfered with his music duties. This morning the band expressed its utmost confidence in him, declined to accept his resignation and not only gave him absolute control of the business of the band, but excused him from all music duty. Under these conditions Mr. Stone accepted the trust. Prof. D. W. Douglass will continue as director of the organization.

DEFINING BOULEVARD.

The report of Civil Engineer George S. Steele, relative to the proposed boulevard between this city and Los Angeles was read at a joint meeting last night of the Long Beach Board of Trade, the Compton and Florence Improvement Association and the Los Angeles Automobile Club. Mr. Steele has surveyed the route and laid out a highway 120 feet wide. Leaving American avenue in this city at Willow street and veering to the left, it will pass the hill at Carrillos and pass about half a mile east of Compton.

The road is twenty and one-half miles long and is practically an air line with almost no curves. After leaving Bixby's ranch, it is on a water level, with no sloughs or ditches to cross. The route runs close to the lines and thus avoids cutting through valuable property. Mr. Steele was instructed to complete his survey and the boulevard committee started today to secure the necessary rights of way.

LONG BEACH GUSTS.

The tug Falcon came over from San Pedro today with a scow containing the pile driver and tools for the pier contractors. This afternoon the outer end of the wharf was closed to the public and actual work will begin on Monday. A failure of the City Trustees to settle with O. H. Burbridge, who has a lease on space under the old wharf, will result in the new pier being built east of the old one. The City Trustees have offered Burbridge $3000 for a settlement, but he demands $5000.

The Presbyterian congregation has purchased a lot on Pine avenue adjoining the church and will enlarge the edifice.

On next Tuesday, a council of recognition will be held in this city to pass upon the eligibility of the Plymouth Congregational Church (recently organized here) for membership in the Association of Congregational Churches in Southern California.

City Attorney Frederick Baker has leased a house here and will make his permanent residence in this city. He will move his family from Los Angeles next week.

SAWTELLE.

FIRE PROTECTION WANTED.

SAWTELLE, March 4.—Last evening the citizens held another meeting to discuss fire protection. The committee made a report, which, on account of developments, was referred back for further consideration. William E. Sawtelle, president; W. T. Gillis, vice-president and treasurer, and J. Euclid Miles, secretary, of the Sawtelle Water Company, addressed the meeting. They stated that the company is willing to meet the citizens on the proposition to lay a fire main along Fourth street, the business section; also mains for fire and consumers along the alleys between Second and Third streets, and in other sections where there is a demand. An opportunity will be given the citizens to help themselves in supplying their wants in this regard by buying stock in the company to cover the expense of the improvements they wish. The representatives of the company also stated that within thirty days the work on the brick building at Oregon avenue and Fourth street will be commenced.

Miss Annie B. Clapperton, general missionary of Southern California, for the Women's Baptist Home Missionary Society, addressed a large congregation of ladies at the Baptist Church this afternoon, taking for her theme, "Home Missions."

EL MONTE.

NEWSY PICKINGS.

SAN PEDRO.

HUMANE WORK STARTED.

SAN PEDRO, March 4.—A goodly number of prominent citizens met at the City Hall last night and organized a society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. It was a very enthusiastic meeting and the promoters of the good work feel greatly encouraged.

Rev. F. D. Seward was appointed chairman and Mrs. Eva Talman, secretary. Dr. E. Seymour of Los Angeles, president of the County Humane Society, gave an interesting and instructive lecture on the work of these organizations. "You will find it necessary first to arouse public sentiment as to the importance of the work," he said. "Man has come to the look upon himself as the Lord of Creation and everything below him as simply a means of gain to himself and the consequence is that the most faithful of our servants are shamefully mistreated. The evil is caused as much by thoughtlessness as by heartlessness. The policy of these societies is not prosecution or persecution, but is educational. We endeavor to appeal to the heart of a man whom we see abusing an animal. This should be the policy of the humane officers rather than aggressiveness. If you approach a man in a friendly manner, and appeal to his sympathies, your appeal will be more liable to have a permanent effect.

"You from this society constitute yourselves the guardians of the helpless and your power for good is unlimited. You should try to avoid inflicting needless hardship on any one, but if you see a horse that is diseased and suffering it is your duty to put it out of its misery before other horses become contaminated with the disease.

"The primary motive of these societies was the protection of the larger animals, but they have reached out until they embrace all, even the birds. The presence of such a society in San Pedro will have an elevating influence and you will be surprised at how rapidly you will grow. It is something that appeals to all right thinking people, but it takes a little time to get people to thinking along right lines. If you need help the County Humane Society is always ready to help you."

As directors were named Mmes. Frances Weldon, Olive Peck, Nina Frethrake, Eva Talman and Messrs. H. Baly, Barr Gifford Lee, F. D. Seward, Thomas Nelson, R. Ralston and Frank Burns.

CHILD BRIDE GOES TO A REFORMATORY.

MRS. LILLIAN M. M. COBB-AMMERMAN was before the Juvenile Court yesterday. Fancy! a married girl brought in to be treated just like a tiny tot who knows nothing.

But Maudie Cobb knows a lot. The last year of her life has been cast in strenuous mould. When she eloped with the guardian of her boy sweetheart she outdid herself, however. While she was in court to give an account of herself—for daring to get married, he was in the County Jail at Santa Ana awaiting trial on the charge of having lied when he said the girl was of legal age.

MRS. LILLIAN COBB-AMMERMAN.

The girl looked as pretty and demure as could be, With a complexion as fresh as a babe's—powder puffs are taboo in the Detention Home—it was yesterday tinted with a rosy hue as the girl felt all eyes turned upon her.

For a short time the girl-wife tried to uphold the dignity of her position as a married woman. Charlie Bethel, the nine-year-old "King of the Tramps," who is as jolly a little fellow as can be met anywhere, was cutting up capers, and Mrs. Cobb-Ammerman couldn't keep her face straight do what she would. So she laughed as did many others in the courtroom much older than she. At times when her face was in repose she did not look particularly happy.

Finally the court called the case of "Mrs. Cobb-Ammerman." Next moment he disposed of it by continuing it for one week. An inkling of what will become of Mrs. Ammerman was given when he asked certain women of the committee to remain after court in order to furnish the necessary data for filling in a commitment to Whittier. She did not look surprised when she heard that she was to go to Whittier. It will be a new experience, and she has been having such frequently during the year.

While Mrs. Cobb-Ammerman has been a care and a worry to her parents, and capped the climax of her offences when she ran away from the Florence Home to marry a rascal in Orange county, it may be said for her that she fled from him as from the plague when she discovered that he was a scoundrel and wanted to betray her.

All the sweetness of womanhood in her has not been blotted out.

The Expert Cleaner.

There are a score of things about the house that you will not undertake to clean. You fear that they would be ruined by soap and you intend to send them to an expert cleaner, an idea that comes down from a time before pure soap was made. The manufacturers of Ivory Soap are constantly asked if they know how beautifully this or that material can be cleaned with Ivory Soap. The uses of Ivory Soap are too numerous to be told; with it anything may be cleaned that will stand the application of water. You can be your own expert cleaner.

LOCAL RAILROAD RECORD.

THOUSANDS SEEK HOMES HERE.

COLONISTS WILL ARRIVE IN GREAT NUMBERS TODAY.

Five Hundred Persons Coming on First Excursion—Railroad Officials Estimate that Within Two Months Ten Thousand Home Seekers Will be Here.

Four immense trains of colonists will arrive in Southern California this morning over the Santa Fé. More than 500 persons are coming to make their homes in and about Los Angeles, on this the first of the colonist excursions which, it is claimed, will bring 10,000 people here during the next two months. The sections passed Albuquerque yesterday and but two cars out of the four trains are to be switched off at Barstow for San Francisco. The first train to arrive will have aboard 151 ticket holders. This does not take account of the many children. On the other three sections are respectively 114, 146 and 123 colonists, making a total of 544 persons. Many of them will get off at San Bernardino, but most of them will come to Pasadena and Los Angeles. After reaching Southern California they scatter all over, from San Diego to the Tehachepi Mountains. Many of them left the East without any particular destination. Just to go to California, that was all, knowing that when once here they could lie out under the trees if necessary until a home could be found. But this they will not have to do for most of them have fat purses which represent the savings of years.

Railroad officials say the rush is to be a record breaker and the heavy trains will tax the motive power of the companies to the utmost. The tickets of the colonists do not allow them to land in Los Angeles or San Francisco and much of the unloading in this section will take place at Pasadena on the Santa Fé and at Shorb on the Southern Pacific. The object of this is to prevent scalping of tickets. The pasteboards are good to any point in the State, and allow stop-overs, not to exceed five days, at all points except Los Angeles and San Francisco, up to May 15. Upon getting off at Shorb the colonists must deposit their tickets with the agent and must sign for them to continue their journey. In this way the colonist is prevented from selling it to some one going to go to San Francisco, if he should decide to remain in Southern California. The exclusion of stop-overs at these two cities also has the tendency to force the colonists out into the country.

RAILROAD DAY.

Saturday, March 12, will be a day of railroad celebrations. The big excursion to Riverside of the Chamber of Commerce, to participate in the opening of the Salt Lake route to that city, will take place, and the Los Angeles Railway Company has announced a formal opening of the Bimini Baths line on that day. The Seventh-street system will run to the baths by way of Alvarado and Sixth streets and the Westlake line will take the place of the Seventh by continuing from Alvarado to Rampart on Seventh street. More large new cars are to be placed on the two lines to accommodate the increased traffic. The Bimini Baths section of the Seventh-street route opens up some attractive residence districts and several buildings have been begun in that vicinity with the advent of the electric car.

LAST CALLS.

T. C. Peck, assistant general passenger agent of the Salt Lake road, yesterday took a party of friends to the big Santa Ana River bridge. The trip was made to secure official pictures of the structure with a train on it. The special left in the morning and luncheon was served on board. Other railroad men in the party were Chief Engineer H. Hawgood and General Attorney Steven Halstead. J. H. Ramsey is the official photographer of the company and some of the pictures taken today will be sent to the St. Louis Exposition.

A train similar to those which go to San Francisco from Palo Alto when Stanford is to meet Berkeley on the oval or gridiron, will leave this city this morning at 8:30 o'clock. It will be noisy with college enthusiasm and will bear 300 students from Los Angeles and 100 from Pasadena who go to attend the field day at Claremont.

It is estimated by officials of the Los Angeles and Pacific Railway Company that over 1000 people will attend the annual meeting and picnic of the natives of the Gopher State at Ocean Park today. Five cars with trailers will leave Fourth street about 10 o'clock in the morning and it will be one of the largest excursions thich the resort has ever known.

E. P. Clark of the Los Angeles and Pacific electric road took a party of friends from San Francisco over the lines of the company in a private car yesterday. The greater portion of the day was spent at the beach.

H. L. Battis, auditor of the Salt Lake road, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia for two weeks, is recovering rapidly and will soon be out again.

E. W. Gillett, general freight agent of the Salt Lake, is on his way to Los Angeles from Portland, Or., to attend the opening of the company's road to Riverside.

James B. Kent, representative of the Chicago and Great Western in San Francisco, is visiting in Los Angeles.

ABANDONED TO THEIR FATE.

Russian Commanders In Field to Leave Vladivostok, Like Port Arthur, to Its Own Defenses.

Proclamation Warning Inhabitants to Leave at Once. Base There Untenable—Russian Vladivostok Squadron Cruising on East Coast of Korea.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 5—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The greatest consternation was caused here tonight by the publication of a proclamation issued by the admiral in command at Vladivostok, the terms of which made it clear that Vladivostok, like Port Arthur, is to be left to its own defenses.

The proclamation warned all inhabitants living within a radius of seventeen miles of Vladivostok to leave instantly. They were told to take with them all of their personal effects, as otherwise in case of a siege the property was liable to be seized. The inhabitants were forbidden to remove any food, stores or cattle, all of which will be needed by the garrison.

The proclamation is nearly identical with that issued to the inhabitants of Port Arthur when it became apparent to the Russian generals in the field that the stronghold at the point of Liao Tung Peninsula was practically at the mercy of the Japanese.

Today's proclamation at Vladivostok is taken here to mean that the Russian base has been found to be untenable because of the presence of the Japanese fleet before the city and the approach of Japanese troops from Possiet Bay, where they were reported to have landed in great numbers from transports more than a week ago.

The greatest apprehension is now felt for the safety of the garrison at Vladivostok. It is the intention of the Russian commanders in the field to practically abandon Port Arthur and Vladivostok to defend themselves as best they can against Japanese assault, and concentrate the Russian forces along branches of the trans-Siberian railroad to protect these as lines of communication.

RUSSIAN SQUADRON IN SEA OF JAPAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World's Tokio correspondent cables that the Russian squadron, composed of the cruisers Rossia, Gromovol, Rurik and Gogatir, left Vladivostok last Monday and have been cruising in the Sea of Japan. It appeared Thursday off Won San or Gen San, on the east coast of Korea. It is also reported to have been off Usuri Bay, where two warships were seen, presumed to be cruising to prey upon Japanese shipping, capturing merchantmen as prizes of war and, if possible, interfering with transports conveying the Mikado's troops from Japan to Korea.

No mention of any attempt to bombard the towns in Northern Japan is made in the advices from Hakodate. The steamer Ekslerinoslav, of the Russian volunteer transport fleet, which has been fitted up as an auxiliary cruiser; the steamer Manchuria, belonging to the Chinese Eastern Railway Company; the schooner Sliepner and the steam launch Ulide have been declared prizes of war by the naval court at Sasebo. The decision of the court is subject to an appeal within thirty days.

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Herald's Port Said correspondent cables that the volunteer cruiser Saratoff, with eight destroyers and the battleship Osliabiya, sailed north this afternoon. Only the Dimitri Donskoi remains at Suez, repairing.

RUSSIA RELYING UPON LAND VICTORIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—[By Atlantic Cable.]—Here the war is considered hardly begun. Heavy land fighting, upon which the fate of the campaign depends, is not expected much before the end of April. By this time Russia will have in the field, exclusive of the large army of men required to guard the railroads, four army corps, each with a cavalry division and an artillery brigade.

Viceroy Alexieff retains his headquarters at Mukden, through which three or four thousand soldiers are passing daily to the positions which the main armies will occupy. The Russians believe that for military purposes there is only one road over which the Japanese can come from Korea. All the troops landed at Chemulpo, Mokpo, and Chimapo, must use the "Peking road. Consequently the landing at Plaks in Bay and the other places on the east coast of Northern Korea are not considered important, the absence of roads preventing these forces from combining with the main body. The Cossacks, mounted infantry and light guns now across the Yalu river will serve to harass the enemy in every possible way so as to hold him in check until the Russian main armies and reserves are concentrated and disposed.

The Russian plans contemplate taking no chances on the score of inferior numbers. By sheer weight of men and guns, if nothing else, when the proper time arrives, Russia counts on overwhelming the Japanese and rolling them back through Korea. It is realized that the vastness of the theater of war will make the protection of the railroad, the sole means of the transportation of troops and supplies from Europe, one of the most difficult phases of the Russian military problem. With the Japanese in command of the sea, there is always the possibility of their landing small bodies of men in unexpected places to make incursions into the interior to cut the railroad and telegraph lines and blow up bridges, but adequate measures are believed to have been taken to guard against such misfortunes.

EUROPE'S PEACE IS MORE SECURE.

POWERS DO NOT CONTEMPLATE INTERVENTION.

Russia Sincere in Desire to Maintain Friendly Relations With Great Britain—Only Diplomatic Danger is Possible—Continental Protest Against Japanese-Korean Treaty.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 5.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Foreign Office records the week just ended as one in which much has been done to guarantee the continued peace of Europe. The rumors that France, Great Britain or any other power is contemplating intervention, or the taking of any steps with the idea of ending the war, are quite baseless. The frequent visits of M. Cambon, the French Ambassador, to Foreign Minister Lansdowne this week have no connection with the present war, but concern the treaty to settle long-standing difficulties between Great Britain and France on colonial questions.

Concerning the attitude of Russia toward Great Britain, it was said at the Foreign Office tonight that the government here has received direct and indirect information which has proved conclusively that the Russian government is sincere in its desire to maintain friendly relations with Great Britain. It is frankly recognized, however, that certain classes of Russian opinion are much embittered against Great Britain, and that it will be some little time before the relations of the Russian and British publics resume their normal condition.

The only diplomatic danger believed by the Foreign Office to be in sight is a possible Continental protest against the Japanese-Korean treaty. Great Britain has been unofficially approached by one of the great powers with the view of sustaining Russia's protest in this connection on a point of international law. Lord Lansdowne, however, will take no action, and it is not thought likely that other nations will deem it wise to complicate the situation by seriously urging the Russian contention that Japan's new treaty with Korea abrogates the rights of other powers.

JAPAN LAUGHS AT RUSSIA.

APPEAL TO POWERS SCORNED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, March 5.—[By Asiatic Cable.] Japan addressed a note to the powers today in response to the recent communication from Russia. The note has not been published here and its contents are unknown.

Russia's various communications to the powers attacking Japan for her conduct of diplomatic negotiations before their rupture, her attack on Russia without declaring war and her alleged violation of the neutrality of Korea, have been received in Japan largely in the spirit of amusement. The Japanese resent what is alleged to be a deliberate attempt to place them in a false position regarding certain incidents, but in the main do not take the correspondence seriously. Responding to the charge of violating the neutrality of Korea, they point to the action of Russia in Manchuria, where thousands of troops were assembled long before a diplomatic rupture occurred. They say that they are fully prepared to accept the judgment of the world on a comparison of their course in Korea, where they landed troops only after a state of war existed, and upon the written permission of the Emperor of Korea. They deny that Chemulpo was a neutral port after the Japanese landed on February 8, but whether it was neutral or belligerent, Russia began hostilities there.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SEOUL, March 5.—[By Pacific Cable.] Twenty members of the Peddlars Band are reported to have taken an oath to kill all officials who favor an alliance with Japan. The Japanese Minister, on being notified of this, promptly informed the Korean government that if it did not arrest the conspirators the Japanese officials would do so. As a result, four leaders of the Peddlars have just been arrested.

WOMAN WOULD BE COSSACK.

Says Nurses are Plentiful and Wants to Fight at the Front.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Mme. Pousep of Riga, who desires to be enrolled in a Cossack regiment, is here urging her petition. She is 32 years of age, was reared under the patronage of the late Czar Alexander III, is a fine horsewoman, a good shot and handles rifle, revolver and sword equally well, often taking part in the cavalry maneuvers. Mme. Pousep is also qualified as a Red Cross nurse, but she says there are enough women nurses, and she wants to show that a woman can fight. If her petition is rejected she will go at her own expense and serve as a daughter of the regiment.

WASHINGTON.

WIVES LIKE OTHER WOMEN.

Smith Has to Keep Peace and Harmony With All.

Another Lively Session at the Smoot Hearing.

Penrose for Chairmanship. Groff Overruled.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An investigation into the right of Reed Smoot, a Mormon, to hold a seat in the United States Senate, as Senator from Utah, was entered into in a light-hearted fashion by the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections on Tuesday of this week. At the opening of this hearing there was just one member of the investigating committee who was thoroughly convinced that there was something really serious to be investigated—something that would interest every pure home and every good citizen in this republic. In less than one week, this hearing has commanded attention from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Canadian to the Mexican border as something of vital import to the people of the United States.

This attention has been attracted by the examination of just one witness, and, although this witness is Joseph H. Smith, president of the Mormon Church, who is an adept at minimizing the importance of things that he and his church does, his testimony has been so sensational and so convincing that in spite of his adeptness at splitting hairs and resorting to unmeaning language, he has established in the mind of the committee two of the charges made against Reed Smoot's right to occupy a seat in the United States Senate.

The protest filed against Smoot stated this thing: That he is an apostle in the Mormon Church; that this church, its high officers and many of its members practice polygamy; that in this matter they are today in open defiance of the laws of the United States, and of the Constitution and laws of the State of Utah; that Smoot, as a high officer in this church, is, although not a polygamist himself, a party to this practice by reason of the fact that he, as one of the highest officers in the church, understands and helps to carry out its policy, including its policy of polygamy as practiced by its head and by a majority of its rulers.

CHARGE ESTABLISHED.

Joseph Smith has established that since polygamy was made a crime against his country, and against his State, and since his church abolished it by manifesto he and his associates have practiced it. This clearly established one charge against Reed Smoot—that he is an important part of an organization that practices and teaches polygamy in this day and age.

Another charge was made against Smoot, and this, in brief, is that he is bound politically to the Mormon Church and is here as Senator representing it. Joseph Smith has almost established this. He has testified that before Reed Smoot became a candidate for United States Senator from Utah he was obliged to get the consent to be such candidate from his church. It is expected that it will be shown shortly that this consent amounted in fact to an indorsement by the church of his candidacy, and that if consent had not been given Smoot it would have been given somebody else, and that whoever got this consent would receive the full support from all Mormons in Utah, and so would be elected.

So, in less than one week, and with only one witness—and that witness friendly to Smoot—one charge against him has been proven absolutely, and another partially substantiated.

EXAMINATION CONTINUES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Calling President Joseph Smith of the Mormon Church to the stand today, Attorney A. S. Worthington resumed the cross-examination for the defense in the investigation before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections in the case of Reed Smoot of Utah. He asked Mr. Smith if he had any statistics showing the proportion of polygamists in the Mormon population. Mr. Smith said his recollection is that when the Utah Commission was created in 1882 and undertook to administer the laws of the Territory, 12,000 polygamists were excluded from voting.

"In the women vote in Utah," he said, "and as it requires two women to one man to form polygamy in the State, probably the number of males excluded as polygamists would not be more than 4000."

Senator Dubois exercised a right to question the witness at this point, and said the population then was about 220,000, and of that number there were about 50,000 Gentiles. He wanted excluded from consideration the number not in condition to enter a state of polygamy. He said President Smith's statement of the percentage in polygamy included suckling babes and children, and that he objected to helping Mr. Smith's statement to go before the country unchallenged.

After a further statement of the number of polygamist families in Utah, Mr. Smith read from an interview he gave to a representtative of the Associated Press in 1892, showing the following:

"In 1890, at the time of the late President Woodruff's manifesto, there were 2451 such families. In October, 1899, it was found that this number had been reduced as follows:

"By death, 750; by removals beyond the confines of the republic, 63; by divorce, 86; leaving at that time 1543.

"It is now ascertained that the original number has been reduced by 1554, or 63 per cent., leaving only 897 still living, and that the great majority of them are of advanced age."

Mr. Worthington asked regarding Mr. Smith's son, Hiram Smith, and was told that he is 32 years of age and has a wife and children, but is not a polygamist. He is one of the twelve apostles. The first councilor now is John R. Winder. He and his fellow-councilors have been appointed since Mr. Smith became president. He said he could not state whether these men are cohabitating with more than one wife, but that "they are reputed to be the husbands of more than one wife."

In regard to John Henry Smith, a cousin, Mr. Smith said that their families are intimate and "I am strongly inclined to believe that he is cohabitating with plural wives."

Referring to Senator Bailey's questions yesterday in regard to the manifesto, Mr. Worthington read from a sermon of President Woodruff, delivered a year after the manifesto, against plural marriage, in which President Woodruff declared that he was moved, and 10,000 Latter-Day Saints were moved, by the spirit of God to abandon the practice of plural marriage.

Senator Bailey contended that it was in obedience to the demands of the law or fear of the consequences of the law that caused the revelation. Continuing, he said:

LAW OR REVELATION?

"For my part, I don't have much faith in a doctrine that does not get a revelation commanding the change of conduct until there is a statute compelling it."

"All that, of course, is a matter of opinion," said Senator Foraker.

"I don't think it is a matter of opinion, either," said Senator Bailey. "I myself have been compelled to submit to certain rules because it was the law, and vicious law at that. Just how far I would have submitted if I had received a revelation from God to do something else, I am not prepared to say. I think the whole thing was more a matter of law than of revelation."

"When the laws were passed which were not in harmony with the teachings of our church," said Mr. Smith, "we held that they were unconstitutional. Of course, our own rules commanded that we obey the Constitution and the laws, but we fought the validity of the new laws from the lowest to the highest court, and when it was settled by the Supreme Court of the United States that plural marriages could no longer be indulged in, of course, we were inclined to obey.

"But we had a revelation on our own statute books in regard to plural marriages and it was necessary to obey that in order to obtain certain blessings that could not be received without obeying it. Whether we should obey the law of the land or continue to practice the law of the church was a serious question.

"We hold that the president of the church is entitled to receive revelations inspired by the Almighty God. President Woodruff sought guidance in the Lord and the Lord made it manifest to him that it was his duty to stop plural marriage. He proclaimed that revelation, and it was submitted to the entire church and accepted by the entire church, and thus became binding and from that date to this the law of the land has been kept, so far as plural marriages are concerned.

"But there is a great difference between taking a plural wife contrary to the law and in taking care of the wives taken before it was a violation of the law. I would not desert my wives. I would not abandon my children. I will run my risks before the law."

President Smith's voice shook with emotion. He showed more feeling than he had at any previous time exhibited as he leaned forward and said:

"But it is to the laws of Utah that I am answerable; it is the laws of my State that has the right to punish me. The courts of Utah are of competent jurisdiction. Congress has no business to interfere with my private affairs If the courts of my State do not see fit to call me to account for my conduct, I cannot help it. Congress has no right to interfere—it has no right to pry into my marriage relations and call me to account."

Chairman Burrows at this point questioned the witness. He asked:

"You say you would not abandon your wives or your children. Why do you consider it necessary to have issue from your plural wives, in order to clothe and care for your children that had been born before unlawful cohabitation became a crime?"

LIKE ALL OTHER WOMEN.

"Because my wives are like all other women. It is necessary to maintain peace, harmony and good will between myself and my good wives. That is the kernel in the nut. That is why I have chosen not to obey the laws of my State prohibiting polygamous cohabitation.

"The church gave me my wives and I do not think the church could be consistent in taking them away," said Mr. Smith, in answer to a question as to why he did not agree to the Woodruff manifesto.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away" quoth Senator Bailey, from the Scriptures.

Continuing, the Senator said it appeared that polygamous cohabitation is forbidden by both the law of the land and the law of the church as laid down in the Woodruff manifesto, and, addressing the witness, he asked:

"Then, as the head of the church, you are violating the laws of the land and the ordinances of your church as well?"

"Not the ordinances of the church," said Mr. Smith.

"Well, the law then?"

"No; the rule," said the witness. "The rule, after all, is the law for conduct," said Senator Bailey. "I was only trying to emphasize what the revelations are. I don't know as much about the nice distinctions in religion as I hope I do about the law, but it appears that both the rule of the church and the law of the land forbade polygamous cohabitation, and you, as the head of the church, violated both."

"I will not quarrel with the Senator about that," said the witness.

Later, in answer to Senator Overman, Mr. Smith said that the revelation of the manifesto of 1890 had not been published in the latest edition of doctrine and covenants, but that this was an oversight and would be corrected.

Replying to Chairman Burrows, Mr. Smith said that he does not teach polygamy, and added:

"I am not openly and obnoxiously practicing polygamous cohabitation."

"How could you better teach polygamy than by practicing it?" Mr. Burrows continued.

The reply was: "I am not practicing polygamy. I am practicing polygamous cohabitation—which is not polygamy. Polygamy is plural marriage, and I have taken no plural wives since the manifesto of 1890."

Replying to a question from Senator Overman, Mr. Smith said that the pamphlets containing the manifesto did not state that it was a revelation from God, but that the statement was made that it was published by authority of the church, which was sufficient. It then appeared that the manifesto had not been put in evidence, and Mr. Taylor then introduced it with other documents.

A few minutes before the time for adjournment arrived, a photographer appeared, and was about to focus his camera upon the committee, and its distinguished witness, but Senator Dillingham made a strenuous objection. Chairman Burrows stated that no photograph of the committe or of the room would be taken without the consent of the committee. The photographer then folded up his apparatus.

The committee then adjourned until Monday.

SOME CIRCULARS SENT EAST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) March 5.—Business Manager T. G. Webber of Zion's Coöperative Mercantile Institution, which has branches in all the principal towns and cities of Utah and is regarded as one of the largest business corporations of the State, confirmed the report today that circulars had been sent out by that institution to large business houses in the East and elsewhere, with which it has large dealings, bearing on the Reed Smoot fight.

"These circulars were sent out either in December or January, I do not remember the exact date," said Webber. "The circulars asked the firms addressed to investigate the Reed Smoot matter dispassionately, and, if satisfied that he was in the right, to request their Senators to do what they could for him. That was all. They did not

ENGLAND CALLED DOWN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World's London correspondent cables that King Edward, who recognizes that now more than at any previous time Great Britain's first interest is peace, is urging all his influence to stem the torrent of anti-Russian sentiment in the English press, which he fears may later on land his country in complications of the gravest kind.

Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador, had yesterday a private interview of two hours with the King at Buckingham Palace, and it is said in diplomatic circles that the gist of the Czar's reply was that while warmly reciprocating the King's friendship, he could not be wholly accountable for the consequences if the Russophobe campaign was continued in the English press.

The King is powerless to control the press and he so informed Benckendorff, but it is understood that an intimation was conveyed to most of the rabid Russophile newspapers, including the Times and Telegraph, that their persisting insulting and provocative policy toward Russia was deprecated in the highest quarters, and that the possibility of a Russian combination against Great Britain was no mere idle fear.

JAPS FORTIFY PING YANG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 6.—In a dispatch from St. Petersburg the correspondent of the Echo de Paris says that according to a member of the general staff not more than fifty thousand Japanese have been landed in Korea. The Japanese transports are in bad condition, and they cannot accommodate more than 800 men each. The last disembarkation took place at Port Lazareff, but the Japanese are fortifying Ping Yang.

CABLE SCHEME TURNED DOWN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—In response to the tentative appeal of the Commercial Cable Company, made with a view to ascertaining how this government would receive a formal application for permission to land a cable in the Island of Guam running from Japan, it is probable now that a suggestion will be offered that formal application for the permission be deferred. The question has been considered very thoroughly, and while the United States does not concede that the laying of the cable, or the landing of the line at Guam would be a violation of the terms of the neutrality of this government between Russia and Japan, other considerations have induced a doubt in the President's mind as to the desirability of granting the sought-for permission at this time.

It is understood that the cable company was acting, in making its appeal to this government, on behalf of the Japanese government. In this connection the company probably will be given to understand that if it is regarded as desirable in the future to make a connection with the Philippine cable line at Guam, the connecting link will be laid and operated under the authority of this government.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

STOCKHOLM, March 5.—The Nya Dagligt Allehanda says that Russia is hurriedly strengthening the Sveaborg fortress which adjoins Helsingfors, Finland. All the wooden buildings in the vicinity have been pulled down to lessen the danger of fire in the event of a bombardment.

RUSHING TROOPS TO FRONT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 8.—A dispatch to the Eclaire from St. Petersburg says that trains now run directly from Samara to Mukden and Vladivostok, as a result of the completion of the railroad across the ice of Lake Baikal. This branch of the line was inaugurated March 2. The first train, composed of twenty-five cars, sent across the Lake, carried from 600 to 800 men. The service is regular and between 3000 and 4000 men are sent every day toward Manchuria. By the mobilization of reserves near the scene of war, the correspondent continues, 120,000 men have become available for duty.

A native paper says the Chinese frontier guards are deserting. China has purchased two field batteries of artillery from the Krupps.

WORLD'S LARGEST OIL REFINERY.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) March 5.—The Standard Oil Company, it is said, is to build the largest oil refinery in the world, in the Sugar Creek Valley, on the Missouri River, ten miles south of the business center of Kansas City, where 120 acres of land have already been purchased. Surveyors are now at work on the site and it is predicted that the plant will be running by October next. There is to be an acid plant, paraffine works, tallow works and the various other facilities for the manufacture of the products of the crude oil. The plant will, it is said, employ 1700 men. A pipe line that will bring oil nearly 200 miles from Neosha, Kan., is to be built.

Wanted in California for Embezzlement.

l Excitement in Arizona. Two Men Blown up.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas R. Fahey, real estate dealer and insurance agent of Green Lake, was arrested on telegraphic communication from California, where he is wanted on charge of embezzlement of $2400 belonging to the Pacific Mutual Insurance Company of that State. The indictment was found against him February 9 by the grand jury of Sonoma County.

Fahey is 40 years old and lives in Green Lake, with his wife and three young children. The dispatch upon which his arrest as made says that his bonds were fixed at $2500. In jail Fahey declined to talk at this time of his trouble, but said it was all the result of a mistake, which would be explained satisfactorily at the proper time.

"BARBS" DEFEAT FRAT MEN.

AT STANFORD UNIVERSITY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 5.—The field-day meet today between the fraternity and non-fraternity athletes of the university, resulted in a victory for the non-fraternity men, who won by a score of 73 to 47.

The University of California baseball team was defeated on the Stanford diamond this afternoon by the team from St. Mary's College, Oakland. The final score was 9 to 6. The game was full of errors and loosely played. George W. Poulitney of San Francisco, while running from third base for home, collided with Bliss of California, and a bone in the right leg of Poulitney was fractured.

BERKELEY TRACK MEET.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT SOPHS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERKELEY, March 5.—In a drizzling rain this afternoon, the freshmen of the University of California, defeated the sophomores in the field games on the Berkeley cinder path.

Score: Freshmen, 74; Sophomores, 37.

The track was slow on account of the rain. Sperry, the freshman captain, made a good showing, winning the shot-put and hammer throw.

TAYLOR WAS CARELESS.

VERDICT IN LUZON WRECK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORT COSTA, March 5.—The Coroner's jury in the case of the deaths of Engineers L. L. Baker and James F. Bennett, killed in the collision at Lauzon station, on the Santa Fé route, February 21, brought in a verdict today that the wreck was caused by the carelessness of A. W. Taylor, the porter-brakeman, who threw the switch that turned the limited train on the siding on which the overland express was standing. The jury exonerated Taylor from any criminal intent, and he was discharged from custody.

The jury recommended that no porter be allowed in future to perform a brakeman's duty. Taylor, in the witness stand, maintained that he thought his train was on the main line, and that Engineer Bennett told him to head the limited on the siding.

WILL FAVOR WATER RIGHTS.

BILL FOR RESERVOIR SITES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—Letters were sent to Congressmen Needham, Livernash and Gillette by Chairman Braunhart of the Supervisors' Public Utility Committee, requesting that the bill granting reservoir sites in a forest reservation for San Francisco be given their most careful consideration.

Braunhart states that when it becomes apparent to the people of Turlock and Modesto irrigation districts that the proposed storage of water by San Francisco will result in direct benefit to them, the people of the valley, instead of opposing San Francisco's application for water rights will favor the same.

CAN'T COLLECT OFF TEACHERS.

RETIREMENT FUND OPINION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—In the opinion of City Attorney Percy V. Long the Board of Education has no power to collect from school teachers more than the statutory $12 a year for the annuity and retirement fund.

This fund has proved inadequate for the demands made on it, and it was proposed to raise teachers' salaries $2 a month and allow the increase to be paid into the fund, somewhat after the plan adopted in the police department, where each patrolman receives nominally $102 a month, the $2 going into the pension fund. This, Long holds, cannot be done by the school board.

TWO BLOWN TO PIECES.

THAWED OUT DYNAMITE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

INDEPENDENCE (Or.) March 5.—Two young men, Curtis Baker and Gilbert McCabe, were blown to pieces near here today by an explosion of dynamite which was being thawed in a pail of hot water. McCabe and Baker were buried a distance of more than 150 feet. Their limbs were torn from their bodies, which were disemboweled, and their faces were blackened and mangled beyond recognition. A house standing several hundred yards away was almost demolished, and the earth where the explosion occurred was torn up for fifty feet.

ALLEGES A LIME TRUST.

PLASTER MAN'S COMPLAINT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—It is charged by Thomas Mannix, a contracting plasterer, in an affidavit filed today in the Superior Court, that the Henry Cowell and the Holmes lime companies, after making an agreement between themselves and forming a lime trust, for this city, entered into a combination with the contracting plasterers' association for the purpose of strengthening the trust and aiding the association.

This affidavit was brought out by a suit which the Cowell Company began recently against Mannix to pre-

The trust was formed to exact exorbitant prices, Mannix avers, and the contracting plasterers' association entered into a compact with it so as to prevent any plasterer not a member of the association from getting lime in this city. Competition was thus shut off, Mannix points out, and the laws prohibiting restriction of trade were violated.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Gould's Record-time Inspection.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—Advices received at Southern Pacific headquarters note that George J. Gould and party, on a special train, made record time on an inspection run over the Salt Lake cut-off today. Their train arrived at Ogden about noon, having made the 104 miles in three hours and fifty-six minutes, including all delays incidental to seeing the trestling and filling. Gould expressed himself as greatly pleased with the engineering of this cut-off achievement.

New Espee Ferry Depot.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has set aside $200,000 for a new ferry depot at the Alameda Mole, to take the place of the one destroyed by fire over a year ago. According to the plans, it will be an elaborate frame and steel structure, with a steel dome, and be ample enough to accommodate an increased ferry travel for many years to come.

Contempt of Court and Creditors.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—Alexander Isaacs, formerly a merchant of Tacoma, Wash., has been arrested here by the United States Marshall on instructions from the District Court presided over by Judge Hanford. Some time ago Isaacs was adjudged a bankrupt and ordered to turn over certain assets to the trustee for the creditors. REVISION GRANTED.

Court of Cessation Acts Favorably Upon Appeal of Dreyfus—Paris Shows Little Interest.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, March 5.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The criminal branch of the Court of Cassation today granted the appeal of Alfred Dreyfus for a revision of his trial at Rennes. The court held that a sufficient showing had been made to warrant a reopening of the case, and ordered a supplementary investigation for the purpose of establishing all the doubtful points which have been the basis for the present application. The decision is another marked success for Dreyfus, although it is not yet final, owing to the extended supplementary investigation which must follow the court's decision.

The decision was given at the close of the third day's hearing. Comparatively little public interest has been taken in the sessions of the court, and the courtroom was almost deserted. Among those were Maitre Labori, the famous lawyer, who defended Dreyfus at Rennes.

Most of the day was given to the address of Maitre Mornaud, one of Dreyfus' counsel. He argued that the case made against Dreyfus is a tissue of invention. He closed with an eloquent appeal, saying that the honor of the army and its officers demanded the reversal of this unjust conviction.

An incident occurred during M. Mornaud's address, when he referred to Dreyfus' great qualities of heart and exalted character and turned toward M. Labori as if making an appeal to have his statements confirmed. Thereupon, M. Labori arose and left the room, causing some commotion. M. Labori was quoted as saying in the corridor that he did not wish by his presence to confirm the eulogy pronounced upon his former client's heart and character.

Following M. Mornaud's address, the court retired, remained closeted for an hour, then returned and gave out the decision, which goes a long way toward the complete rehabilitation of Dreyfus, the subsequent steps being formalities.

FOR OPEN MARKET.

Even if it Does Not Benefit United States, it Will Filipinos, Says Secretary Taft.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—Secretary of War Taft was last night entertained at a dinner and reception at the Yale Club. About fifty men were present, including several members of the secretary's class, '78. No set speeches were made, but the Secretary was compelled to make a few remarks. He referred exclusively to the Philippine Islands, saying:

"We are not there to treat the Filipinos as a conquered people. Many of the seven million Filipinos are Christians. Their religious ideals, however crude they may be, are essentially Christian in character, and in this respect they differ from all the other oriental races. The natives are learning English rapidly and appreciate the value to them of their American teachers. It is a new experience for them. The Spaniards objected to their learning Spanish, even. I want to make a strong plea for an open market. It will be better for them and for us. Even if it does not benefit us, we owe it to them. I hope we shall give them a great many tariff concessions."

PANAMA BARS THE ORIENTALS.

NEW YORK, March 5.—A bill prohibiting the further immigration of Chinese, Syrians and Turks has been passed by the National Assembly, says a Panama dispatch to the Herald. It now requires only the signature of the President and then a promulgation within three days to become a law. It will go into effect thirty days later, after which any steamship companies or private individuals or enterprises violating the law will be fined $200 silver currency for the first offense and $500 for every additional offense. Offenders will be forced to return the prohibited persons.

FATAL CHURCH FIRE.

A Priest and Two Servants Burn to Death, and Two Other Priests Severely Injured.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—One priest and two servants were killed and two other priests were severely injured in a fire that destroyed St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church and the adjoining rectory in Long Island City today. Those killed were the Rev. Father Ernest and Mary and Margaret Brady, domestics. Those injured are the Rev. Joseph Kearney and Rev. Father Hunnigan. The money loss by the fire was estimated at $35,000. Father Ernest is believed to have lost his life while trying to save the two women.

The rectory was a three-story brick building with an attic. The two women slept in the attic, and the priests had apartments on the second and third floors. The fire, which started in the passageway connecting the church and the rectory, spread to both structures with great rapidity, and by the time the firemen reached the scene the whole rectory was ablaze.

Margaret and Mary Brady appeared at a window of the attic just as the fire company arrived. A ladder was hoisted but it was too short to reach them, and before a longer one could be raised they fell back into the flames.

St. Patrick's Church was the largest in Long Island City.

The cold in Northern Italy is so intense that the Tesa Falls, near Simpton, probably the grandest among the Alps, are frozen hard.

At Perth Amboy, N. J., fire caused a loss of $100,000 in the building occupied by Reynolds & Hanson's dry goods store, J. H. and F. Hilsdyr, grocers, and Stedbodino Bros., shoe dealers.

been seen, confirms the theory entertained from the first that the Japanese are following their traditional policy of concealing their losses. The disappearance of the Japanese fleet from Port Arthur after its failures is creating merriment here.

The Gazette this morning attributes the less unfriendly attitude of the United States and Great Britain toward Russia to the fact that they are commercial nations, and realize that the war will cost a tremendous amount of money, and that Japan will not have the walk-over anticipated.

A naval expert writing to the Novosti predicts that Korea will prove a mouse trap to the Japanese, adding that "not one hundredth part of the yellow Napoleons will get out alive."

Many fast locomotives are being sent from European Russia to Siberia.

JAPAN'S DIET IMPROVED.
INDEPENDENTS MAKE GAINS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, March 5.—[By Asiatic Cable.] The final returns of the parliamentary elections show that over one hundred new members were elected. The large increase in the Independent membership is regarded as a favorable sign. Of late years the Diet has largely been composed of politicians, and popular interest and confidence in it has decreased. The Diet in consequence has ceased to be the great representative body the constitution proposed. The political issues have caused bickering and frequent dissolutions, making the government partly an oligarchy instead of a constitutional administration. The war has revived interest in national affairs, and the new Diet is regarded as an improvement on its immediate predecessors.

POWERS READY TO INTERFERE.

WOULD HELP RUSSIA PRESERVE PEACE IN THE BALKANS.

Situation There Temporarily Improved by Reason of Anglo-French Pressure—All Quiet in Macedonia. Abdul Hamid Warned by Emperor William to Take Heed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Advices to London from Constantinople and Sofia indicate temporary improvement in the Balkan situation. No one believes the Sultan or the Macedonian Committee has experienced a change of heart, but it is reported in the offices of leading journals, though not for publication by them, that Anglo-French pressure has been brought to bear upon Abdul Hamid, Prince Ferdinand and Boris Sarafoff simultaneously. All three have been informed that even if Russia's present embarrassment should increase sufficiently to hamper her work as the reform agent of Europe in the Balkans, the other powers interested in preserving order in Southeastern Europe are ready to act for her. Prince Ferdinand, alarmed at the bellicose tone of the Porte, communicated direct with the foreign offices of London and Paris.

M. Cambon, French Ambassador here, reached a comprehensive agreement with Lord Lansdowne. Twenty-four hours later it was no secret among the diplomats in Constantinople that the Sultan had decided to accept the peaceful assurances of the Bulgarian government and to stay his avenging hand.

Quiet reigns in Macedonia. This is not likely to be broken until Sarafoff's henchmen get out of Pandagain. Meanwhile the comedy of Macedonian reforms is being presented with a full cast of Christian tax collectors accompanied by an orchestra of Moslem gendarmes.

It is suggested that Abdul Hamid referred the Anglo-French warning to his "great and good friend," Emperor William, and that the Kaiser advised him to take heed.

HANOVER (Prussia,) March 5.—Field Marshal Count von Waldersee died shortly after 5 o'clock this evening. He had to do with the things that made Prussia great and the Empire possible. Count von Waldersee's end came without a struggle. The hopelessness of his case became evident at noon, but he retained consciousness until 4 o'clock. He was aware of the seriousness of his condition, and asked to see his friends. Shortly before 5 o'clock the physicians informed his wife that medical skill could do no more. His two nephews were also at his side when he died. Emperor William was at once informed of the death of the Field Marshal. It is believed that His Majesty will attend the funeral, which is set for next Tuesday or Wednesday.

READY TO BUILD RAILROAD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—Japan is ready to start construction of the Seoul-Wiju Railway at once, according to a Herald dispatch from Seoul. Fifteen miles of grading already has been done by the Korean government under French engineers, but no rails, locomotives or cars have been purchased yet. TWO TENIERS DISCOVERED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Stained with age and begrimed with dust of many years' accumulation, two paintings by Tenier, a celebrated artist of the seventeenth century, have hung unnoticed and unknown in an isolated corner of the St. Louis University for years. The rarity of the pictures was discovered today by an artist who makes a specialty of restoring old paintings. The paintings are two of twelve handicrafts, representing a knife grinder and a cobbler, which Tenier painted shortly before his death in 1690. Nine are known to be in an art institute in Munich, Bavaria. These two were brought to America more than a hundred years ago by some Bavarian Jesuit fathers and the remaining one is still missing. The two are valued at $3000 each.

SENATOR PENROSE FOR NATIONAL CHAIRMAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Quay of Pennsylvania was at the White House this morning for the first time in weeks. He has been much benefited by his sojourn South, though not fully restored to health.

He said he knew nothing of the plan to make Senator Penrose national chairman, but added: "Senator Penrose would make an excellent chairman and I should like to see him have the place."

Talk in White House circles indicates strong prospects for the selection of Mr. Penrose for the chairmanship. It is said he would be entirely satisfactory to eastern financial interests.

GOV. ODELL DEFERS VISIT.
CANNOT SEE THE PRESIDENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The President received a telephone message from Gov. Odell last night informing him that he had been attacked by a severe cold. This morning, the President received a telegram from the Governor saying that he would be obliged to return immediately to Albany, as his physicians had informed him that he had an attack of the grip. He stated, therefore, that he would be unable to keep his engagement with the President today. The President wrote the Governor, expressing regret that he would be unable to come to Washington at this time, and telling him he would be glad to see him at any time in the near future.

NOT OFFERED THE CHAIR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—It can be authoritatively stated that Gov. Odell has not been offered the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee and that there is no possibility that he will be offered the position. It was not the purpose of Gov. Odell's visit to Washington to discuss with ffithe President the chairmanship of the National Republican Committee. It is understood that Gov. Odell's visit had merely been postponed.

ODELL AND CHAIRMANSHIP.
BEN SAYS IT WILL KEEP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—Stating that he was suffering from a fever, cold and sore throat, Gov. Odell today abandoned his proposed trip to Washington to consult with the President and returned to Albany, at the same time positively putting himself out of line for the chairmanship of the National Republican Committee.

"Nothing has been settled yet," said the Governor as to his acceptance of the State chairmanship, "and this matter is still under consideration."

In mentioning the abandonment for the present of the Washington trip, Gov. Odell also made an emphatic declaration on the subject of his leadership in this State, stating that "there is nothing in the affairs of the party in this State that I cannot settle myself, without assistance, if I wish, and the President is not apt to call on me to settle the affairs of the nation. I shall not go to Washington for some time, as I have several engagements up the State and there is nothing I wish to see the President about that is urgent or that will not keep."

"Will you accept the national chairmanship?" he was asked

"No, I never had any such idea," he replied. "It is not the kind of work I am looking for, and I would not accept it if it were offered me on a silver platter."

At Albuquerque, N. M., Jose Trujillo and his wife have been arrested and charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Ann Boone, aged 70, who was killed in her bed in a room adjoining that occupied by the Trujillos. Mrs. Boone apparently had been choked to death after being made insensible by a blow on the head. Robbery was the motive for the crime.

FOR SUPREME COURT.

Transcript of Testimony Taken in San Francisco in Fair Case Received in New York.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Transcript of the testimony taken in San Francisco of Herman Oelrichs, his wife, Theresa Alice Oelrichs, sister of the late Charles L. Fair, two doctors and others, in the suit brought by Mrs. Hannah E. Nelson, aged mother of the late Mrs. Caroline D. Fair, who was killed with her husband in an automobile accident near Paris in August, 1902, to recover a portion of the estate, has just been received here for use in the Supreme Court.

The principal defendants in the suit are Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, sister of Mr. Fair. Hermann Oelrichs testified that he first met Mrs. Nelson in San Francisco on August 23, 1902, and when he was asked if he would accept a proposition to pay Mrs. Nelson and her family $125,000 to release all claims to the estate, he accepted it. He denied that he ever said anything about the child of Mr. and Mrs. Fair or that the child would be produced if the case ever came to trial.

Dr. John M. Williamson, who performed an autopsy in San Francisco, testified that from his examination of the skull of Mr. Fair, it was not so fractured as to necessarily cause instantaneous death, and he thought it possible he might have survived for one hour. From an examination of the body of Mrs. Fair, he gave it as his opinion that she died instantly.

APACHE FIRE FIGHTERS.

Military Reservation North of Fort Sill Still Burning, With Strong Wind Blowing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GUTHRIE (Okla.) March 5.—Specials to the State Capitol from Lawton say:

"Advices from Fort Sill, late tonight, state that the military reservation north of Fort Sill is still burning and a strong north wind is blowing. The Apache Indians, who are prisoners of war upon this reservation, have been ordered to the front as fire fighters. No privates are being allowed outside the fort tonight, and all soldiers are in readiness to go out to fight fire. No great fear is expressed for government buildings. This fire will practically sweep the remaining range bare of stock feed.

KANSAS PRAIRIE FIRES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALINA (Kan.) March 5.—A prairie fire last night was started by sparks from an engine near Arcola, Ellsworth county. It spread north to the Salina River, a distance of twenty miles, and was the largest blaze seen in this part of the State, cutting a swath ten miles wide. There is no way of estimating the damage done. Many farms have been devastated, pastures and grain fields ruined, sheds and barns burned and other property destroyed. The people of Arcola had great difficulty in preventing that village from being burned.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE.

Scarcely a House in Lima Escaped Injury in Friday's Earthquake in Peru.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—Only one person was killed, but many walls fell and much damage was done by the earthquake which occurred Friday, says a dispatch from Lima, Peru. One of the structures seriously affected was the Cathedral. Its right tower was cracked, and much damage was done to statues and works of art. Scarcely a house in the city escaped damage.

Doors and windows were opened and reshut by the tremors. Roofs were dislodged and pictures, mirrors and glassware in shops were destroyed. The balconies of a large part of the buildings in the city tumbled to the ground.

A dispatch from Chorillos says that the earthquake was more destructive there than in Lima. It cracked the walls of churches and destroyed pictures, statues and crockery. In Callao walls of numerous houses fell, while the docks and the iron bridge suffered seriously.

Traffic on the Central Railway was stopped by rocks falling on the track. The shock was felt everywhere in Peru.

EARTHQUAKE IN KENTUCKY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, March 5.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Knoxville, Tenn., says: "A report from Sevierville, twenty-seven miles south, is that a distinct earthquake shock was felt there at 7:20 o'clock last night. It lasted about eight seconds and was general along the Appalachian Mountain range. The quake traveled northeasterly and reports of it in a mild form are also received from Ducktown and Newport.

YANGER & LONG.

Matched to Meet at Spokane for Two Thousand Dollar Purse, Fifteen Rounds.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Benny Yanger was practically matched this afternoon to meet Louis Long at Spokane for a $2500 guaranteed purse, fifteen rounds, 130 pounds at the ringside. In addition to that, negotiations are pending for a match between the winner of the Yanger-Herrera bout at the America Club a week from Monday, and Dave Sullivan, who was recently defeated by "Young Corbett."

Bill Lavigne, manager of Long, arrived in the city today and met John Hertz for the purpose of talking fight between his protege and the Italian. There was little discussion on the subject. Hertz immediately agreed to the terms, but the question of the referee was left unsettled. Hertz is not sure yet of taking Yanger to the Coast. O'Keefe is going to San Francisco soon, and if the match with Long at Spokane holds good, Hertz will take Yanger with him on the trip. Dave Sullivan will arrive in the city tomorrow. Hertz is confident Yanger can dispose of the Mexican, and will see Sullivan regarding a match.

SUMMER MANEUVERS NEAR THE CAPITAL

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Washington may be the objective point in the joint army and navy maneuvers to be held in August. Officers of the joint navy and army board are considering a plan to have the maneuvers in the Potomac River and the Chesapeake Bay, with either Washington or Baltimore as the point of attack. The plan is favored by many officers, who are anxious that the efficiency of Fort Monroe may be thoroughly tested.

The complaint has frequently been made that sufficient protection is not offered to the lower Potomac and the lower part of Chesapeake Bay, and navy officers desire an opportunity to see what an attacking force would do in a movement against either Washington or Baltimore.

San Francisco is anxious to have the joint maneuvers, and a scheme is before the joint board to make that city the objective point.

ly that Senators be requested to use their influence."

Webber, in answer to a request for one of the circulars, said he had none, and no record had been kept of them. "No doubt," he said, "one could be obtained from one of the Eastern houses to which they were addressed. There is nothing to conceal about them."

"Was President Smith's name connected with them?"

"Why, yes," Webber answered. "President Smith is at the head of the institution; of course, his name was attached."

THE CONGRESS.

REGULAR SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—SENATE. The Senate today passed the following bills:

Amending the mineral land laws relative to surveys; amending the law for the correction of double allotments to Indians; authorizing the President to extend an invitation to the International Congress of Hygiene to meet at Washington in 1909.

Mr. Cullom presented the report of the conference committee on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation Bill, and it was agreed to.

The Naval Appropriation Bill was taken up and the discussion immediately took on a political aspect. Mr. Clay took issue with the contentions of Mr. Lodge and Mr. Depew as to the necessity for a strong fighting sea force to keep the United States out of war. Mr. Martin (Dem.), a member of the Committee on Naval Affairs, defended the bill.

Mr. Depew spoke of the policy of expansion, and Mr. Patterson inquired whether he meant that further aggrandizement through conquest or purchase of foreign territory would be the programme of this government.

"I do not think we will ever see the time when we will need more territory," said Mr. Depew, "but I do think we will want a merchant marine some time, and I mean that we will want a navy big enough to protect it. I mean that Secretary Hay's programme for an open door in China will continue to be a policy of this government, and that we should have a navy big enough to enforce it."

MR. DEPEW'S PREDICTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Mr. Depew predicted that, in the end, Mr. Chamberlain would succeed in the programme laid out by him in Great Britain. Other European nations would be found taking steps to protect themselves against us, and a navy would be needed. He said that, whichever side was victorious in the eastern war, the United States must be consulted, and this country would insist on having her interests considered before China could be divided up. A great navy would be necessary at such a time.

Replying to Mr. Patterson, he said he did not think it would be necessary to go to war to maintain our interests in the Orient.

"Why are the other powers now accepting a very unpopular note from us?" he asked.

Mr. Patterson called attention to the report that the note to Russia and Japan had been incited by Germany.

Mr. Nelson replied to Mr. Patterson's questions concerning our naval influence in the East saying that, with this country, Great Britain and Japan all united in support of an open door in China, there was no danger of the dismemberment of China. All, too, were hostile to the absorption of Manchuria. He did not believe there was any formal alliance—only mutuality of interest.

Mr. Hale protested that this debate was extraneous.

"I do not want the statement of the Senator from Minnesota to go unchallenged," he said.

"I do not agree that there is today any such common interest between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, on the one side, against Russia, France and other powers, as his statement implies. Our attitude is one of neutrality and so declared by our State Department. The statement that we have a common interest with Japan and Great Britain as to Manchuria, I cant let go without a statement. We are not against Japan nor must it be said that all our interests are with her and against Russia and other continental European powers."

He said that if Japan should find herself successful in her present war, the United States would find herself in more dangerous commercial matters from that ambitious power than any one. He (Hale) considered the oriental trade as of comparatively little importance. If we had not been involved with predatory nations in invading China, even the Chinese Boxers would have protected our interests in China. He was not in favor of an active policy that involved us in the expense in the enormous wickedness of the war so far away from our shores.

THAT HAY NOTE.

Resuming his speech, Mr. Depew denied that the Hay note had been inspired by Germany.

Continuing, Mr. Depew said that Mr. Nelson's penly had expressed his partiality for Japan, while Mr. Hale almost as plainly had indicated his leaning toward Russia. As for Mr. Patterson, he had manifested the usual Democratic tendency toward every pedency by standing ready to take advantage of the situation, whichever side might win. He argued with Mr. Hale as to the wisdom of Mr. Hale's attitude, "but," he said, "the fact remains that every man, woman and child in the United States is lined up on one side or the other, as they are whenever there is a fight."

He added that the President's proclamation announces our official attitude, but said that behind that we can say what we please as individuals.

Mr. Depew defended President Roosevelt against the charge of impetuosity and recklessness, saying that if he had the disposition to make trouble he would have found it in the Canadian dispute. "A less wise man would have seen and seized the opportunity to appeal to the popular sentiment," he said. "Instead of doing this, the President had appealed to arbitration, and in view of the resolution, we owe him a lasting debt of gratitude for the wisdom and patriotism displayed."

JAPAN'S GREAT PROGRESS.

Mr. Depew said he had been appointed Minister to Japan thirty-eight years ago and in those thirty-eight years Japan had progressed as much as Europe had progressed in the last six hundred years. If her contest with Russia was to be on the land, Japan would be nowhere, but the fight must be on the sea, and the result could not be foretold.

Mr. Gorman congratulated Mr. Hale on his conduct of naval legislation in the Senate. He reviewed the growth of the navy, saying that when Mr. Whitney took charge of the Navy Department it was in very bad condition, but, notwithstanding the Republican majority in the Senate, he had not been necessary to make a second appeal either to Mr. Hale or Mr. Allison. Up to the present time there had been no division on party lines. As for himself, he always had expressed his sentiments freely without regard to party lines. He criticised Mr. Moody as imprudent in charging the Democratic party with partisanship

JAPAN'S GREAT PROGRESS.

If her contest with Russia was to be on the land, Japan would be nowhere, but the fight must be on the sea, and the result could not be foretold.

Mr. Gorman congratulated Mr. Hale on his conduct of naval legislation in the Senate. He reviewed the growth of the navy, saying that when Mr. Whitney took charge of the Navy Department it was in very bad condition, but, notwithstanding the Republicans were in the majority in the Senate, it had not been necessary to make a second appeal either to Mr. Hale or Mr. Allison. Up to the present time there had been no division on party lines. As for himself, he always had expressed his sentiments freely without regard to party lines. He criticised Mr. Depew as imprudent in charging the Democratic party with partisanship because of his (Mr. Gorman's) attitude. He had spoken for himself in saying the administration was advancing too rapidly and had gone too far in the increase of the navy.

"Executive officers," said Mr. Gorman, slowly and with deliberate emphasis, "would serve their country better if they attended to the details of their offices and abstained from criticisms of Senators and members of Congress."

Mr. Gorman then gave his attention to the statement of Mr. Lodge, that a large navy was a conservator of peace, saying that this declaration was contrary to the conviction of the fathers. He differed from Mr. Lodge in considering this an aggressive nation. He hoped the time would soon come when the people would return to the Democratic-Republican doctrine that our power was not measured by the number of guns afloat, nor by the number of uniforms we had. We would not have a Republican or a Democratic navy, but an American navy, and he would have the credit given to the men who fight the battles, as was done in the case of Perry, and not have them sent to the rear and humiliated for their very achievements.

"If we were at war," he said, "if our commerce were threatened by war, we would give the Secretary of the Navy all that he could spend. But all the country knows that these millions, these billions, have done more to demoralize than otherwise."

Extravagance had been the invariable result, and the war with Spain, involving only two days in action, had cost the country a billion dollars. He had no sympathy with any movement against China. No matter what nation might secure supremacy in that country, the United States would secure its share of its commerce. He said that every American had gloried in the part taken by the United States in the Boxer uprising, and that if that example were to be followed it would do more than any number of ships to improve our commerce.

Mr. Carmack referred to Mr. Depew's defense of the retention of the Philippines and quoted a previous utterance by that Senator, taking an opposite position.

THE NEW DEPEW.

Mr. Depew rose saying: "That Chauncey Depew is dead. I was not then a Senator, but simply a New Yorker making speeches almost every night, and giving very little thought to them.

After studying the question he had changed his views. He originally had been a Democrat and his first impressions were generally Democratic.

"The difference between the Senator's position then and now," replied Mr. Carmack, "is that not being a Senator, he was considering the case as a patriot and had not taken the case as a criminal lawyer to defend the Republican party."

Mr. Carmack agreed with Mr. Hale that if China should fall under the domination of Japan, it would be very doubtful whether the United States would derive any advantage from it. Mr. Carmack read an extra from a newspaper, saying $435,000 had been expended for the purpose of keeping the two pleasure yachts, the Mayflower and the Slyph, in condition for the President's use. This, he contended, was a misapprehension.

Mr. Nelson took the floor to reply to Mr. Hale, who, he said, had taken him to task for violating the principles of neutrality because he had said that our commercial interests were common to those of Japan. "And," he went on, "in the same breath in which he criticised me called attention to the danger our commerce was in from ambitious Japan. I submit that if there was any violation of the principles of neutrality on my part, there was an equally marked violation by him."

Mr. Nelson said that he had not intended to imply that the United States should not take any other than a neutral position in the oriental war. He did contend, however, that we should take all proper steps to protect our commerce in the Orient, and he thought the navy should be adequate to that service.

The amendment proposed by Mr. Quarles to the committee amendment for a naval station on the Great Lakes was then taken up. Mr. Hopkins moved to lay it on the table. That motion was voted down. The amendment to the amendment was accepted, and the original amendement as amendew sa agreed to.

The naval bill was then laid aside.

Mr. Foraker gave notice that on Thursday, March 31, he would ask the Senate to consider resolutions of respect for the late Senator Hanna.

At 5:35 p.m. the Senate adjourned.

POSTOFFICE APPROPRIATIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The report on the Postoffice Appropriation Bill, containing a summary of the contents of the bill, made public at the time of its completion, was filed in the House today. The report is accompanied by a statement of the views of the minority, signed by Representatives Moon, Griggs, Cowherd, Finley and Krutz.

Mr. Moon also submitted some views of his own, condemning railway mail subsidies and the provision in the bill for the lease for fifty years of postoffice facilities of the New York City.

CENTRAL RAILWAY IN NEW YORK.

In the minority report proper, an investigation of the postoffice bill is urged. The conclusions of the Bristow investigation are made a part of the report, which is declared to be a disclosure of "startling corruption in the division investigated and a method of doing business naturally conducive to fraud."

The report states that the investigation was confined largely to one division and it is impossible to say whether or not the same corrupt methods obtain in other divisions. The business intercourse between the divisions makes such a condition possible, it says, and some system of checks is recommended so that fraud could not easily be achieved.

The minority report concludes on this subject: "In view of the interesting report mentioned and of the hearings and detailed proof furnished by the department to the committee of improper conduct of postoffice officials and of the charges against other divisions of the department and the imperfect methods of obtaining facts as to the conduct of affairs in that office, it would be the part of wisdom that the House should proceed to a full and complete investigation of the Postoffice Department in all of its branches, for the betterment of the service, the prevention of frauds and the general protection of the public interests."

ROSEBUD RESERVATION LAND.

PAYMENTS DISPLEASE PRESIDENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Representative James Sherman of New York, chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee of the House, had a conference today with the President regarding the bill providing for the opening to settlement of 413,000 acres of land in the Rosebud reservation, South Dakota. By the terms of the measure, the land may be sold to settlers for not less than $5 an acre, the amount of the purchase price to be paid in five annual installments, the land not sold under the first offer to be allotted at $4 an acre.

President Roosevelt informed Mr. Sherman that he was opposed unalterably to the terms of payment fixed in the bill as it passed the House. In fact, his opposition to the price of the land as specified in the House bill is so strong that if the measure were passed by Congress in that shape he would veto it.

It has been shown by excellent authorities that the land is worth an average price of at least $6 an acre at the lowest, and some of it is worth as much as $25 an acre.

GROFF'S MOTION OVERRULED.

DEFENDANT IS SENTENCED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Justice Pritchard today overruled the motion of Samuel A. Groff, one of the recently convicted defendants in the postal trial, and sentenced him to two years' imprisonment in the Moundsville penitentiary and to pay a fine of $10,000, sentence to begin on arrival at the penitentiary. Groff immediately furnished bond for $30,000 pending trial.

SLEEP IS PRICELESS

But It Can Be Obtained by Simple Methods.

Are you a hard worker? Are you overcome with fatigue at the end of each day's labor, and instead of retiring to bed with a feeling of satisfaction at the prospect of a night's repose, do you wait the hour of bedtime with dread and shrinking?

Is it your unhappy lot to be awakened every night, just after you have dropped off to sleep, by an intense, uncontrollable itching of the rectum? Do you then endeavor to relieve the sensation by scratching so desperately that the skin becomes raw and lacerated, and you finally sink into the sleep of exhaustion?

If so, you do not need to be told that you are afflicted with itching piles. You have probably tried every remedy you could hear of, with but temporary relief, if any, and have concluded there was nothing left for you but to drag out a miserable existence. As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so should you eagerly devour the words of W. O. Milbury, 70 Pearl St., Reading, Mass.

"I am pleased to state that I bought one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure at the drug store, and used about one half of it, and it not only cured me of itching piles, but also of constipation, a trouble of about fifteen years' standing. I have tried almost everything without any lasting benefit, but I can honestly and truthfully state that Pyramid Pile Cure has entirely cured me, as I have had no return of that terrible itching, which used to keep me awake by the hour, night after night. If the old trouble should ever return I will know just what to do, but I guess it won't for it is now six or seven months since I first used this wonderful remedy."

We vouch for the authenticity of this testimonial, and as Mr. Milbury found relief and a cure, so you may also. Do not delay, but buy a box and try it tonight, and do not allow any dealer to sell you "something just as good." You will do well to write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles, which is sent free for the asking.

Millions Now Use Liquozone

Four glass factories are employed to make the bottles for Liquozone. Four laboratories—with 21 floors and 500 employees—are occupied in producing it; a process which takes 14 days. Six months ago Liquozone was almost unknown in America. Today, millions are telling of the good it has done. Won't you—for your own sake—let its help come to you?

The First Bottle Is Free.

This is how Liquozone came to be known in America.

A few years ago some Chicago men in their travels learned that a new product had been discovered which would destroy—at once and forever—the cause of a germ disease.

This product had for more than twenty years been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It was manufactured solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers, and by a secret process requiring 14 days. The product was then known as liqueded ozone, because it accomplished what oxygen does.

The remarkable cures due alone to this product led these men to investigate it. For two years they tested it, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. They cured with it thousands of the most difficult cases obtainable, including every disease which was then called incurable. Then these men combined and staked on this product their fortunes and their reputations.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone before we made the first bottle. That is the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We paid that price because we had learned what Liquozone would do. We knew that it would cure more sickness, end more suffering and save more lives than all the drugs in the world could do without it. We knew—as well as we know now—that as a curer of sickness and a saver of sickness, it would become a universal necessity.

Then we appropriated $500,000 to give a million bottles away, one to each of a million sick ones. By that remarkable offer in six short months, we have proved the power of Liquozone to most of the sick in America.

Kills Inside Germs.

The great value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. There is nothing else known that will do that. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease, as every physician knows.

Liquozone is so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. Yet, to the human body Liquozone is as harmless as air. And it is a wonderful tonic. Those who know it best use it in every glass of water they drink, to prevent germ contagion and to keep them well.

Acts Like Oxygen.

The virtue of Liquozone lies in the fact that it does what oxygen does. Oxygen is the vital part of air, the very source of vitality, the most essential element of life. It is oxygen that turns the blue blood to red in the lungs. It is oxygen that eliminates the waste tissues and builds up the new. It is the nerve food, the blood food; and every function of life depends on it.

But an excess of oxygen—the very life of the animal—is deadly to vegetable matter. AND GERMS ARE VEGETABLES. There is no doubt that oxygen was intended by Nature to protect man against germs.

But oxygen is a gas, and unstable. Liquozone is not even volatile. It carries its virtues into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. And as no germ can escape it, and none can resist it, the results are inevitable.

But Liquozone is more than a germicide. It is a tonic with which no other known product can compare. It acts on every function of nature as an excess of oxygen gas would do were it possible to hold it in the blood.

Germ Diseases.

The diseases in this list are known to be caused by germs or their toxins. The only way to cure them is to kill those germs, and medicine cannot do that. Medicine sometimes acts as a tonic, aiding Nature to overcome the germs. But those results are indirect and uncertain, and they depend on the patient's condition.

Liquozone is the only way to directly attack the cause of these troubles. For that reason, diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone; and it cures diseases which medicine never cured. The results are so certain in any stage of any disease in this list that we will gladly send to every patient who asks it an absolute guaranty.

TOURIST KILLED BY A BUCKING SWITCH.

WITHIN less than half an hour after he had alighted from a train at the Southern Pacific depot yesterday afternoon, A. D. Carpenter, a tourist, who came here for his health, was struck by an electric car at Fifth street and Maple avenue and almost instantly killed. It would seem from the statements of witnesses that the fatal accident was due either to the carelessness of the motorman in charge of the car or to some defect in the switching device in use by the Los Angeles Railway Company.

Carpenter was walking along Fifth street. While he was crossing Maple avenue and when he had no reason to believe that he was in danger, a car of the San Pedro-street line, which, under no circumstances runs on Maple avenue, dashed around the curve and before the unfortunate man could get out of the way, struck and killed him.

At the intersection of Fifth street and Maple avenue there is a switch of peculiar design which is operated by electricity. This switch is set so that all east-bound cars on Fifth street will pass Maple avenue and the motormen of the Maple-avenue cars are obliged to turn off the current in order to throw the switch, or vice-versa. Owing to the failure of motormen to properly manipulate their current in time, there have been several accidents at this corner, and on one occasion a car smashed two huge poles at the curb.

Shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon car No. 210 of the San Pedro-street line was going east along Fifth street at full speed. The motorman, Frank Keith, of No. 534 Wall street, had every reason to believe that he had the right of way, and that the Maple-avenue switch was not open. The car was moving at full speed, and when it struck the Maple-avenue switch that switch was fixed so that the car was turned into Maple avenue. So fast was the car moving that instead of keeping to the track on the curve it jumped the track, one truck flying off at a tangent and the other in the opposite direction, thus throwing the car almost at right angles to the track.

Carpenter was crossing Maple avenue, as stated, when the car struck the switch. He was a stranger in the city, but even had he been an old resident of Los Angeles or even an employé of the street railway company he would have had reason to believe that he was in no danger from that car because he would have known that except for an accident it would not have turned into Maple avenue. The car hurled Carpenter almost to the curb on the east side of Maple avenue. He never moved after he fell, and was dead when assistance reached him. The Coroner was immediately notified and by his order the body was removed to Bresee Bros.' morgue. Papers found on the body revealed the identity of the deceased.

Carpenter left San Antonio last Wednesday, and arrived in this city yesterday afternoon. He was about 40 years of age, and was the son of J. M. Carpenter of Weeping Water, Neb. He had considerable money and appeared to be a man of some means. A telegram was sent to his relatives in Nebraska last night, but no reply has been received.

ARKANSAS MAN'S SERIOUS PLIGHT.

WILLIAM F. BRADLEY ARRESTED ON BETRAYAL CHARGE.

Fugitive from Justice Caught by Sheriff's Men in Los Angeles—Rendition Warrant Issued by Gov. Pardee—Held Here Pending Arrival of Officers.

William F. Bradley was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Cleveland and Franklin on a rendition warrant signed by Gov. Pardee. Bradley came here from Berryville, Carroll county, Ark., about five months ago and has been in the employ of the Pacific Coast Planing Mills since his arrival.

The charge against him is seduction, preferred by Lula Jones of Berryville, and his arrest was caused by a true bill being returned against him by the grand jury of Carroll county and rendition papers being issued by Gov. Pardee directing Sheriff White to make the arrest and to hold Bradley here, pending the arrival of officers from Arkansas. He was placed in the County Jail.

The charge against Bradley is an especially serious one in the State of Arkansas and the man says he will make a strong fight against being taken back and if compelled to go, he will contest the case to the last ditch in the Arkansas courts.

Miss Jones is described as a pretty Southern lass of 24, who reposed too much confidence in Bradley. The accused man denies his guilt.

The two deputies had an exciting chase after Bradley, as he was shielded by a number of his friends, but he was finally located in the American lodging-house at the corner of Sixth street and Ceres avenue.

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

G. S. Burn, former theatrical manager in California, has turned his attention to cultivating civilization in the Philippines, and finds it more profitable.

Mr. Burn has observed many things during a two years' stay in the Orient, and while he has come back to the United States for a fresh supply of Americanisms and a favorable opportunity to spend his enthusiasm, he intends to go back in a very few months. His work has been along the Eastern Asiatic coast as agent for a mercantile company, and he has formed some interesting theories about conditions as they are now and will be in the future.

He said yesterday: "I believe that the Russo-Japanese War is destined to be one of the beneficial, though apparently inexplicable, movements of civilization toward a higher plane. It seems to me that the world has never been but half-discovered, or if it has been discovered in that quarter, it has now relapsed into the silence and darkness of barbarism. It is a bigger country than our own with all of Europe added thereto, and when we get it trained down to twentieth-century habits and customs the result will be wonderful.

"I think that America is destined above all other nations to enter the 'open door' of the Orient. There's a place for everything that we have in the way of improvement over there, and they're looking to us for education and advanced customs with every arriving steamer. Somebody has been hallowing 'overproduction' here, along some lines, but I tell you that that seems to me an impossibility. They want more than the world can give them.

"From what I know of conditions in Siberia, I believe that the war is very liable to cause an uprising in the Russian interior, and wreak disaster to old-established conditions in the Czar's tremendous monarchy. Whether the Russians or the Japanese win the conflict, it will mean the infinite broadening of men's ideas there, and the beginning of a tide of foreign influence which may sweep over all China.

"Over on the eastern shore a man can fancy himself stepping back a dozen centuries—more than that, even, when the light of intellect first began to enter Europe from the East, bringing with it the intellectual day which prevails at the present time. I think that Asia is just entering upon the most wonderful period of its history."

"It is indeed gratifying to note the change which has taken place in sentiments expressed in American newspapers and by American people during the past two weeks regarding the Russian-Japanese war," said Lieut. Boris de Londonier, a Russian nobleman who is sojourning in Los Angeles for the winter.

Lieut. De Londonier, who is a companion of the popular pianist, Pepe Storek, is located in the picturesque new flats at No. 943 South Hill street, and is just convalescing from an illness that has kept him confined to his bed and room for several weeks.

During all this time he has been a keen reader of the American, English and continental papers, and has been a close student of the war news.

The pro-Japanese sentiments expressed by so many of the American newspapers at the beginning of the conflict was an overwhelming surprise to this student of affairs, as the long-existing friendship between the United States and Russia he deemed to be of such strength that such a change of sentiment seemed preposterous.

"But the sober second thought of the American people is beginning to show itself," said Lieut. De Londonier last night, "and I see some of the strong journals of your country are declaring themselves on the absurdity of the Americans espousing the cause of the Japs, who are now, and will become more so, their commercial competitors, as against their tried friends, the Russians, who are of the same race and whose country opens to the United States an unmeasured market for its products."

Lieut. De Londonier comes of a military family, his forebears going from France to Russia at the founding of Odessa, and the family since that time have been connected with military affairs. His two brothers are now in the active service as officers under Gen. Vannovsky. Nine years ago Lieut. De Londonier was in the active service, and he retired to the reserves, until six years ago he was again called out.

He is again connected with the reserve forces, and has taken this opportunity to make a tour of the world in a leisurely manner. The past two years he has spent in Canada and the United States, and several months were employed in a sojourn in the Hawaiian Islands.

Speaking of the reports in yesterday's dispatches that Russia was to call out all its reserves, this nobleman declares that to one posted on affairs of his country the report is ridiculous.

"If my country had the means and facilities to send to the front even her regular standing army, she would be doing immense things. Why, this force alone would be at least 1,000,000 men; and that doesn't touch eight classes of reserves. These would be available altogether, in such a contingency as the dispatches purport, an army of over 4,000,000 men. That some reserves have been called into service there can be no doubt, for Russia does this every year; and it is thus her army is kept up to the full quota; but there appears to be no chance for the main body of the regular army to move to the Far East, much less the reserves."

Lieut. De Londonier has the keenest disrespect for the average newspaper war correspondent. Said he: "I have been reading the papers very closely since my illness, and it is really surprising to note the fertile manner in which the war correspondents raise up armies that never existed, or wipe out regiments or sections that are unknown to men who have made themselves familiar with military affairs.

"From the present conglomerate mass of stuff that is sent out to the newspapers it would be hard indeed for the average reader to form an opinion as to the actual results at the seat of war.

"What do I think of the prospect for internal troubles? I think that is all in line with some of the correspondents' stories. I have received letters from Russia telling of the wonderful patriotic demonstrations on the streets of St. Petersburg and at other places; and friends write that in Russia's trouble the Socialists, Nihilists and disaffected parties, whose noise is heard in times of peace, are now all one for the Russian empire. Their minor ideas are all swallowed up in this war.

"The mightiest race of white people in the world, with one hundred and thirty millions of people, and owning more than one-half of Europe and more than two-thirds of Asia, has crossed Europe and Asia to get a seaport that shall at all times be free and unhampered. This interferes with Japan's ideas of expansion and self-aggrandizement. With Russia's wonderful reserve force and her immense standing army, the eventual outcome is obvious."

MINISTERS DENOUNCED.

Zion Co-operative Mercantile Institution Sends Out Hot Circular Defending Smoot.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, March 5.—Circulars of the Zion Coöperative Mercantile Institution of Utah, bearing on the Smoot case and sent out from Salt Lake City, have been received in Chicago. The circular says in part:

"Once more the country is disturbed by an anti-Mormon agitation, and the purpose in view is the expulsion from the United States Senate of Reed Smoot. It is conceded by his opponents that Senator Smoot is not, and never has been, a polygamist; that his personal character is beyond reproach; that nothing can be alleged against him except that he is an apostle in the Mormon church.

"The hostile public sentiment has been fomented by a coterie of sectarian ministers in this city, whose heated harangues have excited religious circles until appeals to their reason, justice and Christian tolerance seem to be in vain. The present commotion is injurious to the business interests of this institution and of this State. It hinders the influx of capital and obstructs commercial progress. We therefore appeal to you for such proper aid as you may be able to render in preventing the wrong that would be done to Utah if the present demand should prevail against the right of a State of the Union to freely choose its own representatives in the national Congress."

FAIL TO REACH AN AGREEMENT.

CONFERENCE BETWEEN OPERATORS AND MINERS OVER.

After Day Devoted to Consideration of Operators' Ultimatum, Meeting at Indianapolis is Called Off—To Refer Proposition to Strike to Referendum Vote.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) March 5.—The joint conference between the coal miners and operators of the central competitive district adjourned tonight without reaching an agreement as to a scale of wages for the year commencing April 1. This is the second time there has been a failure to agree. The operators are leaving for their homes. The 800 miners' delegates here will meet Monday morning in national convention, when it is announced a statement of the position of the miners will be given to the public.

The final disagreement and adjournment sine die came after a day devoted to consideration of the ultimatum of the operators, which was that a ten years' scale be signed at a reduction of 5½ per cent. from the present scale.

It is stated tonight that the proposition to strike will be referred to a referendum vote of the miners of the four States forming the competitive district. This action may be ordered by the miners in convention Monday morning. If the locals vote against the proposition operators say a strike is inevitable.

FOR LAW AND ORDER.

Citizens' Alliance Organized in Chicago, the Hotbed of Unionism.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Realizing that lawlessness in connection with the various strikes that have taken place in Chicago for many years past has wrought injury to the city, the Citizens' Alliance of Chicago perfected an organization today. In the gathering were represented almost every industry and business of importance within the confines of Cook county, and after it had been announced that the purpose of the organization was the protection of all citizens in the rights guaranteed them by the United States Constitution and the statutes of the State, the alliance elected its first set of officers. It was announced that the orghnization was not made up of employers alone, but would welcome union and non-union workmen anxious to preserve the good name of the city by punishing those found guilty of lawlessness during the progress of strikes and lockouts in any part of the city.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food Eaten Is Worthless Unless Digested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means body and brain get all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year-old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bones of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

Railway Strikes in Argentina.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Employés of the Southern and Western railways have failed to join in the general strike of railroad men, cables the Buenos Ayres, Argentina, correspondent of the Herald. The manager of the Central and Rosario roads has had long conferences with the Minister of Public Works. The latter also received a delegation of strikers, to whom he offered the mediation of the government. The strikers declared they were disposed to accept this offer provided the railway companies will immediately make some minor concessions.

Strikers Stone Non-union Driver.

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—Police today again guarded the non-union men who have taken the places of the striking truck and transfer drivers. A crowd of strikers stoned a non-union driver. Two of the strikers were arrested. The others escaped. The employers are importing men from other cities, and have manned about 220 out of 240 wagons.

Sign Painters Make Demands.

NEW YORK, March 5.—A general strike has been ordered by the Sign Painters' Union. There are said to be about two hundred and fifty men involved. They demand a signed agreement from the employers guaranteeing $4 a day during the ensuing year. This is the scale now, but the employers refuse to bind themselves.

FLOODS IN PENSYLVANIA.

HARRISBURG (Pa.) March 5.—Today, the Susquehanna River registered twenty-three feet above low-water mark and was still rising. There is no change in the conditions between this city and Columbia. At Middletown, the lowlands are submerged and the electric light plant is ruined. The town was without lights last night, and many families have been compelled to leave their homes. A large district of South Harrisburg is inundated. The traffic is still demoralized on the Philadelphia division of the Pennsylvania railroad, owing to the tracks being covered by water in and below Steelton. Many industrial establishments are closed down.

Baron Suyematsu, son-in-law of Marquis Ito, sailed from New York for Liverpool on the Etruria.

NO LAWSUIT, SO A DOG FIGHT.

ATTORNEYS ENTERTAINED AT ELIZABETH LAKE.

Fearful Struggle of Getting a Jury Not Posted on Gossip of Village Store Parliament—Blood-curdling Affair of Two Canines That Set the Walkin Awry.

Such a lovely dog fight!

Farmers for miles around the little out-by settlement of Elizabeth Lake gathered yesterday to hear the first lawsuit that had been tried there since Cy Washbottle's sorrel colt had had a tooth pulled.

The lawsuit proved to be a keen disappointment; so they had a dog fight instead.

It was a little too strenuous for two Los Angeles lawyers who went out. Deputy District Attorney Keyes came out last night with gray hairs adorning his pate.

It was over a little difficulty between two blacksmiths. One is named Maus and one is named Ulman. They had had a feud for a long time. A couple of days ago, Maus, feeling unusually strong, called Ulman over and hit him in the face.

The justice of the peace at Lancaster fined him $5, but Ulman wanted the office of Antelope Township to do nothing to him, too. So Maus was tried yesterday.

It was next to impossible to get a jury to try him. The news had gone abroad and reverberating throughout the whole district; so that everyone was partial. At last they managed to get eight men who weren't posted on the latest store gossip.

The feeling was strong for Maus, the defendant. When he was acquitted the farmers howled and cheered with enthusiasm.

One of the farmers was a young man, who whooped louder than anybody else. He had braced himself up to endure any disaster that might befall his dear friend Maus. He got so excited that he wanted to fight the whole courtroom right there and then. The "logical candidate" for being fought seemed to be the Deputy District Attorney who had prosecuted Maus. As the Texan glared in his direction, Keyes sighed for his happy home so far away and breathed a sigh of relief now that if ever he had to cross-examine Maus again he would be as mild and polite as any cooing dove. One can imagine him shedding tears of gratitude and hanging on the neck of the cradle bull pup with a bleared eye. This created a diversion for the Texan and in his direction.

While the crowd was still standing by and the Texan was cheerfully calling people fighting names, two dogs on the doorway found occasion to rise at the same time.

"Do you mean to insult me?" suggested one of them by the way he looked out of the corner of his eye.

The other one raised a fur boa about his neck and remarked some dog profanity.

Wow!!

In six seconds the sweet air of the mountains resounded with the most awful conglomeration of sounds that ever assailed human ear. One of the dogs was a Russian; the other of Japish extraction, to judge from their fighting dialects.

The crowd stood around in ecstatic admiration; the Texan beamed.

At last the Constable got hold of one pair of hind legs and the owner of the under dog grabbed the after extremities of the other canine and the day's celebration wound up with a stunning tug of war, until one of the dogs momentarily released his hold to get a fucier piece.

Then, in the words of "Chatterbox," "All ran away home, saying they had a nice time and would come again soon."

Now is the Time.

GOING BACK TO JAPAN.

Japan-Russian War Causes Prices to Rise

Already there has become a great scarcity of Japanese goods on the market, and should the present war continue much longer Japanese art objects, which are already obtained with great difficulty, will rise to enormous prices.

This fact adds still further attractiveness to Kabato's sacrifice of fine goods. There isn't an object in the store that isn't a splendid investment aside from it's value as a beautiful addition to a home.

Japanese jardeniers of every size and shape.
Japanese carved wood bowels 20c up.

Sacrifice of Art Goods

Selling Will Proceed Faster Than Ever

In returning to Japan, Mr. Kabato is sacrificing one of the finest collections of real art objects in the country. Think of the richest hand-carved tables, never sold below $150, to be sacrificed at $75! Think of $12 and $20 hand-purses at $5! Real Japanese Kimonos (were $5) cut to $2.95! Dainty China Cups and Saucers (were 25c) cut to 15c! Perhaps shopping isn't quite so convenient as it might be, the store is small and such a throng as buyers! It'll not take long now, to close out the balance. Everybody wants at least some Japanese art goods in the home, even if only a vase or jardiniere. Every minute sees the disappearance of some pretty object—the sale has been a wonderful success. Tomorrow all the city will be interested in this unusual event. The store, remember, under old Y. M. PRESIDENT FAR IN THE LEAD.

Citizens of Many Sections Express Preference.

No Adverse Delegations Will Go to Chicago.

Democrats Regard Roosevelt With Favor.

California is unmistakably solid for Theodore Roosevelt. The southern half, especially, is insistent upon his becoming his own successor. Correspondents in every section have canvassed the field in response to The Times' inquiry, and the daily mail is heavy with responses. Without exception every canvass made has resulted in sweeping declarations for the renomination of the President.

Nor is this sentiment confined to the Republican ranks. Men of the opposite faith are free to declare their preference and in the event of an unsatisfactory nomination at St. Louis, many old-time Democrats are ready to cast their votes for the President.

In some sections a poll of the voters reveals conditions indicative of the President's great popularity—conditions that for a time will cause party differences to be forgotten and lines of demarcation to be obliterated. In every locality reported there is revealed naught but commendation for the present administration, and men of opposite faith are unanimous in the sentiment that if a Republican President is a certainty then the man for the place is the occupant of the White House.

Following are extracts from replies to The Times' inquiry as to the Presidential preferences:

OCEAN PARK—"RIGHT MAN."

The sentiment here is general for the reelection of President Roosevelt. Even Southern Democrats are enthusiastic on the subject. The feeling is that President Roosevelt is the right man in the right place. The idea of sending an adverse delegation to Chicago has not for a moment been considered in this locality.

LORDSBURG—"ABOVE CRITICISM"

This locality is all for President Roosevelt. His acts are regarded by representative citizens as above criticism. His renomination is alike desired by Republicans and Democrats. Even the Democratic Central Committeeman here has declared for the President. If this precinct had the deciding vote there would be no question as to the result.

SANTA MONICA—"ENTHUSIASTIC"

The Republican who does not believe that President Roosevelt should be renominated and reelected cannot be found in Santa Monica. Those in a position to know declare that 98 out of every 100 Republicans here are enthusiastic for the President. The Mugwumps are for him and many of the opposite faith will be found with a Roosevelt ballot in their hands on election day.

OLIVE—"ALL HONOR."

If renominated, President Roosevelt is assured of a larger vote from Olive than was cast for William McKinley. There is but one sentiment in Olive, and that is that President Roosevelt deserves and is entitled to all honor at the hands of the people.

SOLOMONVILLE (ARIZ.)—SOLID.

The demand for the nomination and election of President Roosevelt is unanimous in this section. His administration is heartily approved by Republicans and Democrats alike. The delegation to the national convention will be instructed for President Roosevelt.

EL MONTE—"TO A MAN."

The standing of President Roosevelt in El Monte and vicinity is unquestioned. The Republicans here to a man would uphold him. His nomination would be equivalent to election so far as this community is concerned. This is a Democratic precinct, but it is generally conceded that President Roosevelt, in the event of his being nominated, would give any opponent a close race.

CHATSWORTH—"NO OPPOSITION."

Regardless of politics, residents of this precinct freely express their satisfaction with President Roosevelt's administration. All feel that he is entitled to nomination and election. There is no opposition here.

HIGHLAND—"ALL FAVORABLE."

Sentiment in this locality is all favorable to President Roosevelt. Democrats free to admit that they have no kick coming.

DOUGLAS (ARIZ.)—"NO QUESTION"

Delegates from this section will be instructed to vote for President Roosevelt first, last and all the time. Many Democrats will cast their ballots for him if given the opportunity.

LOMPOC—"IN THE LEAD."

A careful canvass of this section gives President Roosevelt a decided lead. Out of 550 voters 286 were approached, with the result that 190 declared for the incumbent. His closest opponent was an impossible candidate, who had 53 admirers.

FERNANDO—"BUT ONE MAN."

When it is said that Fernando is highly pleased with the present head of the Republican party, the sentiment of the entire community is voiced. Furthermore, leading politicians assert positively that if a move is made in the convention to even nominate any one else, and the usual methods are resorted to, that the Republican party will be defeated. Many influential Democrats have declared for President Roosevelt. There is but one man for the Presidential chair.

GLENDORA—"ALL WANT HIM."

Every Republican here to a man is for President Roosevelt first, last and eternally. The majority of thinking Democrats indorse the present administration and a few say they are ready to cast a ballot for Theodore Roosevelt. We will want him. Glendora will send a solid delegation to the convention. There is no opposition, and the President is popular with the Democrats, many having declared for him. His sterling qualities and force of character have won this community.

In the opinion of the best political judges in this section there will be a unanimous delegation for President Roosevelt at the convention. Sentiment here, as voiced by one who has been "in and out" among both Republicans and Democrats, is strong for the President. What is true of Alhambra is also true of San Gabriel and Shorb. Democrats also admit that in the event of his nomination they will be strongly tempted to vote for him.

SAWTELLE—"UNANIMOUS."

The sentiment here is unanimous in favor of the reelection of President Roosevelt. The Soldiers' Home is a unit on the question.

SAN PEDRO—"FAVORABLE."

Sentiment here is all favorable to President Roosevelt. A movement to send an adverse delegation to the convention is unthinkable.

BURBANK—"A UNIT."

Republican sentiment here is a unit as to the nomination and reelection of President Roosevelt. Among adherents of other political faith there is no dissatisfaction with the present administration.

AVALON—"NO BETTER."

No better man could be found for the Presidency. A Republican adverse to the reelection of President Roosevelt cannot be found on the island. Even the Democrats concede his fitness and approve his administration.

ARTESIA—"NINETY PER CENT."

This whole section is interested in the nomination and reelection of President Roosevelt. Fully 90 per cent. of the voters of this section are insistent upon the continuance of the present administration.

CUCAMONGA—"ENTHUSIASTIC."

The voters of this colony are unanimous and enthusiastic in the matter of President Roosevelt succeeding himself. If nominated he would poll fully one-half of the Democratic and the entire Independent vote.

CAPISTRANO—"NO QUESTION."

There is no question as to the Roosevelt sentiment in this section. His record and character are such as to command the loyal support of every citizen. If nominated President Roosevelt will receive a vote that for once will obliterate party lines here.

GLENDALE—"GOOD ENOUGH."

The present administration is good enough for Glendale. There is no disposition here to send an adverse delegation to the convention. Republicans are unanimous and enthusiastic for the President. Several Democrats will also vote for him, and should the opposition nominate an eastern man more would be added to this number.

NORWALK—"JUST ROOSEVELT."

There is but one answer here when the question is asked, "Who will be the next President?" It is invariably "Roosevelt." Regardless of politics, President Roosevelt is a great favorite in this section.

MONTALVO—"THE ONLY MAN."

President Roosevelt is the only man able to sweep the field. All here favor him. There is no evidence of an adverse movement. Party lines will here be measurably obliterated in the event of the nomination of President Roosevelt.

CARLSBAD—"HE'S THE MAN."

President Roosevelt has the unqualified support of the Carlsbad community. He's the man for the place in the general sentiment. Democrats acknowledge his worth, and say if a Republican President is a certainty, they prefer Theodore Roosevelt.

BEAUMONT—"ALL ONE WAY."

There is no question here as to who should receive the Republican nomination for President. Sentiment here is all one way. Theodore Roosevelt is the man. The delegation will be instructed accordingly. An unsatisfactory Democratic nomination would insure a large allen vote for the Republican nominee.

SANTA ANA—"LOYAL."

The attitude of Santa Ana Republicans and in fact of those throughout Orange county, is one of unanimous and unswerving loyalty to President Roosevelt. All favor his nomination and reelection. There is not the slightest show for the choosing of an antagonistic delegation. Theodore Roosevelt is the logical candidate. An old-time Democrat is authority for the statement that the President can command 15 per cent. of the opposition vote.

BAKERSFIELD—"INSISTENT."

Citizens in this community are insistent in regard to giving President Roosevelt a second term. The delegation to the national convention will be solid for him. He will be able to control the local independent vote, and many Democrats will be found in line.

GLOBE (ARIZ.)—"NONE OPPOSE."

When President Roosevelt's name is mentioned in connection with a second term, there are none to oppose in the party ranks here. Gila county is a unit in the matter. National delegates will be instructed for the President, without doubt.

BELL—"PRAISE HIM."

"If the Republicans don't nominate him the Democrats will," expresses the Roosevelt sentiment here. This district is solidly in line. Citizens of all parties praise him. There is no probability of an unfriendly delegation being sent to Chicago.

CHINO—"ALL FOR HIS RETURN."

They are all for his return to the White House.

SAGACIOUS ELEPHANTS.

Toiling East Indian Pachyderms Saved the Day for Norris and Rowe's Circus.

All circuses utilize the elephants outside of the performances, and it is not an unusual thing to see the "bulls"—as the pachyderms are called in circusdom—pushing cages and heavy vans into place on the show lot. Few circuses, however, have probably had the experience that fell to the lot of the Norris and Rowe show at Santa Cruz, a few days ago, while they were en route to Salinas.

While on this journey the third section of their train, carrying the greater number of workingmen, was wrecked, involving a delay of several hours. The first section, containing the menagerie, arrived early. Section No. 2, with poles, canvas and seats, also came in on time. When the hour arrived to "lay out the lot," however, it was seen that the force was so small that tents and their equipment could not be gotten ready for the afternoon performance.

Recently there were shipped to the winter quarters of the show several elephants from Singapore, India, which were declared to be genuine "laborers" in the teak yards of their native land. No opportunity had been given to test their training and cleverness, though, and the extent of their ability was unknown except to Superintendent Aldrich. He had made a number of private tests and knew the cleverness of the importations.

As soon as he heard of the dilemma caused by the non-arrival of the canvasmen he went for George Wormold, who has charge of the tent city's erection, and proposed that the elephants should as far as possible handle the heavy paraphernalia. The elephants were put to work. One bunch of the unwieldy servants was utilized to put in the center poles and pull the guy lines taut. Another contingent unloaded the seat wagons and carried the jacks for the platforms to their places. The Singapore elephants toured with a vim, appeared used to it, and did not require much urging. Their human fellow-workers, not to be outdone by the busy beasts, worked with such energy that the tents were erected, the seat platforms arranged, the aerial rigging was adjusted and everything completed in time for opening, only half an hour late.

REAL ESTATE LOANS BY NA-
IONAL BANKS. Concerning the bill roduced into Congress proposing to ow national banks to make farm ans, Mr. Ridgely, the Comptroller of e Currency, says:

"I have discussed this bill somewhat ith Senator Nelson, who introduced and agree with him that the effi-ency and usefulness of national anks would be greatly increased if ey were allowed to make a limited mber of loans on farm lands. The int on which I found it most difficult form an opinion is how these loans ould be limited in amount, and how e banks authorized to make them ould be classified so that loans of is character could be made without nger to the banks or their custom-
s. I think the amount of real estate ans which any banks should be per-itted to make should rather be a per-ntage of its total loans than of its apital and surplus and would favor making this not over 15 per cent. of s total loans. In regard to the classication of banks, I do not think it ould be fair, as the bill provides, to t a population limit of 20,000 inhabints. There is no more reason why a nk in a town of 18,000 inhabitants ould be allowed to make these loans an one in a town of 21,000 inhabints. If any class of banks make ch loans, it would seem that all ould be allowed to do so whose deosits are not made up of the reserves f other banks and that it would be a tter provision to allow all national anks, not in central reserve cities or serve cities, to make this class of ans. The provisions of the bill limiing the class of real estate security, n which loans should be made, seem me to be fair and safe, but I think e bill would be improved if it proded that in estimating the cash value f real estate nothing should be owed for buildings or similar im-ovements, or prospective value for ything else than farming. The greatest nger I see in a law of this kind is at it might be perverted so as to al-
w national banks to make loans n suburban property or real tate which has been boomed in value, d any possible restriction should e made against the use of this power that way."

COMMERCIAL.

CITRUS FRUITS. The Commercial
ulletin says:

"For the past two months a record
f the orange situation in the eastern arkets has been more or less a deription of weather conditions. Per-ons charged with the duty of writng weekly market reports have exusted about the entire stock of lanuage which would look well in print.
There is considerably better demand t present, but prices are still very ow even for fresh cars free from frost amage. In the auction market prices ary widely, some cars selling for less han freight charges, while others have rought really high figures. Many ars of old fruit which was frozen in ransit are still standing on tracks in he large markets, owners waiting for n opportune time to sell. Such fruit s doomed, however, as is shown by re-ults on several such cars sold in New ork City on Thursday of the present eek, average sales on such stock unning about 80 cents per box.

"Shipments during the past week ave been exceedingly heavy, and at present there is very serious short-ge of cars. From information given s by local railroad officials it can e expected that there will be little or o relief in the situation for at least en days.

"Recent rains have improved the onditions of the lemon situation. The uit now being taken from the trees s of desirable size and generally of ood quality. There is some demand at fair prices, but the bulk of the spring pickings are stored for later shipment."

PEANUTS HIGHER. A number of causes for the advancing tendency of peanuts are given by dealers. The invention of a new peanut oil by a French inventor seems to be in process of filling a long-felt want, and a ship-load of peanuts has been sent over to France this winter for the use of the manufacturer. An extra demand for ordinary peanut oil in China and Japan is said to exist, and large shipments have been made to those countries. Another factor in the present strong situation is the St. Louis Fair.
The effect of the Chicago World's Fair upon the peanut market was pronounced, and it is reasonably expected that millions who visit St. Louis this year will eat peanuts while they rest, as they did at the Chicago Fair, where $200,000 worth are said to have been sold. Jobbers have advanced local quotations about ½ cent and the market is very firm at the new figure.

ORANGE SHIPMENT. The figures for the orange shipments of Friday were not obtainable, but they are known to have been heavy, probably not less than 150 cars.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The egg market at the close of the week was fairly steady with an active demand. Dealers complain that sometimes the market is unsettled by prophets, who have nothing but the calendar to base their predictions on.
It is not possible to forecast what the situation will be two or three days in advance.

The long-expected decline in butter was announced today by the Butter
Board of Trade to take effect Monday.
Local creamery butter declines 10 cents per roll to 60 cents. It has been felt by dealers that the price was abnormally high on account of the situation, both here and in the north. Other grades were not affected proportionately, though some changes are expected when the Produce Exchange meets Monday morning. All other items in the produce list remain about as they have been for several days except potatoes and beans, which incline upward.

NEW YORK MARETS.

SHARES AN DMONEY.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The stock market came under the influence of an expected
Northern Securities decision on Monday, and lost more of the small gains which had been established by the slow and laborious hardening movement of the whole of the week up to today. The market closed easy and at declines running to a point in a number of the prominent stocks. The volume of liquidation was unimportant and indicated nothing more than traders' positions in the market, but the impelling motive was clear enough and was corroborated by the weakness of Northern Securities itself on the curb. The bank statement was without any influence. The increase in cash was slightly less than expected, but the fact that there was an increase at all is evidence of the continued tendency toward congestion of reserves. The loan expansion was viewed with equanimity in view of the condition of the reserves, notwithstanding that the loan item establishes a new high record again with an aggregate for the clearinghouse banks within $2,000 of a round billion of dollars. This is supposed to reflect renewed corporation borrowing, including the $5,000,000 taken by the New York Central and the same amount by the Burlington. The fact that the latter was placed in the interior would not affect its reflecting in New York showing. Railroads reporting gross earnings for the fourth week in February show some increases over the similar period of last year, but the additional day in February of this year, which figures in the showing, distorts the comparison. Foreign influences were against the market, London being confronted with a mining settlement next week, just after emerging from the strain of a Paris settlement this week.
Consols as a consequence touched a new low record in London today for the movement.
Total sales of bonds $940,000.

passes all previous figures with a total of

GENERAL EASTERN MARKET.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]

CHICAGO, March 5.—A reflex effect of the Ohio crop condition report was keenly felt at the opening in wheat today, an advance at Liverpool being largely credited to the Ohio report. The pit crowd here was quite bullish and bought freely. The general demand caused an initial advance in May of ⅝ to 1c, opening quotations being 87⅝@88c. July was ⅛@⅜c higher at 85⅜@85⅝c. A cablegram from Odessa predicting a curtailment of crops owing to a reduction in acreage due to the war was another source of strength. The principal trading was in the July option, commission houses having considerable buying orders for that delivery. Some of the longs took profits early in the day and caused a decline to 97c, but shorts were active buyers and the price for May quickly rallied to 88¾c.
July sold up to 85¾c. Additional realizing occurred on the advance, and when rain was reported in Kansas and other sections of the winter wheat belt the selling became quite brisk. The market was poorly supported and a weak tone developed.
May declined to 84½c, while July dropped to 81⅝c. The market failed to recover from this setback, the close being weak and near the bottom, with May at 84¾c. July closed at 82¼c. Strength in wheat and an active demand from a prominent provision interest caused a firm corn market early in the day.
The market closed steady, with all of the advance lost. May being unchanged to ⅛c higher at 53⅝c and July ⅛c lower at 52c.

Oats were unsteady, May closing at 41¼c and July at 40c, ⅛c lower.

A small run of hogs with higher prices at the yards gave provisions a strong start and the strength was maintained throughout the day. Pork closed 25c higher, May lard 12c up and ribs 20c higher.

BOXALL'S DAY OF DEFENSE.

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY BY VARIOUS WITNESSES.

Ruthless Burglars Destroy Costly Garments in Family's Absence. Miner Has Frightful Experience With Premature Blast Which Strips Him of His Clothing.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 5.—The defense in the Boxall case rested this afternoon. To rebut the statement by Attorney Byron Walters that Capitalist Lloyd was not dead, the prosecution called C. M. Grow, his former business manager. Grow was not permitted to testify, having only hearsay knowledge of the capitalist's demise. Judge Smith then ordered a recess until Monday morning, when arguments will commence.

J. B. Frith, one of the Masons, was the first witness to take the stand this morning, and was followed by a brother Mason, Frank Johnson. Though witnesses for the defense, Frith and Johnson differed from the Boxall girls concerning the mental condition of their brother, the prisoner. The sisters had testified that he was unstrung by the disclosures that had been made to him, that he would frequently be seized with hysterics, that he refused to eat at times, and that for several hours before the shooting he displayed restlessness and was on the border of insanity.

Against these allegations Frith and Johnson testified that, aside from a slight pallor, Boxall appeared to be in his usual state of health, and impressed them as being cool at all times, even when first told of the allegations made against his uncle by his sisters and Fred Lloyd.

The defense this afternoon sprang something of a surprise upon the prosecution by calling several of the leading physicians in the community to give expert opinion upon a hypothetical question as to the sanity of the defendant when he fired the shots which wounded Capitalist Lloyd. Each of the four doctors, Huff, Heard, Rowell and Mills all declared that a person brooding over a trouble such as had been suddenly brought to the attention of William Boxall, would very probably, in a moment of excitement lose sight of the legal aspect of his act and attempt to kill a person occupying the position Capitalist Lloyd held in the present instance, but they would not consider him insane, but actuated by an uncontrollable impulse.

RUTHLESS BURGLARS.

The residence of Col. Sweesy was entered by thieves yesterday afternoon, who, after ransacking the house and securing nothing of value, vented their rage by slashing into shreds the expensive wardrobe of Mrs. Sweesy and her daughter. A scene of fearful havoc presented itself to the members of the household when they returned in the evening. One of the garments destroyed was a costly opera cloak which had been made in Paris, and completely new. Though the burglary was done in broad daylight, no one saw the thieves enter or leave the place, and the police are in the dark as to their identity.

FREAK EXPLOSION.

C. G. Penn, a miner, was brought in from the desert this morning to be treated for terrible burns on the face and body sustained several days ago by an explosion in the shaft of the Tip Top mines, at a depth of 100 feet. Penn was tamping a blast with a steel rod and the friction discharged the explosive as Penn was standing over it. Though all his clothes were stripped from him by the force of the explosion, two fingers blown off, and the flesh on his face and body badly burned and mangled, he was not rendered unconscious.

He was alone in the shaft, and though totally blind managed by instinct to grope his way along the north lead to the ladder, climb to the surface and walk 250 feet and be heard by other miners as he called for help. They were horrified at the sight he presented, being a mass of blood and dirt from head to foot, and the flesh in different parts of his body hanging in strips. He will recover and regain the sight of his eyes.

SAN BERDOO BRIEFS.

Superintendent Meyer of the County Hospital has had to resort to skin grafting in the case of William Edmonds, a miner who was brought to that institution some time ago horribly burned about the back and legs, his bed and tent having caught fire while he was intoxicated. There is an area of twelve inches square which will have to be resurfaced with cuticle.

F. C. Moore, whose father died in the Army Hospital in Corinth in 1862, has received from the daughter of Gen. Wallace a bundle of little keepsakes which were found recently among the effects of Gen. Wallace's wife, now dead. They had been taken by Gen. Wallace from the hospital with the intention of returning them to the family of the dead soldier, to whom they belonged, but the matter was overlooked, and for forty-one years they have remained in the Wallace household.

In an exciting bowling match here last night between local players, Mrs. R. F. Garner broke the Coast record by making a score of 259. The contest was witnessed by a large number of people, many of them coming from Redlands and Riverside.

Owing to a shooting affair at the sporting-house of Clara Moore last night, the police raided the place this morning and ordered all the inmates to leave town.

THE TIMES IN SAN BERNARDINO.—A. W. Isenour, authorized agent, headquarters near cigar and news stand, N.E. corner Third and E. streets. Subscriptions and advertisements taken. The paper is not handled in San Bernardino by W. H. Eadie, nor in the store of L. D. Houghton. For fear of the bogieman (the walking delegate) these persons refuse to keep the paper for sale, thus weakly yielding to the bluff of the boycotters and the threats of the local labor-unionists. Isenour, however, stands fast, the same as before, and independent citizens may always be served by him with their favorite journal.

PITIABLE CASE OF INSANITY AT RIVERSIDE.

Great Demand for Lemons in the Eastern Markets, but the Car Shortage Prohibits any Large Shipments—Business Changes. Equipment for the Pacific Electric.

RIVERSIDE, March 5.—A pitiable case of insanity has just come to light here. An old man, well dressed and having evidences of refinement, was found wandering around Casa Blanca station. His actions aroused suspicion, and finally he was arrested and brought to the courthouse. When questioned he was utterly unable to give any account of himself. The doctors saw that he was hopelessly insane, and ordered that he be committed to the Highland Asylum. Under Sheriff Leroy Coburn took him to the State institution, and placed him therein, under the name of "John Doe."

LEMONS IN DEMAND.

An unexepected demand for lemons has come and local shippers would be able to realise handsomely in the eastern markets if sufficient cars could be had.

General Manager Fraser of the Arlington Fruit Company, an association comprised of wealth Englishmen, and which has hundreds of acres of lemon-bearing orchards, states that the eastern demand is something remarkable, but that it could be readily met, if sufficient rolling stock could be provided by the railroads. While many associations have been inclined to slight the lemon industry, the Arlington people have gone into it on a very large scale and now they consider this their golden opportunity.

THREE HOLD-UPS LAST EVENING.

CHINAMAN STABBED AND ONE ALLEGED ROBBER CAUGHT.

Mexican Peons Said to be Responsible for All the Crimes, and More of the Same Kind Expected by Detectives—Attempt to Murder Victim for Calling Help.

Three attempts to commit highway robbery were made last night by Mexicans in different parts of the city. Only one was successful. In one instance the would-be robbers tried to murder their victim, in another they tried to rob an aged woman, and in the third one of the highwayman was captured after having robbed. It is the opinion of the detectives that this outbreak on the part of the ignorant peons who have been brought here to work on the railroads is but the beginning of a series of crimes of that character. Several hundred of these laborers were discharged recently, and inasmuch as many of them were crooks in their own country, it is believed that they will resort to robbery here.

Mrs. S. L. Gates of No. 200 West Thirty-ninth street was an intended victim. Between 8 and 9 o'clock she was walking along Moneta avenue near Thirty-ninth street, when a roughly-dressed Mexican attempted to seize her by the shoulder and demanded her purse. She ran screaming into the street and her cries attracted the attention of several men at a distance, and they started to her assistance. At their approach the Mexican disappeared through a vacant lot. A posse was organized and several armed citizens searched for the rascal, but without success.

CHINAMAN STABBED.

Chan Mon appeared at police headquarters covered with blood from a slight wound in the left breast. He said an attempt had been made to rob him. He was walking along North Los Angeles street near Alameda, when he was set upon by two Mexicans, who demanded his money. The Chinaman had considerable, and instead of complying with their order to throw up his hands, called for help. At his first outcry one of the Mexicans stabbed him with a large pen knife. All that saved the Chinaman's life was that he turned and the point of the blade struck him a glancing blow, passed through his clothing, inflicting only a slight flesh wound. Mon continued to scream for help and, breaking the hold which the robber had upon him, ran. At the approach of other persons the highwaymen fled.

ALLEGED ROBBER CAUGHT.

Gregorio Biscarra, who resides in the rear of No. 414 Bellevue avenue, was held up and robbed by three Mexicans shortly before 10 o'clock, en route home. According to his story, he had been in several saloons with Ramon Castro, and the latter started home with him. They were followed by two other Mexicans and when they reached a dark place Castro seised him and called to the others that that was the place to "do" him. One of the men threw a handful of dust in Biscarra's face and mouth, preventing him from calling. Then they robbed him of $25 and told him to go home. He told Patrolman A. W. Murray of the robbery, and with him began searching various saloons. They found Castro, who was arrested. No money was found on his person. Inasmuch as Biscarra asserted positively Castro was one of the robbers, the accused was locked up.

STUDY OF CLASSICS.

Derivation of Words Interests Annual Conference of Southern California Teachers.

"How to Make Greek and Latin Practical," was the absorbing theme discussed yesterday at the ninth annual conference of the classical teachers of Southern California, held in the High School auditorium.

The end sought by the conference was the awakening of interest in the study of the classics with emphasis put upon the mastery of derivatives. In furthering this purpose a campaign of instruction was decided upon, and steps will be taken to place in the common schools text-books dealing entirely with the origin and analysis of Greek and Latin words now in use in the English.

"The Greek Theater at Berkeley" was presented by Mrs. Cummins of Occidental College, and "The Philosophy of Greek Art" by Dr. Alice B. Brill.

The principal discussion of the conference, however, was precipitated by papers read on "The Value of the Classics to the Study of English." Under this head "Literary Form" was exploited by Miss Clara Edith Bailey of the Santa Ana High School; Miss Palmer of the Los Angeles High School analyzed "Words From the Greek," and Ernest Rea of the Riverside High School, "Words From the Latin."

"Vocabulary" was the subject assigned to Dr. H. T. Archibald of Occidental College, and his presentation of the matter was of much interest. The essayist emphasized the need of revised methods in teaching the languages, and in illustration he produced replies from 600 students of different schools who had been asked to give the derivation of several words of common use.

It is the purpose of the classical teachers to hold district conferences of the same nature as that of yesterday, and endeavor to interest parents and so create sentiment in favor of a more general study of the so-called dead languages.

INCENDIARY BLAZE.

The blacksmith shop owned by Max Urban, near West Washington street and Western avenue, was destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock yesterday morning with contents, a loss of about $500. Urban has been in much trouble recently with the authorities, and many complaints have been made by neighbors as to the character of his place. He was not there at the time, and it is supposed an enemy set fire to the building to rid the neighborhood of the shop, which has been fruitful of more than one prosecution in the courts.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better it is; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onions, and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion; it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another; but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in the stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and though in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

CASH TAKEN FROM SHIRT.

MONTANA MAN REPORTS A BIG ROLL LOST.

Nearly Five Hundred Dollars Left in Pocket of Garment Hanging in Hotel Room—Article of Wearing Apparel is Later Sent to Laundry After Which Loss is Discovered.

Louis Kruger, who came here recently from Bozeman, Mont., reported to the police yesterday the loss of $480, which the officers think was stolen from him.

He is a guest at Hotel Wilson, First and Spring streets. Several days ago he left the money in the pocket of a shirt in a small purse. He forgot where he put the cash, and, having other money, it did not occur to him that he had lost his roll.

When he remembered it he found that the shirt had been sent to the Sanitary Laundry the day before, and he at once so informed the officers. Two detectives visited the laundry and closely questioned those who had handled the garment in which the money had been left, but they were unable to find any trace of the cash.

The shirt had been laundered and was ready for delivery when the officers called at the place.

The detectives found that Kruger had left the shirt containing the money in a closet in his room two days before it was sent to the laundry, and that various employés of the hotel had access to the room. It was reported last night that one of the chambermaids of the hotel had left the city since the discovery, but whether this had anything to do with the case the officers have not been able to determine.

VIOLENTLY INSANE.

George Tains, an electrician, who recently came from the East for the benefit of his health, and who was taken to the California Hospital for treatment, became violently insane last evening. He kicked a door off its hinges and attacked a male attendant who tried to restrain him. He was overpowered and taken to the County Hospital. He will be examined tomorrow.

WARM BARBER SHOP.

The barber shop of A. B. Ireland, in a building at No. 639 Central avenue, owned by the Wilde estate, was damaged $50 by fire last evening. The cause is not known.

A DR'S. FOOD

Found a Food That Lifted Him Out of Trouble.

The food experience of a doctor experimenting with himself is worth knowing. He says:

"I had acid dyspepsia since I have any knowledge, from eight years old I know.

"It worked down from stomach to intestines locating at the umbilicus in enteritis until six years ago the agony every few days was something terrible I have walked the floor for hours unable to eat or digest if I should eat.

"Medicine would not relieve me at all. Four years ago I began the use of Grape-Nuts and since the first dish I have never had an attack of the old trouble. I take four tablespoonfuls once a day with my supper which is composed only of whole wheat bread and Grape-Nuts.

"The wonderful part of my case is that I have never had an attack or even any of the dreadful symptoms since the very first meal of Grape-Nuts. Most of my patients know how suddenly and promptly Grape-Nuts cured me and I have prescribed the food with good results in many cases." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Grape-Nuts is regularly prescribed in place of medicine by many physicians for stomach or intestinal trouble, lack of nourishment, brain-fag and nervous prostration. The result usually shows immediate improvement and a speedy complete cure.

Ten days' trial of Grape-Nuts in place of starchy foods works wonders.

INSPECTING STREET WORK.

POMONA, March 5.—The City Trustees spent all of yesterday inspecting the cement curbing and sidewalk work done on Third, Fourth and Fifth streets by Contractor Simmons, and which has proven unsatisfactory to abutting property owners. This is the third time the Trustees have inspected the work, and it has not yet been accepted. Simmons's bid was low, but he is under contract to make the work good.

At the meeting of the Pomona Valley Medical Society held at the offices of Dr. F. Garcelon, papers were read by Drs. F. W. Thomas, E. Henderson and C. G. Toland. The society is arranging to entertain the Foothill Medical Circle, composed of physicians from Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino and this city at Hotel Palomares on March 20.

WHITTIER

TWO MUNICIPAL TICKETS.

WHITTIER, March 5.—Two tickets will be placed in the field in the coming city election campaign. One will be by those whose approval has been given to the present city administration. The other will be by those who think that an improvement is possible and to be desired. The former party will have its caucus at the college auditorium Monday evening, and the "Anti-Administrationists" will hold theirs at I.O.O.F. Hall next Thursday evening.

Among the candidates for office are the following: For City Clerk, Walter E. Butler (incumbent,) Fred L. Wyant and Edward C. Butterfield; City Treasurer, C. E. Cook and E. S. Chase; City Marshal, Fred M. Foster (incumbent,) Harry Gordon, W. T. Waer and J. T. Garrison.

Nearly 900 voters have registered, showing a gain of more than 200 since the last election. Three City Trustees are to be elected and there have been numerous names mentioned, but so far no one has declared himself as a candidate. The factions are lining up strongly, but so far, to the joy of the better class of citizens in both, there has been no "dirt throwing."

The election will take place on April 11.

DOWNING SAYS HE WON'T RUN.

SAN PEDRO JUSTICE NOT IN THE FIGHT FOR TRUSTEESHIP.

Declares That Rather Than Clash With Certain of His Friends He Withdraws from the Candidacy. Numerous Aspirants for the Two Positions to be Filled Next Month.

SAN PEDRO, March 5.—Justice Henry C. Downing, a prominent candidate for the office of City Trustee to be filled on April 11, this afternoon announced his intention of withdrawing from the race. He gave as a reason that too much personal feeling had been engendered in the contest and, rather than clash with certain of his friends, he had decided to withdraw.

It is said that Roman Sepulveda and T. J. Pickering, who have announced themselves as candidates, have also withdrawn. This leaves N. W. Tilton, Thomas Nelson and W. C. Hill as the candidates for the two offices of Trustee to be filled. Messrs. Tilton and Nelson are supported by Messrs. Kelly, Mahar, McDermott and their following, while Mr. Hill can be considered in the light of an independent runner. It is expected that other candidates will announce themselves for the office in the course of the coming week.

LORDSBURG.

HIS CLOTHES RUINED.

LORDSBURG, March 5.—David Collins is mourning the loss of a good suit of clothes and regrets that he is not able to collect the cost of them from the Santa Fé Railroad Company. About two weeks ago Collins went to the beach, and on his return decided to bring a supply of fish with him. Having plenty of room in his trunk, he brought enough to give to his friends, but the trunk got lost in transit, and was ten days reaching here, and by that time the fish were anything but fresh, and the contents of the trunk were ruined, including Collins's Sunday clothes.

STRAY BITS.

W. E. Weber and J. Whitmer, who jumped a board bill in San Dimas this morning, were arrested as they were about to board a train at Azusa, and paid the account with costs. This left them stranded and they were compelled to continue their journey on foot.

Flour, which, under the current contract, is purchased at $2.10 per barrel, will cost under the new contract $2.34. Potatoes, for which $1.37½ is now being paid, will cost after the 1st of April $1.82.

BURSTING OUT OF ITS GARB.

THROOP INSTITUTE NEEDS ENLARGED FACILITIES.

Trustees Hope for a New Science Building, a Modern Gymnasium and an Art Hall—Endowment Fund of Goodly Proportions Likely to be Raised.

Throop Polytechnic Institute at Pasadena is cherishing soaring ambitions. Not very long ago its buildings were fred from thraldom to an electric railroad that very promiscuously and noisily occupied a street directly in its front. Since the evacuation by the trolley the street has become so quiet and orderly that plans for its conversion into a park-like thoroughfare have been revolving in the brains of the institute's trustees and faculty, in connection with larger schemes in the line of improvements. One of these latter is the erection, on the grounds opposite the present structures, of three new buildings. The Institute is so rapidly outgrowing its accommodations that expansion has become a prime necessity, synonymous with self-preservation. Three years ago it was sought to alleviate the symptoms of overgrowth by erecting a $20,000 addition to the East Hall. The remedy answered its purpose for a time, but the school is now bursting out of the clothes again, and hence the projected enlargement. The management perceive that the plan of education that has made Throop so successful, and that has been so widely adopted in part by other schools, is bound to create demands for a more extensive plant and for greater facilities in various departments.

Just now the pressing need is for a new science building, where the institute's fine museum could also be housed; a modern gymnasium, and an art building. If this is considered too modest a statement of the school's requirements, a larger wood-working and forging building may be thrown in. When an enrollment of 520 students thus early in the school year can be recorded as an accomplished fact, it is time, in the estimation of the trustees of Throop, to look into the future under a wide horizon. If the view reveals an ever-increasing insistance among thoughtful people for an education of which manuel training is an essential factor, preparations to augment the means for instruction of this kind cannot be too thorough.

Aside from plans for improved grounds and more buildings, a proposition of purely financial import is reported to be in good standing among the well wishers of Throop, namely, the raising of $50,000 for an endowment fund for the Institute. The promise of $25,000 for such a purpose, made not long ago by a generous citizen of Pasadena, provided that $25,000 more shall be subscribed by five other persons, has met with such response that great hope is entertained of the complete fulfillment of the conditions named. The value of the school to this entire section of the State is realized best by those most familiar with the results accomplished by its work, and from this conviction, it is expected, will spring the action that shall strengthen the financial foundation of the Institute for the grand superstructure dreamed of and hoped for by its officials and friends.

"FRAT." BANQUET.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Founders' Day Celebrated With Elaborate Spread.

The Southern California Alumni Association of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity celebrated "founders' day" with an elaborate banquet at Levy's last evening. Covers were laid for thirty and merrily did the "sigs" talk and sing of college days.

James Neill of the Neill Stock Company, alumnus of the University of Georgia, was elected president; Gesner Williams, University of Virginia, first vice-president; William McIntosh, California, second vice-president; Winthrop Blackstone, Stanford, third vice-president; George H. Kress, University of Cincinnati, secretary; Stanley Granger, Ohio State University, corresponding secretary.

There were post-prandial songs and speeches. James Seligman, last year's coach of Stanford, represented that institution and Benjamin Stroud, captain of next year's Berkeley football team, represented the California chapter.

Last night's banquet celebrated the sixty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the S.A.E. fraternity at the University of Alabama. It bears the distinction of being the only Southern Greek-letter fraternity of ante-bellum origin still in existence. The fraternity has sixty-five chapters in the leading educational institutions throughout the country.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

BREVITIES.

Millinery opening. Miss E. C. Collins, the Broadway milliner, announces her spring opening on Monday and Tuesday, March 7 and 8. Miss Collins, with her trimmers and designers, have spent an unusually long time this season in the New York market, and every social and millinery event where ideas helpful in designing could be obtained, has been attended. Miss Collins has imported direct, through her own Parisian commissionaire, an unusually large line of models, and the very latest conceptions now being displayed in Paris will be shown at this opening. Factory made tailored suit and street hats are a thing of the past among good dressers, and special designs in these lines are alone permissible. Miss Collins will show street, suit and tailored hats (always hand wrought,) after designs prepared especially for her in Paris. Each hat has a distinct individuality, and any lady possessing a "Collins hat" has the assurance that it is the best in design obtainable in Paris or New York. Miss Collins's trimmers have this season spent weks in New York among the best Fifth avenue designers, and have studied all the best displays and importations. These trimmers are New York artists, ranking among the best in the country, and "Collins's hats" are known from coast to coast. Direct importations from Paris and shipments from New York will be received and displayed each week during the entire season. A prominent feature of Miss Collins's store is the low price placed upon the hats, when style and quality are considered. The very cheapest quality in millinery is never displayed, but medium and high-grade goods are shown at the very lowest possible prices. Invitation general; no cards.

HANNA'S SUCCESSOR.

The Columbus Dispatch made a vigorous protest against the election of Charles Dick as the successor of the late Senator Marcus A. Hanna. The claim is made that Mr. Dick, through his control of the "machine," is able to corral the members of the Legislature, which he did, independent, before Mr. Hanna's corpse had become cold, and before the people of Ohio were given an opportunity to express their expression of their choice of his successor. The Dispatch "hollers like a stuck devil" against Dick.

ARMY OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The California Society, Army of the Philippines, met Friday night at No. 1 Crocker Building and enjoyed a live-ly meeting. A rumor to the effect that some of the hold-ups and robbers who have been operating in Los Angeles were known to be Philippine soldiers, who had there contracted dissolute habits, was taken up and vigorously discussed by Col. Schreiber, Col. W. J. Fife and others. The statement was denounced as false and unjust to the country's volunteer soldiery. Col. Fife extended an invitation to the society to hold its next meeting at his home in Hollywood, and this was accepted. A banquet will be served on this occasion, the first Friday in April. All Philippine veterans, whether members of the society or not, are invited to attend this meeting.

SENSATIONAL FIGHT IN MINING WORLD.

Charges of Claim Jumping by a Woman Precipitate Merry War in Which Prominent Los Angeles and Santa Ana Men are Engaged.

ALLEGED claim-jumping by a woman has precipitated what promises to be one of the most sensational fights in the history of Los Angeles and Arizona mining circles.

Up from the Yuma desert comes a war cry as filled with venom as is the rattler's fangs, and as bristling with sharp accusations as is the cactus with needles.

The land involved will, it is claimed by one of the parties in interest, soon be proved to be the most extensive continuous body of gold-bearing ore thus far discovered in the whole mining world.

Charges of fraud have been preferred by the man who claims to have made this remarkable discovery, and whose wife is the person charged with claim-jumping, and who, it is alleged, was thrown into a high fever by those charges, and for three days her life hung in the balance.

Counter charges of equally rank fraud, neglect and breach of faith are made by the men who claim to have employed this man to guard their interests.

Stung by the aspersions cast upon his wife, smarting under the accusations brought against himself, this so-called "trusted employé" declares he will have satisfaction for the wrongs alleged to have been done him.

Disgusted with what they claim is duplicity and unfair dealing on his part, the owners or supposed owners of certain mining property in Arizona have determined to remove this man from the property.

The air is filled with serious charges and counter charges, and it is claimed that underhand work has prevented the sale of the property involved, and a consequent heavy loss.

Notwithstanding that each side claims to have, and presents what appears to be a clear case in its favor, the end is not yet, and from this time on there will be something doing every minute, which will be of absorbing interest to prominent men in Los Angeles and Santa Ana, and to the Arizona mining fraternity. The case is quite sure to get into the criminal courts.

TWO SIDES TO STORY.

The parties to this controversy are the Gila Mining Company of Arizona, the stock of which is owned by James F. Conroy of Los Angeles, Robert and James McFadden of Santa Ana, Johnathan Henderson of Collingwood, Ontario, Canada, and Henry Gerhart of St. Louis, and Malcolm Matheson of Yuma, Ariz.

The company claims it believed it owned a group of about twenty mining claims in Yuma county, Ariz., which were in charge of Matheson who was supposed to keep up the assessment work on them, find a purchaser if possible and otherwise guard the company's interests; but that failing to perform the necessary work on what are considered the two most valuable claims in the group Matheson, or his agents, relocated those claims on the first of the year, in the name of his wife, Leona Matheson, whose name, it is said, appears on the location certificates or notices posted on these claims. The company also alleges that this action has seriously interfered with a deal for the sale of the property; that Mrs. Matheson, the alleged claim-jumper, immediately sold her interest to one Milton, who will, it is said, organize a new company.

Matheson comes forward with many counter charges against the company. He claims that by reason of the cloud cast upon the good name of his wife by these charges, she has become seriously sick, both mentally and physically, as she is of an extremely sensitive nature; that she will not be cured, and cannot be made better, until her good name is vindicated; that she will not jump any claims, but that Milton himself relocated the claims for his own benefit. Matheson denies all complicity in the affair, denies that he or his wife has any interest in or will in any measure profit by the relocation of the claims, and defies those who have made charges against his wife, to come forward and prove him.

Developments are promised during the next thirty days which will bring on the crisis and make things pop.

A MONSTER PROPOSITION.

Matheson, after tracing in detail the history of the property, makes the interesting statement that in virtue of a discovery made by him, this property "will soon be proved to be the most extensive continuous body of gold-bearing ore thus far discovered in the whole mining world."

Included in the group of about twenty claims, located eighteen miles from Yuma, near the Gila River, are the "Nugget" and "Sunrise" claims. These are considered the most valuable of the group. In early years there was much placer mining in this district, and prospectors held the theory that the feeder lode was included in the "Nugget" and "Sunrise" claims. The exploration of those claims, however, somewhat weakened that theory. Then Matheson came forward with the startling theory that the placers had been fed by erosions from the country rock. It is this theory which will, he says, prove to be correct and make this property so tremendously valuable.

Matheson then goes into the detailed history of the property, showing how it came into the possession of the Gila Mining Company, and stating his own connection with the company. In conclusion he says that the statement that Leona Matheson, or any other woman, jumped the claims or relocated the Sunrise group, or any claim of that group, is false; that there is no truth in the statement that a big mining deal failed to go through because of this alleged jumping of claims; that the company knew, before January 10, 1904, that there was a cloud on its title to the property; denies that he (Matheson) was ever an employé of the company, or was ever paid for work for the company, but that, on the contrary, he has contributed hundreds of dollars of his own money for the benefit of the company. He says, also, that the accusations against his wife have "almost terminated fatally to a sensitive woman, already reduced by the ravages of the grip."

Officers of the company content themselves with briefly explaining the various statements made by Matheson, and with stating that in their opinion Matheson was in some way responsible for the relocation of the claims and that they consider he has broken faith with them.

It is known that parties who were supposed to be interested in the purchase of the property, visited the ground and returned to Los Angeles with the statement that the claims had been jumped and that the name of Leona Matheson appeared on the location notices.

But James Milton makes deposition, duly acknowledged before a notary public, to the effect that during the forenoon of the first of January, 1904, he went upon the claims, found no one at work, and, believing them to be open to relocation, he thereupon relocated them in his own name and for his own benefit, and that Leona Matheson is falsely accused of the act.

The documents in the case make voluminous but interesting reading, containing plenty of vitriol and presaging the opening of a legal fight which will make things decidedly interesting for all concerned.

CHARMING WIFE OF SECRETARY.

MRS. SHAW AND HER DAUGHTERS VISIT LOS ANGELES.

Talks of Social Life in Washington and the "Business of Being a Cabinet Lady"—Plans for Tour and Social Entertainment of the Ladies.

Mrs. Leslie M. Shaw, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, and one of the foremost Cabinet ladies, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday noon, and has already proved her gracious personality to new acquaintances.

Mrs. Shaw, with her two attractive young daughters, was found cosily settled in a dainty apartment at the Hinman Hotel, which had been arranged for them by a friend, who had spread a homelike luncheon in the little breakfast room, and brought violets and carnations to give the wanderers a true California reception.

"It is all so dear and pretty," said Mrs. Shaw, "but so different from what we have been accustomed to, that I hardly know whether to feel at home or not. Why, there is even a little kitchen and cupboard. You should see it all." But Mrs. Shaw's little bewildered air showed that she was new to the ways of tourists, and to "light housekeeping."

And this wife of one of the dignitaries of the land is traveling even without the accomplished little colored maid whom she left in Washington, because perforce the little maid needed a vacation.

Mrs. Shaw and her daughters have been out from Washington just two weeks, and intended coming to Los Angeles sooner, but San Francisco proved itself so delightful socially that they found it hard to tear themselves away. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid found them out immediately, and took them out for a day to "Millbrae," where they were driven around for miles and miles through the exquisite park-like scenery of the 600 acres which belong to Mrs. Reid's father. Then there were luncheons and dinners in San Francisco, but Mrs. Shaw said they had rested for a day at Santa Barbara.

"Yes, this is our first trip to Southern California, said Mrs. Shaw, "but one expects so much that I was a little disappointed in the scenery on the way down." But Mrs. Shaw does not like to be quoted, and wore quite a deprecating air in saying this, which sat most sweetly pon one accustomed as she is to such prominence among the elect of the land.

Upon being asked eagerly about the social complexities of Washington life, she smiled indigently, and remembered the time when she wondered about the inside workings of such things, too.

Her duties she has not found arduous, though she kindly explained that the one function absolutely expected of a Cabinet member's wife is a Cabinet dinner. Mrs. Roosevelt gave the first one early in December, then followed a dinner at the Hay's, Mrs. Shaw's generally coming next, and the rest follow in the order of their precedence. These dinners include the Cabinet members and their wives, and as many more as you wish, said Mrs. Shaw, "or as your dining-room will hold."

"The Cabinet members' wives have many calls to pay," said Mrs. Shaw, "and we certainly scatter cardboard."

According to Mrs. Shaw, this has been rather a dull winter in Washington, but nevertheless, said she, "one is worn out at the end of it, and Ash Wednesday stops all the larger functions."

The Shaws have had a much quieter winter socially than usual in spite of introducing a lovely, fair-haired young débutante to society, for Secretary Shaw lost a favorite brother early in the winter; even for the grand function to be given for Miss Shaw the invitations were recalled, and Mrs. Shaw's Cabinet dinner is to be given after Easter. Miss Shaw, however, has gone out a great deal in a quiet way in the same interesting young set with Miss Alice Roosevelt, and she bears the usual name of Enid. "We named her from one of Tennyson's poems," said her mother, "and my dark-haired school girl is named Erma."

Miss Erma has just left her studies at the Latin school in Baltimore to come West with Mrs. Shaw; indeed, she barely managed to come away before the great fire in Baltimore, and, like a young girl, she is sorry she missed it.

Mrs. Shaw also spoke with pride of her son, who is at present in Japan, whither he went in the interest of the Booklovers Magazine, and he may manage to circle the world on his way home.

"Is Mr. Shaw to join you?" was asked, to which Mrs. Shaw replied that the session of Congress would prevent his coming, but from the way her whole countenance lightened up, one could easily guess that the subject nearest her heart had been found.

She frankly acknowledged her pride in her husband's achievements, he being young yet, politically speaking, but her delight in telling of what "a good man he is to his family" revealed a firmer foundation of happiness for the Secretary of the Treasury than any political preferment can ever bestow upon him.

Mrs. Shaw and her daughters will be in Los Angeles about a week. Tomorrow they will lunch in a simple way with their friend, Mrs. A. C. Stilson, whom they knew of old in Des Moines, and Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Stilson is to gather a number of old Iowa friends who are anxious to meet them.

GARLAND HARD HIT BY COURT.

JURY'S VERDICT SET ASIDE AND NEW TRIAL ORDERED.

Judge Conrey in His Opinion Holds That the Verdict Was Against Law Because in Conflict With the Law as Stated in Instructions to the Jury.

In the suit brought by Crocker et al. against William Garland, the real estate man, the defendant won a verdict from the jury and the findings on the issues presented were almost all in his favor. This verdict has now been set aside by Judge Conrey, and a new trial granted on the ground that the answers of the jury to the interrogatories were contrary to law.

The suit has its rise in the sale by Garland for the plaintiffs, whose agent he was, of a piece of real estate on Main street. A relative in his employ named Schweppe posed as the purchaser, but actually the property was sold to Mr. Hinman, father-in-law of Garland. The court holds that by concealing from the plaintiffs the fact that Hinman was the real purchaser the defendant, Garland, gained a personal advantage by means of a breach of duty owing from him to his principals. The acts themselves were of such a character, considering the relationship of the parties, that the court says that the law imputes fraud.

"When an agent for sale of his principal's property buys it himself," says Judge Conrey, "either directly or indirectly, the transaction is voidable, if the dealings have taken place without the intervention of the principal. I cannot find ground on which to sustain finding VII of the jury, in which they have declared that the defendant did not conceal from plaintiffs the name of the real purchaser of the property. Also in finding XIII that Schweppe was the real purchaser, and in XV finding that plaintiffs' independent investigation resulted in the discovery by them of the true purchasers, prior to the close of the sale."

As a result, the court says that it follows that the verdict is against law because in conflict with the law as stated in some of the instructions to the jury.

LOCAL DRUGGIST PASSES AWAY.

CHARLES GRANT CLINE DIES AT AGE OF FORTY YEARS.

Numbered His Friends by Thousands and in Various Parts of the Country—Brother Arrives from the East Too Late to See Him—Came from Indiana.

Charles Grant Kline, who for two years past was employed as prescription clerk at Dean's drug store, Second and Spring streets, died at 9:25 o'clock Friday morning, at his home, No. 807 West Seventh street.

Mr. Kline was born at Logansport, Ind., December 3, 1863 and at the age of 20 graduated from the Chicago School of Pharmacy and during the last twenty years was engaged in the drug business in various parts of the country. About three years ago he came to Southern California for the benefit of his health and soon afterward obtained employment at Dean's. He had the reputation of being one of the most skilful and most careful druggists in the country and was trusted implicitly by his employer and the physicians whose prescriptions he filled.

CHAS. G. CLINE.

His unfailing courtesy and painstaking care to do his work well endeared him to thousands of people for whom he prepared medicines, and few men were personally more popular among his acquaintances.

Mr. Kline was afflicted with asthma, complicated with heart trouble, which caused him much suffering, but he always bore his afflictions patiently and concerned himself more about the comfort of his family and friends than his own. Last Tuesday a week ago he was compelled to take to his bed from which he never again rose. He was hopeful and patient to the end and met death with a smile and a kind word for his wife on his lips.

Mrs. Kline spent one-half of her entire life in close companionship with her husband, and in all that time she says she never heard him utter one unkind word or do an unkind deed. He was devoted to his wife and son, Kenneth, now 12 years old. Besides the widow and child, Mr. Kline's surviving relatives are an aged father living at Logansport, Ind., and a brother, Slaten Kline, also of Logansport, who started for Los Angeles as soon as he heard of his brother's serious illness, but did not arrive until yesterday afternoon.

Frank E. Knapp, who was a friend and neighbor of Mr. Kline at Harriman, Tenn., was with him almost constantly during his last illness and stated yesterday that he never knew a man of finer character.

Rev. Dr. E. L. Conger of Pasadena, who is also an old friend of the family, and who will officiate at the funeral, said: "Too much cannot be said in praise of Mr. Kline. No man ever had a truer friend. He exerted an influence for good that has been felt in thousands of homes."

POLITICAL.

SOUTH WANTS LARGE QUOTA.

Will Ask for Its Share in the State Convention.

Problem up to Republican Committee Meeting.

Local Democrats Uneasy as to Hearst Programme.

Politicians are bringing out their binoculars for a look at the State and county election, which is still eight months away.

Already campaign plans are being made by the Sagamores of the various factions. The fusillade of talk which inevitably precedes active field operations is now going full tilt.

Far beneath the surface, far-seeing politicians are laying wires to mines which they hope later to explode in the enemy's camp.

Conversations had yesterday with local politicians of prominence presage an active and interesting campaign hereabouts this coming fall.

Next Friday at San Francisco the State Executive Committee of the Republican party will meet at the Palace Hotel. The session will be held in the evening. It will be the first gun of the campaign. Former Senator Robert N. Bulla expects to attend. George P. Adams will be kept in the city by legal business, and Bradner W. Lee, the third local member of the Executive Committee, is now in San Francisco, but expected back before Friday.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held in Golden Gate Hall Saturday to pass on the recommendations of the Executive Committee. Most of the local members of the committee will make the trip to San Francisco.

HOW MANY DELEGATES.

Some interesting questions will be discussed by the committees. It must be decided whether the State organization will cross swords with the Congressional committees and call the primary election. The apportionment of delegates to the State convention will be determined, and there will be a warm controversy between the north and the south on this point. All southern delegates will favor taking the vote for Gov. Pardee as a basis of apportionment, while the northern section will favor either the vote for President McKinley or the vote for some State officer other than Governor. The southern delegates are confident of winning the fight.

Taking the Pardee vote as a basis and allowing one delegate to each 200 votes would give the southern counties the following representation: Los Angeles, 39; Orange, 11; Riverside, 11; San Bernardino, 7; San Diego, 15; Santa Barbara, 11; Ventura, 8. San Francisco would have 131 delegates, and Alameda county, 78. The total number of delegates to the convention under this apportionment would be 794.

This convention will choose the delegates-at-large to the National Republican Convention at Chicago. The southern counties want two of the four delegates-at-large and Los Angeles believes herself entitled to double honors because of the overwhelming Pardee vote.

Robert N. Bulla and J. W. McKinley are the two local aspirants for these positions. John D. Spreckels of the San Francisco Call wishes to attend the Chicago convention as delegate-at-large and Congressman Gillette of Humboldt and Congressman Needham of Modesto are not averse to the honors. Even Gov. Pardee has winked the other eye when declining the use of his name as an aspirant for delegate-at-large and some feeling has been caused thereby.

Older of the San Francisco Bulletin, who labors under the delusion that he is a factor in State politics, is trying to leap into the center of the arena and raise bob generally. Older is suffering from bulging eyebrows to an extent that obstructs his line of vision. There are good grounds to doubt whether he could be elected a delegate to a dog show.

WILLIE'S WAGON.

There is plenty of palaver in the Democratic camp just now over the attempt of Willie Hearst to gobble up the southern end of the State. The word has been passed up the line and down the line that the Hearst band wagon is the only stage that will land in the strawberry patch, and forgiveness and eternal salvation are held out to the faithful who clamber in at once. Nevertheless some of the old-line Democrats are planning a few moves of their own, and as far as Southern California is concerned the stage may be held up and robbed of little Willie.

"Talk about plutocracy," said Isidore B. Dockweiler, yesterday, "the Republicans haven't a candidate that can compare in this respect with Hearst. I for one will never support his candidacy. It is also a fact, speaking generally, that Hearst will not have the brains of the Democratic party in this fight."

It was given out yesterday that Mayor Snyder had been offered a front seat in the Hearst band wagon, and that if he accepted he would be the candidate of that faction for delegate-at-large to the St. Louis convention from Los Angeles. The Mayor himself was very non-committal. He would neither affirm nor deny the report that he had been chosen by the Hearst faction as a standard bearer.

Maj. John T. Jones would like to go as delegate-at-large. So would Isidore B. Dockweiler, formerly candidate for Lieutenant-Governor of the State. Of course John W. Mitchell and R. F. Del Valle have been proposed.

For district delegates Martin C. Marsh, Dr. R. V. Day, Frank Garrett, A. S. Petterson and a number of other city Democrats have been mentioned while James Brewer of Vernon is regarded as a strong man from the country.

JACKASS WILL BRAY.

The three wise men of the local Democracy—their identity is closely guarded—have decided that it would be nothing but folly to put a county ticket in the field this year, and are trying to impress their ideas on the rank and file. It is better than an even bet, however, that the Democratic jackass will overrule the wise men when convention time rolls around.

The local Republicans are watching with considerable interest the movements of two party organizations. It is generally conceded that the Union League is dominated by the Bulla-Hughes wing of the party, and that the rejuvenated Young Men's Republican League is in the hands of the remnants of the Gage machine. The former is expected to espouse the cause of Senator Bulla for delegate-at-large, and the latter to support "Jay" W. McKinley. Each is distrustful of the other; each says that any offer of compromise must come from the other side. Meanwhile the officers of each organization declare most emphatically that it is their policy to work for the good of the Republican party, and to entirely eliminate factional controversies.

ANTI-SALOON FACTOR.

The County Anti-Saloon League is to be a factor in the county campaign this year. It will take a prominent part in the fight between Supervisor Alexander and Benjamin S. Lauder for the Supervisor's chair from the Second District. Tomorrow at the First Methodist Church at Sixth and Hill streets there will be held a "mass county convention" composed of delegations from churches and temperance societies. It is the stated purpose of the convention to reorganize the Anti-Saloon League and make plans for the fall election. It is the announced intention of the league to banish the saloon from Los Angeles city and "make the county all white." Rev. Robert J. Burdette will speak, as will other well-known pastors.

SOLDIERS' MASCOT.

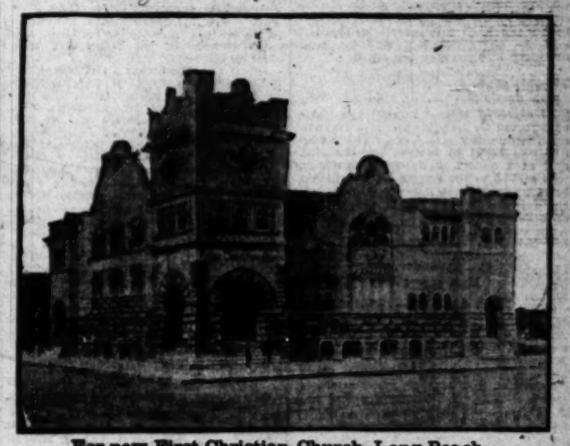
Miss Yaw's Photo in "The Times" Reminds Artillerymen of Pet She Gave to Soldiers.

The picture of Ellen Beach Yaw, published in yesterday morning's Times, had as one of its figures a great white dog, with its head laid against the knee of the songstress, while she fondled his sleek shoulder. To ex-Sergt. Walker of the California Heavy Artillery, the sight brought many reminiscences. He wondered if it was her dog, knowing that she had a special fondness for such pets, and remembered the canine mascot she presented the boys of the Heavy Artillery when they set out for the Philippines.

The artillerymen were very fond of the pet that Miss Yaw had given them, but when they attempted to embark it with them for Manila, they found themselves in all sorts of trouble. Cruel officers vowed that the dog should not go; the men solemnly swore that it should. And so, the case went up and up on various appeals, until finally it was decided that the soldiers need not leave their pet behind.

For the edification of the artillerymen who noticed the picture it may be said that the dog is not Miss Yaw's, but merely a wise Parisian animal who knew a dog's friend when he saw one, and immediately cultivated her artistic acquaintance.

New Christian Church for Long Beach.



For new First Christian Church, Long Beach.

Plans for a new house of worship, as prepared by Architect A. Dudley, have just been adopted by the First Christian Church of Long Beach. The new edifice is to be located on the southwest corner of Fourth street and American avenue in the seaside town. It is to occupy a ground space 65x87 feet, and is to cost $11,000.

In architecture the building is modeled after the Mission and gothic styles. From the foundation to the window-sill level the material is to be rock-faced sandstone. The balance will be in fireproof cement, and the windows will be set with cathedral glass.

The church will seat 1000 people. The auditorium space is 62x85 feet. The basement area is apportioned to a lecture-room, dining-room and kitchen, three Sunday-school rooms and furnace space.

Golden oak is the finish designed for the interior. The ceiling will be done in dome form, all frescoed. The baptistry, in the rear of the pulpit, will be in view of all parts of the interior.

The Social World—Men and Women in Society—Personal Intelligence

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

YESTERDAY matinée parties were all the thing, and more than one prominent society woman was seen surrounded by her own little coterie of followers. Mrs. E. P. Clark was hostess yesterday, when she entertained for her small son, Master Eugene Clark, a lone party. She was assisted by her daughter, Miss Katherine Clark, and Miss Gwendolen Laughlin, in entertaining the little men. The guests on this felicitous occasion were Masters Dwight Whiting, George Whiting, Paul Herron, Wilifred McKinley, Roy Silent, Craig Lovett, William Lovett, Munroe Montgomery, William Cusner, Mullen Chamberlain, Charles Salisbury, David Vermillion, Lewis Woolwine and Ross Whitley.

Quite near this party sat the members of Miss Brownie Coulter's theater party, given for her sister, Miss Belle. What a rose garden of buds they were, anyway, with dear little Brownie as a center attraction. They all sat grouped around her like so many brilliant blossoms. Mrs. F. K. Simonds, Miss Brownie's aunt, acted as chaperone for the merry party.

After the Orpheum performance was over both parties hied themselves to Christophers, where a dainty banquet was served to each party, while the small men eyed Miss Brownie admiringly.

Speaking of Mrs. E. P. Clark, whom every one in the swim knows as a charming hostess and who is loved by old and young alike, a pretty informal little trolley ride was enjoyed by just a few of her nearest friends on Friday. The trip was made on the Marmaid parlor car, and all the important points were taken in during the ride, including Playa del Rey, where a delightful twelve-course dinner was served. The tables here were made bright with scarlet carnations and maidenhair ferns, and bright clusters were placed about the rooms of the hotel, giving an air of grace to the whole.

The affair was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Higgins of San Francisco, and there were about thirty guests entertained in the course of the day.

Original Color Scheme.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Braun of No. 15 Chester Place gave a dinner last Friday evening, which for originality entirely sustained Mrs. Braun's reputation as a hostess brimming with quaint and original schemes. Mrs. Braun's friends always expect something out of the ordinary, and they are never disappointed.

In the center of the table was a large mirror to represent a lake, and the edge of this was hidden by potted plants and red carnations. Places were marked by unique cards decorated with stunning women in gowns of red and black and carrying bouquets of red roses.

The twelve-course dinner was carried out as far as possible on the same lines, many of the dishes being tinted scarlet. Softly-shaded red lights cast a warm glow over all and scarlet carnations here and there in the room carried out the color scheme.

The reception-room and hall contained clusters of narcissus and violets and the cosy little den was ornamented with scarlet flowers and low-hung oriental lamps with red globes. The guests for this delightful affair included Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ingraham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, Maj. and Mrs. H. M. Russell, Maj. and Mrs. John H. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bond Francisco and Dr. and Mrs. Karl Kurtz.

Thimble Club Meet.

Mrs. D. W. Wickersham of No. 744 Beacon street was at home to the members of the Thimble Club of Purity Temple No. 2, on Friday afternoon.

Sewing was indulged in, after which lunch was served and prizes given as follows: The first, a silver thimble, with gold inlay, and the second a souvenir bon-bon spoon. Later, refreshments were served. The house was made attractive with cut flowers and ferns.

Wilkinson-Montgomery.

At the rectory of Christ Church on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock Miss Archine Jane Wilkinson became the bride of Jesse Hayes Montgomery of Des Moines, Iowa, Rev. Dowling performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Montgomery is from Chicago, but has been in this city for some months, and has made many friends since her brief stay, on account of her charming manner and talent as a pianist. The wedding was a surprise, as it was to have taken place in Chicago the coming June.

Mr. Montgomery is well known in this city, having been connected with the Long Piano Company for some time. The couple will be at home to their friends at the Hotel Sheldon, No. 416 West Fourth street, after March 15.

Leap Year Hay Ride.

A merry party of pretty girls decided to surprise their young men friends with a hay ride on Wednesday evening, and so the "Queen's Union," as they were styled by the boys, set out with a jolly crowd for Moneta. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. M. V. Machall, a motherly woman, and after their arrival at Moneta dancing was enjoyed at the hall there. On their return a luncheon was served "al fresco," and the party voted it was the best one they had enjoyed for ages.

Thimble Club.

The Thimble Club of Magnolia, No. 84, Degree of Honor, met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Lynch, No. 2612 Darwin avenue one day last week. The morning was spent in sewing for the club and at 1 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served to the guests, after which a brief business meeting was called, and the remainder of the afternoon was occupied with games and music. Prizes were awarded, Mrs. M. C. Bittle receiving the first, and Mrs. Edward West the consolation. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Rose Magee, No. 854 East Forty-seventh street, March 14.

Those present were Mmes. Dougherty, N. Hyath, R. Magee, C. M. Bernditch, A. H. Olin, Edward West, J. M. Harrison, M. C. Bittle, J. O. Peebles, O. H. Mason, J. N. Cornwell, J. E. Wells, Kate C. Mason, M. E. Scott, C. H. Johnson, A. C. Patton, H. L. Patton, B. Cowen, E. Streter, E. W. Sherwin and J. Haley. Miss Ester West and Master Clark Magee.

Iroquois' Whist Club.

The Iroquois Whist Club was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gilmore at No. 2832 Avenue 21 last evening. The lights in the house were all shaded with blue bulbs and cut flowers shed their fragrance through the rooms. Ferns and palms added to the beauty of the effect. Cards were played for two hours, after which prizes were awarded as follows: First, to Mrs. J. W. Murphy, a handsome Japanese vase, and the first gentleman's to Mr. Mullens, a Japanese cigar holder. The booby prize, a dear little Jap doll, fell to Mr. Ettlings.

Officers for this year were elected as follows: President, Mr. Lowery; vice-president, Miss Rerigh; treasurer, Mrs. Russell; corresponding secretary, Miss Bishop; Auditing Committee, Mr. Ettlings, Mr. Mullen and Mr. Gates.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. H. K. Williams, Miss Williams, Miss Rerigh, Miss Lindley, Miss Edith Williams, Miss Gertie Mae Keigan, Miss Brown, and Messrs. Lowery, Ettlings, Simpson, Maiers, Swartz, Mullens and Geldrich.

Harmony Whist Club.

Mrs. Frank R. Boag entertained the Harmony Whist Club Wednesday afternoon at her pretty home on West Eleventh street. First prize was won by Mrs. McMillan of Chicago, the second by Miss E. D. Allan. The members present were Mmes. W. S. Arnold, C. W. Allen, A. A. Allen, Lamar Harris, W. A. Harris, G. W. Lane, G. J. Morgan, V. L. Mitchell, Abner Ross, J. P. Rowe, C. H. White, Welsh, M. Welsh, C. D. Tufford and the Misses Grace Stevens, M. Schermerhon, E. Allen, F. Lawton. The guests of the afternoon were Mmes. Goodhue, Connor, C. F. Loop of Claremont and Miss A. McMillan of Chicago.

First Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonergan received a few of their friends at their home, No. 411½ South Cummings street, on Friday evening, March 4. The affair was in cleberation of their first wedding anniversary. Whist and other games were indulged in, and refreshments were served during the evening. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts as tokens of esteem.

Pretty Romance.

Miss Marie Gordon, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Gordon of Glendora, is engaged to Marshal Stimson of this city. Mr. Stimson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Stimson. The marriage is scheduled to take place some time in the middle of April.

Marshall Stimson has been in love with pretty Marie Gordon ever since they were at the High School, and though this elusive young lady has flirted and been made love to by many suitors, she has been at last captured hand and heart by Mr. Stimson. Miss Marie has been popular always, and was known here as "Sweet Marie" among her friends on account of her sunny disposition; in fact, one young man in telling of a trip to Glendora which he took on a very cloudy day, said "we were driving along in the darkness, when Marie Gordon rode by with a girl friend and Marie smiled and the sun shone."

This is quite the prettiest compliment which could be paid any young lady.

It is said that "faint heart never won fair lady," and so Mr. Stimson has persevered, and won out in the long run, and all his friends are hastening to congratuate him, except, alas, those young men who have been courting unsuccessfully this same fair maid, and it is rumored that there are a few of them.

Mr. Stimson is a graduate of Harvard, and is now connected with his cousins, Charles and George Stimson, in the real estate business.

Misses Entertained.

Mrs. E. F. Soule of East Twenty-eighth street was the hostess at an Orpheum party yesterday afternoon, given in honor of her daughter, Miss Alice, whose birthday occurred on that day.

After the matinée the party was escorted to Christopher's on Broadway, where a delicious little luncheon of bonbons and ices was served to the happy youngsters.

The guests for the afternoon included the Misses Alice Soule, Ruby Ball, Louise Hamlin, Olga Spengel and Lula Spengel.

Birthday Surprises.

Friday evening the friends of Mrs. S. A. Prindle of No. 1362 West Twenty-first street surprised her, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The evening was delightfully spent with games and music, Miss Miller, Miss Lillian Wellbrenner, R. Nelson and Frank Williams contributing to the music programme.

A feature of the evening was the disclosing of the guests' future in a clever manner by Mrs. William Wellbrenner.

A dainty buffet luncheon was served to the guests after the music. Those who enjoyed the pleasant evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. Sheppard of New York, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sharp of Delaware, Miss Lillian S. Sharp, Fred Boulester of Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. O. Rodgers, Miss Carry Taber, S. Taber, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brown, Master F. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dascomb, Chales Prindle and Mr. and Mrs. George J. Armstrong.

Mrs. Prindle was the recipient of many pretty gifts.

Thursday Luncheon.

Mrs. J. A. Clark of No. 1717 Bush street entertained a few friends at luncheon on Thursday. The table was artistically decorated with jonquils and ferns, the centerpiece being a huge cluster of the jonquils resting on ferns, arranged in the form of a star, while smaller clusters were scattered over the table, and a bunch of the sunny blossoms provided for each guest. The afternoon was devoted to music.

Pretty Girls Initiated.

Yesterday at the home of Miss Florence Criggie on Winfield street the Lambda Theta Phi sorority initiated two girls who are attending the High School into their numbers. The girls who were introduced into the mysteries of the sorority were Miss Annette Gordon of St. Louis and Miss Evalyn Johnson.

After the initiation an elaborate banquet was served to the members present, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in dancing. The members of the sorority are as follows: Mmes. Carl Tufts, Paul Pauly, Howard Schoder and Bishop, and the Misses Barbara Hitt, Blanche Engstrum, Charlotte Teal, Winnie Nauerth, Florence Pied, Marian Shinn, Phila Johnson, Ray Johnson, Helen North, Virginia Johnson, Phila Milbank, Agnes Sutton, Hattie Bradford, Helen Safford, Edna Bradford, Ruth Boobyshell, Jo Lewis, Josephine Young, Lucile Walton, Susan Barnwell, Claire Cogaill, Gladys Felt, Amy Morrow, Helen Brant, Mary Phelps, Reuna Kane, Florence Clute, Bess Allen, Shirley Jenkins, Katharine Clover, Marjory Clover, Florence Criggie, Ruth Sterry, Huston Bishop and Katherine Thompson.

Ramona Whist.

Mrs. George Hale of No. 420 South Olive street entertained the Ramona Card Club yesterday afternoon, the following guests being present: Mmes. William Orr, Warren S. Young, Brackett, Grace Wyekoff, C. F. Kions, William Wallace McLerd, Frederick Johnston, George W. Randall, Christian Rose, Ralph Hain, Edward Cooper, and Miss Snyder. The first prize, a silver spoon, was won by Mrs. Young; the second, a hand-painted centerpiece, was awarded, Mrs. McLerd. The house was adorned with baskets and vases filled with hundreds of fragrant violets and ferns.

Quiet Wedding.

A quiet wedding occurred on Wednesday at high noon at the residence of Rev. Father O'Reilly on Central avenue and Thirty-fourth street, when Miss Emilie Lederle became the wife of R. A. Atmore of Santa Paula.

Miss Lillian Wellbrenner was bridesmaid, and Louis Lederle acted as best man. After the ceremony supper was served to the guests.

The bride wore a handsome traveling suit of blue etamine and carried violets.

Mr. Atmore is a popular and promising young man of Santa Paula.

After the supper the young couple left for the north on their honeymoon. On their return they will make their future home in Santa Paula. Owing to recent bereavement in the family only relatives were present, and the affair was quiet.

For Mrs. Strowbridge.

Mrs. Ida Meacham Strowbridge was the guest of honor at an entirely informal gathering Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sidney J. Parsons, No. 625 North Belmont avenue. Mrs. Parsons was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Albert Calkins, and Mrs. Albert Carr of St. Louis, in receiving her guests. Mrs. Parsons said in introducing Mrs. Strowbridge, that she had so many talents that one was apt to be lost in the other. She is known so well by her artistic binding of books, that one forgets her literary ability; in fact, she binds it in her own covers.

Mrs. Strowbridge is well known for her stories and from her poetic conception, has been called the "prose poet."

Friday she read two sketches which greatly delighted her audience. The first, "Mesquite," a story of the desert, pure and simple, ugly in its detail, yet none the less true. As she read this, there were few dry eyes in the company, for with the pathos of the story Mrs. Strowbridge brought rare histrionic power to bear, and made her audience see the "wizened face" of the babe, and feel the hot breath from the desert. Her other sketch was entitled "In Quiet Cañon," and was a pleasing example of the "poetic prose" for which she is noted. One could almost close their eyes and feel the breeze which "caressed the forehead as a baby's hand," and hear the murmur of the brook as it flowed over the smooth stones.

Mrs. Strowbridge's stories are of the life she has seen and lived, and she describes it with such vividness and virility as only a master hand could accomplish. All her readings were greatly appreciated by the fortunate few present.

Miss Heloise Desirde Coutelene, a favorite pupil of J. Bond Francisco, gave several selections as follows: "Landler," by Carl Baum; "Berceuse," from "Jocelyn," by Goddard, and Traumerel by Schumann.

Miss Coutolenc surely has a bright future before her, if she is to be judged by her brilliant performance of Friday, and it has been whispered by no less a person than J. Bond Francisco himself that we shall hear more from her.

Personally she reminds one of some blossom from a garden, with all the freshness and sweetness of a wood flower, and none of the self-consciousness of the usual pretty and talented twentieth century maid.

The house had been made attractive with cut flowers, yellow prevailing in the hall. Friesias were used in the drawing-room, in low bowls, on tables and elsewhere, and scarlet geraniums, together with smilax, made an effective decoration in the library. Geraniums and lilies were utilized in the color scheme above stairs.

Among those present were Mmes. Charles F. Lummis, Mary Stilson, C. A. Moody, Bussenius, Cole, Fred Calkins, Lanier Bartlett, Randall, Hutchinson, Cyrus Townsend Brady, Albert Carr of St. Louis, Stevens, Sumner P. Hunt, Idah Meacham Strowbridge, Meacham, Randall, Albert Calkins, Rudley and Parsons, and the Misses Fanny Wills, Vosburg, Heloise Coutolenc, Wadleigh and Katherine Thompson.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Laletsky of No. 1357 East Seventeenth street announce the engagement of their pretty young daughter, Miss Rosa, to Samuel Solomon, and will be at home to their friends on Sunday, March 4, from 2 until 6 o'clock.

Recent Bride Returns.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nordlinger, who were married a few weeks ago, have returned from their wedding tour, and will receive their friends each Monday in March at Hotel Westmoore, No. 1000 West Seventh street.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Nordlinger was among the most attractive of young girls in social circles, and she now fills an equally important position among the young matrons, who are so valuable in society.

Ruble Club Entertained.

Miss Ruby Fuller of West Thirty-seventh street entertained the "Rubio Sixteen Club" last Thursday evening at her home. This club is composed of a few members of the famous "We Boys" and "J.O.C." classes. Miss Ruby was assisted by her mother, Mrs. F. Lee Fuller, and Mrs. E. W. Fuller. Progressive flinch and other games were played. The tally cards were little water color sketches of "We Boys" and "J.O.C." girls, made by the young hostess. The prizes were awarded Miss Rae Strong and Will Goodwin, Mrs. Pauline Jewell receiving the consolation. Following the games dainty refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Pearl Strong, Rae Strong, Emma Gardner, Maude Brown, Ruth McIntyre, Nell McIntyre, Edna May Dove, Pauline Jewell, Jennie Woodruff and Mrs. E. W. Fuller; Messrs. Roy Strong, Alf Dove, Will Hunter, Charles Stanton, Will Goodwin, W. Trulee, James McIntyre, F. Merwin, J. Pennell, C. Gibson and E. W. Fuller.

Hotel Lillie Party.

Friday evening the Hotel Lillie was the scene of a pretty party. Dancing and cards were features of the evening, and the whole house was radiant with brilliant blossoms. Later a dainty supper was served.

On Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock Miss Lora Variel, daughter of Judge and Mrs. R. H. F. Variel, was united in marriage to Roger Sherman Page, at the Variel home, No. 2237 Michigan avenue.

The house was made beautiful with cut flowers and potted plants. The front parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was a mass of greenery. A canopy of fluffy asparagus plumosus fern was arranged over the heads of the couple, and a lover's knot of white satin ribbon rested lightly against the greenery. Potted plants formed an attractive background for the charming scene enacted. Smilax in strands was draped in all the doorways, and on the chandeliers, and over the white lace curtains. White carnations in baskets were placed about the rooms in artistic profusion, and the dining-room and breakfast room, where a wedding supper was served, were in pink. Pink shades on the lights, and pink carnations, together with broad bands of rose-colored satin ribbons, were used effectively in the scheme. The bride's table was festooned with airy pink tulle, and adorned with a basket of carnations, tied with a bow of illusion. The large table in the dining-room was trimmed with smilax, and silver candalabra with rose-colored shades cast a soft glow over all. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. S. Thompson of the Independent Church of Christ. The bride, who is a fair and winsome girl of the blonde type, was exquisitely dainty in a white crepe de china, with garnitures of Mechlin lace. A veil of filmy illusion fell over her flower-like face, and she carried a bride's bouquet of fragrant white sweet peas.

The matron of honor, a sister of the groom, Mrs. Gilbert Sparks Helms, wore a gown of white chiffon velvet, and carried brilliant jonquils. Miss Reba Smith and Miss Phoebe Eaton, two of her bridesmaids, wore white silk mull and carried maidenhair fern. Miss Barstow, the third bridesmaid, was attired in blue crepe de chine, and had as her bouquet maidenhair ferns.

Mr. Page was attended by the two brothers of the bride, R. H. F. Variel, Junior, who came down from Berkeley University for the wedding, and Clarence L. Variel.

Mrs. Page is a well-known and popular young woman, and Mr. Page is a successful lawyer of this city. The marriage was a culmination of a romance which had its beginning in the High School, where the young people first met. Mr. and Mrs. Page were the recipients oof many beautiful and costly gifts of rich cut glass and silver, which testified to their popularity.

They left immediately for a wedding trip, the whereabouts of which is a secret to even the mother, but on their return they will make their home in East Los Angeles.

Mrs. Water's Musicale.

The chimes, pealed by the Pacific Bell Ringers, received the approval of all. M. Fred Groton gave a piano solo, and Miss Kirkham a violin solo. The Misses Groton and Crystal Waters sang a duet, and a male quartette, composed of Messrs. Gregory, R. J. Waters, A. F. Waters and F. A. Waters rendered several selections.

At the conclusion of the musical programme the refreshments were served, and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

NO LAW GENUINE WITHOUT THE TOTEM BRAND.

The decision of Judge Oster in the case of Robert A. Hayden against the Los Angeles Railway Company, involving the matter of transfers, is made the text of a wild outburst of criticism in yesterday's Los Angeles Examiner, and an attack upon the court and upon his interpretation of the law.

Let us see: Judge Oster has standing and reputation as a lawyer and jurist. He passed upon this case and the law of it. It is not the province of any newspaper to usurp the functions of a court—to assume to interpret the law for Judges on the bench, as the Examiner attempts to do.

In the eyes of the Examiner, it appears, no law is good without it carries the sign of the union totem. No statute not inspired by walking delegates or "business agents" is worthy of acceptance, according to the saffron-hued idea. Ergo, no interpretation of any law that fails to recognize the totem, no interpretation which might in any degree favorably affect any one who refuses to bow down to that totem, can be sound.

If Mr. Huntington and his street railroad company owes any citizen any transfers, The Times wants to see him legally compelled to pay the debt; not otherwise. The court has just found that he is not required to pay the alleged debt—to give the demanded transfers. What then?

There is no present obvious reason to challenge Judge Oster's exposition and interpretation of the law in this case; and it is not yet for any newspaper or any individual to attempt to overturn his interpretation. This is the province of the Supreme Court, and of no one else, and unless the Supreme Court reverses Judge Oster, which is not at all likely, his decision will stand in spite of all the howling of the totem-worshiping and defeated walking delegates and their enraged organ.

BUCKING THE STONE WALL.

Los Angeles unionism is still knocking its head against the stone wall, and in its characteristic stupid manner.

The County Council of Labor has issued a call to all unions in this vicinity, for a mass meeting on the night of March 14, to "take steps to offset the work of the Citizens' Alliance."

Every word in that call is a cry of alarm. It emphatically voices unionism's despair and failure here. It recognises, as it must, the solid front presented by the independent people of Los Angeles, who will not submit to dictation, who will not be interfered with in their business by persons who have no interest in the business aside from getting from it their wages.

But even in so simple a matter as issuing a call for a meeting, unionism cannot refrain from false statements. The call circular refers to the recent visit of Herbert George of Denver and declares that he, with Gov. Peabody of Colorado, is "largely responsible for the military anarchy that reigns throughout that State."

It would be difficult to conceive a more brazen falsehood, a more dastardly accusation. Go to the Colorado mining camps today, particularly to Cripple Creek, contrast their present condition with the bounding prosperity and activity that marked them in the past. Ask any unprejudiced person familiar with Colorado mining history, and you will be promptly told that unionism's long-continued struggle for absolute, unreasonable domination in Colorado, its use of force to secure such power, its mob methods, assaults, brutality and unwarranted strikes, are responsible for the need of using the military for the protection of life and property, not for "military anarchy." The union miners of Colorado, and particularly the "leaders" who have encouraged the Coloradoans in their infamy, are to blame for the millions of dollars' loss the State has sustained through withdrawal of capital, idleness of properties and the frightening away of capital that intended to invest in the State. In protecting Colorado's fair name, in protecting the lives of independent American workmen, in protecting the property of employers and in putting down the reign of terror started by unionism's cohorts, Gov. Peabody has gained distinguished honor. And in assisting in this work, Herbert George has been one of Colorado's good friends. Because Gov. Peabody and other prominent Coloradoans would not permit a gang of toughs, hoodlums, dynamiters, assaulters of people and destroyers of property to rule the State and run riot through it, he and his associates in the work have been vilified and abused by the men who, if they had a spark of loyalty or Americanism, would be the first to stand by them.

The call circular further says that never before were there so many idle mechanics in Los Angeles as now, due, it says, to "cunningly-worded literature sent broadcast by the union-breakers." Another falsehood. The unions, knowing that many of their members are out of work because of unwarranted strikes and because employers will not stand for unionism's dictation, assume that other mechanics are walking the streets vainly hunting work. Facts are entirely sufficient to disprove this statement, and while hundreds of independent workmen have come to Los Angeles because they can here find work and protection in their work, they are not thronging the streets idle, but are earning good wages under employers who have become disgusted with unionism. Discharged and striking unionists are leaving the city, but their places are filled by independent workmen, and in time unionism will cease to play even the small part it now takes in affairs in Los Angeles and Southern California.

Again, the call circular utters falsehood in saying that the Citizens' Alliance "compels" all non-union employes of downtown business houses to patronize a restaurant boycotted by the Council of Labor. The facts in this case are well known—simply that the public has rushed to the support of two women, proprietors of the restaurant, whom unionism attacked and whose business it tried to ruin.

The call circular is doubtless correct in saying that, population considered, this city has the strongest Citizens' Alliance in the United States. Los Angeles admits it—and more than that, is proud of it. Los Angeles is proud that the American spirit of independence, fair play and justice is so deeply rooted in its citizens that they will not only refuse to support, but will organize to do battle with the foes of individual liberty, the enemies of law and order, the opponents of good citizenship.

And let unionism understand this once for all: It is bucking a stone wall in its efforts to gain a foothold here. A wall that is growing higher and stronger every day, and that will forever stand between the law-abiding, independent, willing laborer and employer, and the infamous organization which attempts to stop them in their honest efforts to make a living. As for The Times, it is and will remain in the forefront of the battle for Liberty, Law and Industrial Freedom.

The call circular says the "fight has just begun in Los Angeles."

Dream on, dream on! And when unionism awakes, as some day it will, it will rub its eyes and realise that the fight was over long ago, that unionism was routed in the first skirmish and soundly whipped in every subsequent engagement, and that the people of this community are going about their business, though remembering that unionism once menaced the splendid prosperity that Los Angeles claims as her very own.

RUSSIA IS SATISFIED.

While an attempt is being made by unauthorized persons in the United States to create the impression that the course of our government relative to the Russo-Japan War has been offensively pro-Japanese, it is gratifying to note that there is no such feeling on the part of the Russian government. Such, at least, is the case if we are to credit a statement recently made to Secretary of State Hay by Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador to the United States. In the course of a conference between Count Cassini and Secretary Hay, the subject of the growing ill-feeling in Russia against Americans, and the continued attacks of a certain portion of the American press upon Russia was freely discussed. After the conference, the Russian Ambassador granted an interview to a representative of the Associated Press, in the course of which he referred feelingly to the friendly relations that had always existed between the United States and Russia. He attributed the present hostility on the part of a portion of the Russian press to the attacks which many American newspapers have made upon Russian policies and the Russian government. He said that the first feeling of his people was one of painful surprise, but that this feeling is now "crystallizing into a deplorable feeling of unfriendliness." Some measures, in his opinion, should be taken to check this tendency before it is too late.

As regards the official attitude of our government toward Russia in the present crisis (which the Clan-Na-Gael recently attempted to criticise) the Russian Ambassador expressed the satisfaction of his government with it. "I have been repeatedly assured by the officials," he declared, "that it is the earnest wish of this government that the old traditional friendship between Russia and the United States in the interest of the two peoples should not be disturbed. I have the best assurance that this government will observe complete neutrality in the Far Eastern war. Indeed, its attitude has, in this respect, been all that either belligerent could desire, and Russia has no doubt that it will continue absolutely correct. Russia does not expect, now that war is on, that this country shall be anything more than neutral. My country does not ask that you should be pro-Russian and not pro-Japanese, but that you should be pro-American. She expects, and I can but hope that she will receive, fair treatment at the hands of the American press—as you say in this country, a fair showing."

These are generous words, fitly spoken. They distinctly give the lie to the absurd charges set up by the Clan-Na-Gael organization that our government has pursued a pro-Japanese policy in the Far East. As The Times has said, the course of our government has thus far been in accord with the strict terms of the neutrality which we have professed. That it will so continue, there is not the least reason to doubt. We have nothing to gain by an unfair attitude toward either belligerent. We have much to gain by a strict maintenance of the neutral attitude which has thus far characterised our conduct toward both combatants.

That the press and the people should be divided in their sympathies is something to be expected; nor is it a matter for surprise that pro-Japanese or pro-Russian sympathizers among the people should desire to have the government favor one side of the controversy or the other, according as their sympathies may incline. The administration is placed in an extremely delicate position in this matter, for whatever its course may be, it will be sure to receive ill-natured criticism from one class of sympathizers or the other. There is always, as we know, a superabundance of persons who feel competent to advise the government as to the exact course which it ought to pursue in conducting the weighty affairs of state. But the course of the administration will doubtless continue to be, in the future, as it has been thus far in this unfortunate affair, "all that either belligerent could desire."

FOR RUSSIA—WHY?

There is a noticeable change of feeling throughout the entire country relative to the attitude of both the people and the press concerning the situation in the Far East. At first a great many journals and a great many people, all well-intentioned but thoughtless, rushed toward Japan's side of the case with expressions of unmistakable sympathy. However, the sober, second thought, so characteristic of Americans, and which invariably sets them right when they have started off on a wrong tack, is now beginning to assert itself. As a consequence there is a steady increase in the volume of American well wishes for Russia, our traditional friend and faithful sympathizer.

First of all, let it be repeated, neither nations nor individuals can afford to be ungrateful. Because we owe Russia debts of gratitude, our people and our government may well be with the Czar in this struggle. If this were the only reason, the sole reason, it should sway us; but there are other reasons why America should not favor Japan, and they are grave reasons, too. Without entering into an extended discussion of the whole situation, a thing that would require many articles thrice the length of this one, let us sum it all up in a few words:

Russia has always been our friend, true and tried; Japan is an unknown quantity as far as we are concerned. Russia is Caucasian; Japan is Mongol. On one side is the white race; on the other is the yellow. Russia is Christian; Japan is heathen. In the present war our government and our people are, therefore, bound by every instinct, obligation and natural impulse to side with Russia as against Japan. It is not necessary to show unreasonable partisanship or to feel bitterly toward the brave, daring little yellow men, of course, but we cannot take sides with them and be consistent.

And, by the way, do you ever stop to remember that Russia, voluntarily and of her own free will, freed her serfs a year before we, after marching through rivers of brave men's blood, freed our slaves?

AS TO THE OUTCOME OF THE WAR.

The intelligent reader of the daily papers, just now, may gather as many different conclusions in regard to the probable outcome of the war in the Orient as he reads papers—or separate numbers of one paper, for the opinions vary from day to day, in a most kaleidoscopic and confusing manner, so that one who is simply looking for the truth is often greatly puzzled. In many cases the views of correspondents and writers are biased by their personal leanings toward one side or the other, the wish in this case being father to the thought. The preliminary successes of the opening days of the war have led some people to rashly conclude that the Japanese have their job as good as finished, while, on the other hand, those who simply look at the comparative size and population of the two countries now facing each other in mortal combat are apt to jump at the conclusion that Russia has merely to open her capacious maw and invite Japan to be swallowed. As usual, it is between the two extremes that the truth in regard to the probabilities of the outcome undoubtedly lies.

To an unprejudiced observer, who does not let his sympathies run away with him in favor of either side, it appears most probable that this will be a long-drawn-out campaign, and that it will possibly wind up in the shape of a draw, probably with the negative advantages of damage inflicted upon the enemy predominating somewhat, on one side or the other. This appears to be the most likely outcome of the contest, for the reason that geographical obstacles will prevent either combatant from getting sufficiently close to the other to be able to inflict a vital wound. The contest may be likened to one between an amphibious and a land animal, neither of which is able to invade the other's home province to any considerable extent. Russia has small chances of being able to overrun and conquer the islands of Japan. In the first place, she is thousands of miles from her base, whence the great masses of her troops and supplies must be drawn, and her navy in Oriental waters was considerably crippled in the beginning of hostilities. The coast of Japan is said to be well fortified, and what is of greater importance, the people of the country are inspired by a fierce and almost fanatical patriotism, which leads them to consider it not only a duty, but a pleasure, to lay down their lives for their country. Hence, in order to conquer Japan, Russia, after landing her troops, would practically have to wipe off the earth every "Jap" of the 46,000,000 inhabitants of the islands old enough to handle a weapon—a job which, of course, is entirely out of the question.

On the other hand, it is equally impossible for Japan to make any serious impression upon the enormous area of the Russian empire, extending across the face of the earth from Poland to the Polar Sea, that beats against the rugged capes of Eastern Siberia. Any army that should attempt such a feat might well recall the terrible fate that befell the army of the first Napoleon. While Japan will be unable to make any lasting impression upon this Colossus, Russia may continue to send from her enormous army and reserves half a dozen men for every one that Japan can possibly advance into Manchuria, it being with Russia only a question of transportation and subsistence. It would be fortunate if Manchuria could be made the chief theater of army operations.

Hence, as stated, the probabilities all point to this being a long-drawn-out campaign, with the result of divided honors for the two combatants, each of whom runs the risk of becoming bankrupt by the enormous expenses attendant upon a modern war, not to speak of the terrible loss of human lives.

One thing all right-thinking Americans may agree upon, whatever their sympathies may be in this contest, namely, in hoping that the United States may be able to avoid being drawn into the struggle, and that one result of this, the first war of the twentieth century, may be to impress upon the nations the fact that there is a better way to settle national as well as personal disputes than by taking a club and attempting to beat the other fellow into pulp.

The Russian papers, which express such surprise at the unfriendly attitude of the American people toward Russia, as shown in a majority of our papers, appear to altogether forget the deplorable incident at Kishineff. There is no doubt that terrible affair made a deep impression on the American public and alienated the sympathy of many Americans who would otherwise now be inclined to favor Russia in her struggle with Japan. It is perhaps not reasonable to hold the Russian government responsible for an outbreak of this kind, in a remote province, any more than it would be to hold the American government responsible for outrages on negroes in the South, but then, public opinion is not apt to reason very closely, and somehow or other the idea appears to have become very generally diffused in this country that Russia, as a nation, is inclined to treat the Jewish population of that country with unnecessary severity.

Residents in the northwestern part of the city are anxious to secure some means of protection from fire, which has hitherto been entirely lacking. It is a mile, by the nearest route, from the corner of Sunset boulevard and Alvarado street to the nearest engine-house, on Temple street. With the opening of Sunset boulevard, now rapidly approaching completion, the northwestern hill section is beginning to settle up, and the residents think they have a right to something in the way of protection from fire. At present, in case a house catches fire, there is nothing to be done but to watch it burn.

W. H. Moore of St. Louis, president of the National Good Roads Association, is in the city, for the purpose of calling a Pacific Coast good roads convention in California, for the appointment of delegates to the great international convention, to be held in St. Louis in May, in conjunction with the fair. We have had a vast amount of talk about good roads during the past few years. As The Times has previously observed, it is now about time to begin to build 'em.

It is estimated that ten thousand new settlers will be brought to Southern California, by the colonist excursions, during the next two months. A significant statement is the fact that of four trains which recently passed Albuquerque en route to California, only four cars are to be switched off at Barstow for San Francisco! Watch us grow!

There could be no more reckless disregard of truth than the assertion by the yellow press that "with the connivance of the police" a new crib district has been opened. The police have been faithful and consistent in their campaign against this iniquity ever since they got the word from headquarters, and they are hitting the monster every time and in every guise it shows its head, hitting without fear or favor. Their raids have been effective and their vigilance has been unceasing. The anti-police crusade of these ochre penny-a-liners is the rankest hypocrisy—and everybody knows it.

The Bar Association of Los Angeles is conducting proceedings for disbarment against a local attorney. It is not often that the local association goes so far as this. It might be better for the reputation of the local bar if the association would more frequently do a little judicious house cleaning.

Some of the local Democrats appear to be dreadfully unhappy over Willie Hearst. The boy is a more "worrit-some" burden for them than the Old Man of the Sea was for his victim, judging by the grimaces they make.

"How old was Ann?" That conundrum pales in interest beside the puzzle that a curious public is still waiting for Judge Smith to answer—but the person least anxious about it seems to be a certain Griffith J. Griffith.

Let us see! Were we not fretting our gizzards a little while ago about the drought? But wander forth afield now—the sight is a specific for sore eyes or an irritated gizzard or any other form of unhappiness.

All the returns still come in for Roosevelt. So far as Southern California is concerned he is nominated and elected and given a hearty God-speed on his course as President for another term.

The Methodists are nothing if not thrifty brethren. They have got from the railroads the best terms ever granted for an excursion—"and then some."

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

[The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents, without holding itself responsible for writers' opinions. Be brief, write plainly, state clearly. The space of 250 words, on the average, is sufficient for the expression of an idea.]

Off the Reservation.

THE PALMS (Cal.) March 4, 1904.—[To The Times.] According to the Associated Press, under date of Washington, February 25, reporting the debate on the naval bill between Burton (Ohio) on one side, and Grosvenor (Ohio) and Butler (Pennsylvania,) on the other, the self-explanatory ending of that day's doings is found in the following from the Philadelphia Press:

"'Peace on earth and good will among men depend on good ships and good guns,' was Mr. Grosvenor's doctrine. He appealed to the Democrats: 'Don't forsake the only good thing there is in your record. Don't go off after new idols. You started off on Panama, but most of you are back on the reservation.'

"After lively debate the provision for a naval training station on the Great Lakes was stricken from the bill."

The striking out of the latter seems so reasonable that the counterpart suggests the inquiry: "Where were the California Representatives about that time?" If the bill before recommitment, could be amended by striking out, it follows it could be amended by substituting another amendment; and instead of "the Great Lakes," making it Southern California, or on the Pacific Coast, skirting the Seventh California District. This is the way "a school for training young men to serve as officers in the United States Navy" was started at Annapolis in 1845 by the late George Bancroft, and within five years it was converted into the United States Naval Academy. Where were the eight from California? Where was he of the Seventh, and he of the Eighth District at that opportune time, on February 25, 1904? [Likewise of the Sixth?] H.

The People Next Door.

The reason why the people next door are invariably regarded as most worthy of our javelins is plain to me. They have a piano. I do not know of any race that is quite so unpleasant as the people next door. They are not like any ordinary people who live elsewhere. They obtain their music on the hire system, as it were, and it is generally of the type we most detest. Are we worldly minded? They chasten us obtrusively with hymns—or Mendelssohn, who is for some obscure reason regarded as a moral force in the suburbs. Are we of the elect? They hurl at us with defiant persistency the latest blood-curdler from the "halls." The thing that passes with them for a piano is called upon to do the work of three, and the wall dividing our respective houses, be it borne in mind, is a beautiful conductor of sound.—[Outlook.]

"A HUSBAND SHOULD MAKE HIS WIFE OBEY."

So says Judge Tuley of Chicago. There are conditions, however, under which it is not practicable.

DEMOCRATIC DEFEAT.

Henry Watterson, the Great Bourbon Editor, Sees Nothing but Disaster Ahead.

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] The Courier-Journal is a Democrat. As a Democrat it appeals to Democrats. Since talk of a seat in the next national convention is sometimes indulged in let it be understood, once and for all, that it has its eye on no such seat—that no such awaits it. Its editor will not be in the State convention nor in the national convention, being in truth, as dead to any personal hope or coveted share in the activities of public life as he ever will be in nature, literally now and forever, through his own personality, in nobody's way. If the united voice of his party associates should be raised to invite him, he would thankfully, but firmly ask to be excused. He is impervious to attack.

HIS SARCASM FOR HEARST.

Mr. Bryan is nothing to him. Neither is Gov. Beckham. Still less is that curious emanation, that mysterious shade of modern journalism, that fantastic figure of speech which proposes to rescue the country from the plutocracy by buying it outright, known on the billboards as William Randolph Hearst, but personally unknown even to the Tammany constituency, which elected him to the present Congress, and equally a stranger to his colleagues in the House of which, though an aspirant for the Presidency, he is a silent member.

Mr. Bryan is making common cause with Mr. Hearst. Beckham is making common cause with Mr. Bryan. All three expect to control Kentucky's representatives in the national Democratic convention to their own ends. As to Mr. Bryan and Mr. Hearst, their ends are as plain as a placard on the wall. Mr. Bryan looks to keep himself alive as a public force at the cost of the loss of a third Presidential election by the Democratic party. Mr. Hearst, in any event, will get his money's worth of advertising. What Gov. Beckham expects to gain by a return to the evil passions of 1898 and 1899 and the embittered factionism of 1899 and 1896, we knew not. It is not the intention of the Courier-Journal to make any war on the Governor, nor shall it be its purpose to raise a hand against his plan of sending a Bryan-Hearst delegation to the national convention.

THE HEARST BARREL ON TAP.

The Hearst barrel is already on tap in Kentucky. The Governor's machine is reasonably intact. We see no reason why the combination should not prove all-powerful. There is not likely to be anybody to resist it. Certainly the Courier-Journal will not try to resist it. Truth to say, if we are to lose another Presidential election through the agency of Mr. Bryan, let Mr. Bryan and his friends carry the whole responsibility. In a word, if the Democratic party has not within itself saving grace to save itself, no individual, or newspaper will suffice to save it.

Bryan's motives are as plain to be seen as Mr. Hearst's millions. Can anyone with a thimbleful of knowledge of human nature seriously believe that Mr. Bryan wants his party to win a Presidential election, except under his own administration, when he has lost two elections in succession? Does any sane Democrat believe that Mr. Hearst, a person unknown even to his constituency and his colleagues, without a word or act in the public life of his country, past or present, that can be shown to be his, to command him, could by any possibility be elected President in the United States?

NO HELP FOR IT, HE SAYS.

But there is the Hearst barrel. There is the Bryan propaganda and there stands at least a Governor of Kentucky to order, through the organized channels to which he owes his place, that the moral weight and political influence of the State shall be thrown on the side of this impossible, preposterous alliance of moonshine and money once again to cost the brave but credulous Democracy of the Union a Presidential election.

It is lamentable, yet there seems no help for it. All the Courier-Journal can do, all it means to do, is to enter its protest. Having lived through the last ten years of disaster, it can fairly hope to live through the next. But after these evils have come to pass what availeth its protest? In case they do, we shall have four years more of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Hearst, and if the party survives at the end of them precisely the same claims and pretentions which now seek to abuse its confidence and to overreach its judgment.

The Marquis de Castellane, father of Count Boni and father-in-law of Anna Gould, has finished a drama in five acts, which will shortly be performed in Paris. It is a play of the Napoleonic period.

Prof. Edwin Sparks, professor of history at the University of Chicago, is a severe critic of the public school histories. He says: "One year's teaching of American history in the public schools will undo the work of a dozen peace commissions or peace tribunals. If we want to have permanent Hague arbitration courts, we will have to leave out our histories."

The Free Lance tells a story of Mr. Whistler. Seated one evening in the stalls of a West End theater, in London, he was being constantly irritated by his neighbor—a lady—who would insist on going out not only between acts, but while the play was proceeding, as well. The space between the rows of seats was extremely narrow, and the artist was therefore subjected to a considerable annoyance as she repeatedly got to and fro past him. "Madam," he at length said, in his very sweetest and smoothest tones, "I trust I do not incommode you by having my seat."

Biscoe, that Mr. Biscoe, now under arrest pending the court-martial for neglect of duty, is charged with being short in his accounts to the value of $2600. Paymaster Biscoe, it will be remembered, protested against the severity of the language used by Admiral Evans in reviewing the case of Assistant Paymaster Nicholson some time since.

Capt. Caspar F. Goodrich has written a letter to Capt. Willard H. Brownson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, strongly urging that a department of annals and episodes, or records and reminiscences, be established in the Naval Institute, to which all navy officers shall be invited to contribute in the way of biographical notes, accounts of expeditions, extraordinary experiences and episodes of war times, of ships and the artist was therefore subjected to and the like. The board of control is said to favor Capt. Goodrich's scheme, and it is likely that the matter will shortly assume definite form.

Charles E. Lloyd, ex-Chief of Police of Oakland, has invented a fire preparation, which adequate tests claim to be the most fireproof material ever discovered. It is said to render the paper and other highly inflammable material absolutely fireproof, and it is expected to work a revolution in the manufacture of theater curtains and scenery.

Prof. William Wallace Campbell, director of the Lick Observatory, has received the signal honor of the award of the Lalande prize from the Academy des Sciences of France. The prize is given annually to the person who has made the most interesting observations or written the most important memoir or completed the most useful work for the progress of modern astronomy. The report of the committee that assigned Director Campbell "one of the first places among modern astronomers" paid him most glowing tributes for his work. Among other things the committee said: "To him we owe the most thorough study of the numerous and markable temporary stars of recent years."

SPRING AND THIRD STS.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Robert M. McElroy, a professor of history at Princeton, is writing a history of Kentucky from the colonial days to the Civil War.

John J. Doran, who was wounded while on the cruiser Montgomery at the cutting of the cable at Clenfuegos, has just died at Fall River, Mass.

The citizens of Aiken, S.C., will build and set aside a city park to be named Whitney Park, in honor of their esteemed fellow-citizen, the late W. C. Whitney.

The Emperor of Japan has never been outside of his own country. His son, the crown prince, though in his fifth year, has also refrained from traveling.

It is believed the Rothschild family, as whole, is worth about $1,500,000,000, of the French section being represented by about $250,000,000, and the English branch by considerable more.

According to a Belgian paper, the Czar is among the composers. It is stated that at a soiree in the Winter Palace several works from the imperial pen were performed, among them one entitled "The Song of Peace."

The Marquis de Castellane, father of Count Boni and father-in-law of Anna Gould, has finished a drama in five acts, which will shortly be performed in Paris. It is a play of the Napoleonic period.

Prof. Edwin Sparks, professor of history at the University of Chicago, is a severe critic of the public school histories. He says: "One year's teaching of American history in the public schools will undo the work of a dozen peace commissions or peace tribunals. If we want to have permanent Hague arbitration courts, we will have to have out our histories."

The Free Lance tells a story of Mr. Whistler. Seated one evening in the stalls of a West End theater, in London, he was being constantly irritated by his neighbor—a lady—who would insist on going out not only between acts, but while the play was proceeding, as well. The space between the rows of seats was extremely narrow, and the artist was therefore subjected to a considerable annoyance as she moved to and fro past him. "Madam," he at length said, in his very sweetest and smoothest tones, "I trust I do not incommode you by keeping my seat."

ARMY AND NAVY MEN.

Gen. Wesley Merritt has left Washington for a trip to Florida lasting several weeks.

Lieut. C. A. Doyen is in command of the new battalion of 600 marines, the latest body of troops ordered to the Philippines.

Commander William E. Sewell, recently ordered invalided home from Guam, is now reported to be in improved health.

Brig.-Gen. George F. Elliott returned to Washington recently from Panama, accompanied by his aides, and will report to the President and to the Secretary of the Navy on the operations of the provisional brigade of marines.

Rear-Admiral George A. Converse, Chief of the Bureau of Equipment, succeeded Rear-Admiral Charles O'Neill as Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance when that officer retired on March 5, and Capt. Henry N. Manney succeeded as Chief of the Bureau of Equipment.

Commander Martin Ellsworth Hall, who died recently at the United States Naval Hospital at Norfolk, Va., came of naval family, being the great-grandson of Oliver Ellsworth, former Chief Justice of the United States. Commander Hall was the inventor of a range and several other highly-valuable military devices.

Rear-Admiral Evans has cabled to the Navy Department in response to a request for the detachment from the battleship Oregon of Paymaster Harry E. Biscoe, that Mr. Biscoe is now under arrest pending his court-martial for neglect of duty. He is charged with being short in his stores to the value of $2600. Paymaster Biscoe, it will be remembered, protested against the severity of the language used by Admiral Evans in reviewing the case of Assistant Paymaster Nicholson some time since.

Capt. Caspar F. Goodrich has written a letter to Capt. Willard H. Brownson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, strongly urging that a department of annals and episodes, or records and reminiscences, be established in the Naval Institute, to which all navy officers shall be invited to contribute in the way of biographical notes, accounts of expeditions, extraordinary experiences and episodes of war times, of all kinds. The board of control is said to favor Capt. Goodrich's scheme, and it is likely that the matter will shortly assume definite form.

CALIFORNIANS.

Rev. Father Joseph C. Kasia, author of the two volumes "Christian Apologetics," has received a personal letter of congratulation from Pope Pius X on the excellent merit of his works.

Otto Bendix, the noted pianist and teacher, who died at San Francisco last week, was 73 years of age. He was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, and during his early career was for three years a pupil of the famous virtuoso Liszt at Weimar.

T. Murakami, a graduate from the college of chemistry at the State University, left the university a few days ago for Japan, having been recalled by the Mikado's government to accompany the British army officers to the scene of hostilities.

Former State Senator E. C. Voorheis of Amador county lately returned from the East where he attended an extended conference of the United States Assay Commission, of which he is a member. The meeting of the commission was held in Philadelphia.

Dr. George A. Hare of Fresno recently made an extensive trip throughout the East, visiting many of the larger cities in the interest of municipal sanitation. As a result of his observations he gives as his opinion that no town in the United States of its size has a more enviable health record than Fresno.

Charles E. Lloyd, ex-Chief of Police of Oakland, has invented a secret preparation, which adequate tests show to be the most fireproof material yet discovered. It is said to render tissue paper and other highly inflammable material absolutely fireproof, and it is expected to work a revolution in the manufacture of theater curtains and scenery.

Prof. William Wallace Campbell, director of the Lick Observatory, has received the signal honor of the award of the Lalande prize from the Academie des Sciences of France. The prize is given annually to the person who has made the most interesting observation, written the most important memoir or completed the most useful work for the progress of modern astronomy. The report of the committee that assigned to Director Campbell "one of the first places among modern astronomers," paid him most glowing tributes for his work. Among other things the committee said: "To him we owe the most thorough study of the numerous remarkable temporary stars of late years."

PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Councilman Davenport made the discovery yesterday at the City Hall that his pet bull ordinance had gone astray.

By an accident a Mexican named La Cruz was yesterday identified in the County Jail as being the man wanted in connection with an elopement affair. He ran away with a young girl from Ventura about a month ago.

Owing to the enforced absence from the city of Judge Smith sentence was not passed upon G. J. Griffith yesterday. The time was carried over until Tuesday next.

The Wolverine Fruit Company has succumbed to the inevitable and on Thursday next the stock and effects are to be sold under Sheriff's sale.

Building Superintendent Krause won his fight with the Chick Bros. over the Fifth-street building.

AT THE CITY HALL.

SOMETHING "DAV" WANTS TO KNOW.

WHAT BECAME OF THE FAMOUS "BULL ORDINANCE."

No Trace That it Ever Reached the Mayor for Signature—Uninteresting Session of Board of Fire Commissioners—Sold Scaly Oranges Outside the City.

Where is Dav's ordinance?

It may seem inelegant, but the lost ordinance was commonly called "Dav's Bull Ordinance."

It was passed by the City Council an uncertain time since and was aimed at somebody in the Sixth Ward who was guilty of keeping a huge gentleman bovine within the cow-limit, and insisting upon calling him a cow.

On the very day the ordinance was passed it was again repealed, but the persons interested in getting rid of the nuisance would not rest, and brought it before the Council again on or about January 25. Again it was passed and only awaited the signature of the Mayor to become effective after thirty days.

Yesterday some facetious or interested individual, recalling that the ordinance should now be a law, asked Inspector Hunsicker why he didn't enforce it, and was met by the statement that there was no such ordinance in existence.

Councilman Davenport heard the news and immediately he "wanted to know." He hied him to the Clerk's office, but was met with a confession of dense ignorance by the powers that be. They could tell nothing about it. Every old dusty pigeonhole was dug out, but no bull ordinance could be found. All the letters of transmittal from Minute Clerk Wilde to the Mayor were examined, but no letter was found transmitting to His Honor for signature the famous bull ordinance, and it seems to be irrevocably lost, strayed or stolen.

If Dav's sonorous tongue cleaves not to the roof of his mouth there will probably be some music on the subject on Monday.

Fire Commission.

The meeting of the Fire Commission yesterday was without interest. A number of applications for permission to establish gasoline engines were granted, having previously been referred to Chief Strohm.

An application to store 2000 gallons of gasoline in tanks near the corner of Union avenue and Girard street was held over for another week, although the Fire Chief had reported in favor of granting the privilege. The Chief reported that it was to be used for the purpose of charging automobiles, and that the tanks would be buried under the ground. Owing to its proximity to the Sentous-street school and to two dwelling-houses, Commissioner Yates objected to permitting it without further investigation, and it went over.

A large delegation of ladies and gentlemen from West Twenty-fifth street was on hand to protest against the granting of a permit to W. F. Wilson to keep a livery stable on that street, between Figueroa and McClintock. Both sides to the controversy were out in full force, but Mayor Snyder thought that the custom of first referring all such application to the Fire Chief should be followed, and the question was deferred, pending his report one week hence.

Outwitted Drummond.

Fruit Inspector Drummond went down to the Los Angeles market on Friday morning and, seeing a wagonload of oranges covered with scale, promptly ordered that they be taken away and thrown on the city dump.

Upon going to the market yesterday morning he met the owner of the oranges and asked him:

"Well, what did you do with the oranges?"

"Took them up to Pasadena and sold them."

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

NOW YOUNG LOVE IS IN ECLIPSE.

TOMAS LA CRUZ STOLE AWAY WITH HIS SWEETHEART.

He is Found in Jail, and Susie Quijada, Though Only Fifteen, is Compelled to Make Her Way Through the World Without Aid from Relatives or Friends.

Down in the town of Ventura was a little love dream enacted about a month ago that had its public exploitation here yesterday, and a rather unhappy one at that.

Tomas La Cruz and Susie Quijada were very much in love with one another, but there were bars in the way.

In the first place Tomas La Cruz was persona non grata to certain members of his little sweetheart's family, and though their scruples might have been overcome, as the wooer had friends, there were other reasons that opposed the consummation of his desires. The girl was only 15 years of age. She was plump and fair to see in the eyes of La Cruz, but some of her people didn't like him and sheltered themselves behind the law that says a girl under 15 doesn't know her own mind, and hasn't the power to contract a marriage.

But Susie had something to say about the matter herself, and she decided that she and Tomas should be married. Then the two put their heads together and concocted a scheme to run away. And they did run away—to Los Angeles. A hue and cry was raised and hot pursuit was planned, but no one knew which way to pursue. The officers here as elsewhere were advised and kept a lookout for the missing couple, but they succeeded in evading detection until yesterday.

By the merest accident in the world it was discovered that Tomas La Cruz is confined in the County Jail, and is held to answer for an assault. But the romance of the episode was spoiled when it was found that no marriage had taken place at all. La Cruz brought the girl to Los Angeles and drifted about until he got into trouble and was arrested.

When the friends of Susie were communicated with yesterday at Ventura as to whether they desired her held, the answer was that they had no wish to compel her return. So the 15-year-old girl who ran away for love will have to make the best of matters alone, now that she has lost her lover and is treated with indifference by her friends at the old home.

CHOLO GOES UP.

WAS A STRANGER AND HUNGRY.

Louis Flores is a cholo who drifted up here from Mexico two months ago. Yesterday Judge Trask sentenced him to one year at Folsom for burglary. It was the minimum punishment for the charge to which Flores pleaded guilty, but nevertheless the case seemed a hard one.

Flores is only 22 years of age, and there is no bad record behind him. He had been working on the track for a railroad company, and chopping wood wherever he could get a job. One day he had no work, no money and he was hungry. Passing a place in Chinatown belonging to John Heeney he saw things to eat inside and went in, as he said, "to try and get a bite or two." But he was scared away and ran for his life. He was arrested shortly afterwards on suspicion, but he didn't try to evade the charge and owned at once to what he had done.

LIGHT SENTENCE.

TIME ENOUGH FOR REPENTANCE.

Dick Bowers was arrested about two months ago for going into the house of Edmund Perkins and stealing a stickpin worth a dollar. During this interval of time he has been merely waiting for his trial on the charge of burglary, and yesterday was the time set. But the trial didn't come off. Investigation of the facts made it appear that there was a good deal of hardship in connection with the case, and District Attorney Fredericks consented to withdraw the graver charge and allow Dick to plead to petty larceny. This he did in Justice Young's court, and he was sentenced to four months imprisonment in the County Jail.

It appeared that Dick Bowers has a wife who is in every way a most estimable young woman, and when her husband went and stole the pin it was with a desire to provide something for his home. It was when these inside facts came out that the District Attorney consented to be easy.

WOLVERINE BUSTED.

COMPANY TO BE SOLD OUT.

The stock and effects of the Wolverine Fruit Company are under attachment, and the outfit is to be sold by auction next Thursday. Ollie Watkins is on top of the heap—as usual.

Frank Giffin, who started the company has had a short run for his money. He is quite a young man and put the coin into the Wolverine company in good faith, and with every prospect of doing well as the stand at Broadway and Seventh street is considered to be first-class. But from the time Watkins butted in, everything has gone wrong. Bills have remained unpaid, what money was paid out was for goods and effects charged up to Watkins in his own name, and Giffin wasn't in it at any stage of the game.

Eugene Whitcomb, who brought suit on the $1000 note, assigned to him by the American Loan and Trust Company of which Ollie Watkins is the whole thing, is an uncle to Watkins. It appears therefore that when McKinley, the president of the Wolverine company made the note, he made it under direction of Watkins, for he was his right bower in the Ideal Credit Company. Then it was indorsed over to the American Loan and Trust Company—that's Ollie in person, and the loan and trust company assigned it to Ollie's uncle, Eugene Whitcomb, who put on the screws.

And through it all Ollie Watkins is happy. More than once he has stated that he is worth from $50,000 to $60,000, and every dollar of it is judgment proof. Any attaching that has to be done by the Sheriff is not upon Watkins' own property, that is a dead cinch. While suckers are not to say plentiful just now, business is reported as holding quite good with the Ideal Credit Company, and the endless chain gives no immediate indication of breaking. While there are several phases to these get-rich-quick schemes, Ollie Watkins prides himself particularly upon his unpatented method of manufacturing lapses. Lapsed policies mean big profits and he has not hesitated to tell just how he arranges things so that holders of policies may be induced to let go.

After a sucker has been landed and a policy issued, a collector calls around with the utmost regularity to collect the amount of the premium, whatever it may be. Each call means a little missionary work done for the cause, and to keep the enthusiasm up to the paying point. After two or three months the collector is called off, and when a policy holder misses his accustomed face he naturally thinks that he will be around in a day or so and it will be all right; probably, even, he may think the collection has been allowed to run over until the next payment is due. Finally, when a policy holder becomes suspicious of something wrong and goes around to the office to find out why his contributions have not been gathered in, he finds that his policy has lapsed through failure to pay up on time. There is a clause in the policy which requires payment to be made "at the office." Then all such policy holders' back payments are entered up to profit, and the net is set for the next man with defective mentality.

SENTENCE DEFERRED.

GRIFFITH REMAINS IN JAIL.

Judge Smith was unavoidably detained at San Bernardino yesterday by the sensational Boxall trial, and consequently the time for sentence G. J. Griffith was continued.

When the case was called before Judge Oster, who has been sitting in Department One during the absence of Judge Smith, the courtroom was filled with a crowd of people desirous of seeing the last of a notorious trial. With the exception of Gage and Earl Rogers, all the attorneys were in place, and the defendant was accompanied into court by Dr. Griffith.

District Attorney Fredericks informed the court that he was in receipt of a telegram from Judge Smith, saying that the time for sentence would have to go over as he was detained, and suggested that the hour be continued until Tuesday morning. Major Jones, of counsel for the defense, said that the arrangement would be agreeable to them, and the order was made.

The crowd surged out of the courtroom then, all interest having ended for the time being. It is somewhat doubtful, however, whether Judge Smith will be in his place on the bench on Tuesday. The trial in which he is engaged is being fought with vigor, and it is said, will probably not be concluded by Tuesday. In that event there will be a further postponement in sentencing Griffith.

BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

YOUNG RYAN MUST ANSWER.

Dudley Ryan has reached the mature age of 13, and is quite a desperate fellow. He was in the Detention Home and not only incited his companions there to make a break for liberty, but actually did escape himself.

It was about three weeks ago that it all happened. Young Ryan told seven or eight of the boys in the Detention Home what a jolly lark it would be to break away while they were being taken over to the County Jail for supper. He said that when they were marched by the officers of the home across Temple street he would break away in one direction, and then if the rest would break in other directions the officer couldn't possibly run a half-dozen different ways at once and they would all get free.

But the planned escape didn't come off according to programme. Dudley Ryan gave a whoop and started down the street one night while the little gang of boys was coming from supper, but the officer in charge let him go and kept his eyes on the bunch that remained. And they were too scared then to follow Dudley's example. In the meantime the latter has had a fine time. He has been kicked about from pillar to post, and when picked up by an officer a day or two ago was grimy and dirty—but apparently happy.

"You ran away from the Detention Home and I will have to send you to jail," said Judge Wilbur to him yesterday when he was brought into court.

The boy was minus coat and vest, had bare feet, and his shirt and trousers were torn and not particularly clean. He smiled a smile that stretched across his face when Probation Officer Dodds recited his misdeeds, and the court took cognizance of them. His trial was set for March 11.

TAX GATHERERS

BEGIN WORK TOMORROW.

Tomorrow will be the first Monday in March, and at high noon the numerous deputies sworn in by County Assessor Ben Ward will start out upon their duties. These duties are of a most onerous character, and very many people do not take any pains to make it any easier for them.

The work of the Assessor's office has increased very rapidly, and yet there is no increase in the working staff. For that reason the time for taking statements will have to be shortened this year by a month. By filing early, mistakes may be prevented, and the possibility of an arbitrary assessment avoided.

Poll tax, where no real estate is owned, must be paid before one can pay unsecured personal property tax. On neither does the Assessor or his deputy get any commission, though many people yet retain the idea that they do. Failure to pay the field deputy may mean trouble. On failure to pay, no further demand will be made, but after five days legal demand will be made with seizure notice. That means advertising to the extent of about $8 to $10 and deputy's fees for seizure, $3. These are the charges under the law, and there is no escaping them. In any case, every head of a household ought to leave $2 to pay his poll tax.

It is requested by Assessor Ward that any incivility be at once reported. All the deputies are under bond and responsible. They have been instructed to make an arbitrary assessment wherever they cannot see the property, and have also been reminded to get it high enough. This is made necessary by the large amount of work and the short time in which there is to do it.

COURT NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

DEATH PRESUMED. In the estate of John J. Hindes the court has appointed W. R. Leeds as administrator, with bond fixed at $250. The estate is a small one and is only notable because Hindes disappeared and has not been heard from for more than seven years. Diligent search has been made without success, and now Judge Wilbur has judicially determined that Hindes is dead, and died about January 1, 1895.

BOTH CASES DISMISSED. Miguel Duarte, who had one trial for robbery when the jury failed to agree, has been turned loose. The District Attorney did not have hope of making the testimony any stronger, and moved for the dismissal yesterday. H. E. Sturgeon also was turned adrift for the same reason. He was charged with passing a bogus check upon the justice of the peace at Azusa in payment for a shave. The barber-justice gave him a nice little bunch of money back and then discovered that the check was no good. Sturgeon was tried and the jury disagreed.

THE DIAZ MURDER. Rafael Guyliott, who murdered Raymond Dias in front of a saloon some time ago, almost under the eyes of a police officer, had his trial set yesterday by Judge Oster for April 15, and counsel for the defendant stated it would take over a week to try it.

KRAUSE TRIUMPHANT.

CHICKS PLEAD GUILTY.

Building Superintendent Julius Krause has won his fight with the Chick Bros. and their tenants, Marsh and Sturgis, over the burned building at No. 218 West Fifth street. They all pleaded guilty yesterday to the charge of misdemeanor in having disobeyed the Building Superintendent's order to tear down the damaged structure, and were ordered to appear before Justice Austin for sentence at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning. Marsh is also to be sentenced at the same time for making repairs without the consent of the Building Superintendent. Sturgis was fined $5 several days ago for the same offense.

Changed Her Boarding Place.

Doris Wayman, a girl with a painted face, was given a sentence of fifty days for vagrancy, by Justice Austin yesterday. Doris said she came here from Bakersfield a few weeks ago and roomed at the Van Nuys Hotel for the first week or two. She was hanging around cheap Main-street joints when arrested for vagrancy. A. Powers, a well-dressed man, who had been consorting with the Wayman girl, was given a thirty-day floater for vagrancy.

Demented Swede.

John Lind, a young Swede, who was to be sentenced for carrying a concealed weapon and having lottery tickets in his possession, was ordered sent to the County Hospital, by Justice Austin yesterday, to be tried for insanity, as a medical examination by the Police Surgeon showed that Lind was of unsound mind.

Products of Tough Joint.

A complaint was filed against B. F. Meyers and E. J. Griffith, by Detective Benedict yesterday, charging them with grand larceny. They are alleged to have robbed a drunken man of his watch, in Sam Sullivan's notorious saloon, a few nights ago, after giving him knockout drops. Meyers was employed as a waiter in the Sullivan joint, and Griffith is a well-known sport and rounder. The prisoners were arraigned before Justice Austin and will have their preliminary examination next Monday.

High Priced Oranges.

D. Bradford was given a sentence of $3 or three days, yesterday by Justice Austin, on account of stealing half a dozen of oranges.

TO "GET BACK" AT HUNTINGTON.

PROGRAMME OF IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATIONS.

Not Much of Bonfire After All. Only Eight Persons Present at the So-called Convention Held Yesterday at the Courthouse—Pole Nuisance.

To "get back" at Huntington for winning the transfer case, an attempt will be made next Monday to persuade the City Council to hold up his asked-for Eleventh-street franchise. A lobbying committee was appointed yesterday from various city-improvement associations.

These "burning" questions of the hour, too many telegraph poles and not enough street-car transfers, were due for a conflagration before the Federated Improvement Associations at the convention held at 4 p.m. yesterday in Judge Allen's court.

They burned some, although only eight members of the association were present, representing each a district.

Garvanza wanted to "resolve" to hold up the Eleventh-street franchise and all future franchises until Huntington promises to be good; West Adams street begged that his magnateship be not offended until more street cars for West Jefferson street can be teased out of him.

It was finally decided to send the resolutions around to the different improvement associations to consider and that a committee, one from each ward association, be sent Monday to labor with the City Council.

Councilman McAleer was reported as being already won over.

The first fagot thrown in the burning was by W. R. Myers, chairman of a special committee on transfers. He introduced the following resolutions, pointed, of course, at the Eleventh-street franchise, adding by way of side remarks that Hook once offered $40,000 for this same franchise now to go for $1000, and that subscribed by property owners:

"Whereas, the electric railways of this city are showing a disposition to evade the spirit of the law in regard to the issuance of transfers over the several lines, and whereas, the electric-railway companies are apparently able by shifting the franchises on the various streets from one corporation to another to evade all existing obligations to issue transfers, and whereas, the condition which they are creating is a serious menace to the general growth and welfare of the city, be it

"Resolved, by this Federation of Improvement Leagues, that we are strongly opposed to issuance of any further franchises or privileges to any electric-railway company, until all the street-railway companies shall be bound as a condition of their franchises to issue and accept transfers, with reasonable restrictions, over all other lines within the city limits. And that no further franchises be offered for sale or sold except such a condition be incorporated therein. That we consider this to be the paramount local public issue of the day, and that while we dislike to antagonize such an important factor in the development and growth of the city as the great electric railways, we believe the general public good demands this decisive action. And that the several associations of which the federation is composed be requested to take vigorous action toward the accomplishment of the plan outlined in this resolution."

F. E. Alderson of West Adams' Association begged the reporters not to say a word; but said he feared this resolution would interfere with Huntington's half promise to turn the Main-street cars or the Grand-avenue cars down West Jefferson street, which has poor service now.

This is a dinky line—a spur giving transfers to the Vermont-avenue Traction line, but not to Main street.

It is claimed that Huntington has intimated that the franchise for this line may be transferred from his Traction line to the Los Angeles Railway Company, so the Main-street cars can run out Jefferson street.

To have done this at the time of the transfer fight on Ninth street would have jeopardized his lawsuit.

Col. Melvin Mudge, who presided over the meeting, urged that all the district associations celebrate Arbor Day.

RANGES IN NEW YORK.

How Dual Auction Works an Injury to the Industry.

Appeal of the Trustees of the New York Exchange.

Some Important Factors in the Present Situation.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, March 1.—Sales of California oranges aggregate approximately 150 cars a week now, and the number increases gradually as the season advances. Later, it will run from 75 to 100 cars or more per day, through the month of May, and probably a larger part, if not all of June. Cars, rather than less than 100 cars per day will be offered. It is, therefore, of importance to growers in California how this market is managed, and in what condition the fruit is upon arrival.

The situation here now is well known to every orange man in California. Owing to a ruling of the Erie railroad that the auction company having the largest quantity of fruit should sell first every morning, a system of dual auctions was established which has worked injury to the entire orange industry from the grower to the consumer. Perhaps this is an old story, but as the season advances it becomes of more vital importance than ever, and it will do no harm to review it again for the benefit of the growers. The result of the railroad's order was that the California Fruit Agency would have sold first every morning, with a few exceptions, ever since January 1. Generally they have by far the largest quantity of fruit.

The so-called Independents determined to fight the matter out, and eventually have compelled the Erie railroad to supply them with an auction room and to give them such facilities as are possible without reconstructing the pier where the fruit is sold. The agency is said to represent the interests of the growers, while the Independents are working for their own interests, seeking business wherever it can be obtained and conducting their affairs as commission men usually do.

The first move, aside from demanding facilities for selling at the same time that the agency does, which were the tactics immediately adopted by the Independents, was the action of the trustees of the New York Fruit Exchange, an organization composed of the buyers and importers of Sicily fruit. Others are admitted, and possibly the meat in the cocoanut here is the fact that E. A. Ruhlman of Ruhlman & Co., the head and front of the Independent movement, is president of the New York Fruit Exchange. Anyhow, the trustees formally called the attention of the Erie railroad to what they termed the interference of the company's ruling, and requested that the sales should alternate as they had been doing. The road answered the communication with studied silence. After a time the trustees sent another communication of similar import, but to other officials. The reply to this was formal, merely acknowledging its receipt, with a brief statement that it would receive attention by the proper persons.

Nothing more was said by the company for weeks. A few weeks ago the road suddenly put in its appearance, which said that if the warring factions would get together the company would make satisfactory arrangements. This concession was considered worth something. Evidently something had occurred to change the road's views, otherwise it would not have deigned a reply. Farther than this, however, the communication did not go. That is to say, no indication of how the company purposed making the arrangements was discoverable in the letter. But it was plain that some influence, hitherto unknown, had been at work.

The next move was the sudden appearance of D. B. Campbell, Eastern agent of the combine. He looked over the ground and issued a proposition. Said Mr. Campbell:

"We want to do what is fair, and after looking over the ground very carefully we find that the Independents have about 25 per cent. of the receipts. I suggest, then, that the Independents be allowed to sell first 25 per cent. of the time, that is, one morning in every four."

As one of the dealers said, this was a great concession for Mr. Campbell to make, and was proof that he, too, had been permitted to see a light. But if he thought the Independents were going to fall over themselves in a wild rush to sell first one morning in every four, he was sadly mistaken. They told Mr. Campbell that they were well suited as they were and refused the proffered olive branch, and intimated to Mr. Campbell that he had better retire to his usual locality and think again. Mr. Campbell retired, but what he thought hasn't yet been made public.

One of the Independents, voicing the feeling of all of them, said afterwards that it was the policy of the Independents not to accept any modifications of the present arrangements. Nothing short of absolute surrender will be accepted, said this gentleman, and he speaks confidently that surrender will follow this move of Mr. Campbell's.

Outwardly the situation remains practically as it was at first, but there are several influences at work which do not show on the surface. It is these unseen influences which are compelling the concessions the agency is attempting to make. And it is probable that it is these same influences, according to the views of important men in the trade, which will ultimately bring about a change in the present system of selling, and perhaps also in the present system of handling from tree to consumer.

The averages on all agency sales have been very low. In most cases they have netted growers only a few cents a box. In many instances, not anything. On the contrary, with few exceptions outside sales of Independent sales have been higher, and averages have been better, as well. The explanation of this discrepancy has not been forthcoming, but that will be offered presently. The influence of variation in prices has been the hardest contention of the season for the agency to meet. And it is surmised that at least a portion of this concession is due to the fact that the explanations offered have not been clear and convincing.

Back of this discrepancy in sales lies another influence which has been a more important factor in the business than has been admitted. The buyers said they would not buy of the agency unless compelled to do so. Notwithstanding the fact that the agency auction has had a man at the top of the stairs to the auction room telling buyers of the bargains inside, and notwithstanding other subterfuges of a similar character, it has been impossible to secure the patronage of the larger buyers again. Unless the patronage of the larger buyer is obtainable, high prices are impossible. Two or three months' sales without them proves that assertion conclusively. There was no meeting, no attempt to arrange a boycott. It was just a determination on the part of the trade, without consultation, to refuse its patronage to the company that appeared to them unfair.

Without question, it has had its effect. If the influence is doubted, look at the sales. The prices are sufficient to substantiate the assertion and to indicate what a useless thing it is to try to do business in New York and antagonize a powerful interest at the start.

The agency did not believe the trade would maintain its attitude. But the buyers were very much in earnest, and the original ranks are not only unbroken, but the numbers have been increased. There are more refraining from buying now than there were at the beginning. The Independents almost invariably have the largest attendance and their ranges are higher. Evidently, the attempt to laugh the buyers out of their attitude has failed as miserably as some of the other attempts of the agency have failed.

The sympathizers with the Independents have been able to bring pressure to bear in another direction. They refrained from shipping their purchases west over the Erie, when it was possible to use some other road. It was supposed by the agency and others that they would do this for a little while and then resume their old tactics. But once more those who planned the coup reckoned without their host. The Independents have not only maintained their attitude, but they have been joined by others, until probably a larger proportion of the west-bound shipments have been diverted. Of course, other roads, knowing the situation, lost no time in offering inducements. The effect is seen in the reply of the company to the Exchange trustees after a long period of silence. The Erie road is in no position to stand a financial loss, no matter how slight; and, having been hit in the pocket, it is working toward arbitration.

After these factors in the solution of the problem were all under way, another came in which had influence with still another. The lack of attendance at the agency's sales and the low range of values at which oranges sold, caused several large sellers to withdraw a part or all of their fruit from the company selling the agency's stock and place it with the company handling the independent fruit. The catalogues say that prices immediately improved, and some days the same brand has brought a considerable sum more in Brown & Seccomb's auction than it has in the Fruit Auction Company. This was bad, and would lead to the withdrawal of other accounts if continued without protest. It is thought that the auction company had something to do with Mr. Campbell's sudden appearance with a sprig of olive in his outstretched hand.

The latest rumor is that the agency is going to establish its own auction room, but that is denied. The rumor is persistent, however, and members of the trade are disposed to believe it because the agency has done that elsewhere. Only time can determine the truth or falsity of this matter, however, and it will be sometime, probably, before it is definitely decided what will be done.

One gentleman who favors the Independents is actually enthusiastic over the outlook. He says that it is only a question of time when the old system of selling will be reëstablished and when the agency will be compelled to do different from what it has done. He has sent numerous letters to large growers urging them to bring their influence to bear upon the agency and to force them to stop the present ruinous system of sales. He is firm in his belief that the growers are powerful enough to present it if they choose and declares that when they get all their returns this year they will be ready to rise and do something. This is one man's opinion, and a man at this end, but it is an opinion which is shared by all the Independents, and possibly some adherents of the agency.

Output of Petroleum Since 1859.

It is not yet half a century since Col. Drake discovered petroleum on the waters of Oil Creek, near Titusville, Pa. Men thought themselves civilized in those days, but had no notion that petroleum was among the necessities of a polite existence. A tallow dip or a wax candle illuminated sufficiently the night's activities, and a blazing log-wood fire left no room for desire of another kind of heater. Mutton tallow answered for chapped hands, and bear's grease oil did well enough for pomade. Petroleum might have been counted a superfluity, but instead it sprang into immediate favor, and now its list of popular by-porducts grows longer every year. The total production of crude petroleum from 1859 to the end of 1902 has been no less than 1,165,280,727 barrels. That means that if two and one-half feet were allowed for the height of a barrel, and if these barrels filled with all the domestic oil that has been produced were laid so that their heads touched, they would encircle the earth two and one-quarter times.

Of this total production, Pennsylvania and New York produced 53.5 per cent., Ohio 26.3 per cent., West Virginia, 11.3 per cent, Indiana 2.9 per cent., California 2.6 per cent. Texas 2.1 per cent., leaving .9 per cent. to be supplied by the States of Kansas, Colorado, Louisiana, Illinois, Missouri, Indian Territory, Wyoming, Michigan and Oklahoma Territory.

The above figures are taken from F. H. Oliphant's report on "The Production of Petroleum in 1902," soon to be published by the United States Geological Survey in its annual volume of Mineral Resources.—[Geological Survey Bulletin.

THROOP TEAM WINS HONORS.

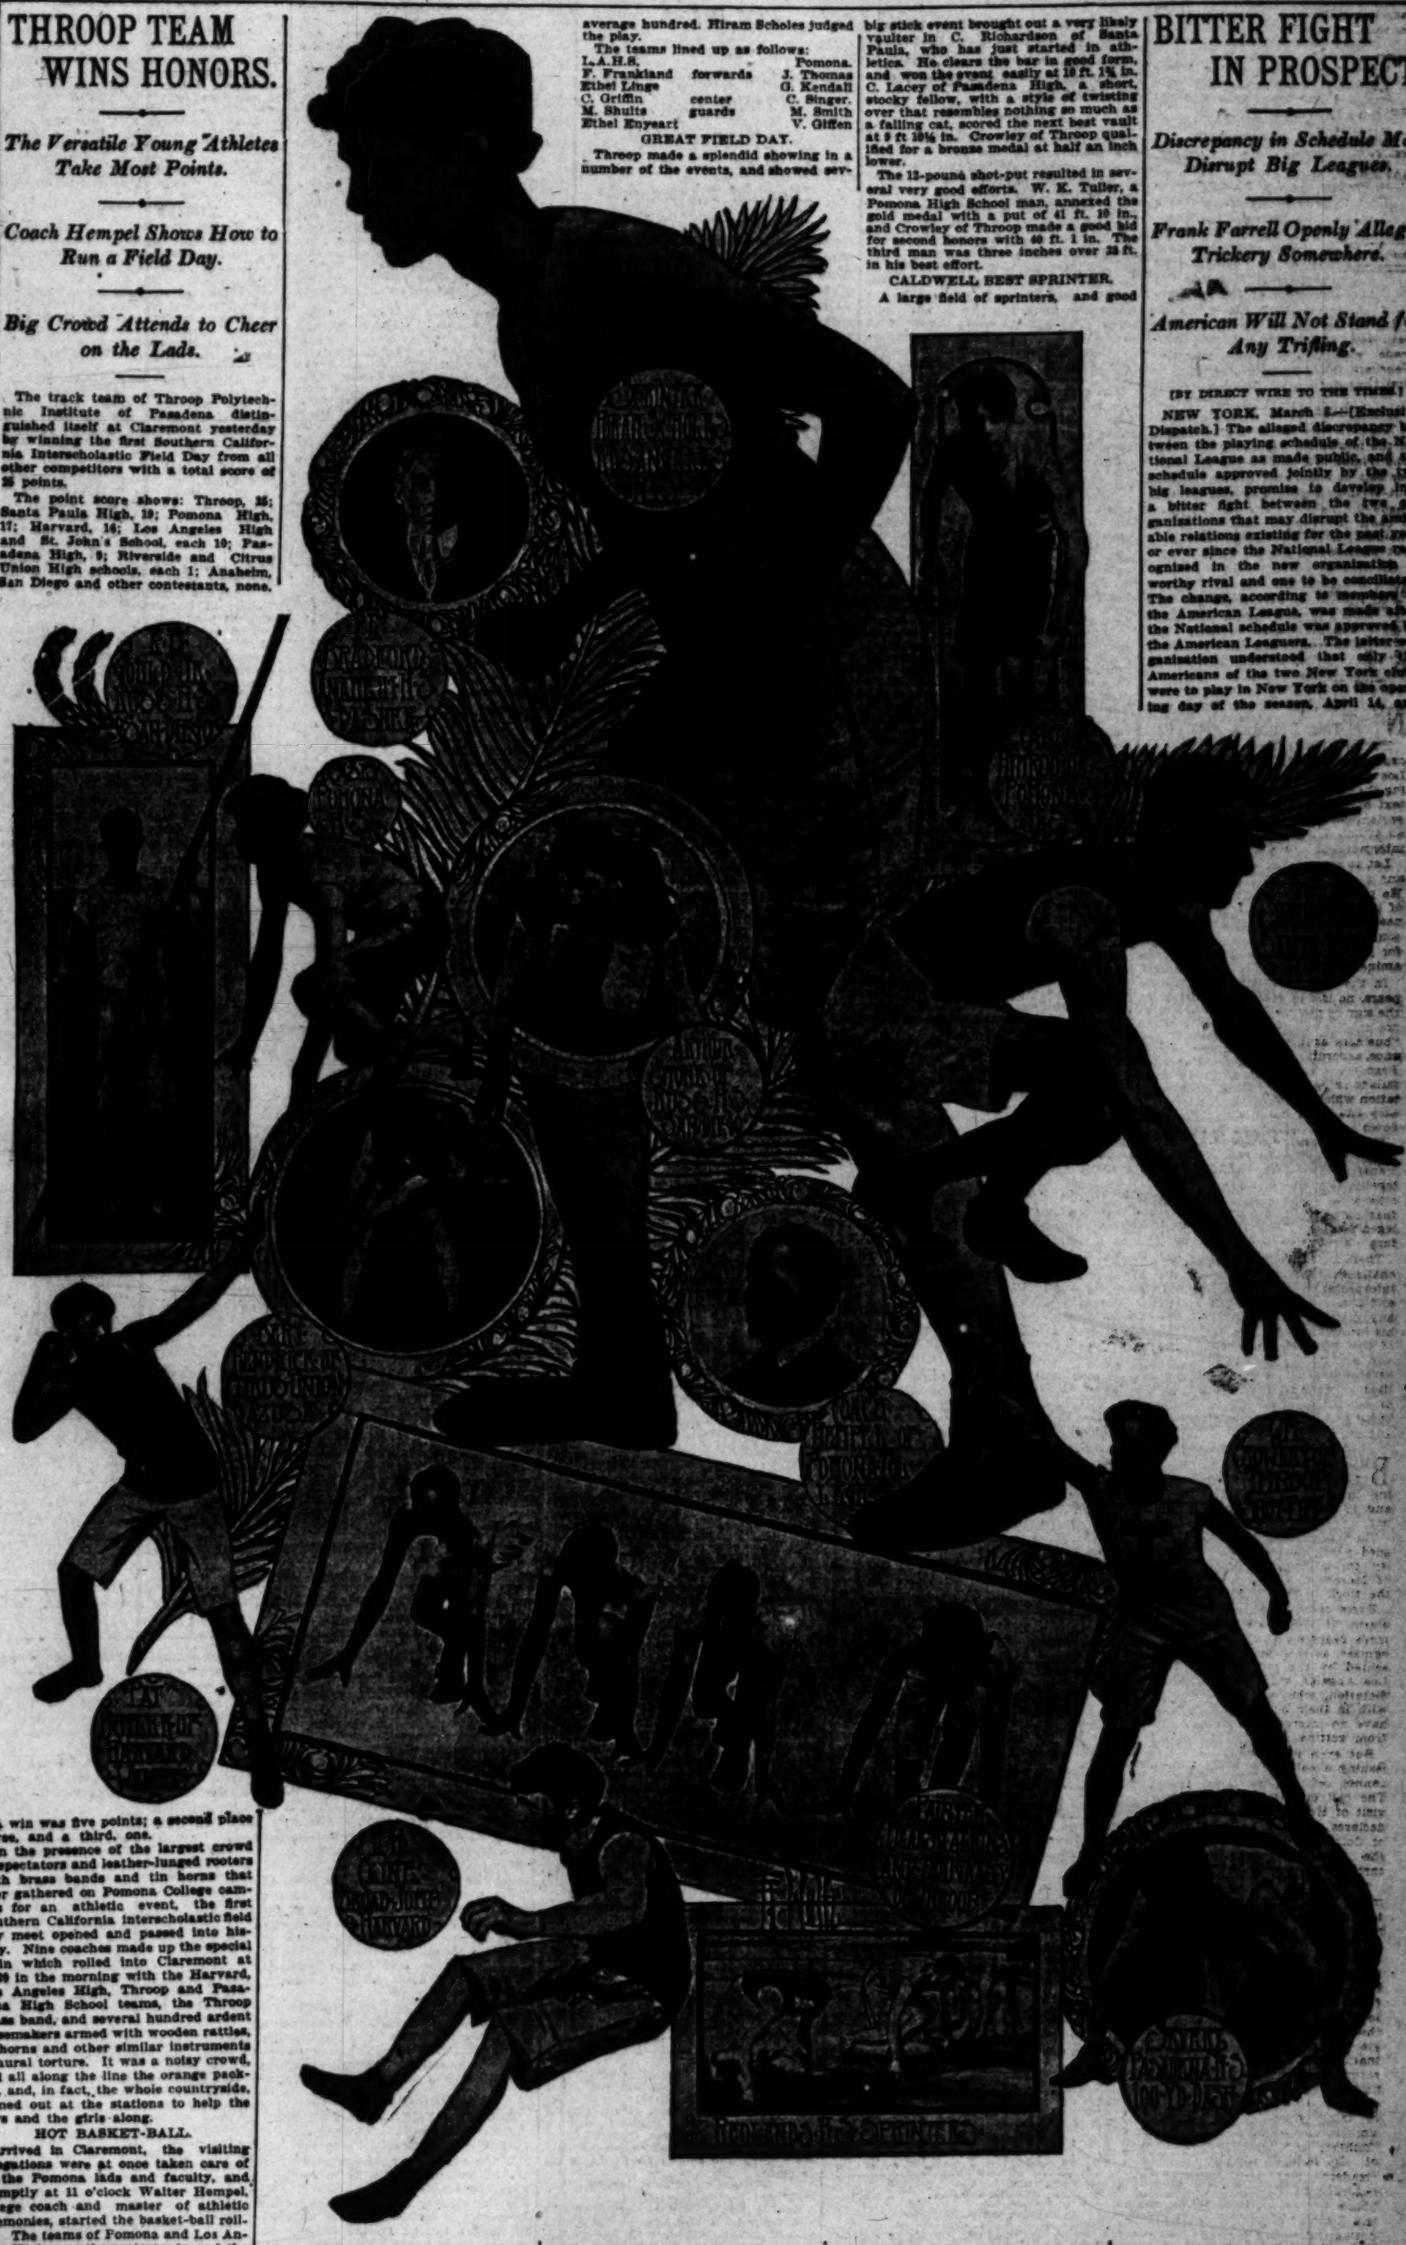
The Versatile Young Athletes Take Most Points.

Coach Hempel Shows How to Run a Field Day.

Big Crowd Attends to Cheer on the Lads.

The track team of Throop Polytechnic Institute of Pasadena distinguished itself at Claremont yesterday by winning the first Southern California Interscholastic Field Day from all other competitors with a total score of 35 points.

The point score shows: Throop, 35; Santa Paula High, 19; Pomona High, 17; Harvard, 16; Los Angeles High and St. John's School, each 10; Pasadena High, 9; Riverside and Citrus Union High schools, each 1; Anaheim, San Diego and other contestants, none.



A win was five points; a second place three, and a third, one.

In the presence of the largest crowd of spectators and leather-lunged rooters with brass bands and tin horns that ever gathered on Pomona College campus for an athletic event, the first Southern California interscholastic field day meet opened and passed into history. Nine coaches made up the special train which rolled into Claremont at 10:20 in the morning with the Harvard, Los Angeles High, Throop and Pasadena High School teams, the Throop brass band, and several hundred ardent noisemakers armed with wooden rattles, foghorns and other similar instruments of aural torture. It was a noisy crowd, and all along the line the orange packers, and, in fact, the whole countryside, turned out at the stations to help the boys and the girls along.

HOT BASKET-BALL.

Arrived in Claremont, the visiting delegations were at once taken care of by the Pomona lads and faculty, and, promptly at 11 o'clock Walter Hempel, college coach and master of athletic ceremonies, started the basket-ball rolling. The teams of Pomona and Los Angeles High were the contestants, and the girls who competed had an unusually trying time of it. A hot day, that boon of the male athletes, with its promise of good records, hardly appealed to the girls in their warm flannel suits, and the game was certainly one of the hardest ever fought between players of the fair sex in Southern California. The Los Angeles beauties faltered off the field with highest honors, but only after a 10-to-9 struggle, which was featured by the usual amount of misplay and considerably more than the average quota of really brilliant work. The Pomona girls entered the game in fair condition, though practically novices, and did not team together as well as the Los Angeles belles, but their individual work in some cases was superior, and they retired with much credit.

Miss Jessie Thomas, one of the Pomona forwards, an athletic-looking girl, especially distinguished herself at goal throwing, and several of the Los Angeles girls scored or came very close to the iron hoop at a every fair try. The score stood 3 to 0 a minute before the end of the second half, when by a series of clever passes, culminating in a well-thrown goal by Miss Ethel Linge, the Los Angeles High School girls won by the narrow margin of one point. There was not much fouling. The final goal was too much of an effort for one of the girls, and she fainted on the field from exhaustion, but was brought around pleased and happy. The game was a harder one than ninety-nine out of the average hundred. Hiram Scholes judged the play.

The teams lined up as follows:

L.A.H.S.		Pomona.

GREAT FIELD DAY.

Throop made a splendid showing in a number of the events, and showed several fine athletes. One of its men, Crowley, took a chance at nearly everything, and did great work.

Without any preliminary nonsense, a few minutes before the time set, contestants in the opening event, the 120-yard hurdle were called out. The winner proved to be G. E. Trampton of Throop, a long, red-headed lad who outclassed the rest. He took it easy in the first heat running second to Paul Taylor of Santa Paula, but in the deciding heat he won in good form, leading all the way by a wide margin, and finishing in 18 1-5s.

LONG SHOT-PUT.

While the hurdle event was on, the pole vaulters and shot-putters were [illegible] time featured the 100-yard dash, which was won by George Caldwell, Jr., of St. John's School, in 10 2-5s. Horace Donnell of Los Angeles High made second place from Gartzman of Harvard, who finished third. Gartzman won the first heat in 10 4-5s; Horace Donnell, L.A. H.S., shaved that time two-fifths of a second in the second heat, winning easily, after being set back a yard at the start for beating the pistol. Scholes, also a Los Angeles man, finished a good second in the same heat. The boys ran their heads nearly off in the final, and Caldwell, getting away a little better than Donnell, retained his advantage in a fine winning sprint, in 10 3-5s. The big stick event brought out a very likely vaulter in C. Richardson of Santa Paula, who has just started in athletics. He clears the bar in good form, and won the event easily at 10 ft. 1¾ in. C. Lacey of Pasadena High, a short, stocky fellow, with a style of twisting over that resembles nothing so much as a falling cat, scored the next best vault at 9 ft. 10½ in. Crowley of Throop qualified for a bronze medal at half an inch lower.

The 12-pound shot-put resulted in several very good efforts. W. K. Tuller, a Pomona High School man, annexed the gold medal with a put of 41 ft. 10 in., and Crowley of Throop made a good bid for second honors with 40 ft. 1 in. The third man was three inches over 38 ft. in his best effort.

BITTER FIGHT IN PROSPECT.

Discrepancy in Schedule May Disrupt Big Leagues.

Frank Farrell Openly Alleges Trickery Somewhere.

American Will Not Stand for Any Trifling.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The alleged discrepancy between the playing schedule of the National League as made public, and the schedule approved jointly by the two big leagues, promise to develop into a bitter fight between the two organizations that may disrupt the amicable relations existing for the past year or ever since the National League recognized in the new organization a worthy rival and one to be conciliated. The change, according to members of the American League, was made after the National schedule was approved by the American Leaguers. The latter organization understood that only the Americans of the two New York clubs were to play in New York on the opening day of the season, April 14, and there was nothing surprising in this, as it was understood to be the olive branch of peace to Frank Farrell's team to make up, in a measure, for the bitter disappointment caused by the adverse decision of Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Baseball Commission, in regard to Sunday baseball at Ridgewood Park.

The publication of the National League schedule, however, shows that on April 14 the New York Nationals are scheduled to play with the Brooklyn team in Brooklyn, thus drawing from the American League [illegible] many of the admirers of the giants, who otherwise would go in America League Park. Frank Farrell, manager of the invaders, is outspoken in his belief that there has been trickery somewhere. He said today:

"It was distinctly understood the Bostons were to play in Brooklyn on April 14, and that was the way the approved schedule read. The National League Commission was, or appeared to be, perfectly satisfied on this point. Now we find the New Yorks are scheduled to play at Brooklyn on April 14, and I do not believe the schedule will stand."

President Ban Johnson of the American League says an explanation will be demanded and his league will not stand for any trifling.

NEW YORK CONFIDENT.

PREPARING WORLD'S FAIR TEAM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—The wrestling championship Committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., held a meeting today at which it was decided to hold a supplementary or an Olympic trial championship meeting on March 24 and 26 in the gymnasium of the St. Bartholomew Athletic Club. It is the intention of the committee to use the funds, gate receipts and entrance money for the purpose of sending the winners and perhaps sending other men to compete in the World's Fair championships at the expense of the association. At this meeting in St. Louis, amateur wrestlers of the world will compete, and the committee feels confident that the Metropolitan Association can capture most of the championships with its team. The plan has met general favor.

SPADDEN TO LONDON.

KID WILL GO IN JULY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kid McFadden, the sorrel-topped featherweight, will make another trip to London in July. The Kid, who is at present in New York, has written to his brother in this city, telling him of his intentions. He made a hit across the pond on his first visit and the "Hinglish" sports think well of him.

TWIN TROTTING MEETS.

AT EMPIRE AND BRIGHTON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—Twin trotting meetings in the Grand Circuit at Empire City Park and Brighton Beach are assured by arrangements just perfected which will place both tracks under one management, so far as harness racing affairs are concerned.

James Butler, who controls the Empire track, has entered into an agreement with W. A. Engesman, owner of the Brighton race course, whereby Mr. Butler is to finance and control the Grand Circuit meeting at the seashore.

Under this management there will be two weeks of continuous trotting in Greater New York next summer with the first meeting at the Empire track beginning on Monday, August 8, and the second at the Coney Island course, beginning one week later. For each meeting six stake races, worth $24,000, are to be opened next week, with entries closing on April 4.

GREAT RIDING BY HILDEBRAND.

WINS FOUR RACES AND IS SECOND IN ANOTHER.

Feature Race is Annexed by Warte Nicht After Stuyve is Cut Down by Best Man—Heir Apparent First in the Jump Race—Large Crowd Sees Excellent Sport.

Four firsts and a close second out of five mounts was the very excellent record yesterday of Jockey Hildebrand at Ascot Park, and it was easily the best performance ever seen in these parts. Of course it goes without saying that favorites won the big majority of the races, for everything that Hildebrand rides comes pretty near being a favorite, and is just about as near first under the wire as it is possible to be. There is nothing to the races any more but this jockey, and those who fail to come home with money in their pockets put themselves in that deplorable condition because they neglect to play whatever this rider rides.

The only race he lost yesterday was the San Pedro Selling Stakes, the fourth on the card, and the feature event of the day. He would doubtless have won this, possibly, but for an accident that cut down his mount, Styve, threw the horse Best Man to his knees and spilled the latter's jockey, Mountain, in a heap on the track. Stuyve was a 3-to-5 favorite, and it was thought that he hadt he race as a gift. The start was a good one, and shortly after passing the quarter-mile pole, Best Man, who was behind, made a spurt up to the leaders, and struck Stuyve with his front hoof, on the right hind leg, scraping it to the hock and cutting a gash in the lower part. This naturally effected Stuyve's running. He still kept the lead, with Rag Tag, two lengths ahead of Warte Nicht, but at the five-eighths pole the matter moved up. It was a three-horse race into the stretch the, with Stuyve skinning the rail, Rag Tag next to him and Warte Nicht on the outside. At the paddock gate the Walt Not horse shot out of the bunch and coming on under urging, won handily from Stuyve, with Rag Tag close up for the show money. Booker rode a very pretty race on Warte Nicht, but the horse was easily the best of the field at the distance with the light weight up.

When Best Man cut down Stuyve he stumbled to his knees and threw his Jockey Mountain over his head, but the rider was not hurt, and rode Jim Hale in the last race as if nothing had happened.

The jump race was won by Heir Apparent at 3 to 1, Sir Hugh at 2 to 1, being second, and the favorite, Double O, third, at 4 to 5. There were no spills. Double O. set the pace. Heir Apparent lay in third place until the last turn, and then swung up with Sir Hugh and Double O. and the three jumped the last hurdle locked together, Heir Apparent winning in a drive from Sir Hugh.

Hildebrand took the first race with Katherine Ennis, the second with Golden Mineral, the fifth with Iraa, and the last with Jane Holly. In the second he equaled the track record of 1:07½.

VERDI MAKES BALL SIZZLE.

But St Vincent's Go Down to First Defeat.

Santa Clara College Team a Winning Bunch.

Lively Battle on the Local Diamond Yesterday.

The boy in the gray, Verdi, swung hard on the bat. The ball made one of those circles of joy and landed on the other side of the fence and three men walked home. At last St. Vincent's enthusiasts were happy and all the pent-up loyalty which had found no occasion to burst forth now exploded, filling the air with caps and pennants.

St. Vincent's College baseball team was beaten by Santa Clara College, 13 to 8 yesterday, but the shadow of defeat was almost blotted out by the brilliancy of that home run and after all, it was but a turning in the road, for the Southern team has been undefeated for two years, and has twenty games hung up to its credit. It took the losing side of the score card nicely and sent the visitors away with a rousing cheer and many a warm handshake.

The Santa Clara boys are a team of sluggers. More than once in the game were the finger tips of the gray pitcher burned on the swift liners. They were bigger, older and more experienced players and won because of their automatic accuracy of play—nine cogs that never slipped. The second baseman for the victors is the fastest ever seen in an amateur game in Los Angeles, and has played with the bush leaguers in Victoria, a semi-professional organization. He was not the only professional material sunned on the diamond, for Moriarty at third and Fitzwilliams in the box were both wanted by Morley a year ago, and both warmed up to the money-making game, but backed down because they did not wish to give up their amateur standing.

The record of the Santa Clara team in landing sixteen stolen games is almost unheard of in line work and the track was lightning fast, but a rather stiff breeze hampered the sprint runners a little, as they had to face it all the way.

FIELD DAY.

STANTON'S MILE RUN.

One of the feature events of the day was the mile run which fell to Stanton of Harvard, as was freely predicted. This clever and long-enduring young miler was easily best, his only contestant being William B. Himrod of Pomona High, who stayed well up until the last. Stanton ran a heady race, keeping pace with his man until near the finish, then drawing ahead apparently as he pleased. The time, 4:45, is a new Southern California interscholastic record, and if it is reduced this season, Stanton will be the man who does it.

TROOP'S FORTE.

R. K. Douglas and R. A. Painter, both of Troop, captured first and second in the 440-yard run in 54 2-5. A. Thomas of Pomona High landing third place.

Frampton of Troop again distinguished himself in the half-mile run by winning in 2:11 2-5 from B. Lee of Harvard—good time, and a good race. Himrod of Pomona ran into the medals, and the others, a dozen of them, finished in a string.

George Caldwell of St. Johns' School outfooted all of his competitors in the 220-yard dash and won the final in 23 2-5 after a hot brush with Horace Donnell, who set too hot a pace in one of the trial heats and pumped himself out just enough to lose. The event was well fought, and several of the runners had a chance to win it until the final spurt when Caldwell and Donnell drew away.

The hammer-throw produced no records of much importance, though the distances were as good as could be expected. Henry Harwood of Santa Paula proved the best at the whirling dervishes' game with a throw of 125 ft. 1 in., his nearest competitor, W. K. Tuller of Pomona High scoring second place at a foot less.

The running broad jump brought out as likely a field of rubber-legged youths as had its predecessor, the high jump. In this, the former event, a Santa Paulan, E. J. Munger, annexed the gold medal with a jump of five feet eight inches, a first-class effort. He clears the bar with ease and in natural form. The Los Angeles High's star competitor, Clifford McKee, did fine work in the event and earned the local lads a place in the medals. He went out at five feet seven inches, and succumbed only to an unusually capable young jumper.

The broad jump was won with twenty-one feet two and one-half inches by E. Gibbs of Pasadena High. W. T. Casey of the same school finished but 10 inches for first, 40 feet, 1 inch for second, 38 feet 3 inches for third.

Mile run—F. Stanton (Harvard) won, William B. Himrod (Pomona High) second, K. Lee (Harvard) third; time 4:45.

440-yard run—R. K. Douglas (T.) won, R. A. Painter (T.) second, A. Thomas (Pomona H. S.) third; time 54 2-5.

100-yard dash—George Caldwell, Jr. (St. John) won, Horace Donnell (L. A. H. S.) second, R. Gartzman (Harvard) third; time 10 2-5.

Pole vault—C. Richardson (Santa Paula) first, C. Lacey (Pasadena High) second, W. Crowley (T.) third; distances 10 feet 1¾, 9 feet 10½.

Twelve-pound hammer—H. Harwood (Santa Paula) won, W. K. Tuller (Pasadena H. S.) second, B. Hendricks (Citrus Union High) third; distances, 125 feet 2 inches, 127 feet 2 inches.

Two-hundred-twenty-yard dash—G. Caldwell, St. John's School, won; H. Donnell, L.A.H.S., second; R. Gartzman, Harvard, third; time 23 2-5s.

Broad jump—E. Gibbs, Pasadena High, won; W. T. Casey, Pomona High, second; C. K. Richardson, Santa Paula, third; distance 21ft. 2½in.

High jump—E. J. Munger, Santa Paula High School, won; C. McKee, L.A.H.S., second; Leslie Gay, Riverside High, third; height 5ft 8in.; 5ft. 7in.

CLOSE OF THE INDOOR SEASON.

LAST IMPORTANT MEET IN NEW YORK NEXT SATURDAY.

Held by Greater New York Irish Athletic Association—Programme Contains Large Number Open Events and Entry List is Long. Many Colleges to be Represented.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The last important indoor meet of the season will be held by the Greater New York Irish Athletic Association one week from tonight. The programme will contain a large number of open events, for each of which a large entry list has been received, especially for the half-mile special scratch race. There will be relay races for public schools, high schools, athletic clubs and colleges. The last will probably be a feature of the evening, as it has attracted teams from all prominent colleges.

Manager Gilpin of the University of Pennsylvania has sent word that his college will be represented by a fast team, the members of which will be selected from Taylor-Hyman, Cartmell, Dear, Tuster and Hammer, the crack relay runner of the university. Trainer Murphy of Yale has entered a team which, he thinks, will outdistance all competitors. Trainer Moakley of Cornell and Manager Bradley of Columbia are both trying out their runners and will enter fast teams. The ten-mile A.A.U. championship will have as competitors two Indian runners, Jerry and Frank Pierce. Besides the Indians, other noted distance men will appear.

WALTHOUR GOES ABROAD.

READY TO RACE ANYONE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bobby Walthour of Atlanta, who won the six-day race at Madison Square last December, and who holds the record of 1:06, has sailed for Europe, where he will compete against the best middle-distance riders of Paris and Berlin. Walthour won forty-seven races out of fifty-three starts last year.

He took Gussie Lawson with him as pacemaker, and also his manager, Eli Weinsett, who is acknowledged to be an expert on motor machines. Walthour has a contract with Victor Breyer, manager of the Buffalo track in Paris, for six races against anyone who cares to meet him.

Large Purses Offered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The two grand circuit trotting meetings in Greater New York during the coming season will give two weeks of continuous trotting with classes for almost every harness horse in training. The early closing stakes will be announced next week, although it is settled that the classes will be practically the same at both tracks while the purses offered will amount to $42,000. There will be eight stake events of $2000 each and four races of $2000 each.

HOW TO WIN.

BY VON DER AHE.

"Contributions concerning Chris Von der Ahe are always in order," says Tim Hurst, "so here goes for a short one. You will remember that I was manager for the old man just one season? Well, it was a gay and boisterous spasm. I can assure you. Of all the incidents connected with that campaign the one which sticks strongest in my memory is of the time I received my instructions from Mr. Von der Ahe.

"He sent me word that he wanted to outline some plans, and, of course, I appeared to receive my orders. We talked about this, that and the other subject for awhile. Then said Mr. Von der Ahe: 'Tim, it vos absolutely necessary dot ve should strengthen de club. Dis ist Vensday. Today you must buy new bats, vich shall be made by harder vood dan dose vat any oder team can haf. Tomorrow you shall bu- new gloves, vich must have in dem traps to catch any ball dat comes deir vay. On Friday you shall sign some batsmen vot can hit any pitcher. On Saturday you shall sign pitchers vot can be hit by no batsman. Den ve can go ahead und vin some games.'"

"Doc" Reisling is emphatic in his assertion that he will never again work for Mr. Strobel. The M.D. has other strings than baseball and is not worrying about keeping the wolf from the door.

Start good. Won first three driving to the limit.
Warte Nicht received powerful handling, which won for him. Booker avoided the early rush and made his move at just the right time. Stuyve had no excuses; was beaten by a better horse. Rag was ridden all over the track; would have been a contender with good ride. Best Man will up when he fell.

Winner ch. m. by Sheltner-Lena Royal. Trained by N. Campbell.
Scratched—Toto Gratien.
Start good. Won first two driving hard. Third handily.
Holly got home too well; went to the front at once and made every post a winning one, but had to be ridden out to stall off the rush of Jim Hale. The latter came very fast in stretch. Eugenie swung very wide at the eighth turn, losing several lengths. Boy was saving her up at the finish.

SALARIES SLUMP.

Jockeys' salaries in England have taken a tremendous slump this year. After Tod Sloan's wonderful showing on the other side English owners allowed American jockeys to name their own terms in the belief that a Yankee jockey could not lose. A few mediocre ones drew big money for a time, and then the Englishmen came out of their dream.

GREAT COURSING PROMISED.

POCATELLI IS FAVORITE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sixty-four of the most representative racing hounds in California will measure strides tomorrow at Union Coursing Park in one of the most evenly-drawn open stakes of the present season. But few of the really great hounds are missing, and it is therefore certain that the trials will be exceptionally fine, and that long odds on the books will come in for unusually heavy play.

Pocatelli is the legitimate favorite for final honors, with Burge figuring as a strong second choice. The Capital City contingent will, as usual, play Sacramento Boy, and the old-time champion is still worth a bet in any company.

VANDERBILT COMING.

BACK TO AMERICAN TRACKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—In turf circles the report is again current that W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is to establish a racing stable in this country. He has for several seasons maintained a large one in France, but has done little racing in the United States, although he is heavily interested in the Sheepshead Bay track. Belief that he is now to take an active interest in the sport here is based on the engagement of the well-known trainer, William Lakeland, as his sub-agent. It is said a number of horses have already been purchased.

SORENESS OUT OF WINGS NOW

Spring Practice Making Men of Morley Fit.

Henchmen of Hart Will Join Looloos Tomorrow.

How the Men Are Getting On With Their Work.

Spring practice for the Looloos has been in full swing a week, and some of the men are beginning to feel the benefits of their hard work in the absence of the stiffness and soreness that always characterises the first few nights after the ante-season training has begun.

Tomorrow afternoon Chutes Park will be comfortably filled with members of another, but not unfamiliar aggregation of ball players—the Chicago National Leaguers, whose able manager, Frank Selee, arrived in the middle of the week to make advance arrangements for his men's coming here. Spring practice in Los Angeles will be a briefer treat for Harry Wolverton this season than last, much to Manager Selee's regret. Only a week or ten days is allotted the Windy City visitors before their schedule season commence, and the final part of their training will probably be accomplished at Colorado Springs, as the National League season finds Chicago at home, and the men must get next to playing a few games in the cold. Morley's men are rounding to in good shape. None of them are in condition yet, nor is it to be expected. All are doing well, however, and in another week the players will be fairly hot. Capt. Dillon has been having a little trouble with his knee, and some of the others have complained a bit of sore fingers, wrenched backs and the other minor casualties of training time.

Wheeler, Hall, Gray and Newton are getting their arms hardened up slowly, and are pitching to the others a little every day, throwing mostly straight balls, and giving the team a chance for batting practice. Both the newcomers in the Looloo ranks have gladdened the hearts of the bleacher squad during the week-day seances. Flood gets around the territory adjacent to second base as if he had been there before, and Bernard, both in handling the ball and in fielding, acts like as good a man as he is said to be. Spring practice gives a line on a man's abilities to a careful observer.

Two other pitchers have been out with the Looloo host; McDonald, a southpaw with a right-hander's delivery, and a rather promising amateur, Asher, from up in the cow country, where Rusty Hall took his prize. They have been working in company. McDonald appears to be a finished article, having an unusually free and easy style for a left-hand pitcher. Asher gives promise of benefiting by a try-out with the Looloos.

Wheeler is working with a view to getting his in the box this season. He is about as fat as ever, and is work-

SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

SHERMAN INDIANS W

The basket-ball game between Sherman Institute and [illegible] school teams resulted in a victory 12 to 15 in favor of the Indian Sherman players were: Forwards, Misses Beresford and Cabrera, Misses Marmon and Enos; guards, Misses Callac and Maribotrough players: Forwards, Brown and Buckley; centers, Severance and Davidson; guards, Misses Rust and Trask.

This was on the whole as fine a game as one could wish. Although put up an excellent defense, beautiful team work, making quick passes. They guarded well, took great risks in places. The forwards lost opportunities by not passing individual instead of team work. The Sherman girls showed good work by cool, clever feints, accurate, judicious passes. This saved unnecessary motion gave them advantage and conserved strength. Their goal-throwing was excellent, goals being thrown from all positions. Through the entire game they showed personal control. The game was a clean game.

LONG BEACH-COLLEGE

The Long Beach High School team were: Forwards, Misses Mc[illegible] Stafford; center, Miss Sessions; guards, Misses M. Taylor and M. Taylor. The collegiate team was made up of Miss Benton and Stetson, forwards; Miss M. Gartzmann; guards, Misses Dennen and Wolcott.

The game was characterized by clean playing. Long Beach, not having team work, followed the ball, especially gaining advantage by getting it out of bounds. They were able to make many fouls on account of their quick, aggressive playing. The collegiate girls played a more deliberate, judicious game, making excellent team play, but were weak on goal-throwing, lacking snap in following up their passes.

OCCIDENTAL-U.S.C. O[illegible]

The game between the basket-ball teams of the University and Occidental College, scheduled for Saturday afternoon on the latter's grounds, was postponed by the U.S.C. young ladies until Wednesday, the 16th inst. The reason given was that they would get more practice in before playing the Black and Gold girls. The game on the Occidental grounds will also be a scene of regular practice.

Roy Thomas and Harry Wolverton have signed contracts for next season with the Philadelphia National League club. The Phillies start training on March 11 for spring training.

HILDEBRAND SAYS HE WILL NOT PLA

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mike Fisher now finds himself in need of Hildebrand's services and has asked him to report at Fresno for practice. It turns out that Lynch, whom Fisher had engaged to play left field, has not yet reported, so there is a vacancy on his team. Though Fisher wants Hildebrand, there is doubt now whether he will get him. Low down Hilday does not want to play with Tacoma, and he would awfully like to wear a San Francisco uniform, and Manager Harris would not object to him wearing one, either. Fisher raked Hildebrand over the coals for holding out $200 last season, and the latter has not forgotten this.

"I am not going to play there," said Hildebrand this morning. "If anyone wants me to come back, but I will not go. I will stick to my present job, looks pretty good to me."

How the Men Are Getting on With Their Work.

Spring practice for the Looloos has been in full swing a week, and some of the men are beginning to feel the benefits of their hard work in the absence of the stiffness and soreness that always characterizes the first few nights after the ante-season hustling has begun.

Tomorrow afternoon Chutes Park will be comfortably filled with members of another, but not unfamiliar aggregation of ball players—the Chicago National Leaguers, whose able manager, Frank Selee, arrived in the middle of the week to make advance arrangements for his men's comfort while here. Spring practice in Los Angeles will be a briefer treat for Hart's henchmen this season than last, much to Manager Selee's regret. Only a week or ten days is allotted the Windy City visitors before their scheduled games commence, and the final part of their training will probably be accomplished at Colorado Springs, as the National League season finds Chicago at home, and the men must get used to playing a few games in the cold. Selee's men are rounding to in good shape. None of them are in condition yet, nor is it to be expected. All are doing well, however, and in another week the players will be fairly limber. Capt. Dillon has been having a little trouble with his knee, and some of the others have complained a bit of sore fingers, wrenched backs and the other minor casualties of training time.

Wheeler, Hall, Gray and Newton are getting their arms limbered up nicely, and are pitching to the others a little every day, throwing mostly straight balls, and giving the team a chance for batting practice. Both the newcomers in the Looloo ranks have gladdened the hearts of the pitcher squad during the week-day practices. Flood gets around the territory adjacent to second base as if he had been there before, and Bernard, left in handling the bat and in fielding, acts like as good a man as he is said to be. Spring practice gives a line on a man's abilities to a careful observer.

Two other pitchers have been out on the Looloo hoist; McDonald, a southpaw with a right-hander's delivery, and a rather promising amateur, Asher, from up in the cow country, where Rusty Hall took his start. They have been working in comparison. McDonald appears to be a finished article, having an unusually free and easy style for a left-hand pitcher. Asher gives promise of benefiting by a try-out with the Looloos.

Fowler is working with a view to getting his in the box this season. He is about as fat as ever, and is working like a beaver to get rid of excess avoirdupois. The fat boy makes easy work of his box duty, and the team members unanimously predict a successful season for him.

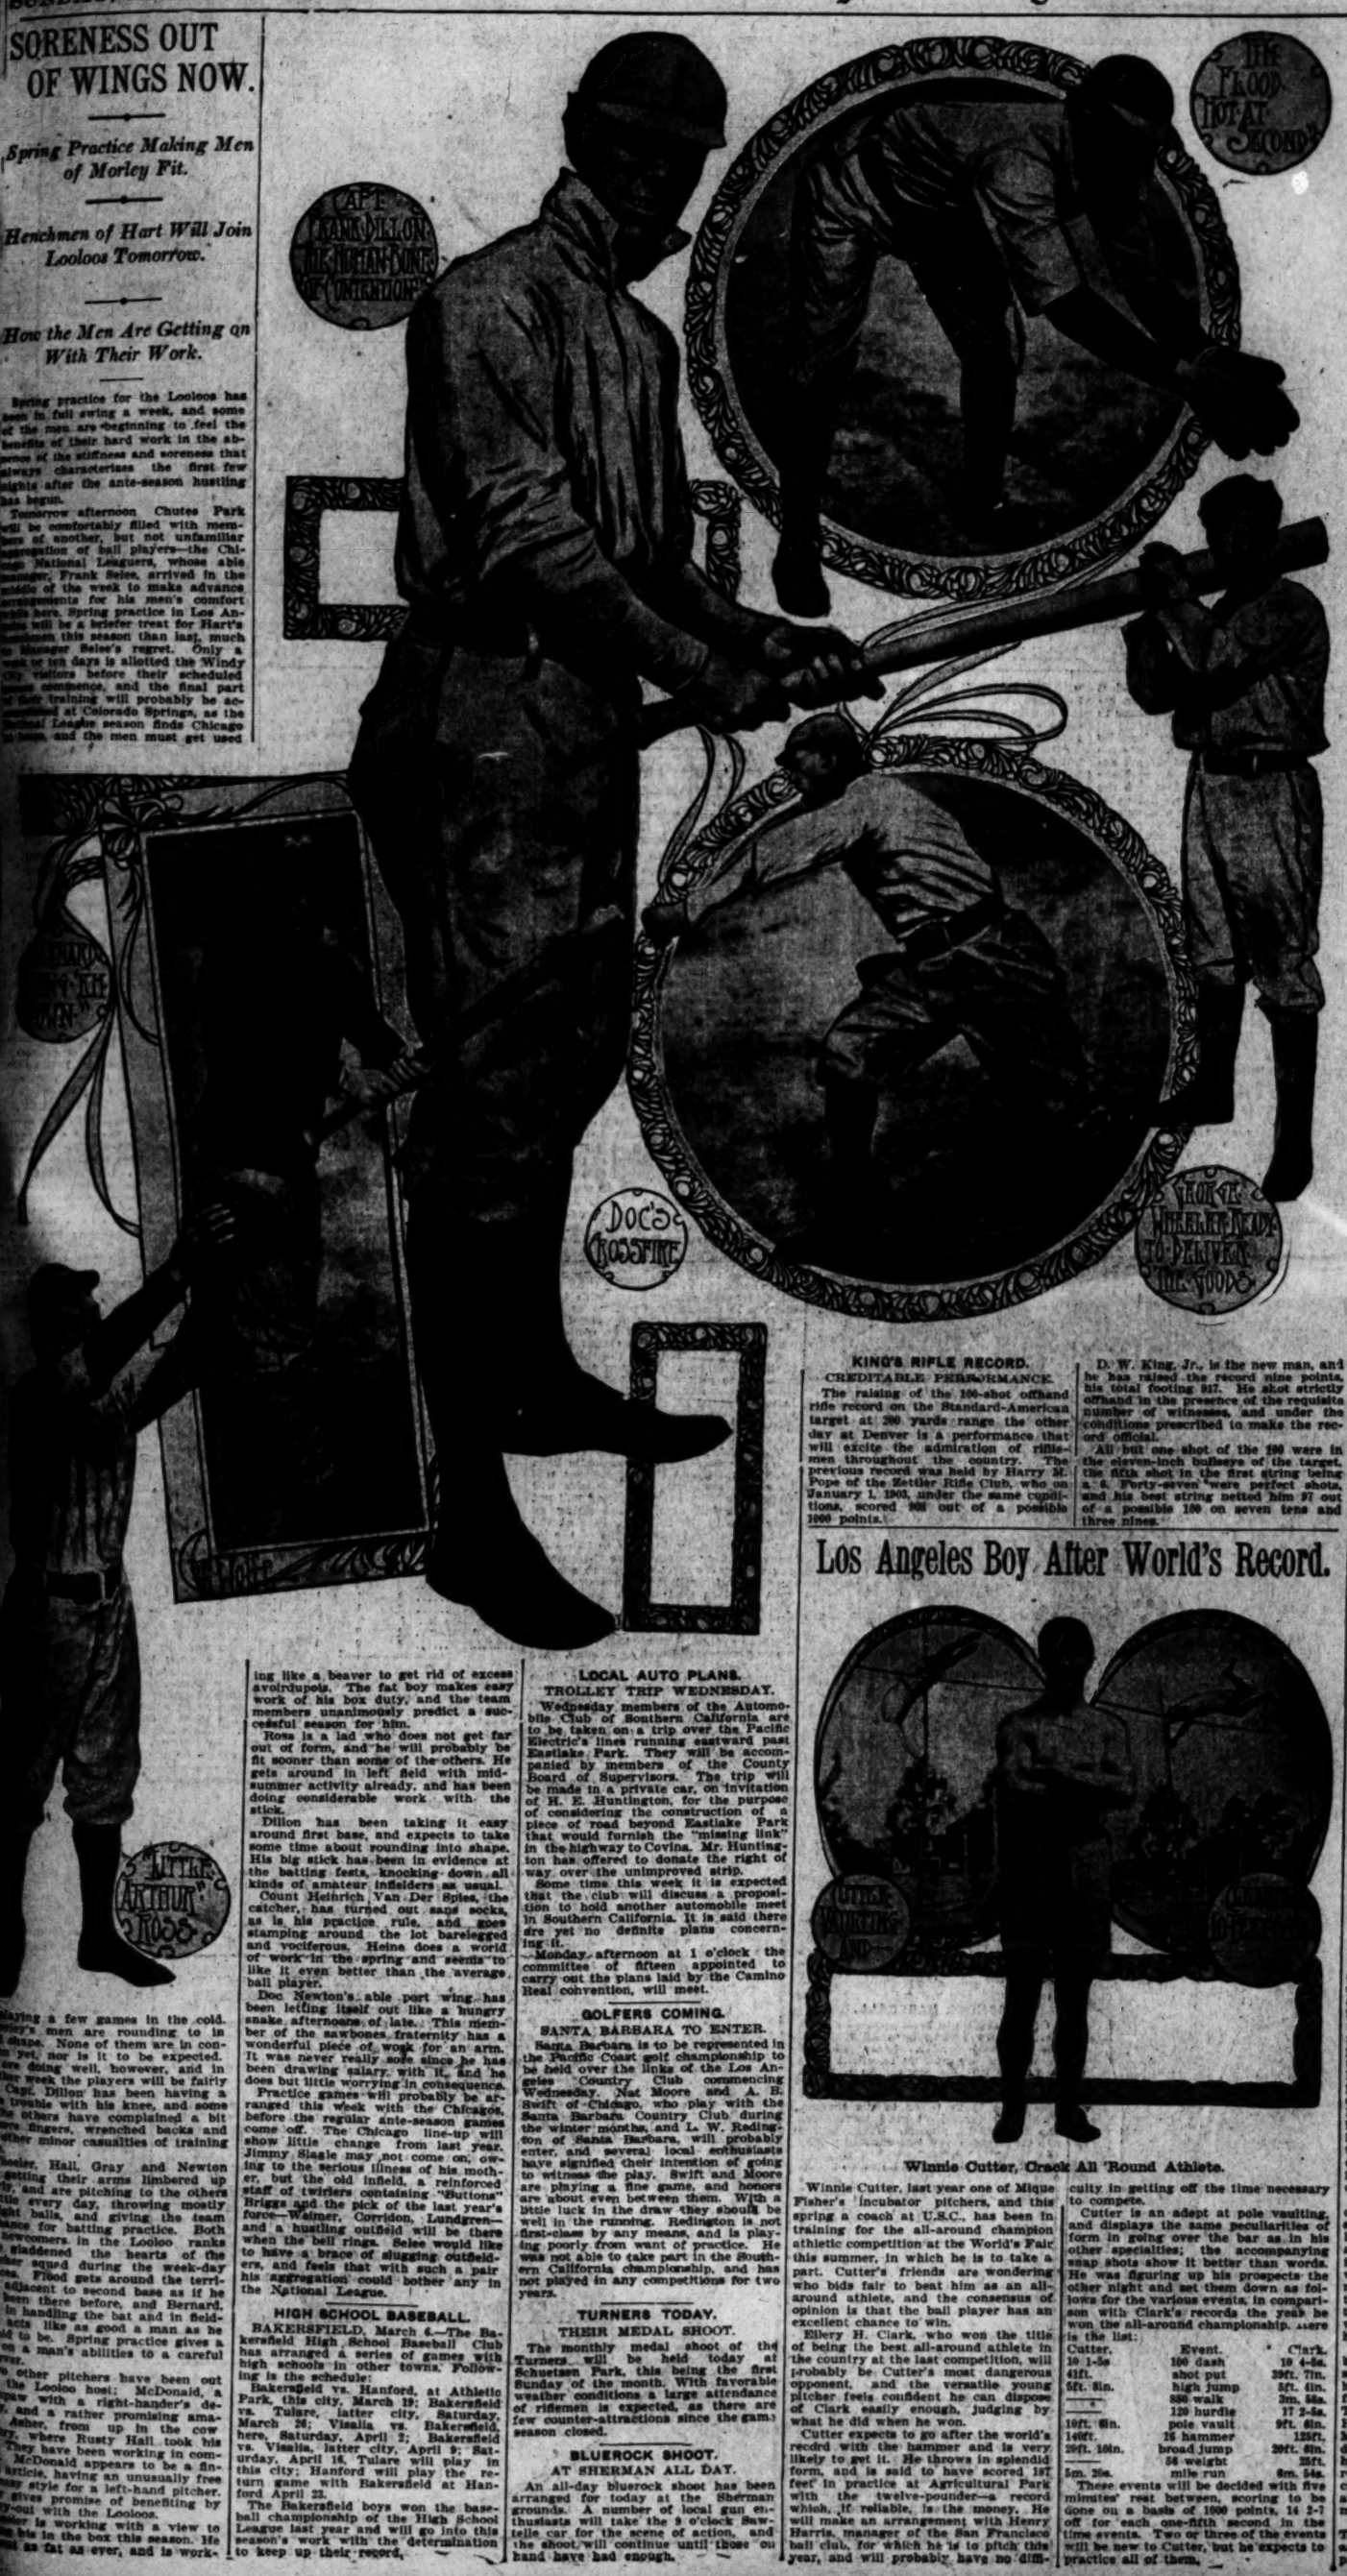
Ross is a lad who does not get far out of form, and he will probably be fit sooner than some of the others. He gets around in left field with midsummer activity already, and has been doing considerable work with the stick.

Dillon has been taking it easy around first base, and expects to take some time about rounding into shape. His big stick has been in evidence at the batting fests, knocking down all kinds of amateur infielders as usual.

Count Heinrich Van Der Spies, the catcher, has turned out sans socks, as is his practice rule, and goes stamping around the lot barelegged and vociferous. Heine does a world of work in the spring and seems to like it even better than the average ball player.

Doc Newton's able port wing has been letting itself out like a hungry snake afternoons of late. This member of the sawbones fraternity has a wonderful piece of work for an arm. It was never really sore since he has been drawing salary with it, and he does but little worrying in consequence.

Practice games will probably be arranged this week with the Chicagos, before the regular ante-season games come off. The Chicago line-up will show little change from last year. Jimmy Slagle may not come on, owing to the serious illness of his mother, but the old infield, a reinforced staff of twirlers containing "Buttons" Briggs and the pick of the last year's force—Weimer, Corridon, Lundgren—and a hustling outfield will be there when the bell rings. Selee would like to have a brace of slugging outfielders, and feels that with such a pair his aggregation could bother any in the National League.



HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL.

BAKERSFIELD, March 6.—The Bakersfield High School Baseball Club has arranged a series of games with high schools in other towns. Following is the schedule:

Bakersfield vs. Hanford, at Athletic Park, this city, March 19; Bakersfield vs. Tulare, latter city, Saturday, March 26; Visalia vs. Bakersfield, here, Saturday, April 2; Bakersfield vs. Visalia, latter city, April 9; Saturday, April 16, Tulare will play in this city; Hanford will play the return game with Bakersfield at Hanford April 23.

The Bakersfield boys won the baseball championship of the High School League last year and will go into this season's work with the determination to keep up their record.

LOCAL AUTO PLANS.

TROLLEY TRIP WEDNESDAY.

Wednesday members of the Automobile Club of Southern California are to be taken on a trip over the Pacific Electric's lines running eastward past Eastlake Park. They will be accompanied by members of the County Board of Supervisors. The trip will be made in a private car, on invitation of H. E. Huntington, for the purpose of considering the construction of a piece of road beyond Eastlake Park that would furnish the "missing link" in the highway to Covina. Mr. Huntington has offered to donate the right of way over the unimproved strip.

Some time this week it is expected that the club will discuss a proposition to hold another automobile meet in Southern California. It is said there are yet no definite plans concerning it.

Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock the committee of fifteen appointed to carry out the plans laid by the Camino Real convention, will meet.

GOLFERS COMING.

SANTA BARBARA TO ENTER.

Santa Barbara is to be represented in the Pacific Coast golf championship to be held over the links of the Los Angeles Country Club commencing Wednesday. Nat Moore and A. B. Swift of Chicago, who play with the Santa Barbara Country Club during the winter months, and L. W. Redington of Santa Barbara, will probably enter, and several local enthusiasts have signified their intention of going to witness the play. Swift and Moore are playing a fine game, and honors are about even between them. With a little luck in the draw they should be well in the running. Redington is not first-class by any means, and is playing poorly from want of practice. He was not able to take part in the Southern California championship, and has not played in any competitions for two years.

TURNERS TODAY.

THEIR MEDAL SHOOT.

The monthly medal shoot of the Turners will be held today at Schuetsen Park, this being the first Sunday of the month. With favorable weather conditions a large attendance of riflemen is expected, as there are few counter-attractions since the game season closed.

BLUEROCK SHOOT.

AT SHERMAN ALL DAY.

An all-day bluerock shoot has been arranged for today at the Sherman grounds. A number of local gun enthusiasts will take the 9 o'clock Sawtelle car for the scene of action, and the shoot will continue until those on hand have had enough.

KING'S RIFLE RECORD.

CREDITABLE PERFORMANCE.

The raising of the 100-shot offhand rifle record on the Standard-American target at 200 yards range the other day at Denver is a performance that will excite the admiration of riflemen throughout the country. The previous record was held by Harry M. Pope of the Zettler Rifle Club, who on January 1, 1903, under the same conditions, scored 908 out of a possible 1000 points.

D. W. King, Jr., is the new man, and he has raised the record nine points, his total footing 917. He shot strictly offhand in the presence of the requisite number of witnesses, and under the conditions prescribed to make the record official.

All but one shot of the 100 were in the eleven-inch bullseye of the target, the fifth shot in the first string being a 6. Forty-seven were perfect shots, and his best string netted him 97 out of a possible 100 on seven tens and three nines.

Los Angeles Boy After World's Record.

Winnie Cutter, Crack All 'Round Athlete.

Winnie Cutter, last year one of Mique Fisher's incubator pitchers, and this spring a coach at U.S.C., has been in training for the all-around champion athletic competition at the World's Fair this summer, in which he is to take a part. Cutter's friends are wondering who bids fair to beat him as an all-around athlete, and the consensus of opinion is that the ball player has an excellent chance to win.

Ellery H. Clark, who won the title of being the best all-around athlete in the country at the last competition, will probably be Cutter's most dangerous opponent, and the versatile young pitcher feels confident he can dispose of Clark easily enough, judging by what he did when he won.

Cutter expects to go after the world's record with the hammer and is very likely to get it. He throws in splendid form, and is said to have scored 157 feet in practice at Agricultural Park with the twelve-pounder—a record which, if reliable, is the money. He will make an arrangement with Henry Harris, manager of the San Francisco ball club, for which he is to pitch this year, and will probably have no difficulty in getting off the time necessary to compete.

Cutter is an adept at pole vaulting, and displays the same peculiarities of form in going over the bar as in his other specialties; the accompanying snap shots show it better than words. He was figuring up his prospects the other night and set them down as follows for the various events, in comparison with Clark's records the year he won the all-around championship. Here is the list:

Cutter.	Event.	Clark.
10 1-5s	100 dash	10 4-5s.
41ft.	shot put	39ft. 7in.
5ft. 8in.	high jump	5ft. 4in.
——	880 walk	3m. 58s.
——	120 hurdle	17 2-5s.
10ft. 6in.	pole vault	9ft. 6in.
140ft.	16 hammer	125ft.
20ft. 10in.	broad jump	20ft. 6in.
——	56 weight	25ft.
5m. 20s.	mile run	6m. 54s.

These events will be decided with five minutes' rest between, scoring to be done on a basis of 1000 points, 14 2-7 off for each one-fifth second in the time events. Two or three of the events will be new to Cutter, but he expects to practice all of them.

Those who break away from the crowd and fish by themselves in San Pedro's inner harbor today will stand a chance of catching a few croakers. Tides are favorable, and the spotfins have been cruising up and down channel at intervals during the week just closed, as some of the mid-weekers dropped onto good — rt.

The cannery wharf has been frequented by many, and some eight-pounders have flopped their last on its deck since last Sunday, but those who had the best sport usually fished in their own company, and were on the scene early in the morning. Spotfin croakers are very shy fish—much more wary than most people give them credit for, and when a crowd is splashing around in boats, or stamping about on wharves, the big fellows consider the "nothing doing" sign hung out and hie themselves to points remote from the general traffic. This accounts for the prevailing excellence of the sport on Saturdays, and its poor quality upon the day following—a coincidence so regularly remarked that some of the more facetiously inclined have declared the fish were at church down below.

The usual run of kingfish of large size and commensurate energy has been in progress all week. The fish run fat, and are well worth a place on the table. Dipped in egg batter and rolled in cracker dust, then fried in oil they are good enough for anybody, and the fishermen who threw them away at first are realising as they grow scarcer that all members of the croaker family are good to eat.

Pompano are scarce and the big run seems over for the time being, at least. Some scattering yellowfins have been reported in the bay, but they are inconsiderably in advance of the main run, which is not due for many days, though the way all fish have been running this year baffles any effort at predicting their movements, a guesswork matter at the best.

The market fishermen who have been sending in barracuda have been taking them in from twenty to thirty fathoms of water by loading their gill nets with lead. This disposes of the belief that the barracuda migrate south in winter. They have been in market all the past year, and few of the off-season fish show any hook slits in their under jaws. Barracuda seldom fail to reappear at the surface and take the jig with veracity about the second week in March, and from now on good sport with the jig outside may be looked for at the end of any period of hot weather. When the time comes, if some who have handlined these sea pickerel and found it poor sport will take a seven-ounce rod out and fight their fish in a sportsmanlike way they will not find the game half bad fun. Bass and yellowtail have not been running outside, but trolling parties after benita and albicore usually manage to get a few good food fish by skirting the kelp an hour or so.

Haddock seem to be getting more common on this Coast if the catches sent in by professional fishermen can be relied upon. Every week a few small specimens of these fine stock fish find their way into market. Few know what they are. Some of the dealers report having handled more of them this winter than ever before during their experience. They occur in deep water with the groupers and sheepshead.

Halibut have been biting a little better again. Soon will come their spawning time, when the spearers will have their innings in the surf. A few alabcides were caught in the bay Thursday by a party composed of Harry Slotterbeck, Johnnie Wray, W. McFee and Charlie Barton. These indefatigable midweek regulars claim to have fished at the cannery, but their reported catch indicates a successful cruise of adventure to points remote and unexplored by the Sunday fishermen.

There is a good croaker tide today. The water is high at 12:42 this noon, and outgoing all afternoon until 6:42 p.m. Bay fishing will likely be good.

Hot Springs Racing Plant.

The Hot Springs Jockey Club's racing plant at Essex Park is not for sale. Although the reported offer of $100,000 cash, said to have been made by John J. Ryan, of plunging fame, may have been slightly exaggerated, the statement has been made by Humphrey Devereux, largest stockholder in the club, that under present conditions he values the property as an investment, is satisfied with prospects and is not at all desirous to sell out lock, stock and barrel, as reported.

WORLD'S EYES TO SEE FISH.

Southern California Game at the St. Louis Fair.

Fine Pacific Coast Exhibit Sent from Catalina.

Fighting Denizens of These Waters Interesting.

Unique and of especial interest among Southern California's features at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis will be the display of fishes. The accompanying picture will convey an idea of the extent and attractiveness of this exhibit. It shows some of the denizens of the Santa Catalina Island waters in a collection mounted by C. B. Parker of Avalon for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and soon to be forwarded to the Missouri metropolis.

There is scarcely a form of amusement or sport that claims so large a clientele or has so devoted a following as angling, and there are few spots in all the world which furnish more sport in this line than the island whence this collection comes. The lot embraces some of the gamest fish ever angled for. The mighty tuna stands alone in its class. Larger fish have been caught, but gamer do not exist. The usual weight of the tuna taken here ranges from 75 to 251 pounds, and but one of the latter weight has ever been taken. This was by Col. C. P. Morehouse of Pasadena, in 1906, who still holds the world's record for the largest tuna.

All the fishing is with rod and reel, and the taking of one of these tigers of the sea, no matter what its weight, is a feat of which any angler may be proud. They never know when they are conquered, and never quit until the merciless gaff in the hands of the boatman is thrust into them and they are bodily lifted from the water into the launch. To accomplish this requires time, patient toil and an infinite amount of tact, coupled with endurance. From one hour to fifteen hours is usually required to subdue the tuna, and the proportion of those landed after being hooked is not greater than one in twenty.

The stories told of tuna fishing, which are absolutely true, are such as to bring the most respected angler into disrepute and destroy his reputation for veracity forever. They have been known to upset a boat in which were three anglers, one of whom had the fish impaled on his gaff, and when thrown into the water he clung to the gaff and stream with his game to a launch fifty yards away. He was an expert swimmer, but the fish had him more than half the time under water and the angler's wife, who witnessed the episode from the launch, went into hysterics. She had presence of mind, however, to throw him a line, by which he was dragged on board and the fish secured. The fish was not dead by any means, for after getting it aboard the launch it drove them all out of the cockpit by its flounderings.

Another experience was of an angler who hooked his fish at 4 a.m. He fought it for seven hours and then fell exhausted in the boat. His boatman took up his rod and continued the fight seven hours and a quarter, and when in the act of gaffing it, after fourteen hours and fifteen minutes of constant fighting, and having worn out two men, by a mighty rush it carried away the tackle and escaped. It was estimated that this fish towed the boat between twenty-five and thirty miles.

A New York millionaire hooked his fish at about 6 o'clock in the evening. He fought it the entire night. Daylight found him so wearied that he could scarcely sit in his seat, but still he held on, and was making the fight of his life. Convinced at last that he could not get his quarry up to gaff, he attempted to tow it into shallow water. At first he seemed to succeed, but when the fish discovered the game it bucked. The fight had been a draw so far, but no self-respecting tuna will ever allow itself to be led to slaughter and it came to a genuine trial of strength. The tuna won, escaping with most of the tackle.

The large fish which ornaments the center of the picture is the giant black sea bass. This specimen weighed 400 pounds, but several have been taken ranging above 500. The record fish in this class, fairly taken according to the rules of the Tuna Club, weighed 435 pounds.

The black sea bass is not such a fighter as the tuna, but after a rattling good fight of from half an hour to half a dozen hours, gives up and allows himself to be hauled up alongside the boat, where he is gaffed. It is not to be understood from this that the black bass is easy game. He can put up a fight that will test the endurance of the best angler. When he finds a string tied to the large "hunk" of bait he has swallowed, he starts off, seaward usually, carrying the boat and any other obstruction that may be attached along at the rate of four or five miles an hour, but he soon wearies of that and tries other tactics.

There are too many good fighters represented here to give each a mention, but the yellowtail must not be overlooked. This is a fish peculiar to the waters of Southern California, and is found nowhere else. For his size there are few fishes in any waters which put up so hard a fight. His weight ranges from about fifteen pounds to fifty pounds, although occasional specimens are above or below these figures. A curious fact about the yellowtail is that up to last summer the smallest on record weighed eight pounds. Then, however, schools were found the individuals of which weighed little more than one pound. Where the cradle of the yellowtail is hocked is not known, and it was a revelation to old fishermen, who have plied their vocation here for fifteen or twenty years, when the kindergarten ones came in. The yellowtail is the popular fish. It is with us practically all the year, and in summer is here in myriad numbers.

Another popular dish, little less so than the yellowtail, is the albicore. It is a deep-water fish and seldom comes near shore. In weight it ranges about the same as the yellowtail, and will give the average angler all the fight he desires. It is a fall and winter fish and departs to fields unknown in summer.

Then there are a host of smaller fishes, the bonita, the skipjack, rock bass, whitefish, sheepshead, mackerel, and numerous others, all of which serve to fill in the time when larger fish are scarce, and thus there is work cut out for the angler all the year.

The collection here shown embraces thirty-five specimens, and is the most complete exhibit of Pacific Coast fishes ever made.

Rusie Again.

It is reported on good authority from Muncie, Ind., that Amos Rusie, the man with the cannon-ball delievery, is again rounding into form, and will be seen on the polo grounds this season. Amos has been taking care of himself since 1898. What? Again?

ALEX SMITH THE OPEN CHAMPION.

EASY WINNER AT GOLF, WITH HIS BROTHER SECOND.

Fine Work of Two of the Amateurs Attracts Attention—Interesting Analysis of the Work of the Contestants—Score of the Players Given in Detail.

Playing the Los Angeles Country Club course, Alexander Smith, the Nassau and Ensenada professional, made the 72 holes in 315—one better than bogey—and easily captured the open championship of Southern California. The win carries with it the first prize of $60 in money.

George Smith, a younger brother of the new champion, corralled the second place, with its accompanying prize of $45.

Robert E. Hunter, the young Chicago and Pasadena amateur, and Arthur Rigby, the professional of the Los Angeles Country Club, tied for third place—with the result that the former gracefully retires in favor of the latter, who thereby becomes the proud possessor of the combined third and fourth prizes, $30 in all.

This courteous proceeding is quite characteristic of Mr. Hunter, and it only adds to the honor which must remain to him of occupying third place in such company.

Mr. Waterous played a splendidly consistent game throughout, and even on the last green it seemed almost assured that he stood third. A short approach and a missed putt lost him the position, and even then young Hunter and Rigby had to bring in a 77 and 78, respectively, to beat him out.

George O'Neill pulled himself up three rungs of the ladder by a fine fourth round of 76.

Mr. Jewett had a capital 78 in the morning, but the afternoon found him thoroughly tired out.

Mr. Fairbanks achieved two of his typical games—81 and 80. There was, however, no chance left to achieve anything better than a mid-position after the previous afternoon's 89.

For the rest there was apparently nothing but a-weeping and a-wailing in common over extravagant losses on the putting green.

One thing, however, is very certain. It is the easiest thing in the world to stand beside the greens and view with something akin to amusement misses piled upon misses. It is quite another thing, probably, to get out on the greens—with a crowd looking on and a golf reputation to lose—and do very much better.

Casual games come and go, and it does not matter so very much to the average club member whether he is on top or whether he is the under dog. He tells his hard-luck stories to anybody who will listen—but who cares?

But to plunge into a full-fledged open tournament with the cracks, to play with the limelight of gallery criticism full upon you, is pretty much like giving a dare to Blauvelt on the Mason stage after yelling "Bedella" with impunity in the locker room.

Altogether, perhaps we may as well not flatter ourselves too much on what we would have done if we had been there.

The score in detail:

DOLLY DILLON SOLD. BRINGS A HIGH PRICE.

Dolly Dillon, 2:08¾, by Sidney Dillon, sire of Lou Dillon, 1:18¾, is the highest-priced trotter ever exported from the United States. Dolly Dillon has been purchased from John Splan by James Brown, a Vienna millionaire, and shipped. The price is not mentioned, but as $13,000 was refused for the animal, it can be guessed that the Vienna horse fancier paid well.

John Pfeister, formerly of the San Francisco Nationals, has signed with Pittsburgh.

SCHOOL BASEBALL.

Of late there has been aroused a very keen rivalry among baseball nines of the grammar grades. Some of the young men are now in excellent form and do creditable work. As a result of a challenge New Macy gave Twenty-third-avenue school, the score was 24 to 13 in favor of the former. The game turned on good work from the New Macy pitcher. These games are clean sport and are encouraged by the school principals.

MAY NOT HURT JOCK.

Barring of Redfern from California Turf Not Likely to Injure the Boy.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Although Arthur Redfern, who is under contract to ride for the Thomas stable this year, and his father, W. W. Redfern, are barred from the turf in California, it is not believed this will affect the boy's standing in the East, although the Jockey Club stewards will take up the case in a few days.

DATES SETTLED FOR BIG SHOOT.

WILL OPEN FIRST FRIDAY IN MAY AT SHERMAN GROUNDS.

Championship Tournament Will be Handicap Affair With Much Added Money—Three Moneys Chick System the Present Scheme of Committee—Many to Take a Hand.

The three-day Pacific Coast championship bluerock tournament of the Los Angeles Gun Club, of which extensive mention was made in these columns several weeks ago, will be held at the Sherman grounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 6, 7 and 8. At a recent meeting of the Tournament Committee these dates were agreed upon, and ways and means for raising $500 added money discussed.

The committee has proceeded under a conviction that nothing so much appeals to outside trapshooters as much added money, and intends to devote special effort to raising at least the sum mentioned. The amount of the extra inducements may exceed $500 if the business arrangements now in progress pan out as successfully as may be expected. Cups and medals of various sorts will probably be hung up at the shoot in addition to the purses in each event.

C. D. Hagerman of the Tournament Committee early this week expects to meet the Ocean Park Country Club people and make arrangements with them relative to the trophies put up by that organization at its three-day shoot last May, and which were to be contested for every season. As the Ocean Parkers have gone out of the bluerock business and no longer have any place wherein to pull off a shoot, it is not thought they will object to the trophies being defended at Sherman if they are allowed to remain in the custody of their donors at the beach. A fine list was hung up last year.

The Chick system of money division, three moneys only, has practically been decided upon, and the tournament will be a handicap shoot. The cracks will have to go 'way back, but they will not be whipsawed coming and going as they were in the 20-bird events at the last semi-annual tournament of the local club when, in addition to being set back, the four moneys gave them nothing if they won. The handicap scheme worked out well; it did not draw the new shooters that were expected, but placed those present on an equality, and gave general satisfaction. Some of the club members favor the old percentage system, but a majority believe three moneys, Chick's scheme, are about right.

In place of the one squad of San Franciscans expected, there is reason now to believe a dozen will come. W. H. Varian of Ocean Grove and a large number of Middle and Northern California shooters from the small towns have been notified.

The new Leggett trap recently ordered will arrive some time this month and it will be given a good trial; if successful it will be used in the tournament. Otherwise the three Experts, or possibly two sets Sargent system, will be shot over.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETICS. COUNTY LEAGUE WIDE AWAKE.

The Los Angeles County High School Athletic League was organized about a year ago, and is now recognized as the leading factor in local school athletics. All of the departments of school athletics are looked after. The management is vested in an executive board, consisting of the following officers: Will L. Prey, Compton, president; F. H. Baren, Santa Monica, first vice-president; Carryl Owens, Pasadena, second vice-president; Cesear Cohen, Los Angeles High, secretary; O. J. Crook, Whittier, treasurer. The managers of the several departments are: A. J. Copp, Los Angeles High, baseball; Frank Harlow, Commercial High, football; Ray Goode, Glendale, men's basket-ball; Miss Love Seymour, Monrovia, women's basket-ball; Harry E. Waite, Fernando, tennis; Bartley Wade, Whittier, field athletics.

A field day will be held May 7, and a tennis tournament May 21, in which the schools generally will enter. The places for holding these meets will be named later.

Santa Monica, Fernando, Glendale, Whittier, Pasadena and Los Angeles High have men's basket-ball teams.

Monrovia, Corona, Alhambra, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Pasadena and Los Angeles High have women's basket-ball teams.

In both these departments, as well as in baseball, the teams are playing a series of games for a championship pennant. Other schools wishing to enter a team in any department should report to the manager of that department.

The school baseball season is on in earnest. The following schools have strong teams in the field, each confident of success: Whittier, Commercial High, Compton, Downey, Harvard School, Long Beach, Pasadena and Los Angeles High.

As it has been decided that no team shall be in line to receive the pennant unless it shall have played at least ten games, the probability is that the struggle will continue well into June.

To meet the expenses of a pennant it has been decided to tax each team $2, to be sent to the department management at once.

The schedule for next Saturday is: Commercial High vs. Long Beach; Compton vs. Harvard; Los Angeles vs. Pasadena.

The standing of the teams to date follows:

	Played.	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.
Compton	4	4	0	1000
Covina	2	1	1	.500
Downey	3	1	2	.333
Long Beach	1	0	1	.000
Los Angeles	1	0	1	.000
Whittier	1	0	1	.000

Brush is Sued.

John T. Brush's New York National League team has been sued for $2000 by the Norfolk club of the Southern League, on the ground that Christy Mathewson was taken away from it without the terms of transfer being carried out.

FRANK SELEE TALKS SPO

SAYS PITTSBURGH WILL NOT WINNER THIS YEAR.

Other Clubs in the National Leag Will be Able to Put up a Winn Fight—His Own Prospects Views on Baseball Matters Curren The Worth Deal.

"I don't think Pittsburgh will the National League pennant this year," remarked Frank manager of the Chicago Nationals night.

Mr. Selee has preceded his team four days, and is making advance rangements for their accommodat while in this city. He is brushi baseball business, having just ta a two months' rest in the Territ and being anxious to get back int fray again. The National League nant race is always a welcome one to him, and when pressed for his sons for picking Pittsburg to run ond or worse, Selee said:

"Dreyfus hasn't the pitching he has had in days gone by. post-season games the Pittsburgh had practically one pitcher. I say that as a knock at all; the A cans won because they had pitchers and more of them, and the best ball team, but those illustrated the point.

"I believe Cincinnati will make a ter bid for the honors this year for many seasons past. Just what those Reds is hard to see; they usually do as well as might be pected of them. Cincinnati is a town to keep ballplayers straight the team wins a few games and acts as if it had the pennant cinched. But Joe Kelley will play first base year, and I believe he will get results out of the bunch. This baseman he has signed—Miller gives—is said to be about the promising infielder that ever came the minor leagues. Kelley will some good pitchers, and ought to his mark this year.

"I think my own team will put hard fight. In fact, if I had two hitting outfielders I believe I could the pennant with the team. The is almost intact from last year; Ch first, Tinker short, Casey third; I a good staff of pitchers, and can on catchers with ammo enough for The New York club looks very st too."

"I see they are making Mo great deal of trouble over Dillon. I don't know whether it is true the rest of the league threw Mo down as I have been told, but know Dillon is an excellent man, is a first-class manager as well a fine ballplayer, and such men scarce. I don't blame Morley for ing to hold onto him."

Then Selee resumed talking ba with Morley, and the baseball spake no more to the public.
